NAVY ACTION ON LAND SINKAGE

L.B. Faces Its Biggest Suit

By GEORGE WEEKS

The biggest damage suit ever filed against the City of Long Beach—but one which is credited with major benefits to the community—will go to trial Tuesday in U. S. District Court in Los Angeles.

This is the Navy's court action to compel measures for the halting of land sinkage that formerly threatened Long Beach Naval Shipyard as well as most of the harbor district.

Some observers consider the suit a major factor in achieving that result through accelerating the unitization and repressuring of the Wilmington oil field.

But the suit also seeks money damages semi-officially estimated at $54 million. Legal issues related to that claim will be the subject of skirmishing during the next several weeks.

* * * *

NAMED as co-defendants are some 400 oil companies in addition to the city, the principal producer of oil from the area, and the state which shares the oil profits.

For various reasons, the list has been pared to 38—with the state and city still included.

Trial is scheduled before Judge Harry C. Westover, to whom the case was assigned shortly after it was filed in August, 1958.

Although the hearings are expected to be lengthy, the question of the amount and allotment of damages won't be reached at this time. Other issues of law and fact which conceivably would obviate damages will be argued.

One issue is the city's contention that the federal government is estopped from claiming damages from land sinkage attributed to oil extraction. This argument is based on evidence that the government itself ordered that extraction continue at the time the city turned over land to the Navy for the shipyard in 1940.

In the suit the government asked for a mandatory injunction requiring the defendants to submit for court approval a plan for unified oil field repressuring; and if none was offered within 60 days, to halt all oil production.

* * * *

THE COURT in 1958 rejected the bid for an injunction and put the case off calendar. But late last year the case was revived at the request of U.S. attorneys for trial of the second element — the claim for damages, anticipated as well as actual.

The physical damage to the installations is now regarded as totally in the past. Recent bench-mark readings have shown not only that land sinkage has been halted but that in some portions of the shipyard area the land is rising slowly as a result of the

Cards Delay Dodger Pennant Celebration

The Dodgers failed to take advantage of the San Francisco Giants' doubleheader split with the Houston Colts Saturday so now, on the last day of the regular major league season, they are fighting for their lives. St. Louis defeated the Dodgers, 2-0, Saturday night and thus the Dodgers failed to clinch the National League pennant. A Dodgers loss and Giants win today would necessitate a playoff.

There were startling developments in collegiate football headed by Stanford's 16-13 upset of Michigan State. Southern California, with Willie Brown of Long Beach leading the way, bombed SMU, 33-3. Long Beach City College continued its high-scoring ways with an easy victory over New Mexico Military and Long Beach State gained its first win. See Sports Section for details.

MISSISSIPPI SHOWDOWN NEAR

Proclamation by JFK Starts Troops Moving

(Combined Wire Services)

President Kennedy early today ordered an Army engineer battalion to move into Mississippi to set up a tent city for 700 U.S. marshals to deal with the state's defiance of integration orders.

WASHINGTON, Sunday—President Kennedy ordered the Mississippi National Guard put under federal control early today and took the final step necessary before moving troops into the state from Tennessee.

With dramatic suddenness, Kennedy ordered federal troops mobilized at Memphis, Tenn., and then issued a proclamation commanding a halt to all "obstructions of justice" in the state.

* * * *

HE CHARGED that Gov. Ross Barnett and other state officials "have been and are wilfully opposing and obstructing the enforcement of orders" from federal courts.

He said the situation had become impractable to enforce the court order that Negro James Meredith be admitted to the University of Mississippi "by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings."

* * * *

ARMY TROOPS, meanwhile, were ordered moved into a strategic position at Memphis, Tenn., only 50 miles from the campus of the University of Mississippi.

In Jackson, Miss., Gov. Ross Barnett was attending an "Ole Miss" football game Saturday when he heard the news that federal troops had been ordered up for possible use in the Mississippi integration crisis.

"I have no comment," Barnett told United Press International from his box seat at the University of Mississippi - Kentucky game.

A BIG ARMY helicopter prepares to land Saturday at the Naval Air Station in Memphis, Tenn. The copter was one of 16 which brought an estimated 200 to 250 more troops to join federal forces there for possible action in Mississippi.

KENNEDY announced he will make a 15-minute television-radio broadcast to the nation at 4:30 p.m. PDT tonight. The White House did not formally announce the topic of the talk but the President is expected to outline the steps he has taken or will take in an effort to solve the dilemma confronting him.

Administration officials had been working throughout the day on a presidential proclamation which would pave the way for use of federal troops if the emergency warrants.

* * * *

HIGH OFFICIALS still hoped that emergency use of federal troops would not be necessary.

But as one official put it, there seemed little hope left that Gov. Barnett would bow to federal court decrees and admit Negro James Meredith to the university.

Barnett's resistance to federal court orders to desegregate the university already has touched off a crisis and its ultimate effects remained to be seen.

There had been an air of emergency all day and

SECRET TRIAL TOLD

East Berlin Reds Imprison U.S. Woman Singer as Spy

BERLIN (UPI)—A Communist East Berlin court has sentenced an American woman singer to six years' imprisonment on a charge of espionage, American officials said Saturday night.

Officials said the woman, Gabrille Hammerstein, 38, was arrested in East Berlin last January and was convicted in a secret trial early last month.

Miss Hammerstein, officials said, is the daughter of Dr. Gertrudem Rosenhain of New York City.

* * * *

DISCLOSURE OF THE arrest came as the official Soviet Tass news agency loosed a bitter attack against U.S. Defense Secretary Robert F. McNamara.

Tass said McNamara had made a "warlike statement" Friday in saying the U.S. and Allied planes ground troops are ready to use nuclear arms if necessary in Germany to guarantee Western right of access to Berlin.

American officials in Berlin said details of the charges against Miss Hammerstein were unknown and efforts of the U.S. mission here to contact her had been unsuccessful.

Miss Hammerstein had been in Berlin for about two years when she was arrested in the Eastern sector. She had described herself as a singer and free lance writer.

* * * *

SHE TOLD NEWSMEN in Berlin that she had good contacts in the East and was on friendly terms with Gerhard Elsler, bail-jumping refugee from American justice who is now East Germany's propaganda chief.

Two other Americans are known to be in East German jails.

They are Robert E. Mann, 19-year-old Stanford University sophomore of Sepulveda, Calif., and Jean F. Loba, 37, of Altadena, Calif.

Mann was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment last July on charges he tried to help an East German youth flee to West Berlin. Loba was arrested June 2 for unknown reasons during a visit to East Berlin.

Voters Decide College Building

By ROBERT WILCOX

Prompt construction of $35,675,200 in vitally needed college facilities in the Long Beach area hinges on the passage of Proposition 1-A on the November ballot.

This was the warning Saturday from the Citizens' Committee for Yes on Proposition 1-A.

Proposition 1-A is a state bond issue of $270 million, 80 per cent of which would be used for building construction, equipment and site acquisition for the California state colleges, the University of California and public junior colleges.

* * * *

UNLIKE A similar proposal which was defeated at the polls last June, the new measure specifies that 80 per cent of the funds must be used for higher education facilities and contains a list of 327 specific projects. The $20 million set aside for junior colleges is reserved for new construction.

Major projects for the Long Beach area schools:

Long Beach State College (Total: $5,126,400) — Construction of a $593,400 health service building, a $3,310,000 physical education classroom addition and a $1,150,000 language arts classroom building.

Orange State College (Total: $10,030,800) — Construction of a $4,429,700 music-speech-drama classroom building and a $3,752,000 gymnasium.

South Bay State College (Total: $7,717,000)—Acquisition of a $5 million site with additional development funds of $1,477,000, plus construction of temporary classrooms and service facilities with funds of $800,000.

University of California, Irvine (Total: $12,783,000)—Construction of a $2,287,300 library unit, a $3,867,000 natural sciences unit, a $1,510,300 multipurpose unit and a $754,100 cafeteria. Also included is $1,008,000 for various site development, including roads.

* * * *

THE REMAINING 20 per cent of the bond funds would be used to meet needs in other state agencies.

Among these projects are the construction of a $119,000 Irvine Lake forest-fire station, the $176,100 South Coast Agricultural Field Station near Santa Ana and a $401,400 auditorium at Fairview State Hospital at Costa Mesa. The sum of $317,400 would be used to remodel three wards at Metropolitan State Hospital.

Nevada A-Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A low-yield nuclear test was conducted underground Saturday in Nevada, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

The blast is the 52nd to be announced at the AEC's test site in the Nevada desert in a series dating back to Sept. 15, 1961. A low yield blast has a blast equivalent less than that of 20,000 tons of TNT.

Series to Discuss Big Ballot

By JIM McCAULEY
I, P-T Sacramento Bureau

California voters will wade through the largest number of state propositions in 24 years when they ballot Nov. 6.

There are 25 propositions to ponder—most since weary voters balloted on a like number in 1938. Things aren't nearly as tough as in 1879, however. Then there were 583 propositions as amendments to the new constitution.

In all propositions, voters act as lawmakers. It takes only a simple majority for a proposition to become law—even a state bond issue.

* * * *

FUTURE articles of this series in The Independent, Press-Telegram will discuss each proposition, and detail arguments for and against it.

Twenty-three of the propositions were placed on the ballot by the California Legislature.

Two of the hottest proposition issues, Senate reapportionment and subversive activities, were put on the ballot by petitions. Under the California initiative process, a law can be proposed as a ballot measure if at least 8 per cent of the persons who voted in the last gubernatorial election sign petitions.

Defense Spending Will Boost Economy in '63

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy will get a big boost next year from sharp increases in military spending under the Kennedy administration, the Defense Department reported Saturday.

It estimated that $27 billion in defense contracts will be granted in the fiscal year ending next July 1. This would be $2 billion more than in the previous fiscal year, $4.9 billion more than in fiscal 1961, and $6.6 billion more than in fiscal 1960.

The department noted that actual spending lags behind contract awards. Therefore, it said, the steady rise in defense contracts in the past two years has not yet been felt fully in the nation's factories.

New Furniture Takes Spotlight

There is a decided Mediterranean influence in furniture this fall, it is announced in a special section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram.

The annual Fall Furniture and Home Fashions Section brings you pictures and stories on the newest in furniture creations shown by the leading Long Beach area retail stores.

Another highlight of the new furniture is that most pieces are larger and built more sturdy but are designed to escape the bulky look.

Russ Protest Arrest of Pair

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States charged two Soviet U.N. diplomats Saturday with buying U.S. defense secrets from a sailor and demanded that the Soviet Union send the two home immediately.

The Soviet Union protested to the United States that federal agents had illegally arrested, manhandled and questioned the two men and it called for punishment of those responsible. The protest said one of the Russians was hurt.

The two countries acted in diplomatic notes that passed between the Soviet and U.S. delegations to the United Nations.

* * * *

THE RUSSIAN diplomats were Evgeni M. Prokhorov, 31, a second secretary in the Soviet delegation, and Ivan Y. Vyrodov, 38, a third secretary.

The sailor was Yeoman First Class Cornelius Drummond, 33, a Negro from Baltimore, Md., stationed at the U.S. Naval Base in Newport, R.I.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it caught Drummond Friday night passing classified navy instruction manuals to Prokhorov in a car parked outside a diner in Larchmont, N.Y., while Vyrodov was inside the diner.

* * * *

THE FBI SAID Drummond was arrested but the two Russians were taken to the New York FBI Bureau only for questioning and then, because of their diplomatic immunity from arrest, were released.

A U.S. diplomatic source said the Soviet protest and allegations were being studied at the U.N. mission.

He said the two Russians declined to reveal their identity to the FBI when apprehended and the FBI did not know they were diplomats until they arrived at its office.

When this was found out, the informant said, they were told they could leave, but they insisted on staying and arguing till the FBI managed to get another Soviet

Walker Arrives in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who commanded federal troops during the Little Rock integration crisis in 1957, arrived here Saturday night and announced: "I am in Mississippi beside Gov. Ross Barnett."

He told newsmen at the airport that "thousands and possibly tens of thousands of people from Florida to California" were on their way here to support Barnett "in the position he has taken for states rights."

He said sending federal troops into Mississippi to enforce an integration order would be a "conspiracy of the crucifixion by the anti-Christ conspirators of the Supreme Court."

I, P-T Foreign Record Offer Still Available

Students, businessmen and travelers will be interested in the new educational service The Independent, Press-Telegram now is offering its readers.

This project is the offer of a series of records teaching such languages as Spanish, French, German, Italian, Russian and English for Spanish-speaking people.

These records, which under regular labels would cost several times the price now made possible, can be obtained by readers at the bargain price of only $1 a record. Each language course consists of four long-playing 10-inch high-fidelity records, 33⅓, with a complete and handy instruction and conversational manual with each record.

A foreign language professor says of these records: "I have reviewed both the French and Spanish sets of the Hallmark records and find that the voices are native speakers — both men and women to give variety—using good, standard, idiomatic speech, talking on a variety of interesting, useful, and practical topics at a normal rate of speed. They use good pitch and intonation and expression. The vocabulary is very broad."

Use of these records can provide the language-learner with many fine listening experiences, should sharpen the "ear" and give him models for practice and developing his pronunciation. The student will become acquainted with a broad spoken vocabulary and this should be very helpful. Learning a foreign language of course requires a great deal of practice and guidance, correction, and further practice. These records will help to motivate students, too.

All records are mailed direct to our readers, or will be sent anywhere in the USA. For complete details regarding this unusual opportunity to learn a foreign language turn to announcement elsewhere in this edition.

A coupon, to be filled out for the records, will appear in the newspaper Monday through Friday.

L.A.C. Says:

Deductible Medical Plan for the Aged

Four arguments in opposition to the President's Medicare bill were (1) That it would cover many people who could afford to pay their own bills. (2) That it was a first step toward socialized medicine. (3) That the measure provided for only a minority of medical expenses for the aged. And (4) That most of these people are already covered by medical insurance.

We believe the first three are valid arguments. But, regarding the medical insurance coverage for those 65 or older, we disagree. It is true many of them have medical insurance. But the coverage is inadequate and the cost is prohibitive for the great majority of the older citizens. One policy widely advertised for the aged by some of our largest insurance companies costs the individual $78 a year. It provides a maximum of $10 a day for 31 days hospital—a maximum of $200 for surgery and $100 for miscellaneous in-hospital expenses.

The wider medical coverage of group plans for younger people is denied all but a few of those who are retired and over age 65. But many of them believe they have insurance programs that provide much greater protection than is the actual coverage of the policies. The costs of adequate coverage are far above the ability of 75 per cent of the older people to pay.

It is first necessary to understand what is the ability to pay. The most comprehensive statistics we have seen are in the recent 186-page study by Blue Cross in its "Financing Health Care for the Aged." This organization covers more people with medical insurance than any other private agency. It must be assumed its statistics are conservative—if anything, favoring the ability of the people to pay for insurance—or directly pay their medical bills. It is therefore revealing to see how small are the annual incomes of individuals aged 65 or older.

Here are statistics in the study taken from the Bureau of Census 1960 for all persons aged 65 or older:

	Male	Female	Average
Less than $1,000	27.1%	73.9%	52.7%
$1,000 to $1,999	32.0	16.8	23.9
$2,000 to $2,999	17.3	4.5	10.2
$3,000 to $5,000	11.8	3.4	7.2
$5,000 and over	11.8	1.7	6.3

This would indicate that 75 per cent of all aged as individuals have less than $2,000 a year income. Only 6.3 per cent on the average have more than $5,000 a year. The statistics also show that net assets for spending units (a man and wife or with children with the head aged 65 or over) as:

20% less than $1,000.
15% from $1,000 to $5,000.
22% from $5,000 to $10,000.
43% over $10,000.

These assets include home ownership and other salable assets of the families whose head is 65 years or older. Where the man and wife are both age 65 or older the individual assets would be half of the above.

The Blue Cross study estimates the annual total medical cost for all people aged 65 or older averages $177 a year per individual. This cost is broken down as follows:

Physician service	$55 equals 31% of total
Hospital care	$49 equals 28% of total
Medicines	$42 equals 23% of total
Dental care	$10 equals 6% of total
Other medical costs	$21 equals 12% of total

The above statistics, we believe, give a fair understanding of the ability of persons over 65 years of age to pay their medical bills. On the average, more than half can pay the average cost out of income. But, when faced with above normal or catastrophic medical costs, they are faced with liquidating their meager savings or be in debt for the rest of their lives. It is for the above average medical costs the older people need protection.

The Kennedy Medicare plan for the aged, according to his estimates, would cost $1,100 million in the first year. Insurance actuaries estimate the cost to be at least double this amount. This cost was to cover only hospital costs for 90 days after $10 a day for the first nine days to be paid by the patient. It also provided for nursing home and house visits of nurses. It provided nothing for the family physician, surgery, medicines, or miscellaneous other costs in or out of hospitals. It is estimated this medicare program would have provided no more than one-third of the average medical costs for all those over age 65. (Blue Cross study shows average annual total medical cost for age 65 and over individuals as $177. Multiplied by 17 million in that category would total $3,000 million—thus the President's estimate of $1,100 million is about one-third of total costs.)

By comparison, a total coverage of medical costs for the aged based upon their paying the first part of their total bills up to 5 per cent of their total income and 20 per cent of the amount above that deduction —would give protection against catastrophic medical and hospital bills—at a cost to government of considerably less than the President's King-Anderson bill. It would call for the individuals to pay the amount of their bills they are capable of paying without undue hardships. It would cause them to be more watchful of their medical costs and use of hospital facilities. It would be an added safeguard against doctor and patient collusion.

The Blue Cross study indicates that about half of the 17 million aged are now in the less than $1,000-a-year income category and are now eligible for medical care. This would be under the Kerr-Mills, old-age assistance, veterans and other state and local programs. Under the Kerr-Mills coverage, for example, California has $80 million budgeted, of which the federal government provides half. On a national basis this will total about $1,000 million. But there is little or no coverage for the other half of the aged with incomes above $1,000 a year.

The plan suggested here would provide that coverage on the basis of ability to pay for these 8,500,000 individuals over age 65. The basis of the plan is that the individual pays the first 5 per cent of annual income for all medical costs in a year and that the plan would pay 80 per cent of the balance.

Under this deductible plan this group would pay a substantial part of the total cost. But it would protect them against catastrophic illnesses and accidents where the total costs would impoverish them. Those with normal medical costs would not be affected. They would only present bills for payment when they totaled more than 5 per cent of their annual income.

This, we believe, is what the great majority of the older people want. Some expect all their bills to be paid, regardless of where the money comes from. But the great majority want protection only from the catastrophic costs they cannot pay. In Monday's Independent and Press-Telegram column we will present statistics to show how this cost would be handled and why it would be the least costly to government and greatest protection, yet offered in a plan for the aged. To our readers who are interested we suggest they clip this column to compare with the one that follows.—L.A.C.

3 Arrested in Jordan School Riot

By BILL HUNTER

Police arrested an 18-year-old machinist and two Jordan High School students Saturday in the aftermath of a post-football game riot that injured four South Torrance High School students.

More arrests are expected, said Juvenile Sgt. Robert D. Alford, who led the daylong investigation into the Friday night brawl, which occurred a few blocks from Jordan High School stadium.

One of the arrested juveniles, a 16-year-old boy, was released after questioning. The other, 17-years-old, was held for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

* * * *

LONG BEACH school officials Saturday promised a thorough investigation of the attack upon 14 buses taking Torrance students home from the game won by Jordan, 26-18.

Principals John A. Lucas of Torrance and Milton F. Sager of Jordan agreed none of the attackers who used bottles, clubs and a disarmed hand grenade was a member of either student body.

Lucas said he and other school officials ejected unruly young adults from the Torrance section during the game.

"They weren't high school students," he said.

Lt. Robert C. Deaton of the juvenile bureau said he received information a Torrance coed had been attacked and stripped of her clothing in a restroom during the game by girls in company with members of a Long Beach car club.

* * * *

THE ADULT suspect, Milton Mark (Peewee) Thomas of 160 E. 57th St., is a member of the car club, the lieutenant said.

Thomas was identified as the youth who hurled the grenade through a bus window. The heavy grenade struck and injured Paul G. Welles, 14, of 5501 Pasa de Pablo, Torrance.

Doreen L. Cox, 15, of 22325 Susanna Ave., Torrance, was the most seriously injured in the brief fracas. She suffered a skull fracture when hit by a bottle. Broken glass also inflicted deep cuts on her face. She was transported from the bus to Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

* * * *

OTHERS injured included Kathleen Giza, 15, of 22827 Avis Ave., who was pulled through an open window, slapped and hit with gravel; Erick T. Higgins, 14, of 5243 Zakon Road, struck on the arm by a club; and teacher Wallis Greer, hit in the back.

"We won't know just how many were hurt until Monday," Lucas said. "I feel certain others were injured."

* * * *

SAGER insisted he and other Jordan supervisors saw no evidence of violence in the stands during the game. "Nothing happened until after the buses left the school grounds," he said.

Police said the buses were stoned as they slowed in heavy traffic on Myrtle Avenue near Artesia Street. No arrests were made Friday night.

Douglas Slates Dedication Fete

More than 1,000 aviation leaders, military and government officials will assemble here Oct. 21 for dedication of the Donald W. Douglas Engineering and Product Development Center, a spokesman for Douglas Aircraft Company said Saturday.

The spokesman said outstanding scientists and executives of the aerospace industry, ranking officers from the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps, officials of the commercial airlines throughout the world and government and civic leaders will attend.

* * * *

THE CENTER is a recently occupied, three-story engineering building and laboratory structure at the Douglas plant on the north side of Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The buildings include 305,000 square feet in the engineering building and 360,000 square feet in the laboratory structure, the spokesman said.

He termed the buildings "the nerve center of the Douglas Aircraft Division."

* * * *

THE BUILDINGS' modern research and development facilities complement what Douglas officials call "the unsurpassed production capacity" of the surrounding 345 acre site where aircraft design and production facilities formerly based in other cities have been consolidated.

The main Long Beach location is now housed in 48 buildings with nearly 5 million square feet under cover, Douglas officials said.

Ground was broken for the Engineering and Product Development Center a year ago. First concrete was poured last January as a part of a $7 million construction program which includes a nine-story, 83,000 square foot administration building which is near completion.

Full Work Goal Told by Brown

RICHMOND (UPI)—Gov. Brown told a campaign dinner Saturday night that he would never be satisfied with anything less than full employment in California.

In prepared remarks, the governor called for expanding the state's Economic Development Agency, instituting new programs to deal with the problem of automation and increasing the number of employe retraining courses.

"I say that full employment is a realistic goal if we pursue it with energy and dedication, and with faith in our own capacities," Brown said.

* * * *

HE HAILED figures showing that unemployment in the state is on the decline, but declared, "I am not satisfied with five per cent or two per cent."

Brown said he was not pessimistic over the implications automation holds for the future.

"This administration does not shrink in fear from automation," he said. "Automation can be the instrument of the mightiest productivity, the greatest abundance and the highest standard of living in history."

But the governor went on to stress the importance of providing safeguards and retraining for workers who lose their jobs as a result of such technological advance.

* * * *

BROWN CAME to Richmond from Chula Vista near San Diego where he addressed a meeting of the annual Border Cities Conference.

Representatives of some 20 American and Mexican communities heard him make a strong plea for "a crusade against the growing menace of narcotics."

"As citizens, as businessmen and as parents, you have a deep personal problem," Brown said. "As residents of the border area, you are involved because of the large illegal flow of narcotics between our two countries."

He warned that about 75 per cent of the heroin seized in California currently comes from Mexico, while almost 100 per cent of the marijuana in the state is of Mexican origin.

Gargan Talks at Petroleum Club Monday

Actor William Gargan, who lost his voice to cancer and regained it through a Cancer Society speech program, will be guest speaker at a luncheon Monday at the Long Beach Petroleum Club.

GARGAN

While on tour with the company of "The Best Man," two years ago, Gargan noticed that he was having throat trouble. Doctors found he had cancer of the larynx. His voice box was removed and he left the hospital believing he would never speak again.

He enrolled in the American Cancer Society's Esophogeal Speech Program, however, and did regain his speech.

The meeting Monday will honor American Cancer Society Volunteers.

FATEFUL THINGS TO COME

Showdown Over Cuba In Wind

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — From events during the past week, one can guess that Russia, Castro, Cuban refugees, and the U.S. government are preparing for a showdown over Cuba — sooner or later.

Just when it will come is not known, but the conviction is gradually growing here that something is in the wind.

Cuban refugees in the United States have announced the stepping up of underground activities. The U.S. has announced the formation of Spanish-speaking special troops in the U.S. Army, Secretary of State Rusk has been putting pressure on our allies not to allow their ships to take strategic materials to Cuba.

CASTRO HAS announced that he will build a base in Cuba for the Russian Atlantic "fishing fleet." Khrushchev has said he will support the Castro regime by every means. All of this adds up to ferment in the Caribbean pot. Sooner or later the lid will pop.

For the moment, the best bet is that the administration will hope that the Cubans, both in and out of Cuba, will somehow take care of the situation. It is the theory that Castro is slowly losing ground within his country and that he is becoming ever more dependent upon Russia.

* * * *

HE IS, so it is said, holding himself in power only through the crushing force of his omnipresent police. Guerrilla bands operating in the jungles of Cuba against Castro are increasing in number, a fact tacitly admitted by Castro's government, which announced last week a new offensive against new guerrillas. Castro is looking more and more to Moscow for the importation of needed foods.

* * * *

THE EXTENT to which Castro enjoys the support of the Cuban people is a subjective judgment which precipitates argument whenever that subject is brought up. High administration officials are inclined to believe that any change of government would be welcomed by the Cuban people.

Other observers dispute that premise. Whatever the judgment, it is clear that a push to topple Castro, with or without American troops, is now under way.

Ideally, from the American point of view, the whole thing should be handled through the Organization of American States. For internal reasons of their own, many of the Latin American nations have been reluctant to be very aggressive about Castro.

* * * *

CONSIDERABLE Castroism exists in most Central and South American countries and a firm stand against him could in too many cases bring the cry that the incumbent government is the lackey of American imperialism.

Thus, the remark of one South American diplomat probably mirrored the thoughts of all. When asked if his government would support an American invasion of Cuba, he replied: "We'd support you privately but damn you publicly."

* * * *

IT IS NOW being suggested here in Washington that the attitude of the Latin Americans is changing, that they now see the clear and ready danger to themselves and that they are willing to go along with whatever action may be necessary.

The conspicuous Russian activity on the sugar island has frightened them all — or so it is said — and they are prepared to give their all to the common cause. You can get an argument on that particular thesis, too, but it is being peddled assiduously at the moment.

In trying to keep the Cuban situation in perspective, it is well to remember that the United States has never in its history been comfortable about Cuba.

It has tried friendly relations, war, intervention, non-intervention, aid, boycott, fatherly advice, parental ire and none of them has worked satisfactorily.

* * * *

THIS IS A historical fact being exploited by Khrushchev today. Cuba is a way of nagging at the United States, of exacerbating a small but painful ulcer, of keeping the American people divided and argumentative among themselves, and keeping our hemispheric relations off-balance.

Whether the administration plans now or later to take direct action, this reporter cannot predict, but certainly the Cuban burner is being presently heated up.

U.S. Figures High on Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any way you figure it the United States has a high unemployment rate compared to other major industrial nations.

This is the conclusion of a six-member presidential committee appointed to study employment statistics. The findings, released Saturday, set to rest reports that the U.S. employment picture might look better if judged by the yardstick used in other countries.

The committee, headed by Dr. Robert A. Gordon, professor of economics at the University of California, made the first comprehensive international study of employment statistics in the process of trying to find out what's wrong with the U.S. figures.

The most recent Labor Department report put the U.S. unemployment rate at 5.8 per cent. The committee noted that the unemployment rate in France is about 1.1 per cent. But it added that in affluent America an unemployed worker can hold out longer in looking for the kind of job he wants.

Another report said the "true level" of U.S. unemployment last month actually was nearly 9 per cent. Among other things, this study took into account people who stop looking for jobs when it is obvious "the jobs are simply not there."

The second report was prepared by the Conference on Economic Progress, a research organization whose members include AFL-CIO President George Meany and Leon Keyserling, former President Truman's economic adviser.

The presidential committee said it concluded that doubt concerning the scientific objectivity of the agencies responsible for collecting employment statistics is unwarranted. But it said some changes can be made in deciding who is to be classified as unemployed.

The middle-aged man, for instance, who hasn't found a job since the mine in his hometown shut down five years ago and refuses to move elsewhere for work, generally is counted among the unemployed.

The number of persons questioned about their employment status ought to be increased, perhaps ten-fold, in order to get a more accurate picture, the report said.

Here is how the U.S. unemployment picture compared in 1960 with other countries, figured first on their own methods of measurement (unadjusted), then on the U.S. methods (adjusted).

Country	Unadjusted	Adjusted
United States	5.6%	5.6%
Canada	7.0	7.0
France	1.1	1.9
Germany	1.2	1.0
Great Britain	1.6	2.4
Italy	7.9	4.3
Japan	1.0	1.1
Sweden (1961)	1.7	1.5

Latins May Act to Bar Cuba Moves

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk believes that this week's Washington conference of Latin American foreign ministers may well lead to creation of a tighter security cordon in the Caribbean around Communist Cuba and its Soviet supporters.

He opposes the Panamanian suggestion for a "Nato-type" Central American set-up as too formal and likely to split the hemispheric alliance. The secretary and others, however, favor a less rigid regional "apparatus" to achieve the same end.

This was reported Saturday night by high U.S. officials as Rusk concluded his first week of consultations here with Latin American, European, Asian and African representatives attending the United Nations Assembly.

The Washington meeting is "informal" and cannot pass any resolutions. But Rusk was said to feel the Central American and Caribbean nations attending might take the opportunity to agree on setting up a special Caribbean cooperative committee to guard against:

Movement of Cuban agents back and forth between Havana and the non-Communist countries in the region.

Transfer of funds used by Fidel Castro to finance campaigns of subversion and infiltration in the area.

Illicit movement of arms or Soviet-trained personnel from Cuba to other Latin American countries.

While some of the larger Latin American countries such as Brazil and Mexico do not favor any firm diplomatic measures, it is not expected they would oppose cooperative Caribbean arrangements made by the countries most directly affected.

The United States also hopes the meeting will adopt a communique endorsing an embargo on strategic trade with Cuba. Rusk knows he can secure a two-thirds majority, but, here again, Brazil, Mexico and a couple of others probably will simply abstain from voting.

The Washington meeting opens Tuesday, when the visiting foreign ministers will be guests at a White House luncheon. It is expected to conclude its discussions on Wednesday.

Neighbor Against Neighbor in 'Revolt'

FARMERS' HOLDOUT CREATES VIOLENCE

(There's feuding going on in the nation's Midwestern breadbasket as a result of the National Farmers Organization attempt to boost farm prices by withholding livestock from the market. What has been its effect? In the following story, Associated Press staffer Ron Speer tells the holding action's impact of the farmer, the consumer and livestock markets.)

By RON SPEER

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Bitter quarrels have flared out among Midwest farmers this fall, spoiling the holiday atmosphere that usually accompanies the harvesting of bountiful crops.

Neighbors has turned on neighbor. Fences have been cut. Homes have been damaged. Trucks have been fired on. Relatives aren't speaking.

Cause of the bitterness is disagreement on the National Farmers Organization's holding action on livestock.

* * * *

WHAT HAS THE NFO accomplished since members began keeping cattle, hogs and sheep off the markets a month ago in an attempt to boost and stabilize farmers' income? Opinions vary.

Most NFO officials and members say they still believe they can achieve their goals—long-term contracts with processors calling for higher prices for farm products. They threaten to hold milk off the market next week to increase the effect of the holding action.

But some NFO members, faced with mortgage payments, school costs, and day-to-day bills, are wavering.

And packing plant officials and farmers who have not joined the NFO say the drive was doomed to failure before it was launched.

* * * *

SOME MEMBERS of the Midwest farm group are unhappy with violence that has broken out. Other members say stronger measures are needed to make farmers keep their livestock at home.

The NFO has been building for this holding action since it was founded seven years ago, when farmers were getting only 12 cents a pound for their hogs. Since then units have sprung up in 16 states.

Three short-lived test actions in the past had little effect on the markets. But most market and packing plant officials concede that the NFO's drive this fall has at times reduced livestock supplies and boosted prices.

THE HOLDING action was most effective in the first and third weeks. At one time 1,000 packing plant workers were idled in Iowa because of a shortage of livestock. Most have since been rehired. Prices in recent days dropped to near those paid when the holding action started Sept. 1, and receipts have been climbing to near normal levels.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the NFO and the driving force in its bid for what he calls "a fair price at the market," says that although receipts numerically are near normal, packers and processors are buying animals that are not ready for market in order to fill demands for meat.

Packing plant officials contend there now are plenty of marketable animals available. Harry Slife, assistant to the president at Rath Packing says "we are getting all the animals we want."

FARMER STOPS TRUCK in Ottumwa, Iowa by lying down in front of wheels. He wasn't hurt. The National Farmers Organization, in an attempt to keep livestock off the markets, has been harassing trucks since a holding action began Sept. 1.

"SO ARE WE," says R. D. Halcomb, manager of Swift & Co. at Marshalltown, Iowa. "But we won't hold any grudges when NFO farmers again decide to sell livestock to us. "I think, however, their proposals are rather unrealistic. Some will join the NFO, and others won't because they want their independence."

One of the farmers who won't join operates a 200-acre farm in south central Iowa, near Truro. He asked that his name not be used "because the NFO guys would really harrass me then."

"I'm not joining because I just don't believe in the way the NFO is trying to get things done. I don't believe the holding action is doing any good anyway," the 45-year-old farmer says.

"I worked in Des Moines back in the 30s when I had to join a butchers union. I don't want to belong to anything like that again. They'll never get me to sign that NFO contract."

* * * *

THE CONTRACT calls for members to market all their products through the NFO if and when the NFO gets contracts with processors. Members selling outside the NFO would pay 10 per cent penalty on their gross sales.

On products marketed by the NFO, the processor would withhold one per cent of the sale price and turn it over to the NFO as the member's dues.

"That one per cent sounds pretty high to me, too," says Dwight Hart, 50, an NFO member south of Truro, "but if we could get contracts with processors and be sure of a steady price, it would be worth it."

* * * *

HART SAYS he joined NFO two years ago because "I feel farmers are underpaid the way things are now. But I'm definitely against this violence."

Soft-spoken Aubrey Zimmerman, 58, who farms 200 acres north of Murray, says even stiffer measures may be needed to make the holding action a success.

"We have to keep farmers from selling livestock to make it work. I don't know just what we'll have to do, but we have got to stop the flow of livestock to the markets.

* * * *

SINCE THE holding action started, however, many incidents have been reported. Bottles have been tossed through windshields and tires of livestock trucks have been shot. Most of the violence took place in northern Missouri.

NFO members have demonstrated at sale barns delaying auctions. A group of wives in Illinois sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and other songs to keep buyers from purchasing livestock at a sale barn.

POLITICS

Johovich Raps Foe on Hospital

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Joseph J. Johovich, Democratic nominee for the Long Beach area's 32nd Congressional District seat, Saturday charged the incumbent Rep. Craig Hosmer with "fiscal irresponsibility" in "proposing piecemeal construction of a Navy hospital."

Noting President Kennedy's signing of the military construction bill which includes a new 350-bed hospital for Long Beach, Johovich said the issue of the Navy hospital "has been unsettled since 1950 and throughout the incumbent's tenure . . . and now we are told that we will get a 350-bed hospital some time in the future, when 500 beds were considered bare minimum, 600 to 750 adequate."

* * * *

JOHOVICH said the bill, sponsored by a Mississippi senator, which included the hospital facility was tabbed "too little, too late" and a "hollow victory" in area newspaper editorial comment. He said most recent credit for gaining a Navy hospital for the area has gone to Mrs. Virginia Weldon Kelly, Independent, Press-Telegram Washington staff member.

In April, Johovich said, Hosmer asked local doctors to support a 500-bed hospital in a letter to the medical association here but has not released an answer to his appeal.

Instead, he said, "the incumbent's sterling effort in behalf of a larger facility has been to ask Congress if additions can be made as needed."

Johovich said every one in the district knows the need for a 500-bed facility and charged that piecemeal construction "would treble the cost to taxpayers. Such action is typical of irresponsible representation of the district."

RICHARDSON ATTACK

Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson, Republican nominee for Assembly in the West Long Beach-Lakewood 44th District, has charged his opponent, the incumbent Democrat, Joseph M. Kennick, with voting for "runaway spending" and failing to give law enforcement agencies "the support they need."

Richardson said that Kennick voted, during his first year in 1959, "for every one of the tax increases levied to pay for runaway spending . . . that is causing a runaway of industry, jobs and family purchasing ability."

He said Kennick "is supposed to be familiar with the problem of law enforcement" but has not given law enforcement agencies the support they need from state governments and the legislature.

"The California citizen is not fooled by false claims of the present administration, for he knows that during eight years as attorney-general, the present governor stood by while juvenile narcotics offenses rose to a level almost 10 times what they were previously."

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

Thomas M. Rees, Democratic nominee for State Senate, will speak for the Democratic Women's Study Club at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday in the Lafayette Hotel Panorama Room.

Other speaker guests will include Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick; Democratic congressional nominee Joseph J. Johovich, and Mrs. Rebecca Loy, who will discuss state ballot propositions.

REES AT SENIORS

National League of Senior Citizens will feature State Senate nominee Thomas M. Rees at a league rally at 1 p.m., Monday, 728 Elm Ave. Bert Bond, Democratic nominee for Assembly in the East Long Beach 39th District, also will speak. The public is invited.

U.S. Ready to Sell Off 'AtomCity'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is going to sell off the entire town of Los Alamos, N.M., estimated to be worth about [illegible] million.

President Kennedy signed legislation Saturday authorizing the Atomic Energy Commission to dispose of the community it built nearly 20 years ago to house workers brought to this rugged mountain country to build the first atomic bomb.

The 13,000 residents are unhappy over the prospect of losing the advantages of being wards of Uncle Sam and gaining the status of property taxpayers. Uncle Sam has been taking care of everything, from fixing a fence to mowing lawns.

It will take several years, however, to appraise and sell off the government holdings. Churches, schools, parks and the hospital are to be turned over free to the private community.

Glenn Looks for 2nd Orbit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Astronaut John Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, said Saturday he thinks he may make another longer space voyage.

GLENN

Glenn told a meeting of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots: "There's a very good possibility that I and the others who have already been in orbit will get another shot, perhaps in a later mercury flight, perhaps in gemini."

The gemini capsule—which caries two men—is scheduled to try for an in-space meeting of two space craft late in 1963 or early 1964. Glenn said the mercury capsule's limitation to about 18 orbits will probably rule it out for space meeting attempts.

Glenn is in California to help man the Pt. Arguello tracking station during the Project Mercury orbit flight scheduled for Wednesday with Walter Schirra aboard.

JFK to Meet De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—President Kennedy has invited French President Charles de Gaulle to visit Washington in January, French press reports said Saturday.

DE GAULE

They said De Gaulle has not yet replied but that he was "very much touched" by the invitation. The reports were splashed on the front pages of the two mass circulation Paris afternooners, France-Soir and Paris-Presse and also were reproduced by Le Monde.

French officials first denied the story, then admitted the possibility of a De Gaulle trip to Washington had been discussed for some time but said that no definite plans had been made.

Lawyer Named Rail Mediator

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday appointed Sylvester Garrett, Pittsburgh lawyer and arbitrator, as neutral member of a three-man panel to settle remaining issues in the dispute between Railroad Telegraphers and the Chicago and North Western Railway.

The White House announced late Friday that the telegraphers' 30-day strike against the railroad had ended. Four unresolved issues were assigned to binding arbitration. Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the railway, will represent the company and G. E. Leighty, president of the Telegraphers Union, will represent the 1,000 workers directly involved in the dispute.

New York Ship Fire Controlled

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire swept an Argentine passenger-cargo ship loaded with oil, injuring or overcoming 29 firemen before it was brought under control early Saturday.

More than 200 firemen manned 50 pieces of ground equipment and three fireboats in battling the five-alarm, four-hour, blaze which severely damaged the 11,340 ton Rio Jachal. At one point, the ship listed severely at its Hudson River pier, until the bilge pumps were started.

Fifteen passengers and 40 crewmen were evacuated without injury.

Vandenberg Launches Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Another secret satellite was launched Saturday toward polar orbit, using the same booster rocket employed in the Discoverer series.

In keeping with the air force policy of not disclosing any details on satellite launches, spokesmen would not disclose whether it was a sky spy vehicle.

Canada's Satellite in Orbit

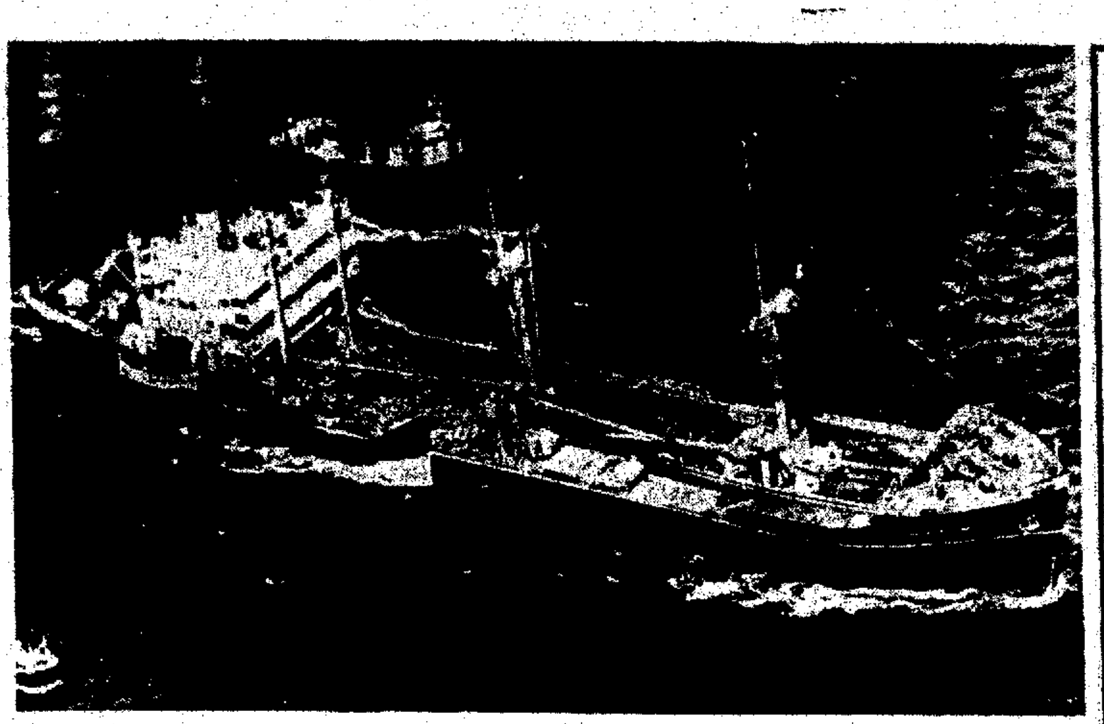
VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Canada's globe-circling Alouette satellite beeped back signals to earth Saturday from what a spokesman said was probably one of the most precise orbits yet achieved by a spacecraft.

The 300-pound Alouette was launched Friday night from this Pacific missile base atop a Thor-Agena B booster combination in a cooperative effort with the United States. It missed its orbit path by only 20 miles in what was described as "incredible accuracy."

Longest Labor Dispute Nears End

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP)—Representatives of the Kohler Co. and the United Auto Workers Union announced Saturday they had reached agreement on the first contract in more than eight years for production workers at the big plumbingware firm.

If the one-year contract is approved by members of UAW Local 833 at a meeting Sunday, Oct. 8, as expected, it will mark the windup of one of the nation's longest and most bitter labor disputes.



COLOMBIAN FREIGHTER LIMPS IN

—Associated Press Wirephoto

The Colombian motor vessel Rio Magdalena moves slowly into San Francisco harbor Saturday with a pie-shape hole in its side. The freighter collided with the U.S. super-tanker Titan in a dense fog, 20 miles south of San Francisco. The tanker reported it had two small holes on the bow below the waterline. The hole in the Magdalena was 20 feet wide and 20 feet deep. There were no injuries.

Soviet sources would make no comment on that note.

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's enough to make you wish you were dead."

That was the comment from Archie Drummond Saturday after he learned his 33-year-old son, Nelson, had been charged with espionage by the FBI.

Yeoman First Class Nelson C. Drummond, assigned to the U.S. Navy Base at Newport, R.I., was arrested outside a diner in Larchmont, N.Y., Friday night. Two officials of the Russian delegation to the United Nations also were picked up.

"I hope there's nothing to it," said the sailor's father at his home in West Baltimore. "But they usually do not arrest you unless they have something."

"We tried to give him all the advantages we never had," Mrs. Drummond said, sitting misty-eyed by her husband's side. "It just doesn't seem real."

THE DRUMMONDS are the parents of four other children, the youngest 11. The elder Drummond is a maintenance man with the city's bureau of recreation.

'Ole Miss' Woes Hit Barnett Aide

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A Federal Appeals Court Saturday found Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi guilty of contempt for barring a Negro from the state university. Unless he complies with the order to admit Negro James Meredith to the university by 11 a.m. Tuesday he will be fined $5,000 a day.

Johnson got off easier than Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett did Friday. The court held Barnett in contempt and said unless he complied with its order by 11 a.m. Tuesday, he would be arrested and fined $10,000 a day.

Saturday's ruling specified that if Johnson was named governor or acting governor, he would be subject to the same penalties that were laid against Barnett.

* * * *

THE RULING apparently anticipated the possibility that Barnett might go to prison and that Johnson would be left in charge of the executive affairs of the state.

Johnson did not appear in court and presiding Justice Richard T. Rives would not let two attorneys representing Mississippi enter the case as friends of the court.

In Jackson, the Mississippi legislature rammed through a state law Friday which apparently would make it possible for the state to pay any fines incurred by the two officials.

The measure provides that any state officer acting to preserve school segregation is acting as the state rather than as an individual.

The court ruling Saturday ordered Johnson to do two specific things before the Tuesday deadline:

—To cooperate with the rulings of the federal court.

—To maintain law and order at and around the University of Mississippi so that Meredith's enrollment would be facilitated.

* * * *

THE COURT heard testimony and then adjourned until Monday. The contempt ruling against Johnson was handed down from chambers.

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — James L. (Jimmy) Hicks, Negro, executive editor of the New York Amsterdam News, Saturday was denied accreditation as a newsman by University of Mississippi officials.

Pat Smith, director of public relations for the university, said Hicks was refused accreditation "for his own safety."

However, Hicks disagreed, saying he thought he was turned down because he is a Negro.

Hicks, a veteran reporter, worked on the Emmett Till case and Tennessee schools desegregation stories.

Navy Nabs Newsmen in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Three newsmen were taken into custody Saturday when they stumbled into a search for a mysterious man seen around Army helicopters brought to the Memphis Naval Air Station as part of the federal buildup in the Mississippi integration crisis.

Picked up by a troop of Navy men on horseback were Associated Press photographer Ferd Kaufman, NBC cameraman Maurice Levy and NBC soundman Wieland Risser. They were later released.

* * * *

KAUFMAN SAID the three, who have been covering the massing of federal marshals and troops at the base, were scouting the back side of the vast naval reservation when they strayed onto Navy land and the sailors came galloping up.

While they were in custody, Kaufman said, he learned that the sudden appearance of the sailors was because of a search already in progress. He said the Navy was looking for a man in civilian clothes seen around the helicopters which flew in Saturday.

The man reportedly broke and ran toward the north edge of the airfield when a muster of the marshals was called.

Kennedy Sets Action in Miss.

late into the night at the White House and the Justice Department over the situation in Mississippi.

BOTH THE President and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy canceled plans to leave the capitol during the weekend. There were negotiations with the networks over arranging suitable air time for the President's speech Sunday.

It was midnight when the President announced the federalizing of the Mississippi National Guard.

Kennedy's action in this desegregation crisis differed mechanically from the approach former President Eisenhower used in ordering troops to Little Rock, Ark., to enforce a public school desegregation order in 1957.

EISENHOWER first issued a proclamation ordering the end of all resistance to the court decree. Then, by executive order, he federalized the Arkansas National Guard and authorized the Pentagon to dispatch any additional military force necessary to Little Rock.

Troops of the regular Army's 101st Airborne Division were sent into the state.

Kennedy has not yet issued a formal order assigning special units of the regular armed service to Mississippi, although military policemen and other servicemen have been assembled close to Mississippi.

AS THE Kennedy administration continued working on a presidential proclamation which would pave the way for use of federal troops if the emergency warrants, the Pentagon Saturday night dispatched a standby Army force, composed primarily of military policemen, to Memphis to await developments.

The Kennedy administration reportedly hopes to limit any use of regular federal troops in Mississippi's integration crisis to military policemen so as to avoid using combat infantry if possible.

Current thinking among those planning the operation is to deploy the MP's to form a corridor through which federal marshals would pass in carrying out court orders designed to admit Meredith to the university.

West Coast Radioactive Trash Dumps Said Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low-level, packaged radioactive wastes may be dumped at 40 locations on the Pacific coast of the United States and Canada without endangering human or sea life, a panel of scientists said Saturday.

The panel used a new rule-of-thumb for determining how much radioactive material might be dangerous. The technique is based on the specific activity of chemical elements in the sea.

* * * *

EIGHT rectangular disposal sites, each measuring nine nautical miles on a side, would be sufficient to dispose of present waste products, most of it leftovers from the use of radioactive isotopes in West Coast hospitals and research laboratories, the report said.

Six of those sites would be located from the Mexican border northward to the Columbia River. Two sites would be north of the Columbia. Of the 40 possible sites, 20 would be south and 20 north of the Columbia.

The panel of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council made its report in an 87-page book released Saturday. The panel recommended that disposal sites be chosen away from coastal bases, sea mountains, trenches and canyons. Sites should not be used for any other waste disposal, and disposal depths should be greater than 1,200 fathoms or 1⅓ miles.

* * * *

BELOW that depth, the panel said, radioactivity cannot get into edible sea life by direct means.

At 2½ miles depth, the panel said some 200,000 curies per year can be dumped. At the 1⅓ mile safety line, the panel recommended that disposal be limited to 150 curies per year.

The panel arrived at its recommendations through the use of a relativity permissible in the ocean, ocean life, human seafood and human organs. This technique measures the amount of each element in the sea that can be radioactive without danger.

* * * *

THE THEORY permits only a restricted, safe number of radioactive atoms of an element to each 100 atoms.

Radioactive wastes would be contained in metal drums or other safe packaging materials.

In an accompanying statement, the Atomic Energy Commission said it has no present plans to designate any additional states for radioactive disposal in the ocean. The AEC which requested the panel's report, said it would study the findings thoroughly. It has a program for disposing of wastes by burial on land, or by submersion in deep ocean waters.

* * * *

THE STUDY of the Pacific Coast disposal problem supplements a similar one made a few years ago of the Atlantic Coast situation. The findings wore roughly the same as to depth requirements.

However, because of the extent of the Atlantic coastal shelf of relatively shallow water, the disposal problem on that coast is more complicated.

Ike Beats GOP Drums for Younger Members

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called for "more young, sensitive people" Saturday to enter Republican politics and dispel the "propaganda" that the party only represents big business.

Eisenhower discussed current election trends across the country with a group of 32 young Republican candidates for various local and state offices during an hour-long meeting here.

He told them that there are currently "bad trends toward the centralization of power" at the federal level and young Republicans could bring their "enthusiasm, vitality and vigor" to bear at the local level to "keep the federal government in its own place."

IN AN IMPROMPTU news conference following the session with the candidates, Eisenhower reaffirmed his belief that strong executive action was needed to cope with the current Mississippi integration crisis.

"I am quite sure the executive department will find some way to make certain that the court order is executed," he said, referring to the order to admit Negro James Meredith to the University of Mississippi, which is being resisted by state authorities led by Gov. Ross Barnett. "If it isn't, then it will be a bad day for the United States."

The former President was presented with a picture of growing party strength in the South, much of it attributed to the activities of youthful GOP candidates.

* * * *

"THE YOUNG people in the South are turning to the Republican party" Leonard J. Nadasady, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, told Eisenhower. Nadasady said that on the city, county and state levels he was "finally convinced that our party will make significant gains in the South this year."

Eisenhower was critical of the Kennedy administration for "its constant refusal to pay debts as we go."

"I don't know how long we can continue this without damaging our economy and being able to control our own lives," he said.

Referring to the Democratic charges on big business, Eisenhower said: "What they really mean is the rich man, the big shot, the fat cat . . . but it's really a compliment, because they are talking about the entire economy."

Congress Anxious to Adjourn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders pressed for quick action Saturday on a narrowing list of legislative "musts" in a drive to steer the 87th Congress to adjournment late this week.

The Senate met in Saturday session to work on the annual public works appropriation—one of six money bills still in the congressional mill. It was the sixth Saturday meeting of the year.

The House was to resume work Monday with action on the Senate-approved bill which would increase postal rates and give pay increases to about 1.6 million postal employes and civil service workers.

* * * *

OTHER PENDING "musts" include the historic foreign trade bill which gives the President broad powers in tariff negotiation, and a tax reform bill which would provide about $1 billion a year in tax incentives for business.

Paradoxically, the major threats to adjournment plans involved some quick action—not by the House or Senate—but by the President. At issue was his disposition of a controversial bill to help doctors, lawyers and other self-employed individuals set up their own tax deductible pension plans.

* * * *

A COMPROMISE version was cleared for the President's action Friday. A Senate sponsor, Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., immediately served notice that he will delay adjournment if necessary to prevent a pocket veto of the bill after Congress closes up shop.

Smathers is confident that Congress would override a formal veto. He said he would insist on parliamentary procedures that would keep Congress in session for at least 10 days.

Saturday, he filed formal notice that he would move to suspend the rules on amendments when the Senate takes up the appropriations bill for the State and Commerce departments. That would let him offer the pension bill as an amendment to the presumably veto-proof money bill.

Woman Named to YMCA Board for First Time

HARRIMAN, N.Y. (AP) — A century-old tradition in the Young Men's Christian Association was broken Saturday with the election of the first woman to the national board of the male-dominated organization.

Miss Janice M. Peyton of Warwick, R.I., a service representative for the New England Telephone Co. in Providence, was chosen for a two-year term.

Miss Peyton, 26, blue-eyed and blonde, has been active in YMCA work for eight years.

Women have occupied positions of rank in the 111-year-old YMCA, but Miss Peyton is the first to ascend to its top-level body.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Best course is one which sees you observing "Wait" signs. No time to throw caution to winds. Appreciate what you already possess. Trying for "long shot" proves foolish.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Despite encouragement offered by associate, take practical view. Tendency is to accept opinions of those who really do not have all the facts. Let Taurus common sense come to fore.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Harmony in home and understanding between those who "count" mean much more than any flashy action. Combine spiritual and practical knowledge tonight. Permit inner thought to "come through."

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Actions taken today could prove premature. Heed spiritual counsel. Later, put thoughts on paper. The more time you take, the more advantage you gain. Remain loyal to one you vowed to trust.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Suddenly numerous answers tumble forth. Means you can use past experience for gaining added present knowledge. Being quiet "within" of utmost importance. Avoid restless, nervous persons.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Gain indicated if you are willing to read, listen, and to push across original ideas. Means you can display "class" by smoothly standing pat. Play cards close to chest. You hold winning hand!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Stake reputation on personal observations. Otherwise, tendency is for others to withdraw from your corner. Answer to vital question could be obtained by maintaining open mind. Read. Absorb knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Tendency is to hurry, overlook important details. Wise course would be to check carefully. Occupy yourself with vital factors which require attention, and you will gain!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Family get-together encouraged. Maintain sense of humor. Avoid temptation to force your views on others. Do more listening than talking. You could learn money-making lesson.

CAPICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Attend to details. Refuse to jump to conclusions. Instead, weigh decisions with care. Cooperation in community or church project advised. Tonight you could find added stimulation from new acquaintance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good for travel, reading, picnics, exchange of thoughts, ideas with spiritual mentor. No time to be stubborn. Realize added knowledge is as important as material gain. And a clash of ideas is very exciting!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Spiritual side of nature comes to fore. Allow yourself to enjoy pleasures offered by those who share their knowledge. You can ask questions without feeling inadequate. Seek knowledge!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you get your wish for more "settled conditions" next month. Make arrangements now for constructive change. You have been confused emotionally. Now, take steps to throw off influences which depress you.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: International "thirst" for peace becomes obvious. But certain tense situations cause some leaders to boast about power, force and ability to overcome all obstacles.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19): Start new month by reviewing security, financial position and prospects. Take conservative view, face facts. There is a very bright side. Use your ability to come up with new ideas.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Take one step at a time. Otherwise, this becomes day in which you "slip up" on details. Truth is the best policy. If there is embarrassing situation, speak frankly. You won't be sorry.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Excellent for exhibiting pets, hobbies. Share enthusiasm with family member. Trying to "bottle up" emotions leads only to frustration. Tonight, good for favorite entertainment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Plenty of mental activity. Means your ideas come to fore; you are able to profit by applying them. Key is harmony. Don't waste time on silly disputes. Instead, be understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Put finishing touches on recent undertaking. Have fun with hobby or profession. Avoid making problems out of simple projects. Good for entertainment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Very self-satisfying day indicated if you're versatile. Don't insist on having everything completely your own way. Try something new. Favorable results indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Person who helps you review recent promises is actually a constructive influence. Fair-weather friends will desert you soon enough. But realistic individual remains loyal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle up. Means you can face major issues without flinching. You come up with the right answers by being forthright. Don't back down. You are about to win a longstanding struggle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): If you attempt to force your way, you lose out. But a little diplomacy can bring ultimate happiness. Be sympathetic. Realize that you can aid by helping others to "save face." Keep a secret.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Surprising, new facets about loved ones become visible. Exciting day because it marks self-discovery. You begin to really perceive persons, situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Like Taurus, you advance toward goals by taking time rather than sensational steps. Be satisfied with a "little at a time." Take care of details early. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Today time for taking a chance on your own hunch, abilities. Though the odds may appear to be against you, you are on the right track. Exercise charm and tact.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are independent, original, not always easy to please. But you do go out of your way to please others. Many burdens lifted beginning next month.

* * * *

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for LIBRA, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Day when passion rules reason. Channel your creative urges in constructive outlets.

21 Ditched Paratroopers Finally Reach Frankfort

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Twenty-one tough young American paratroopers Saturday completed their trans-Atlantic flight that began in McGuire Air Force Base last Sunday and was to have lasted only 14 hours.

They were among the 48 survivors of the ditched Flying Tiger airliner and a doctor, Air Force Capt. Juan Figueroa-Longo, said they were in such superb physical condition they did not even get the sniffles during seven hours in the icy Atlantic.

The paratroopers were among 27 survivors landed Friday in Antwerp, Belgium, from the Swiss freighter Celerina. They flew to Frankfurt Saturday to go to their original destinations as paratroopers with the 505th Airborne.

Dane Dies

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Knud Kristensen, prime minister in 1945-47, died Saturday. He was 81. As prime minister, he proclaimed Frederik IX king in 1947 after the death of Christian X.

CHIP TITLE CLAIMED BY SCOTSMAN

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—A six-foot Scotsman laid claim Saturday to the salted potato chips eating championship of the world.

Richard McLeod, 20, downed 30 bags of the crisp delicacy—a total of 75 ounces—in 56 minutes Saturday night.

Previous claimant of the title was Bob Speele, a miner in Northumberland, whose mark was 29 packets in 62 minutes in 1956.

Smith Bros. to Serve on Same Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Navy has approved a request of the three Smith Brothers, Gary, and twins, Kurt and Keith, to serve together on the same ship.

They will go aboard the U.S.S. Corry in mid-October after completing shore duty here.

L.B. Cinema Club Wins Top City Service Award

The Long Beach Cinema Club has been awarded the Photographic Society of America's Norris Harkness Award for "Outstanding Community Service."

The award, given the PSA affiliate carrying out the most effective community service project in the motion picture field, was presented at the recent convention in San Francisco. More than 2000 amateur photographers attended.

The Long Beach Club's two films which were judged best in the field are a training film for the 8646 Air Force Reserve Recovery Group at Long Beach and a film for the Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation, "A World of Their Own."

John Lloyd, Long Beach club president and director of both films, accepted the award for the club. Long Beach Cinema Club members who assisted in the prize-winning projects were George Cushman, Frank Kallenberg, Bud Leowenstein, Jack Loehnis, Maxine Plowman, Jack and Kee-we-Tah Garside, Warren and Mary Nash and Nellie Lloyd.

Orange Is County's Radio Nerve Center

By KEN KNIGHT

Orange County's nerve center is at 481 S. Manchester Ave., in the city of Orange.

The network of broadcasting towers and antennae rising high over the Orange County Communications center are part of an invisible electronic web that covers the county for 24 hours every day.

The year-old building, containing a mass of complex radio receiving and broadcasting equipment, cost the county nearly a half-million dollars but officials say it is worth every cent of it.

With a flip of a single switch by one of the three radio dispatchers constantly on duty, the entire radio system of the county can be linked together to warn of a common emergency.

The 24 police departments in the county could all be alerted at the same time as could the civil defense system.

By pushing two buttons the 37 Southern California law agencies can be joined together and receive a common message.

Unique in its operation, the radio coordination system is a part of the Orange County Communication and Transportation department.

Instead of having many radio networks broadcasting independently of one another it is a coordinated system of 12 networks under one department.

"The 24 police departments in the county operate on four networks. Eight other networks handle calls from the fire departments, road departments, and flood control units," explained R. I. (Cuba) Morris, director of transportation and communications.

"The cities put out their own calls, direct their own units over the communication system provided by the county," Morris explained.

"If a dispatcher in La Habra wants to talk with the Newport Beach police to get information, he contacts Control One, the dispatcher pushes two buttons and the two departments are linked together."

In addition to coordinating the communication system, the county also monitors every incoming or outgoing call.

"The transcribed dispatch is readily available in case there is any question as to whether the call was sent or handled correctly," Morris said.

The communication system is an outgrowth of what was once 12 square feet of floor space in the county jail building.

"In 1937 the county had 13 cities on the system, with 25 mobile units; in 1957 we had two police networks and now we have four police networks," explains Max Elliott, chief technician.

"Here at Control One, we have a teletype system that covers the county, the state and is on a national network.

"In 1955 we handled 99,000 calls, now we handle 400,000 calls in 30 days requiring about 400 man-hours.

"In 1959 we sent 10,000 teletype messages. Now we send 200,000 a year.

"If we have to we can seal the building and have fresh air for 10 days. A diesel engine can provide power for our system for 30 days in case power is shut off.

"We may never have to operate under an emergency," Elliott said, "but if we do, we're ready."

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

ONE DAY in 1927 Julian Campbell and three others stepped up on the first tee at Recreation Park and there ensued a conversation with prophetic relationship to something happening today.

Before driving, Campbell said to his companions: "Gentlemen, we're standing on top of an oil field."

The others asked the petroleum engineer how he figured that. He advised them to look to the north to Signal Hill, the southeast to the Seal Beach field and to note the pitch of the terrain.

"It's an oil field," he said.

Today, preparations are underway (a derrick has gone up just off Seventh Street) for the drilling of the Recreation Park oil field. And associated with Hugo Herbell in the drilling operation is a petroleum engineer named Julian Campbell.

RECREATION Park drilling, by the way, does not mean transformation of the park into a forest of derricks. When the drilling is done, the surface derricks will come down and the pumping operations will be hidden from view.

What the city gets from the park oil will be strictly ours, as contrasted with the situation on the tidelands, where the state gets half the return. It will help ease the financial burden on the city taxpayer.

I HAVE no evidence that my crusade against the littering activities of beer drinkers has prevented the tossing of a single can. But it is encouraging that many readers of this pillar have sent in notes on the subject. From a little start, a body of public opinion can develop that does, eventually, have effect.

Suggestions on the problem run from imposition of a tax on beer to pay for cleaning up the countryside to printing notations on containers urging users to dispose of them properly. I still think that the most effective job could be done by the brewing companies, appealing to users of their products to help keep the country clean. They employ the top experts at the propaganda art who could effectively turn some of their efforts in this direction.

On a recent trip to Las Vegas, I observed that the barrow pits along both sides of the highway, for miles on end, were littered with cans. There were thousands of them. This, unhappily, is par for the course.

RECENT item here told about the British license requirement for TV sets, and that brought a letter from Jessie V. McKerley who says that the tax has some real benefit for the British viewer. It pays, he notes, for non-commercial, non-sponsored programs presented by the BBC. "I would willingly pay a $2 or $3 annual license fee if it means completely uninterrupted programs," she adds.

The British have sponsored programs on another channel, but the BBC programs, without commercials, have to be financed in some way. Hence, the tax on sets.

ON hand is a batch of entries to this dept's little jingles contest inspired by the headline boner, "Who's Zoo Is It?" The contest has now closed and judging has started. Some interesting jingles were contributed and all contestants will be pleased to know that their efforts, in my opinion, are superior to the thing I offered to start it all off.

It is obvious that readers like contests, and I'm readying a "predict the headlines" contest for November like the one we had in June. Be sure to enter.

Ex-Horse Trainer Finds L.B. Is Ideal

"There's no place like Long Beach. It is beautiful, the people are grand and the climate is superb.

"For years my wife and I have talked about coming here to live when I retired. Well, we're here and glad of it."

Those were the sentiments expressed Saturday by Randy Sechrest, rated among the best of thoroughbred trainers in the nation.

* * * *

HE RECENTLY retired after 28 years devoted to training race horses.

As he busied himself with preparations for the day at his newly opened chicken take-out cafe, Sechrest recalled some of the highlights of his career.

Top thrill was the day, Sept. 5, 1958, to be exact, at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., when he entered four horses in as many races, won three of them and lost the last by a neck.

* * * *

FROM A SUITCASE full of pictures and clippings he also extracted another account of a big day, this one at Jamaica, when his horse, Atom Rocket, won the second half of a whopping $2556 daily-double payoff. That was Oct. 23, 1957.

Of the hundreds of horses he trained his favorite is Atom Rocket, purchased by him as a yearling for $500, a horse which was "all heart, never ran a disappointing race."

Begin Heartwell Park Improvement Projects

Recreation Facilities Planned

After years of delay Heartwell Park is finally being improved by the city for public use.

Development of the 180-acre park along the south side of Carson Street, between Clark Avenue and the San Gabriel River, will feature increments, City Manager John R. Mansell reported Saturday.

Under the first of a series of contracts grading work is scheduled for completion by mid-October in the 76-acre section between Clark and Woodruff avenues.

* * * *

THE CURRENT contract calls for an outlay of $22,659. Future improvements will increase the total to $180,000, Mansell said.

Plans for an irrigation system will be submitted to the City Council Oct. 20. Turfing, landscaping and general beautification will be initiated in early 1963. A small lagoon and recreation facilities also will be developed in this section of the park.

Mansell said the same development plan will be continued later from Woodruff to Palo Verde Avenue, and from Coyotes Diagonal to the river.

FACES SECOND AMPUTATION

Ex-Marine Has Homemade Foot Ready Just in Case

By BOB BECKMAN

No one gave 44-year-old Gordon Paris a second glance as he slowly walked into the hospital.

A crudely-wrapped package under his arm attracted even less attention.

But it marked the most important day in Paris' life.

Checking into the hospital for surgery, chances were only 10,000-to-1 that his right foot would be saved.

His left foot was amputated last December and Paris walked into the hospital on an artificial left foot he alone designed and made.

In the package under his arm was an artificial right foot he created in his backyard workshop at 2712 W. 185th St., Redondo Beach—"just in case I lose this right foot after all," Paris told attendants.

Paris' story began four years ago on a construction job in Gardena. He was working atop an 8-foot ladder, lost his balance and fell hard, landing on his feet at a bone-splintering angle.

* * * *

THE HUSKY ex-Marine, who looks more like a gridiron hero, recalls:

"All the pain seemed to be in my right leg and I didn't worry about my left ankle."

During subsequent treatment, doctors discovered Paris' ankle bones were brittle and they began a long three-year battle to save his feet.

"Lost the first round just before Christmas last year," Paris says, looking out the hospital window, "when they took my left foot.

"But I was ready for it. I had studied a long time about artificial limbs and there wasn't one on the market I would want to wear. I began experimenting with plastics.

"Before going to the hospital I took a plaster-of-paris mold of my foot so I could build an artificial one that would stay tight to my leg without straps going to the thigh.

"I walked right away with it and I've never used crutches."

Since then, Paris and the bone specialists attending him have kept a close watch on the right foot. And Paris got ready. He took a plaster mold, "corns and all."

Using new pliable plastics, he began to build another artificial limb.

"It done in layers," Paris explains. First, a nylon stocking. Then a layer of plastic. Baked it in my home-made oven. Then another stocking and more plastic and back to the oven. Used 81 stockings."

Paris, in a Culver City Hospital, has a six-month wait before it can be determined if last week's surgery will save the right foot. Bone splinters were taken from his shin and hip and grafted to the non-mending ankle bones.

Voters Required to Do Too Much of the Lawmaking

ELSEWHERE IN THIS newspaper today is printed the first of a series of articles on the state ballot measures. In the coming weeks, we will interpret and express our opinions of these measures on the editorial page.

These opinions will draw both agreement and criticism and, as usual, the comment that we should just stick to the facts and not try to influence public opinion.

Our opinions will be offered for what the reader considers them worth. What he does in the polling place is his own business. Indeed, we encourage and implore him to dig out the facts for himself and make up his own mind.

One need only glance through the official booklet of state propositions, however, to understand one of the reasons why newspaper recommendations are a valuable contribution.

NOT ONE VOTER IN A thousand has the time or the sources of information required to research and thoroughly weigh the 25 complicated proposals which will appear on the California ballot next Nov. 6. We know, for we have devoted many hours of the time of trained researchers and reporters to this particular chore. It's just more work than the ordinary citizen can or should be expected to do. Inevitably, he will end up taking somebody else's word that this measure or that is good or bad.

It is our duty to offer information and interpretation for those who wish such aid. But we keep asking ourself what can be done to bring the election ballot back into the realm of reason. Where does the trouble lie?

IT LIES IN THE FACT that the public is required to do a great deal of legislative work that should be performed by elected legislators. Often this is the case for the simple reason that under California's constitutional system only the voters can legally make many of the decisions that have to be made. Instead of being a fundamental body of law, the California Constitution is a catch-all containing a wide variety of provisions that should be embodied in statute law. When new action is proposed on any of these matters, the public must vote on a constitutional amendment.

Thus, when voters go to the polls in November, they will be asked to legislate on veteran property tax exemptions, agricultural land assessments, workmen's compensation, assessment of historic landmark areas, sale of tidelands, and the regulation of boxing and wrestling contests.

The remedy? A wholesale revision of the California Constitution. Inertia has prevented such revision through the years. Only a strong public outcry will overcome this inertia. It is every voter's duty to bravely shoulder the work that has been thrust upon him; but it is also his duty to add his voice to the few now crying in the wilderness for a saner system.

Liston Helps JFK Get to Theater

BY OUR WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON—"Mr. President," a so-so musical, opened in Washington Tuesday night before a star spangled audience composed of the town's most glittering, most elite, most . . . words fail here. Proceeds (tickets were scaled down from $100, and impossible to get) went to the Kennedys' fund for retarded children. The First Lady was there, of course, and her entrance was described with emotion by the local news hens. They noted, however, that the President came in late—in the middle of the last act—as did Robert Kennedy, and in their breathless way they ascribed it to the press of work. What they did not say, however, was that the Liston-Patterson championship fight was piped into the White House via closed TV. The early knockout was timed perfectly for the token appearance at the musical.

FOOD FOR PEACE OFFICIALS enjoyed their finest hour during the recent earthquake in Iran. On hand in Tehran and Abidan warehouses were 17,000,000 pounds of food available for instant distribution. That was enough to feed 100,000 persons for six weeks. An additional 10,000,000 pounds of food were on the water and ready for diversion to Iran if needed. Richard W. Reuter, director of Food for Peace, claims that his agency's program has eliminated from the face of the earth the threat of starvation due to natural disaster. A total of 68,000,000 persons received Food for Peace sustenance last year.

THE ENTIRE THRUST of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's campaign for re-election in New York is toward piling up a bigger winning margin than he did in 1958. Only by doing so, it is reasoned, can Rockefeller project himself as the front-runner for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964. Recent changes in voter registration have compounded Rockefeller's task. Democrats have increased their margin from 180,000 in 1958 to 500,000 this year. In addition, Rockefeller figures that the Conservative party will siphon off about 150,000 normally Republican voters. Since he won by 550,000 votes in 1958, it can be reasoned that the Democratic increase plus the Conservative party might be combined to beat Rocky this time.

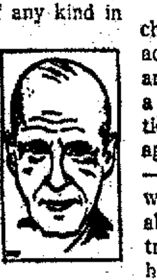
While Jack Talks Politics, Alarm Grows Regarding Cuba

WASHINGTON—The American people are becoming aroused over the Cuban situation. They read apprehensively about missile and submarine bases being set up by the Soviet Union 90 miles away from Florida. The feeling is growing among people throughout the country that the Kennedy administration is failing to do its duty, and that the President is spending too much time making political speeches instead of concentrating on a crisis which, if not handled wisely, could lead later on to war—just as happened in the 1930s.



LAWRENCE

What can the President do? This question is being asked often by those who do not wish to see military intervention of any kind in Cuba at this time. People also ask if there is anything else that can be done before invoking the Monroe Doctrine. Certainly the mere passage of rhetorical resolutions by Congress is not going to allay public fear that the United States is faltering in its course and is presenting a picture of weakness and irresoluteness.

There is a line of positive policy that can be undertaken which, if pursued confidently and unequivocally, can stop the Soviet aggression in Cuba, or at least clear the air as to what may hereafter be expected in the world when Soviet aggression poses its frightful threat.

The United Nations was established to preserve international peace. Many people in this country have lost faith in the U.N., but nevertheless it does exist and the United States cannot afford to ignore its own solemn pledge to abide by the provisions of the charter.

The charter, moreover, permits any nation to bring to the attention of both the Security Council and the General Assembly any threat or act of aggression menacing its safety and security.

The United States government could lay the case before the United Nations with the warning that, if action is blocked now, there will be resort later to that provision of the charter known as Article 51, which permits a group of nations to take action on their own to repel aggression.

* * * *

THIS MEANS that the United States, if unsuccessful at the U.N. meetings, could go ahead and invite as many of the members of the organization of states as desire to join this country in a military intervention in Cuba.

The object would be to get rid of all Soviet missiles, weapons, and military personnel, as well as bases, in Cuba and at the same time to retake possession of all properties of foreigners that have been confiscated without proper compensation. These are rights under international law which any member of the U.N. may assert, provided it reports to the U.N. what it is doing.

Article 51 of the U.N. charter authorizes collective action in self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a member of the organization." An "armed attack" against the Monroe Doctrine—the security system of the western hemisphere—has already occurred, as Soviet troops and war supplies have been landed in a country which is a member of the Organization of American States. The present government in Havanna is a mere puppet of the Soviet regime.

Article 52 of the U.N. charter specifically recognizes regional organizations as legal entities which can take action on their own. It says:

"Nothing in the present charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided that such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the purposes and principles of the organization."

This means that regional action can be taken in self-defense, since Article 51 of the U.N. charter says:

"Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense."

This certainly doesn't say or imply that a U.N. member must wait till an enemy strikes the first blow. Everybody knows today that an armed force is stationed in Cuba which is building up its military position. "Self-defense" for the United States means interception of the enemy by compelling him to stop his acts of aggression and to abandon any territory already occupied—as in Cuba.

* * * *

PROCEDURES through the U.N. may take time, but they could clear the air. If ultimately the only way out is to take "individual or collective" action, the United States will at least know what its duties and responsibilities are for the preservation of peace and for the defense of the security of all countries in the western hemisphere. The American people will also learn what benefit, if any, the U.N. can really be in an emergency involving the security of the United States and what nations in Europe, Africa and Asia are true friends of this country and defenders of human freedom.

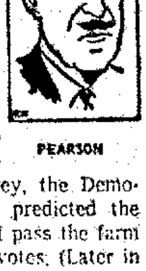
President Kennedy Unhappy About Cuts in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy was not smiling when he strode into the White House dining room Tuesday morning for his weekly breakfast with Democratic congressional leaders.

Instead of the usual banter, he greeted the legislators tersely and began gulping down his breakfast. They had never seen him looking so grim.



PEARSON

He listened soberly to their reports on farm legislation and foreign aid. The closest he came to a smile was a faint flicker when Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic Whip, predicted the Senate would pass the farm bill by nine votes. (Later in the afternoon, the Senate approved the farm bill by 11 votes.)

Kennedy became even more glum when House leaders reported that the cutbacks in foreign aid probably couldn't be overridden. Eyes flashing, he made a few terse remarks about the congressional hotheads who demand military action, then vote against the measures that would make America stronger.

With this off his chest, he cut the meeting short at 9:20 a.m., after only 35 minutes for both breakfast and discussion, and left the room.

* * * *

VICE President Lyndon Johnson has also given grim warnings to congressmen over the results of foreign aid cuts.

The United States, he has urged following his return from the Near East, is not taking advantage of the military manpower in Greece, Turkey and Iran.

The Greeks are unsurpassed as sailors, and the Turks are the world's best soldiers, he said.

It was a mistake to cut back Greek and Turkish aid, Johnson argued, when the United States could recruit a Greek sailor for the equivalent of $1.82 a month.

Instead of sending destroyers to Latin-American countries, when they are used by dictators, the Vice President suggested they should be delivered to Greece for use by the hardy little Greek navy.

As for the congressmen who voted to reduce military aid to Greece, Turkey and Iran, he warned that their action would weaken the free world.

Another high administration official, Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman, has been going after the chief hatchet-wielder in making foreign aid cuts—opinionated Louisiana Congressman Otto Passman.

BOB HOUSER

Smattering of Ideologies Shows Party Post Positions

WHAT causes men to hold staunchly to a party pennant? Some of the reasons may serve to crystallize current attitudes in the great, two-party dialogue.

Harry J. Keaton, president of California Young Republicans, says:

HOUSER

"Our party can save and protect individual freedom under a system of private enterprise and limited, locally responsible government. To be a Republican means to cherish and fight for these principles."

Will we, in the election, he asks, take our fate into our own hands or be content with "being led from Washington by appointed administrative advisors whose 30-year-old theories have never met a test except by failure" . . . we will decide whether Congress will again become the coequal branch of our national government or whether we continue on the road to government by executive rule.

Clare B. Williams, assistant chairman, Republican National Committee, warns shocking federal spending will become bigger and bigger until more Republicans are elected to Congress . . . that it was a GOP Congress which reduced federal taxes in the biggest tax cut in history during the Eisenhower administration . . . "money in people's pockets, not in Washington waste."

MRS. WILLIAMS said, "Scandal ridden Department of Agriculture spending was up 24 per cent; Department of Interior up 49 per cent; Health, Education and Welfare up 52 per cent, and the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency had managed to increase its spending by an exorbitant 347 per cent."

Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Richard Richards: "Republican campaign organizers try to delude the public into thinking that government is a strange, separate entity,' somehow apart from the people. Fortunately this is not true. Government is made by all of us. And we Democrats, and most enlightened Republicans, believe it must be kept responsive to us.

"IN TERMS of our total lives, government is never 'out of it.' It can never be out of it. For better or for worse, government always has an economic and monetary policy; a budget and fiscal policy; a tax policy; a public investment and public works policy. And these policies always have a determining influence on the growth and prosperity of our private economy.

"We Democrats say, 'Let's acknowledge the role of government and let's choose the right policies which will bring us stable prices, full employment and expanding economy.'

"I say that Democrats do not believe in 'big government,' but rather in effective government' which meets its responsibilities and meets them effectively. Certainly we have not forgotten that the prior Republican administration was responsible for the biggest peace time deficit in our history, and spent two-thirds as much money as all the previous administrations put together.

NO SENSIBLE American believes that government should do everything, but we realize that there are those things which can best be done by the people acting together. Catastrophic illness is a national problem. So are crime, education, equal civil rights, automation and our nation's position in the world.

"Failure of government to meet these problems would hardly preserve or strengthen our free society; on the contrary, it would weaken its very fabric and eventually destroy our society."

Optometry Article Challenged

EDITOR:

I am writing with regard to a syndicated column that appeared in the Sept. 17 edition of the Press-Telegram. The column, which ran under the byline of Henry C. MacArthur, was devoted to a vicious attack on the attempts of professional optometry in California to eliminate the practice of optometry in discount houses.

The entire article was based on the premise that optometry is, and should be, categorized as a mercantile trade; that optometry should be accorded no recognition as a health profession and that optometrists who are interested in raising the professional level of their skills and services are worthy of nothing but contempt and abuse. I can think of nothing that could be further from the truth.

Optometry in the State of California has struggled for the past 6 years to raise the level of its profession. Through the years, legislation has been passed to implement the attainment of this goal. Without exception, the intent and result of such legislation has been to better serve the visual care and health interests of the people of California.

* * * *

SECTION 651 of the Business and Professions Code prohibits any optometrist from representing that his price or fee is at a discount. It is our contention that the mere location of an optometrist in a discount house is as much an evil as if the optometrist himself blatantly advertised such a discount. Since the "optometric concession" appears to be an integral part of the discount house operation, it is reasonable for the public to assume that the goods and services are being offered at a discount. Thus, the optometrist is forbidden by law to provide his services at a discount but the public is "duped" into believing that optometric services are offered on the same basis as the other concessions operating under this "umbrella of discounts."

We simply do not believe that optometry, as a health care profession, has any place in a "discount house" operation, anymore than physicians and surgeons, dentists, podiatrists and lawyers.

Trade Unions Do Fight Commies

EDITOR:

In a recent letter, John H. Kelly stated that the "labor bosses" do not have the same aims as the "rank and file" in regards to combating communism.

The fact of the matter is that the free trade unions, comprising the AFL-CIO, are doing much to effectively combat communism both in the U.S.A. and the rest of the world.

For example, at the 18th UAW Constitutional Convention in Atlantic City earlier this year, 12 Douglas UAW Local 148 delegates (of which I was one), voted unanimously to donate $2,800,000 to help promote the formation of free trade unions in countries where the Communists are trying to take over. The motion was approved overwhelmingly by the 2,500 democratically secret ballot elected delegates.

In his address to the convention delegates, President J. F. Kennedy had this to say to UAW President Walter P. Reuther and the delegates:

"Your action taken at this convention of spending over a period of two years over $1,400,000 per year in order to build strong free trade unions around the world is an example of the public service that this union has rendered, and I commend you."

No Time to Talk of Monroe Doctrine

EDITOR:

This is no time to talk or write about enforcing the Monroe Doctrine.

Many national and international conditions have changed in the 139 years since President Monroe made his announcement. At no time since then have the American people accepted this doctrine; it has always been simply a matter of executive tradition and precedent.

Now is the time to create a new policy more in keeping with the times.

This is an age of interdependence, not national independence; any unilateral approach is open to grave doubt as to its wisdom.

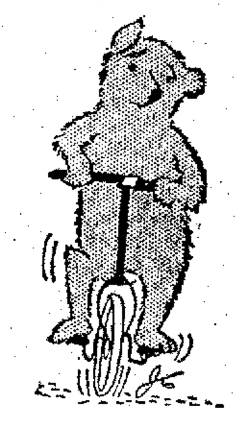
Languages in the News

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

Question from a reader:

Where does the expression "the Russian bear" come from? M. Walters, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The bear has been a favorite Russian animal for hundreds of years, and has always been associated, in popular concept, with Russia. Kipling spoke of "the bear that walks like a man," and, long ago, Shakespeare wrote, in Macbeth: . . . "What man dare — I dare . . . Approach thou like the rugged Russian bear . . . and my firm nerves . . . will never tremble."



The Russians, themselves, have a very special word for bear—medved'—literally "the honey eater." Russian fairs and circuses always have performing bears, which are called Misha or Mishka, the Russian pet names for bears.

A copy of the Berlitz "Diner's Dictionary" will be mailed to anyone submitting a question used in "Languages in the News."

RICHARD SUKMAN, left, and Elmer Decker, local businessmen, are co-chairmen of the Congressman Craig Hosmer Recognition Dinner Committee. They are directing plans for a community-wide dinner to honor the congressman for his 10 years of service to the 32nd district area.

CRAIG HOSMER DINNER

Congressman Fete Set Oct. 17

A community-wide, non-partisan dinner to honor Congressman Craig Hosmer for his 10 years of service as representative from the Long Beach, Lakewood, Dominguez, Signal Hill 32nd district will be given Oct. 17 at the Elks' Club, 4101 East Willow St.

Announcement of the event came Saturday from Co-chairmen Richard Sukman, and Elmer Decker, local business executives, who head a committee of some 80 persons, both Republicans and Democrats, sponsoring the dinner. George Taubman is program chairman. The public is invited and hundreds from this area are expected to attend.

"Craig Hosmer is completing his tenth year of outstanding service in the United States Congress and is preparing for his sixth term," the co-chairmen said in announcing plans for the event.

"Many folks, from all walks of life, have appreciation for what Craig has done for them individually, or for our area, state and nation, over these years as our representative in Congress. We, a group of many citizens from both political parties, believe that he deserves a 'thank you, well done' and have therefore planned this affair.

"A number of business, civic, professional, social and other area leaders will participate in the non-partisan, at-cost $3.50 per person recognition dinner for Congressman Hosmer.

"His service, ability, activity, and seniority, all of great value to our area, will be high-lighted. His efforts for many major accomplishments, such as halting subsidence, obtaining the new Navy Hospital, keeping the Naval Shipyard here, making the 1967 World's Fair at Long Beach possible," the co-chairmen added.

Invitations went out Saturday and tickets at $3.50 each may also be obtained at the Hosmer Dinner Committee headquarters, Room 310 Security Bldg., 110 Pine Ave., Long Beach. Tickets to the affair will be limited to the seating capacity of the Elks' Club dining hall and will be sold on a "first come-first served basis," the co-chairmen said.

PRINTER 45 YEARS

Dave Janzen Retires

Dave Janzen, 68, compositor and proofreader for The Independent, Press-Telegram since 1942, retired Saturday after 45 years in the printing and publishing industry.

Retirement closed a long career which began with a job for an uncle on an English - German weekly newspaper in Minnesota which paid $30 for the first six weeks of work.

JANZEN

By 1918 Janzen had increased his income to $60 a month.

After service at Camp Lewis, Wash. in 1918 and 1919, Janzen got a job that paid $35 a week. "But," he says, "a request for an increase of $5 weekly brought about a severance of relations."

Janzen moved his family to California in 1926 and drawing on his knowledge of the complex keyboard used on Linotype machines for German language papers, obtained a job in Fresno.

He moved to Long Beach in 1933—during the depression—when jobs were hard to find. On March 9 he was given a job in a local printshop and was told to report the following Monday. But the next day the Long Beach earthquake put the shop out of business.

After working in another print shop, he became shop foreman of the Long Beach Tribune during its brief time of publication and in 1942 started work on The Independent.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed Saturday a bill authorizing $5 million to add such things as observation posts, parking areas, and camping facilities to wildfowl and game refuges.

The department has reported the number of visitors to wildfowl and game refuges during the last 10 years increased from 3.5 million to more than 11 million.

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI)—The U.S. ambassador to Taganyika, William Leonhart, accompanied by his wife and two children arrived Saturday. He will present his credentials Oct. 3 to Gov. General Sir Richard Turnbull.

Grandest of Moms to Parley

Three hundred grandmothers give a few, take a few, from all over California will begin assembling at Anaheim's Charter House Hotel Tuesday for a lot of work—and a little fun, including a tour of Disneyland.

They will represent 72 Grandmother's Clubs at their 13th annual convention, which ends Thursday night with installation of officers of the state headquarters organization.

Mrs. Mabel Mingus of Watsonville, state president, will open the program Tuesday with a memorial service for former members. Workshop sessions will occupy that morning and there will be business meetings during the afternoon, according to Mrs. Lee Carter, 6056 Cerritos Ave., press chairman.

Officers to serve the coming year will be chosen Wednesday morning and in the afternoon comes the Disneyland tour. Presidents from the 72 clubs will be honored at a breakfast Thursday. The rest of that will be filled with business sessions and convention reports, prior to the evening installation banquet which concludes the meet.

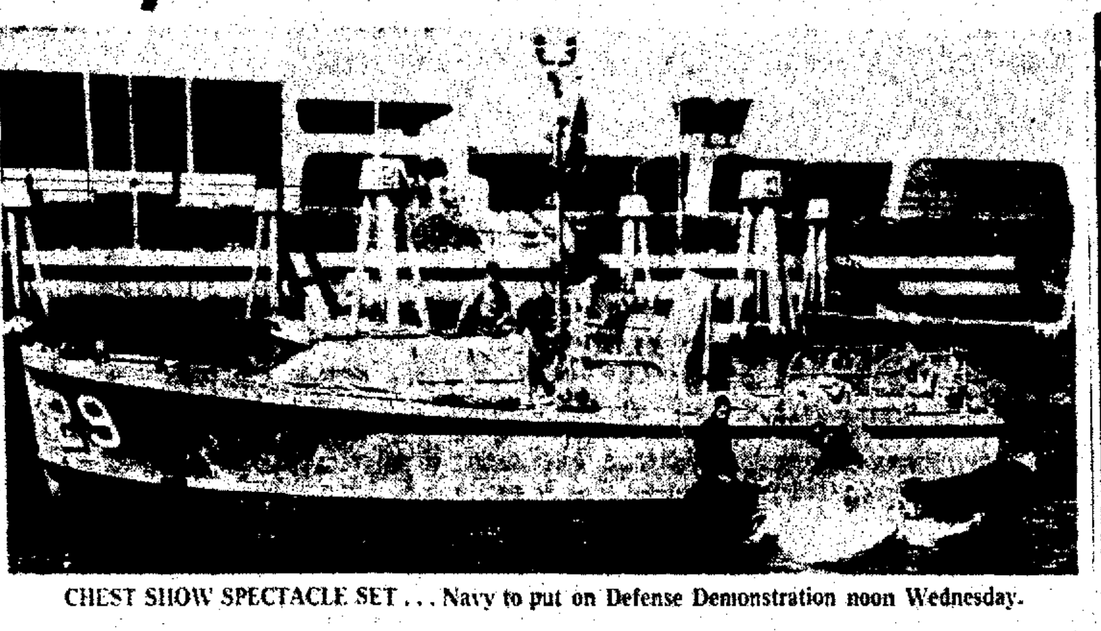
Navy Show Marks Chest Kickoff



CHEST SHOW SPECTACLE SET . . . Navy to put on Defense Demonstration noon Wednesday.

Harbor defense demonstrations by U.S. Naval units will highlight the public ceremonies marking opening of the Community Chest campaign at noon Wednesday at the Long Beach Naval Landing.

Divers from Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit One will demonstrate use of underwater demolition of mines. Working with the Harbor Defense Unit One from the Naval Base, the divers will be assisted by use of small Naval craft.

Robinson A. Reid, Community Chest campaign chairman, reminded volunteer workers wishing to obtain "dutch treat" box lunches to make reservations at Chest headquarters before Monday noon. Tables and chairs will be set up on the west side of the Landing for campaign workers.

Daniel Farnham, campaign meetings chairman, said in addition to the Naval units show, the Municipal Band will play, civic officials presented and a keynote speech delivered by the Rev. Alec G. Nichols, member of the Chest board of directors.

Door prizes for campaign workers, including boat trips and fishing excursion tickets, will be given away at the luncheon.

L.B. Men Will Assist at Engineers Conclave

A number of Long Beach men this week will attend and help guide the activities of the Western Tool Exposition and Engineering Conference in Los Angeles. Some 12,000 to 15,000 engineers will attend.

GARISS

The Long Beach delegation is headed by Raymond E. Gariss, senior tool design engineer of Douglas Aircraft Co. here, who is a member of the board of directors of the sponsoring American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers.

In charge of Western Tool's show portion of the conference will be Lawrence Pomerantz, Long Beach, of the Arrowsmith Tool and Die Corp.

JOHN STANSBURY, supervisor of tool design of Douglas in Long Beach, is chairman of a technical session entitled "Mechanical and Non-Mechanical Metal Removal."

More than 250 displays in the show will be set up in the Pan-Pacific auditorium and over $5 million in new metal working equipment will be displayed. General theme of the displays will be connected with space-age design.

TECHNICAL sessions of the conference will be in the Ambassador Hotel. The show and conference opens Monday and runs through Friday.

During the week Gariss plans to bring officials of the show to Long Beach to look over convention facilities here, particularly the new Long Beach Arena. Gariss said he hopes that the show can be held in Long Beach in 1964 and 1966.

Millions Are Anxiously Watching Oxford, Miss.

By HARRY SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The eyes of most Americans last week were focused on Oxford, Miss., where a titanic federal-state racial struggle was being fought.

Gov. Ross Barnett defied court-ordered federal attempts to enroll Negro student James H. Meredith in the all-white University of Mississippi. He was backed up by 500 steel-helmeted state troopers, police and angry citizens and students.

* * * *

THREE TIMES the governor barred Meredith and escorting U. S. Marshals from the campus. He refused to heed warnings from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that this was a case where the federal government might have to use force.

He also ignored a contempt of court summons from the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans which had directed that Mississippi obey the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation edict. Late Friday Barnett was found in contempt of court and held to answer by Tuesday.

President Kennedy discussed with his brother and other advisers whether federal force should be used to guarantee Meredith's enrollment. Some quarters mentioned use of federal troops, much like former President Eisenhower forced desegregation in Little Rock, Ark., schools in 1958. Eisenhower was backing Kennedy to the hilt, calling Barnett's action "absolutely inconscionable and indefensible."

* * * *

MORE THAN 700 federal marshals and 110 U. S. Army Engineers waited at nearby Memphis, Tenn., for presidential orders. But Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said no U. S. troops had been alerted.

McNamara, just back from Europe and West Germany, told a Washington press conference that U. S. and Allied planes poised on the East German border were armed with both conventional and nuclear weapons which could be used to guarantee access to West Berlin, if it came to that.

Asked if his statement indicated "an unprecedented readiness" to use atomic weapons should Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev try to oust the Allies, McNamara replied: "No, I was simply being factual. Our policy is to use whatever weapons are necessary to maintain our vital interests."

IN THE CUBAN crisis, Congress armed the President with "fight-if-we-must" and reserve call-up powers should Communist Premier Fidel Castro try to export war to his neighbors.

Castro announced that Russia is building a big "fishing" port. The United States warned that it would be "watched closely" to see if it affects national security.

Congress gave the President a farm bill which he promptly signed. It wasn't what he wanted but it was regarded as a big step toward reducing surpluses and easing the taxpayers' price-support burden.

* * * *

A TAX-REFORM bill also was emerging. It was minus the withholding tax on dividends and interest which Kennedy requested, but it includes his $1 billion tax credit for new business investment. It also includes a new compulsory reporting system for collecting taxes on dividends and interest.

Another major measure nearing enactment would increase postal rates by $602 million a year but also raise the pay of 1.5 million federal workers by $1,054,000,000 over a two-year span.

The President got only $38 million for his $568 million program to build radiation fallout shelters. Despite the setback, Civil Defense planners hoped to complete his program for placing food, water and safety equipment in shelters for 60 million people.

Senate stockpile investigators won from Congress the right to examine the income tax returns of former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey's mining companies. Humphrey, who served under Eisenhower, has been accused of profiteering on sales of nickel to the government. The authorization also covered the personal tax returns of Jess Larson who was a former Truman administration official.

The Senate Judiciary Committee refused to vote contempt citations against four steel companies which balked at demands they produce their cost sheets.

The Senate confirmed the President's appointment of former Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. At the same time W. Willard Wirtz was sworn in as Goldberg's successor in the labor department.

Kennedy chose a Negro, Philadelphia lawyer A. Leon Higginbotham, Jr., for a seven-year term on the federal Trade Commission. If confirmed by the Senate, Higginbotham will be the first member of his race to sit on the federal regulatory agency.

The chief executive appealed to a White House conference on narcotics addiction and drug abuse for greater national effort to rehabilitate addicts. He also blamed indiscriminate sale of non-narcotics drugs, such as goof balls, for an alarming increase in juvenile delinquency.

The United States agreed to supply Israel with anti-aircraft missiles to counteract Soviet bloc military aid to the United Arab Republic. The decision, it was said, was aimed at meeting "a military imbalance," not to spur an arms race.

The U. S. Civil Rights Commission, for the second year, urged the President to issue an executive order banning racial discrimination in all housing built with federal assistance of any kind. Eisenhower had declined to act on the recommendation.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economy Declared Firm After Top-Level Meets

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers, industrialistes and business industrialists and business magazine editors gathered last week to examine the economy and heard mixed but cautiously optimistic reports.

The occasions were the convention of the American Bankers Association in Atlantic City, N. J., a meeting of the National Industrial Conference board in New York City, and the government briefing of the editors in Washington.

The sessions provided the sounding boards for economists, business leaders and public officials at a time of unusually keen interest in the smallest trends of the economy.

Sam M. Fleming of Nashville, Tenn., outgoing president of the bankers association, expressed the opinion that "there is no reason in the world to anticipate a recession."

He said that in an economy as large and diverse as that of the United States there are bound to be both favorable and unfavorable signs, "but I'm not too pessimistic about our future. However, there's always the chance we could talk ourselves into a recession."

* * * *

AT THE INDUSTRIAL conference board session, Robert E. Williams, vice president for sales of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., predicted a "relatively moderate" business downturn beginning in the first quarter of 1963.

And George Troutt, vice president of Associated Dry Goods Corp., forecast a decline in the economic growth rate in the fourth quarter of this year and the first quarter of next year with a recovery starting in the 1963 second quarter.

However, on the brighter side, there were predictions of sales of seven million new cars next year, and increases in construction and sales of petroleum, chemicals, machinery and equipment and lead.

President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter W. Heller, told the editors he expected a continued modest expansion of business despite mixed trends in the economy.

Kennedy sought to assure the editors that his administration isn't anti-business but conceded he has found it difficult to keep all business men happy. His secretary of Commerce, Luther H. Hodges, expressed the opinion that "misunderstanding and recrimination" between business and government "has been receding in the recent weeks."

* * * *

THE STOCK MARKET took some sharp setbacks during the week and some Wall Street analysts said much of the blame was due to investors' worry over sluggishness of the economy.

Senate and House conference committees reached agreement on a bill which would provide a $1.3 billion annual incentive for business to invest in machinery and equipment. It would allow business to charge off on their tax bills up to seven per cent of such spending.

A provision for withholding taxes on dividends and interest — which Kennedy wanted to counterbalance government income—was removed.

The cost of living remained unchanged in August from the July level of 105.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average. For the first time in more than eight years costs of medical care failed to rise. Robert J. Myers, deputy labor statistics commissioner, forecast a resumption of the slight increase in the cost of living when the September figures are announced.

* * * *

STEEL PRODUCTION last week increased to 1,715,000 tons, up two per cent from the previous week but industry leaders scaled down their 1962 output predictions to 100 million tons or less.

An industry publication, Iron Age, reported that all but a few pockets of abnormally large inventory in the hands of consumers and steel warehouses should be erased by the end of October and that shipments and consumption should reach a fairly good balance.

Four steel companies — Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and National—won their fight against a threat of citation for contempt of Congress for refusing to produce production cost data for the Senate anti-trust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn. As a result, eight other companies which had agreed to supply the information no longer were required to do so. The four companies had argued to the Senate Judiciary Committee that disclosure of cost details would be helpful to domestic and foreign competition.

* * * *

AUTOMOBILE production continued to rise this week with an estimated 148,000 passenger cars coming off assembly lines as manufacturers pushed output of 1963 models with overtime work in some plants. Last week's total was 141,972. In the 1962 model year, which closed this week, 6,686,735 cars were built, a 24 per cent gain over 1961 and second only to 1955.

WORLD WAR II—TWENTY YEARS LATER

74,000 Yanks Fell in Italy Fighting

Editor's Note: This is another in the series of articles recalling people and places, campaign victories and catastrophes in World War II. Other articles will appear at intervals of approximately two weeks.

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

The Battle for Italy that began Sept. 3, 1943 lasted nearly two blood-bathed years—the longest and most costly battle of World War II.

It began on a warm, sunshiny fall morning when British troops landed in Calabria, on the toe of the Italian boot, practically without opposition.

For all pratical purposes, it ended on April 30, 1945, when the Americans entered Turin, far to the north, and the British and Yugoslavs captured Trieste. The road from Calabria to Trieste ran red with the blood of 200,000 men—74,000 of them America's finest soldiers.

* * * *

ALONG THAT road there are milestones and memories.

There is the memory of Salerno. The Americans landed there, south of Naples, on Sept. 9, 1943, and tested the Germans on the Continent of Europe for the first time in World War II. The Germans responded with vicious drives that were blunted only when the American invaders were driven back to within five city blocks from the sea.

* * * *

THERE IS the memory of Cassino, where the Germans anchored a great defensive line for the winter of 1943-44 and where, finally, the Americans shelled the monastery to oust the defenders.

There is the memory of Anzio, a beach town near Rome, where British and American troops landed behind the Cassino line on Jan. 22, 1944.

Thereis the memory of Rome, the Holy City. Anzio is just 30 miles from Rome, but it took the Americans from January to June 4 to liberate the Italian capital.

THE AMERICANS landed at Salerno Sept. 9, the Italian government surrendered the day before. But 20 German Wehrmacht divisions controlled Italy and roared to the counter-attack.

Tank spearheads carried to a half-mile of the beach, driving the Americans to the sea, by Sept. 13. Gen. Mark Clark, directing the American attack, found his advance headquarters within a mile of the German retaliation before it was stalled by fire and blood.

* * * *

NOWHERE before had Americans met so skilled, so entrenched, so armored and so determined an enemy. Heroic men turned the tide at Salerno.

Such a man was Sgt. James M. Logan, a 26-year-old Texan who landed with the first wave. His company advanced 800 yards inland and was pinned down before a rock wall, strongly held. The German fire was so intense the Americans could not move.

Disregarding the fire, Sgt. Logan rose to the attack. Three Germans poured through a gap in the wall, he shot them all. Now he ran 200 yards across a field, under withering fire, to the base of the wall.

Within arm's-length of the enemy, he crawled along the base of the wall, he reached a machine gun emplacement. He leaped over the wall, killed the two gunners, swung their gun against the now-exposed Germans and butchered them.

* * * *

THE SERGEANT was not yet done. He captured a German officer and a private, then charged 150 yards across an open field to capture a farmhouse that shielded snipers, and thus opened a big enough gap in the German line to free first his squad, then his platoon from German fire.

The Congressional Medal of Honor he received seemed almost not enough.

* * * *

THE ROAD north led to Altaville, where thousands died, and then to the hills above Naples.

Along the way cities and hills were ringed in fire. Bob Capa, a war correspondent with front line troops, paused once to note that Mt. Vesuvius' fire, seen along the Allied flank, was just "an insignificant little bonfire" compared to the storms of war.

On Oct. 1 Naples fell to the pressure of the British and American troops, and the battle raged northward.

* * * *

NOT A HILL, not a road, not a town nor a pass fell without blood.

By Oct. 21 Gen. Clark was able to ascertain the immediate German objective, a winter defense line anchored on Cassino and Acernia. The Allies were unable to crack that line by direct assault.

On Jan. 22 the Allies landed at Anzio, where the sea ran red. The Germans hurled panzer divisions at the beachhead, driving the Americans back to the shore. Here they came under the shelter of warships and airplanes, whose shells and bombs chewed up the German armor.

* * * *

WHILE THE battle raged at Anzio, it was furious at Cassino. There the Allies, angered by German use of the famous Mount Cassino monastery as an artillery observation post, bombed it Feb. 15 and 16—one of the war's most famous incidents. Still the Germans clung to Cassino, and to their lines containing Anzio. On Mar. 15 Allied planes dropped 3,500 tons of bombs on little Cassino, still did not dislodge the Germans.

On May 18 Cassino finally fell to British and Polish troops and the German line was broken. Seven days later the Americans broke out of Anzio along the road to Rome.

* * * *

THE GERMANS chose to honor Rome as an "open city" and relinquished it without a fight. In reaching there, however, the Americans had already expended 12,999 dead and 49,561 wounded.

Now north of Rome the Germans regrouped along a line that stretched from Pisa to Florence to Rimini, and this defense, called the "Gothic line" was just as tough as the preceding Cassino stand.

Not until July 18 did the Americans crack the outposts of the Gothic line; four days later they took Pisa. Florence fell Aug. 12, under an attack led by South African troops.

* * * *

IN OCTOBER the rains came. The quagmire that resulted stalled the Allied advance until April 9, 1945. Bologna fell to the Allies April 21, Verona April 26. The American Fifth Army drove into the foothills of the Alps, the British flared right to Trieste, where they met the Yugoslavs May 1; the Fifth veered to Genoa, capturing it April 27, and Turin April 30.

* * * *

THE BATTLE for Italy had exhausted 20 of the finest German divisions. What was left straggled northward to Austria, to meet a new calamity, the westward push of the Russians.

They left behind them Benito Mussolini, who had fled when Marshal Pietro Badoglio surrendered Italy in 1943, and had formed a fascist "republic" in North Italy.

Mussolini and his mistress, Clara Petacci, were fleeing north from Milan, with a group of his benchmen. It is presumed they were attempting to escape to Germany, but Italian partisans caught them at Dongo, a village on Lake Como.

All were tried and executed by firing squad. The body of Mussolini was taken to Milan by truck, and hung by its heels in the Piazzo Loretto, a square where Mussolini's agents had once executed 15 partisans.

Mussolini was buried May 1 in the pauper's section of the Maggiore Cemetery, Milan.

Dodgers Back Into Pennant Tie

Broglio, Cardinals Pull Down Flag, 2-0

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers cannot lose the pennant without a playoff, but—

As they say at the tracks, "please hold all (World Series) tickets until the result of the race has been declared official."

Ernie Broglio and the St. Louis Cardinals made it a photo finish Saturday night by shutting out the Dodgers, 2-0. And, had the scoreboard been so equipped, the inquiry sign might have been posted.

A three-base error by Frank Howard made both St. Louis runs earned and sent Don Drysdale to his ninth defeat on a yield of five singles. Broglio won that match, 3-up, as he allowed only two singles, by Duke Snider and Wally Moon, in the first and second innings, respectively.

* * * *

DODGERS general manager Buzzie Bavasi was among those who thought Howard's miscue came on a foul ball. From the press box, it appeared that Howard had crossed the foul line when he muffed Dal Maxvill's blooper that should have retired the side in the second inning.

DODGER OF YEAR

George Lederer will present the Independent, Press-Telegram "Dodger of the Year" trophy after today's Dodger-Cardinal game.

Umpire Chris Pelekoudas made the call and that's the way it stands.

The pennant race stands thusly: The Dodgers are still one game in front of the Giants with one to play. The Giants must win and the Dodgers must lose this afternoon to bring about the fourth playoff in NL history. The Dodgers have been involved in all.

Should another be necessary, it will begin Monday at Candlestick Park and end at Dodger Stadium Tuesday or Wednesday.

* * * *

FIRST, Johnny Podres (15-12) duels Curt Simmons (9-10) for all the marbles at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The game will be televised locally over channel 11. Television won't hurt attendance one bit.

The Dodgers are certain to pad their major league attendance record by another capacity house. They broke Cleveland's 1949 record by luring 49,012 paid for a season total of 2,641,842. The Indians' record was 2,620,627.

DODGER OF DAY

DUKE SNIDER singled, walked and stole second in 2-0 loss to Cardinals.

Dodgers manager Walter Alston finally made a prediction to set the stage for the cliffhanging finish: "We'll win tomorrow (Sunday)," he said. His post script, however, was almost in the form of an epigraph: "If not, we don't deserve it."

* * * *

THE STUMBLING Dodgers, who led by 5½ games on Aug. 9 and by four only a week ago this morning, now have lost nine of their last 12 games. They enjoyed a seven-game winning streak before taking the dive.

Alston has insisted all year that "this race will go down to the wire." He has earned his diploma as a prophet.

It's a good thing that Alston decided to shave before Saturday's game. He figured that "if I wait until it's over, I might cut my throat." He was tempted, at that.

Alston refused to discuss the controversial error by Howard, who chose a poor time for the worst day in his major league career. Howard also struck out three times and bounced into the game-ending double play after Snider had drawn a walk.

Channel 11, 2 p.m.

"I had it and I dropped it," said Howard tersely. "That's all I know."

Larker Blast Helps Colts Sting Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Houston's Bob Bruce baffled San Francisco, 4-2, in a doubleheader nightcap Saturday which virtually eliminated the Giants from the National League pennant race after they had stayed alive with an 11-5 win the opener.

However, coupled with the Dodgers loss to St. Louis, the Giants are only one game behind with today's final action and can still tie for the pennant.

* * * *

NORM LARKER, booed vigorously by the Candlestick Park crowd of 26,268 for his several arguments in the first game, put the Colts on top to stay in the second game with a two-run third-inning homer off loser Juan Marichal (18-11).

Bruce, a young righthander (10-9), fanned nine and puzzled the Giants with his pinpoint control on the corners. He yielded six hits and the Colts got only five.

Jack Sanford labored through 5⅔ innings in the opener to win his 24th game and the Giants' 100th of the season. Loser Ken Johnson was clouted for five runs in the first inning.

* * * *

TOM HALLER, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda each homered for the Giants in the opener, but only Matty Alou could connect in the nightcap.

Houston got a quick run off Marichal when leadoff hitter Carl Warwick walked in the first and rookie Dave Roberts doubled him home. But Alou's third homer of the year evened the count in the bottom of the first.

Cepeda's infield single, a hit batter, sacrifice and intentional walk to Jose Pagan

Trojans Humble SMU, 33-3

By JEROME HALL
I. P-T Staff Writer

DALLAS — Southern Methodist became victim No. 2 here Saturday night in the USC Trojan campaign to climb back to the top of the college football heap.

Willie Brown set 'em up with a 92-yard runback of the opening kickoff and end Hal Bedsole knocked 'em over with two scoring catches as Troy bombarded the Southwest Conference doormats, 33-3, in the Cotton Bowl.

The Trojans used the game to experiment as they tried to beat the Mustangs by running. Though Troy rolled up more than 200 yards on the ground, it was the pass catching of the towering Bedsole that broke it open.

He caught two scoring passes to add another USC record to an already-high stack of them.

"I expected to win," said coach John McKay, "but not by 30 points. You're always glad to have the touchdown on the opening kickoff, but sometimes it can be dangerous. It makes things look too easy."

It took Troy longer to recover from the Brown explosion than it did for SMU, but it seemed clear that all the Trojans had to do to put it on ice much, much earlier was throw long passes to Bedsole, who is taking giant strides toward all-America honors.

USC, ranked No. 9 last week after upsetting Duke, should move up a notch or two as the Trojans take on Iowa next Saturday at Iowa City.

Brown picked up 52 yards from scrimmage in addition to his long runback as he ramrodded the Trojans with key gains on two scoring drives for the 12-point favorites.

A slim gathering of about 14,000 in a faraway stadium saw Trojan history made in the third period when Bedsole scored on a 59-yard pass-run play. It made a total of nine TD passes he's caught in his one year plus two games, pushing him past the immortal Morley Drury whose record of eight TD receptions over a three-year period had stood the test of 35 years.

Last season Bedsole broke or equaled every one-season receiving record in the USC book.

Brown made it look easy as he gathered in the opening kickoff on the eight and started up the middle. He ran into the middle of the Mustangs at the 25 and burst through them, cutting for the sideline at the 35. He raced down the sideline the rest of the way with four men in pursuit.

One of them, little Tommy Brennan, made a dive at the goal line and knocked Willie off balance and he went tumbling into the end zone.

It was strikingly similar

49ers Nip Sacramento, 13-9

By AL LARSON

SACRAMENTO — Wayne Mickaelian barrelled 16 yards for a touchdown with 3:01 left in the game to bring Long Beach State from the brink of defeat to a 13-9 victory over Sacramento State Saturday before a crowd of 3,102 here.

Mickaelian's scoring run on a draw play enabled the 49ers to halt a two-game losing streak and whip the Hornets for the fourth successive season. The loss was Sacramento's third.

The 49ers had led 6-0 going into the final period, thanks to two field goals by Tom Turrill, but Sacramento rallied to go ahead 9-6.

A dazzling 23-yard TD jaunt by Jerry Hatcher put the Hornets in front with 9:52 remaining after Vince Zalasky had booted a 15-yard field goal with the fourth period only 29 seconds old.

Coach Don Reed's gallant crew snatched the victory away when it boomed 36 yards in five rapid-fire plays. The winning drive was set up when John Reed recovered a fumble on the Hornet 36.

Coach Reed now called on reserve QB Casey Stangel to engineer the winning march. Stangel gained four on a rollout, then on the next play was socked five yards for intentionally grounding the ball on a pass.

Casey clicked on a seven-yard pass to Don Montgomery and the 49ers gained an additional 15 when officials slapped a Hornet with a personal foul penalty. It was now first and 10 on Sacramento's 16.

Stangel threw incomplete on the next play, then crossed up the Hornet defense when he handed off to Mickaelian on the delayed draw. The 175-pound fullback squirmed up the middle and carried two tacklers piggy-back into the end zone.

Turrill, playing with a painful knee injury, came off the bench twice in the second quarter to move Long Beach into a 6-0 halftime lead.

The trusty-toed halfback split the uprights from the 25 and 29-yard lines to highlight an otherwise rugged defensive battle.

The 49ers jumped ahead with the clock showing 1:39 left in the first half. The field goal was set up when Gene Farrell pounced on Gene Reyes' fumble on Sacramento's 18.

After Curt Bennett hit Hank Edney with a pass good for eight yards and Andrews picked up a first down on the Hornet 8, Sacramento's defense stiffened and hurled the 49ers back to the 18. Turrill then was called upon for his field goal shot and his aim was perfect.

Following the kickoff, Sacramento picked up one first down before turning

Rumble to 36-0 Halftime Lead, Then Play Subs

By KEN PIVERNETZ

For the second week in a row, Long Beach City College went on a rampage.

It wouldn't be hard to convince the highly partisan Veterans Stadium crowd of 4,231 that turned out Saturday night that this is one of the great LBCC teams of all time after they buried New Mexico Military Institute, 42-6.

After scoring almost at will in the first half running up a 36-0 lead, New Mexico came back in the second half to play the Viking reserves on even terms.

THE BRONCOS from Roswell, N.M., were never able to get untracked as the Norse defense again put tremendous pressure on the NMMI quarterbacks whenever they got in scoring range — and that wasn't often.

Homer Williams, Joe Pearson, Gary Garrison and Tim Russell were the big offensive stars while the whole defensive unit was again outstanding, especially Ralph Peterson and Ken Brewer.

Williams gained 88 yards on 12 carries—all in the first half, while Russell picked up 40 yards on three carries and Pearson scored two touchdowns, subbing for injured Duane Nixon.

This is how the onslaught unfolded:

FIRST QUARTER

LBCC 6, NMMI 0—Taking the opening kickoff and marching 71 yards in 10 plays, Williams got off to a fast start, picking up 40 of the yards. Ron Richardson hit Garrison with a 19-yard pass to set up a first down on the NMMI 23. Four plays later Pearson scored from the eight.

LBCC 12, NMMI 0—After an exchange of punts, LBCC came right back, going 65 yards in 5 plays. Richardson's pass to Pearson for 33 yards was the big play. A reverse from Williams to Tim Russell set up the TD on the 21 from where Willams scored from the two two plays later.

SECOND QUARTER

LBCC 20, NMMI 0—Garrison had a 63-yard interception return for a TD partially nullified by a clipping penalty. However, it set up a 39-yard, 4-play march. Pearson scored over right guard with 3:10 gone and Garrison caught a pass for the PAT.

LBCC 28, NMMI 0—New Mexico reached the LBCC six

No 'Paradise' in Stormy 'Vegas

LAS VEGAS — The "unseasonal" Nevada weather that knocked out the first round of the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament did produce some light moments while tournament director Herb McDonald was beseiged with dark headaches.

. . . The torrential rainstorm, thunder and lightning on Thursday proved a rainbow in disguise for Dick Davies of Pasadena. The British amateur champion was married here Wednesday night and fully expected to spend the first day of wedded life on the Paradise Valley Country Club course. But the rains came and Davies hustled back to his bride quicker than one of his pitches to the green. As you might imagine, the groom was trapped with jibes from his fellow golfers the whole next day. Family newspaper regulations prevent a chronicle of the remarks.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

. . . Gil Stratton, the pint-sized radio-TV man who will be on the video end of today's final rounds, almost quit his assignment before it began. In going through a dress rehearsal of his chores Friday, the one-time PCL umpire was required to mount a 25-foot scaffold overlooking the 18th green at Paradise Valley. After he crawled down, ashen-faced Stratton admitted he was "scared to death." "Why that thing was shaking worse than a guy with the DTs," moaned Stratton. "The next time I go up there, I'm going to have a crash crew around to salvage the remains. I should get a parachute and flying pay for getting on that thing again."

. . . THE RAINS PROVIDED happy-go-lucky Phil Rodgers of San Diego with some great comedy relief. As players, officials and fans gathered around the flooded ninth green to decide whether or not to continue the first round, the rotund Rodgers roared, "Let's all dive in." Heeding his own suggestion, Rodgers took a flying leap and landed bottom-first in the newly-created pool.

. . . Some of the higher I.Q. golfers on the course sized up the watery situation and took quick advantage of it. All the members of one foursome pitched shots hole high and let the two-inch deep stream of water stop their balls dead. Their mental altertness went for naught, however, when all scores were rubbed from the books.

. . . Many people who arrived here later couldn't comprehend the situation wherein all the golfers at one course (Municipal) completed their rounds, while those at a second course (Paradise) were flooded out. The explanation was simple, although strange. The rains never hit Municipal (a few miles west of downtown Casino Row, but they deluged Paradise (18 miles away in the heart of the desert).

. . . Even the major league gamblers here wouldn't have taken odds that such a situation would happen—even in Las Vegas.

JUDY GARLAND IS BILLED at the Sahara as "the greatest entertainer ever to hit Las Vegas." Someone forgot, however, that a better one named Harry Belafonte is opposing her right now at the Riviera. Judy made no friends here with her insistence that she play only one show per night and that dinner service stop completely at 7:50 p.m. when she went on-stage.

. . . The temperamental, thrice-wed actress (who filed suit for divorce from Sid Luft on Friday) panics her audience with a rendition of "Never, Never Will I Marry." (Oh, yeh?)

. . . Judy is no sports fan, either. In commenting upon the recent title fight, she referred to the new heavyweight champion as "Sonny Lister." (And she wasn't kidding, either.)

. . . Long Beach is well represented here with Mayor Ed Wade, Dana Brown, Hal Solomon and Bob Lemon, among many others, on hand. In a turnabout maneuver, amateur Hal insisted his pro partner get a few lines of newsprint. "He deserves it," snorted Solomon. "The guy shot an 82." (Maybe that'll quiet the pros who habitually complain about their amateur partners.)

THE LAS VEGAS PEOPLE who establish the odds on sporting events are in unanimous agreement that the Yankees will be a heavy World Series favorite . . . At least in this arid province.

. . . "The Giants should be shorter odds than the Dodgers," claimed one of those gentlemen. "The Dodgers are falling apart and should be easy pickings for the Yankees. It's a wonder the Dodgers are in contention at all. They've only got one steady pitcher (Drysdale) and a semi-steady one (Podres). Nobody else. It's frightening to think that the Dodgers would have done this year if Sandy Koufax had been sound. They'd have wrapped up this whole thing two weeks ago."

. . . The same man thinks the Giants would be a cinch if a playoff became necessary. "They got the best team, but the only thing against them is the sites. The worst thing is for them to start at Candlestick Park and be forced to play the next two in L.A. With that crowd and all, it could be murder." (Yeah, but for whom?)

QB Siler Sparks Triumph

SEATTLE (UPI) — Wee Willie Siler, a diminutive dandy of a quarterback, threw a 31-yard touchdown pass, set up another and masterminded Washington to a 28-7 football victory over Illinois.

Washington scored in every quarter as they won their third straight from Illinois in a series which began in 1950. Saturday's game, played before a crowd of 54,000, evened the rivalry at three victories apiece. It also spoiled Illinois coach Pete Elliott's 36th birthday.

Siler's 31-yard pass came in the second period when he hit end Lee Bernhardi in the end zone for Washington's second touchdown. The scoring toss was set up when Washington recovered a fumble on Illinois' 46 and a 15-yard penalty moved the ball to 31.

* * * *

WASHINGTON got its first touchdown six minutes after the opening kickoff when Charlie Mitchell boomed in from two yards out to cap a 69-yard drive.

After Washington's second touchdown Illinois fought back. The Illini used nine downs in moving 80 yards; then fullback Dave Pike scored on a one-yard plunge two seconds before the halftime gun sounded. But that was all for the Big Ten team.

Washington roared out after the intermission and had another touchdown on the scoreboard in five minutes.

* * * *

SILER SET up this touchdown with a 13-yard dash to the Illinois four and halfback Martin Wyatt went over on the next play.

The sparkling little quarterback also contributed to the final Husky touchdown. He connected with Bernhardi on a 23-yard pass to the Illinois 14. Washington moved to the ten, then Siler lateralled to reserve fullback Charlie Browning, who scampered into the end zone.

PLAYS GIVEAWAY, 25-8

San Jose Makes Life Easy for Cal

BERKELEY (AP)—What California didn't take, San Jose State gave away Saturday as the Golden Bears defeated the Spartans, 25-8, before 31,500 in California Memorial Stadium.

Time after time, San Jose was penalized in key situations, or the Spartans fumbled, dropped passes, and added to the California score with a safety caused by a wild pass from center that went out of the end zone on a punting situation.

The Bears were never headed marching 72 yards with the opening kickoff in 17 plays capped by Randy Gold's three-yard scoring pass to end Bill Turner.

Turner also caught a pass from quarterback Larry Balliett for a touchdown, this one in the third quarter, a 13-yard flip.

California relied mainly on its ground game, sparked by halfback Alan Nelson. A 30-yard field goal by halfback Tom Blanchfield in the second period made it 12-0.

Turner's second touchdown followed before the Spartans scored. San Jose went 62 yards in eight plays, the score made by fullback Johnny Johnson on a one-yard plunge. End Dave Johnson caught the two-point conversion thrown by quarterback Rand Carter.

The Bears finished the afternoon's scoring, going 43 yards after an abortive on-side-kick attempt. Nelson punched over from the one-yard line.

Tribe Holds Off Several TD Threats

By HAL WOOD

STANFORD (UPI)—Stanford's stone-wall defense smothered Michigan State's vaunted offense Saturday and the Indians struck from far out to upset the favored Spartans, 16-13. It was MSU's first loss to a West Coast team in 13 years.

Favored to win by 13 points, Michigan State was held in check by the 230-pound line, plus great performance by linebacker Ed Cummings who was credited with 25 tackles or assists.

The two Spartan touchdowns came on freak plays and in baseball would be considered "unearned."

* * * *

THE FIRST was set up when two punts, one by Michigan State and a return punt by Stanford, both bounced straight up in the air and refused to roll at all. This resulted in giving the Spartans the ball on the Stanford 29 in the opening period.

STATISTICS

	Stanford	MSU

Punts	7-35.29	4-30.75
Fumbles lost	1	2

Following a 15-yard penalty, fullback George Saimes pounded over from the two to score.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, Stanford's offensive clicked with the long gainers. The Indians got a score at the start of the second period set up by a toss from quarterback Steve Thurlow to end Bob Howard that was good for 37 yards and put the ball on the one.

From there Tony Delellis punched his way through the line.

Midway in the same period the Indians rolled down the field again, this time the big gainer being a screen pass from Thurlow to J.D. Lodato for 42 yards to the Michigan State six. When the offense stalled, Stan Lindskog kicked a 24-yard field goal to give the Indians a 10-7 halftime margin.

* * * *

THE OTHER Stanford score came in the third quarter when sophomore halfback Johnnie Paye took a pitchout from Thurlow and zigzagged his way 33 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown.

Michigan State did make several powerful drives down the field during the game, but the great Stanford defensive line stopped these pushes on the 12, 4 and 13-yard lines.

the ball over to the 49ers. Andrews returned Carl Agbulos' punt 16 yards to Sacramento's 42.

With time rapidly running out, Wayne Mickaelian gained one, Bennett threw incomplete and Gene Williams ripped off 13. Gene was held for no gain and then Bennett fired a pass to Rex Burrell but officials detected Bob Lazard wrapping his paws around the 49ers' left end too soon and awarded Long Beach a first down via the pass interference on Sacramento's 21. With only a second left, Turrill went into the game and boomed his all-important second three-pointer.

Long Beach heroes were a dime a dozen. LBSC's fierce line play was led by Captain Gene Farrell and Reed, Marty Johnson, Montgomery, Joe Costanza, who intercepted a pass to kill a last-ditch Hornet rally, Darryl Wright, Dwayne Robinson, Roger Zink and Don Crosby.

Turrill, who has scored 53 points in three years—all but six resulting from his right toe—was another giant in the 49er attack.

Perhaps the most heralded performance was turned in by a little halfback who wasn't even listed on LBSC's "three-deep" at the beginning of the season.

Gordy Fitzel, a fourth-string left halfback, did all of the punting for the ailing Turrill and for the night average 35.6 on seven punts. Fitzel carried the ball twice last year in his only service prior to this game.

Dee Andrews was LBSC's chief workhorse, packing the ball 15 times for 36 net yards. Mickaelian powered for 50 on 9 tries, while Gene Williams added 15 more to the ground game which netted 119 yards.

LBCC 36, NMMI 0—Williams intercepted a pass moments later and ran 49 yards to the New Mexico six. Two plays later he scored from the one with 25 seconds left in the half. Frank Mazzotta caught the PAT pass.

THIRD QUARTER

LBCC 42, NMMI 0—Reserves took over in the third period and sharp passing by Jim Dunn set the seventh LBCC TD. Dunn hit Ed Pridy and Mazzotta for key passes in the march which covered 39 yards in seven plays. Rich Croson caught a pass from Dunn for 13 yards and the TD with 10:20 left.

FOURTH QUARTER

LBCC 42, NMMI 6 — New Mexico consumed a lot of time in the fourth quarter but finally got on the scoreboard when it traveled 81 yards in 14 plays, mainly on the ground. Tim Van Galder hit Ted Wright in the end zone from six yards out with 7:01 left.

Renfro Dazzles Utah, 35-8

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Mel Renfro dazed Utah with a 38-yard touchdown run the first time he carried the ball and scored later on bursts of 1 and 7 yards as Oregon routed the visiting Redskins 35-8 Saturday.

The speedy Webfoot junior, playing just a shade over two periods, amassed 120 yards on eight carries and set up a touchdown by recovering a fumble.

The Ducks, who manhandled powerful Texas for more than two periods last week, rolled up 491 yards and 21 first downs against outclassed Utah.

Renfro's first score, with the game just two minutes old, capped an 81-yard drive after the opening kickoff. Moments later, he skipped over right tackle and raced 59 yards before a desperation push sent him sprawling.

Two fumbles and a pass interception slowed the Webfoots in the first half, but they scored twice in the final three minutes of the second period on drives of 74 and 78 yards.

Record for Campbell in 21-15 Cougar Win

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Hugh Campbell, Washington State's All-America end candidate, set a national pass completion record Saturday as the Cougars defeated Wyoming 21-15 in an intersectional football game.

Campbell, 180-pound senior from Saratoga, Calif., caught seven passes for 110 yards to break one national record and tie another. He boosted his total yardage for a three-year career to 1,769 yards, breaking a record held by Ed Barker of Washington State of 1,699 yards set from 1950-52.

WYNN

Man to Man

DRYSDALE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This interview with Don Drysdale was held Friday, and written on the premise that the Dodgers will be playing in the World Series. The premise was that of the writer, not Drysdale. Still holding fast to that premise, here goes . . .

By JERRY WYNN

On Wednesday the first pitch of the 1962 World Series appropriately will be delivered by the No. 1 pitcher in baseball, Don Drysdale of the Dodgers.

His imposing presence, his savage determination and his wicked fast ball have brought fear to the hearts of enemy batters and 25 victories and a pennant to the Dodgers.

Wednesday, Drysdale will have the lead role in baseball's biggest show, and Dodger hopes will be riding squarely on his long right arm. It will be a stirring climax to his greatest season.

Will you have goose-pimples, Don, before you throw that first pitch?

"Anybody does who gets a chance to play in a World Series. There's a different atmosphere in the stands and on the field, and it's only natural to be a little nervous. If you aren't, there's something wrong."

Is playing the World Series in the first year at Dodger Stadium a dream come true?

"I don't know if I'd put it that way, but it is an awfully wonderful thing. Mr. O'Malley has built a beautiful park and the attendance has been tremendous. It would be a shame if there wasn't a Series here."

Do you feel the Yankees are as good a club as the Giants or other National League teams you had to beat to win the pennant?

"Definitely. The Yankees are a great club. They can explode and come from behind at any time with their hitting. They've got good speed, good defense, good enough pitching. A Series will help their pitching because they can come back with their starters Ford, Terry and Stafford after the days off for traveling."

Which Yankee batter has given you the most trouble?

"I've actually been pretty lucky against them in spring training, World Series and All-Star games. Blanchard got a couple of hits off me this spring, and Berra hit a home run off me in the 1959 All-Star Game. But that's been about it. Knock on wood."

How do you pitch to Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris?

"You've got to move the ball around against those strong fellows. Mantle is a better low ball hitter and Maris is dangerous any time. You've just got to try to set them up, and come in with your "out" pitch whatever that is during the game."

Do you feel the impetus of coming from a tough pennant fight into the Series will benefit the Dodgers?

"I don't think so. I'd just as soon have seen us clinch it a couple of weeks ago. Just the name of the World Series and to know you are in it is enough inspiration."

If you had to vote for the National League's most valuable player, who would you pick?

"Tommy Davis. Day in and day out, he's played great ball. If you would check the records for the number of times he's come through in two-out situations, it would be unbelievable. Of course, it's real close between him and Wills. But without thinking, I'd say Davis right away.

Has there been one major reason for your great success this season?

"No, it's been a combination of three things and not in any order. 1. A loss of weight, about 15 pounds; 2. the move to the good ballpark here where I can get in a groove and throw the same way I do on the road; 3. the club has played good ball behind me and scored runs. That's all a pitcher can ask for."

What has been your greatest thrill in baseball?

"Gosh, that's tough. I'd have to break it down into two categories. Personally, it would be being named the most valuable player in the 1959 All-Star game and also winning 25 this year. As a Dodger, it would be winning the World Series in 1959."

Who's going to win the 1962 World Series?

"I'd go with us. I think we'll win but it should be close and go six or seven games."

In that case it's the best bet since Sonny Liston that the Yankees will be seeing plenty of Don Drysdale.

SZYKOWNY'S PASSES DECISIVE

Iowa Throttles OSU, 28-8

IOWA CITY (UPI) — Iowa's Matt Szykowny, operating out of the new "floater" formation, passed for three touchdowns Saturday and the Hawkeyes went on to win their ninth straight opening game by drubbing Oregon State, 28-8.

An estimated 54,000 fans watched Szykowny win a passing duel with Oregon State quarterback Terry Baker, who was hounded by Iowa's hard-charging linemen throughout the game.

Szykowny pitched scoring passes of 4, 36 and 14 yards to three different receivers and added two extra points by kicking and another on a pass to lead the Hawkeyes.

The new "Floater T" formation installed by coach Jerry Burns to prevent opponents from ganging up on junior end Cloyd Webb and Iowa's speedy halfbacks, succeeded in spreading Oregon State's air defense.

Only one of the scoring passes, a 36-yarder to Paul Krause, in the second quarter, was caught by a "floater," who lines up outside either end. But Szykowny hit right halfback Lonnie Rogers with a four-yarder in the first quarter and tossed a 14-yard pass to Webb in the third quarter to wrap up his day.

Fullback Bill Perkins scored Iowa's first touchdown on a 1-yard smash with less than seven minutes gone in the first quarter.

Oregon State was not able to score until only five seconds remained in the game. Third string quarterback Gordon Queen flipped a nine-yard pass to right end Len Frketich for the score and then tossed another pass to end Scott Miller for the two-point conversion.

Oregon State twice penetrated inside in the Iowa 20-yard line earlier, but could not push the ball any further against the Iowa team, which outweighed the visitors by about 18 pounds a man.

Iowa rolled up 422 yards, 259 on the ground and 163 in the air. Oregon State managed only 207 yards—gaining 215 through the air but ending up with a minus eight on the ground.

Halt Late TD Drive, Win 13-7

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Notre Dame beat off a pair of late Oklahoma challenges here Saturday and defeated the Sooners 13-7 in a nationally televised football game.

The Sooners drove to a first down on the Notre Dame three-yard line late in the fourth quarter but the fighting Irish yielded only two yards before quarterback Monte Deere's fourth-down pitchout was wild. Notre Dame recovered on the 12.

But the Irish gave the Sooners another chance a minute later when quarterback Daryle Lamonica fumbled and end John Flynn recovered on the Notre Dame 30.

Lamonica redeemed himself quickly, picking off Norman Smith's first down pass at the 15.

NOTRE DAME drove for touchdowns after receiving the opening and second-half kickoffs.

Halfback Ed Rutkowski capped the 69-yard opening drive with a burst into the end zone from the seven. Rutowski also kicked the extra point.

The Irish gave Oklahoma a lesson in ball control after receiving the second-half kickoff, using 11 minutes and 35 seconds to go 89 yards.

Fullback Bill Ahern scored the clincher from the nine-yard line but Rutkowski's kick was wide to give Oklahoma hope.

Halfback Paul Lea scored Oklahoma's touchdown on a one-yard plunge seconds before the first quarter ended. Lea's touchdown came at the end of a 58-yard drive.

Wolverines Upset, 25-13

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Underdog Nebraska unveiled a core of quick backs and ailing Bill (Thunder) Thornton's power Saturday and upset butterfingered, sluggish Michigan 25-13.

The Cornhuskers, with Dennis Stuewe and Dennis Claridge providing menacing speed to supplement Thornton's power, seized command in its second quarter.

Michigan's rebuilt defense couldn't cope with Nebraska's ground offense in the first meeting between the schools in 45 years. And, with Claridge mixing in an occasional pass on vital situations, the Wolverine defenders fell apart.

Michigan's slow-moving offense was hampered when its receivers dropped six well-thrown passes.

Thornton cracked over from the one early in the third period, sending Nebraska into a 13-6 lead. Thornton later barrelled 16 yards for Nebraska's final touchdown in the last quarter.

The Cornhuskers took a 19-6 lead into the final period, permitted Michigan a touchdown and counter-attacked with one of its own.

* * * *

NEBRASKA took advantage of two breaks to step into its big lead. Early in the third quarter a drive was stopped at midfield, but a Michigan offside gave Nebraska a first down.

Halfback Dave Theisen passed 30 yards to Jim Huge, who grabbed the ball away from three defenders at the 15. Thornton went in from the one four plays later.

BADGERS ROMP TO 69-13 WIN

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin overwhelmed outclassed New Mexico State Saturday, 69-13, using 61 players to rack up a modern school scoring record before 40,495 fans.

Wisconsin coach Milt Bruhn went so deep into his reserves that only two players in uniform failed to get on the field and some players were not listed on the roster. Nine quarterbacks saw action for Wisconsin.

It was the biggest point total by the Badgers since they defeated Marquette, 85-0, in 1915 and the seventh highest scoring total ever for Wisconsin.

Wisconsin got the breaks and it made the most of them.

GOPHER THREATS HALTED

Stubborn Missouri Ties Minnesota, 0-0

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Missouri, unimpressed by tales of Minnesota football muscle, survived two deep Gopher penetrations and a last-second passing thrust and tied the 1962 Rose Bowl champions 0-0 in an intersectional clash Saturday.

The Tiger line, anchored by workhorse end Conrad Hitchler and center Jimmie Vermillion, withstood constant pounding by Gopher backs Bill Munsey and Jerry Jones, who moved to the Tiger one and two-yard lines in the first half.

The Gophers launched a desperation passing attack in the closing seconds and moved to within field-goal range but a final pass by Duane Blaska was intercepted by Vince Turner on the Missouri two to seal the score.

The Gophers controlled the ball nearly three-fourths of the game but were unable to crash over the goal line.

Minnesota, its attack greatly weakened by graduation of All-America quarterback Sandy Stephens, got its first chance late in the opening period when Paul Benson recovered a fumble on the Missouri 21. The Big Ten warriors pushed to the Tiger two, where the drive sputtered.

Again in the second period Minnesota launched a drive, moving from its own 11 to the Missouri one before the battered Missouri line stifled the attack.

Missouri's best offensive display came in the third period when left-handed quarterback Jim Johnson fired a 55-yard aerial to Bill Tobin. The play carried the Tigers to the Minnesota 30, where the experienced Gopher line slammed the door.

* * * *

MINNESOTA gained 139 yards rushing to Missouri's 94 and had 13 first downs to the Tigers' seven. The Gophers also outgained Missouri in the air, 106 yards to 71 yards.

The game was witnessed by 60,133 fans who turned out for the Gophers' 1962 opener.

Ohio State Rolls Unchecked, 41-7

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Quick-hitting Ohio State opened its bid for the national football championship Saturday with a convincing 41-7 victory over North Carolina before a record Ohio Stadium crowd of 84,009 persons.

Rangy quarterback John Mummey skillfully guided the Buckeyes to the largest opening-day score since 1945 while passing for one touchdown and running for another.

The 198-pound, six-foot former fullback kept the Tarheel defense off balance while mixing his ground and aerial attack and his powerful running on the optional pass or run play.

The Buckeyes of coach Woody Hayes scored the first two times they got the ball, but their offense sputtered temporarily before unleashing a 27-point barrage in the second half.

The record throng, which passed the previous top of 83,795 at the Iowa game here last season, saw the veteran Buckeye offense roll into high gear in the second half as junior halfback Paul Warfield scored twice. He electrified the crowd with an over the shoulder catch of a 42-yard pass from Mummey for a touchdown and scored again with a four-yard sweep around right end.

'Rig' Elated; Angels Cinch Third Place

By ROSS NEWHAN
I-P-T Staff Writer

CLEVELAND—Third place and a dime might only get you a cup of coffee in most American League cities, but if you wear a halo on your hat you were entitled to a magnum of champagne Saturday night.

ANGEL OF DAY

BILL RIGNEY managed team to third place in American League as Seraphs won first game of twin bill.

Completing one of baseball's most exciting Horatio Alger stories, the two-year old Angels clinched third place by defeating Cleveland, 4-1, in the first game of a doubleheader.

The victory alone did not wrap up the heavenly position for the Angels. It was not until the Yankees rallied in the ninth to defeat Chicago that third place was assured.

The Angels learned they were "in" during the first inning of the nightcap, leading manager-of-the-year Bill Rigney to flood his lineup with reserves and bringing about a 5-1 setback. Now, however, the loss affected no one but the bookies and Bob Botz record.

* * * *

"THIRD place," smiled Rigney after the Angels had clinched a tie in the opener. "That's not bad. But we're not going to be satisfied with a tie. Let's take all the loot home ourselves."

Rigney then wrote down the lineup which had captured the first game, but two innings into the nightcap you couldn't tell the players without a program.

"I didn't know how to manage that second game," said the tired, but happy skipper. "I tried to sit down, but as usual I ended up on the top step of the dugout. I thought we should put a little icing on the 86 wins."

Rigney said he had been proud of the Angels' 70 victories last season, but the third place finish topped his managerial career.

* * * *

"ANGEL fans can well be proud of this team," said Rigney, "and I'm sure they have much to look forward to. Don't forget, this team is getting younger, not older. The youngsters have learned a lot this year—the pressures of first place, of winning streaks, of losing streaks. They came through it all with few mistakes. They made an indentation on the American League and with what they've learned this season they should make a lot more noise next year. There is only one phase of the game in which I can't ask them for anything more. That's desire, they've got all of that they need."

The third place clinching-victory went to, of all people, Bo Belinsky. Making his last bid to stick with the Angels an impressive one, Bo gained his 10th victory against 11 defeats with help from Dean Chance's seventh save.

Belinsky fanned nine in five and one-third innings before giving way to Chance in the sixth after Cleveland had notched its lone run. With two men on base, Chance came on to fan Jerry Kindall and Dick Donovan and proceeded to strike out three more during the next three frames to give the Angels a one-game season high of 14.

* * * *

THE ANGELS handed Donovan his 10th defeat against 20 wins with a 12-hit attack. Felix Torres' single drove home the first two Angel runs in the second. Leon Wagner produced the third and his 107th RBI with a sixth-inning single. And Lee Thomas collected his 104th RBI with a seventh-inning single.

Walter Bond's two home runs highlighted Cleveland's second-game victory, but two unearned runs were of no help to Botz, who picked up his first major league defeat.

Torres' 11th home run deprived Jim Grant (7-10) of a shutout.

ANGEL ANGLES: Some 30 Angels, including Rigney and four coaches, will split full shares of the third place loot . . . A full share undoubtedly will be voted Art Fowler, who will probably be given another crack at his bullpen chair next spring.

Many Angels will leave immediately following today's doubleheader for their homes—especially those living in the West . . . Tom Satriano will go to Fort Ord and six months active duty with the Army . . . The youngster will miss most of spring training . . . He was the leading candidate for the third base job next season.

[illegible] Rigney's second game [illegible] was the insertion of Ken Hunt at first base . . . sidelined most of the season with a dislocated shoulder, [illegible] has been working at [illegible] in an effort to get his arm back in shape . . . Confidentially, Hunt will tell you he'd like to play third.

Dick Simpson replaced Wagner in the second inning of the nightcap, giving the Angels' HR and RBI king a rest after he had appeared in all 160 of the Cherubs' contests . . . "Daddy Wags" is the lone Angel to play in every game.

The Angels are expected to arrive at the American Airlines terminal at International Airport at 9 p.m. this evening . . . They're not scheduled again until mid-February.

'TAKEN BEATING IN BASEBALL'

Reds' Robbie to Retire

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson, the Cincinnati Reds' slugging rightfielder, said Saturday he plans to retire from baseball after the Reds' 1962 season ends today.

But the 27-year-old baseball star added, "This does not mean I'm turning my back on baseball for good."

"I'm doing it for physical reasons," Robinson said. "It's the physical beating I've taken playing baseball. It keeps adding up—my back, my knee, getting hit with pitched balls. It's not just a decision I made overnight."

Robinson said he had no grievance against the team and there was nothing personal about his decision to leave the Reds.

Asked if he might change his mind, Robinson said:

"Well, if the Reds made me an offer I just couldn't refuse, I'd be awful crazy to turn my back on baseball completely."

Robinson who was named the National League's most valuable player of the year in 1961, said he is getting around $40,000 a year now.

He said he could expect a substantial raise from the Reds for his performance this year and conceded the offers might go as high as $65,000.

"It would have to be much more than that to make me reconsider," he added and said he had not decided what he will do if he does leave baseball.

"That's just something I'll have to start looking into soon," he said.

Bill DeWitt, the Reds' general manager, said he had heard Robinson planned to quit.

"Robinson is free and over 21. He can do what he wants," DeWitt said.

Robinson, a product of the Reds' farm system, is now in his seventh season with the Cincinnati team. As of Saturday, he was second in National League batting with a .340 average and had 39 homers and 135 runs batted in.

Howard Miscue Nets Card Win

WITH ONE out in the second inning, Charley James singled to center and Gene Oliver flied to Howard. So did Maxvill, but Howard lost the ball as he crossed the foul line after a long run. James scored from first, Maxvill wound up at third and trotted home on Broglio's line drive single to center.

The Dodgers failed to take advantage when the Cardinal defense reciprocated in the same inning. With one away, Moon singled and Willie Davis was safe on second baseman Julian Javier's error. Drysdale looked at a third strike and Maury Wills flied out to end the inning.

* * * *

BROGLIO (12-9) retired 17 Dodgers in a row after Javier's error and Drysdale set down 14 of the last 15 Cardinals he faced until he was lifted for a hitter in the eighth. W. Davis finally broke Broglio's spell by walking on five pitches to start the eighth. It wasn't much of a rally. Ron Fairly, benched because he had only an infield hit to show for his last 30 official appearances, was Drysdale's standin and fanned. Wills also went down swinging and Jim Gilliam grounded out.

* * * *

THE DODGERS had one more chance when Snider started the ninth by drawing Broglio's second walk. Tommy Davis and Howard, the two RBI leaders, had a last whack, but Tommy flied out and Howard hit into the DP.

Some clutch pitching by Drysdale and Ed Roebuck held down the score. The Cardinals stranded nine men, three in the ninth when Larry Sherry walked the bases full. They also had three aboard with none out in the third, but Ken Boyer bounced into a double play and James grounded out.

Against the left-handed Simmons, Alston will use Lee Walls at first base and Andy Carey at third. "I'll use any one (pitchers) to win it. I won't be thinking at all about a playoff game. We'll go for broke."

Pitt Breezes Past Baylor; Texas, Houston Triumph

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Quarterbacks Jim Traficant and Fred Mazurek directed Pittsburgh's powerful Panthers to a methodical 24-14 non-conference victory over Baylor's Golden Bears Saturday night.

Never trailing, Mazurek passed two yards to William Howley for one touchdown, Richard Leeson sped six yards for another, Paul Martha wheeled 18 yards for a third and Leeson added a 26-yard field goal and three extra points.

Quarterback Don Trull figured prominently in both Baylor touchdowns, passing five yards to end James Ingram for the first and eight yards to halfback Lawrence Elkins for the second.

LEESON'S field goal came in the third period to cushion the Pitt lead at 17-7 and the Panthers wrapped it up in the same stanza when Martha, on a double reverse, galloped 18 yards for the final score.

DUKE FORGES BACK LATE FOR 21-8 WIN

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Duke's Blue Devils, stymied for two periods, uncorked a vicious second-half punch to defeat South Carolina, 21-8, Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A crowd of 24,500 saw Duke step from a defensive first half and shake halfback Bill Futrell loose for 14 yards and a third-period touchdown. Duke rammed 77 yards for a fourth period touchdown and the Blue Devils scored again on a 61-yard fourth-period drive.

Last-Period Drive Trips Up A&M, 6-3

HOUSTON (UPI) — The University of Houston drove 80 yards in four plays in the last three and one-half minutes Saturday night to beat the Texas Aggies, 6-3.

The Cougars, who had failed during three quarters to get within the Texas A&M 25-yard line, suddenly came to life with a 62-yard pass from quarterback Billy Roland to halfback Gene Ritch, who was brought down on the Aggie 18.

Roland then flipped a nine-yard pass to end Milt Perkins. An offside penalty gave the Cougars the ball on the three, where halfback Joe Lopasky took it over for the score.

* * * *

THE AGGIES led 3-0 at the half after kicking specialist Mike Clark booted a 31-yard field goal in the second quarter.

The field goal was the aftermath of a stalled Aggie drive that began on their own 27. Quarterback Jim Keller pitched passes of 14 and 19 yards to help carry the Aggies to the Cougar 17 where the Houston team held. Clark then kicked the field goal.

Longhorns Coast Over Tech, 34-0

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Rambling Ray Poage scored two first-half touchdowns Saturday night and the Texas Longhorns coasted home with a 34-0 Southwest Conference opening victory over Texas Tech.

The 205-pound senior fullback climaxed a 48-yard first period drive with a 10-yard plunge over the middle and added a second-quarter one-yard blast for the nationally third-ranked Longhorns.

Poage, playing with an injured shoulder, provided crucial yardage throughout the night. But halfback Jerry Cook, quarterback Tommy Wade and halfback Hix Green added the other tallies in the last quarter.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Billy Moore dovetailed a 90-yard touchdown run into what was pretty much a one-man passing show Saturday as the Arkansas Razorbacks swamped Tulsa, 42-14, in football.

Moore's long scoring gallop game in the third period after his uncanny passing had set up all three of the Razorbacks first-half touchdowns.

MIAMI (AP)—Lanky George Mira passed and ran Miami to a tight 21-20 victory over Texas Christian Saturday night in a see-saw battle between two football giants in the Orange Bowl.

The 6-foot, 175-pound junior from Key West passed for two touchdowns and ran three yards to score another and beat the rugged Texans in the final quarter.

With the towering Sonny Gibbs quarterbacking, the Texans matched the Hurricanes with touchdowns in the first and second quarters. They battled on even terms through the third but Mira pulled it out in the fourth with a 32-yard run and a spectacular catch of a Mira pass by Ben Rizzo, good for 12 yards and the final Miami touchdown.

22-21 Win by Auburn Against Vols

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Sidle riddled a porous Tennessee pass defense Saturday and sent bullish halfback Larry Laster in for two vital touchdowns to lead Auburn to a pulsating 22-21 football upset.

Tennessee, opportunists as always, turned two breaks into a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but Sidle and his sophomore cronies, Bucky Waid and David Rawson, sparked a furious Auburn rally that was almost a carbon copy of last year's 24-21 Auburn victory at Knoxville.

A 27-yard field goal by specialist Woody Woodall in the second quarter turned out to be the vital points, but the show belonged to Sidle and his pin-point passing accuracy. He threw six yards to end Howard Simpson for one score and sent the fierce Laster in for the other two and the victory.

Missed PAT Costly to LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Walter McReynolds, passing with skill, led underdog Rice to a 6-6 deadlock with nationally ranked Louisiana State here Saturday night.

The 19-year-old Galveston, Tex., product riddled the fabled LSU defense with his aerials. He clicked on 13 of 23 passes for 179 yards. Only one pass was intercepted.

The Rice touchdown came on a 30-yard toss from McReynolds to sophomore tailback Gene Fleming.

LSU almost pulled the game out of the fire in the final two minutes but sophomore halfback Danny LeBlanc fumbled on the Rice 8 after catching a pass from Lynn Amedee. The drive was set up by a 39-yard pass play from Amedee to All-America candidate Jerry Stovall.

It's '7 Come 11' for Sahara Tourney

LAS VEGAS—Prize money for next year's Hotel Sahara Invitational golf tournament not only will be the third largest purse on the PGA tour, but the most unusual.

It undoubtedly will be referred to as the "Lucky Seven" tournament what with the prize money being $77,777.77. Making it a real 7-11 combination is fact it will mark the 11th anniversary of the plush Hotel Sahara.

BOB ROSBURG
Cold Clubs, Hot Score

The event has been scheduled for Oct. 11 and will be the "pot of golf" at the end of the Western Golf Sponsors' "Rainbow," which offers bonuses of $19,000 to the top overall finishers in the five big western fall tournaments at Denver, Seattle, Portland, Bakersfield and Las Vegas.

One of the "Classic" items on the tour in recent weeks was the announcement that Tommy Bolt is suing his wife for divorce.

Tommy is charging, of all things, that "she is ill-tempered."

Meanwhile, the "Tommy Bolt of Australia," Bruce Crampton, has left the tour to go home to Sydney for a short visit before returning to the tour in the Los Angeles Open next January.

Bruce, a club-thrower the equal of Bolt, once was barred from a couple of major tournaments in Australia for tossing clubs.

He has done a better job of curbing his temper over here. In fact, his longest "throw" to date has been only about 20 feet . . . a distance Tommy can reach with no backswing.

Since Bruce failed to maim anyone with his throw, the incident went unnoticed and he escaped a fine from the PGA.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for a golfer to switch putters or try out some other new club and still do well in a tournament.

But no golfer has ever made such a drastic change and got such startling results as did Bob Rosburg in the third round of the recent American Golf Classic at Akron.

Rosburg, who is close up in the Hotel Sahara Invitational being played here, was so disgusted after shooting 74-78 in the first two rounds at Akron that he packed up every one of his clubs but his driver and shipped them home.

Then he reclaimed a set of clubs he had never used and had loaned to Dave Hill, bought a "Bulls-Eye" putter, a type he had never used, and went to work.

All he did was tie the course record with a 33-32—65 despite landing in eight traps . . . with the one club he kept—the driver.

PRO GOLF'S LEADING "money-loser" for 1962 was the little pro from London, Mike Wolveridge, who just completed his first PGA tour.

Almost everyone on a PGA makes a little something . . . but Mike astonished the bookkeepers by playing 31 tournaments without winning a single cent.

Not only that, during his stay in this country, Mike lost a $200 check while posing for pictures, collected three speeding tickets, and was out $900 for an accident caused by driving on the wrong (British) side of the road.

KEN VENTURI HIT ONE of the most unusual "trick shots" of the year recently when his tee shot bounced into the pocket of Bud Eaton playing in the threesome in front of him.

Bewildered, Eaton wondered what to do about it.

"Keep walking, Bud, keep walking towards the green," Ken said with a chuckle.

THE HUGE GALLERIES which follow Arnie Palmer, of course, have become known as "Arnie's Army." But the Navy got into the act, the past week.

A commander at the Navy recruiting station in Portland presented Jack Nicklaus, who has been drawing tremendous crowds in the past two months, with a plaque which proclaimed that "the gallery of supporters that follow Jack Nicklaus may and should be called 'Nicklaus' Navy."

Incidentally, a secluded corner of the locker room at one of the recent tournaments was nicknamed "poverty row" by the touring pros.

Side by side were lockers bearing the names of Palmer, Nicklaus and Player.

Army's Defense Stops Syracuse

NEW YORK (UPI)—Army's football forces capitalized with toe and arm on two second-period fumbles and then threw a rock-ribbed defense to topple Syracuse, 9-2 before a crowd of 29,500 at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

Dick Heydt kicked a 20-yard field goal and Cammy Lewis hit Bob Bedell with a 32-yard touchdown pass to make those fumbles pay off. The Cadets then completely contained Syracuse except for one aborted drive as the half ended and relinquished a safety when Cadet Ken Waldrop caught a punt on the one-yard line and was dropped in the end zone by Gene Stancin.

Syracuse drove 53 yards to the Army 17 in making its only major bid but center Lee Grasfeder intercepted on the seven-yard line in a game slowed by numerous penalties.

Penn State Overcomes A.F., 20-6

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State's fourth ranked Nittany Lions finally came alive in the second half Saturday to down a fired-up Air Force Academy 20-6 for their second straight football victory over a service academy.

The Lions beat Navy 41-7 last week.

The Nittany Lions, billed as the top college power in the East, led by only one point at halftime, but quarterback Pete Liske fired two touchdown passes to halfback Roger Kochman in the final 30 minutes to break the game open.

The second scoring pass covered 15 yards while the first was for 3.

Kochman sparked the Lions second period comeback, grinding out 30 yards on the ground, and grabbing four passes for another 37.

Middies Nip Wm. & Mary

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy staved off a William and Mary scoring threat late in the fourth quarter Saturday and escaped with a 20-16 football victory over the underdog Indians.

The Middies, favored by more than three touchdowns, mustered a 78-yard scoring drive in the final period with sophomore fullback Pat Donnelly going over from the three for the margin of victory.

It was Donnelly's second scoring play of the day. He took a 18-yard pass from Ron Klemick and raced 36 yards with it to give Navy a 13-3 lead in the second period.

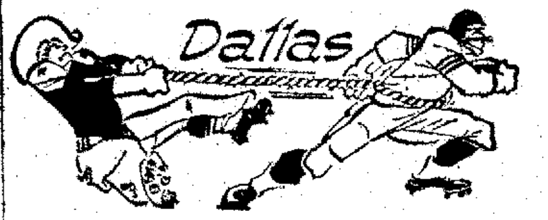
Bratkowski, LeBaron Duel in 'Frustration Bowl' Tilt

By JERRY WYNN

Like a Republican candidate scenting victory in Georgia, the Rams and Dallas Cowboys will be snorting at each other on the Coliseum battleground today. Action begins at 1:35 p.m. and a crowd of 35,000 is expected to watch this version of the National Football League Frustration Bowl.



For a matter of four more points, Dallas would have a record of 2-0 instead of 0-1-1; for a matter of two less fumbles, the Rams probably would be 2-0 instead of 0-2.

Then there are the statistics.

Only three teams have gained more than 750 yards in the two league games, and they aren't the Packers, Browns and Colts. Dallas is leading in total offense with 834 yards; Detroit is second with 819 and the Rams third with 771.

* * * *

BUT COWBOY coach Tom Landry and Ram skipper Bob Waterfield would trade all the fancy statistics for a modest "1" in the win column.

The Rams are rated an 11-point favorite today, but three points would be a more accurate measure. The Rams will be without stars Jon Arnett and Art Hunter, and there is a definite question of the team's ability to be "up" for the Cowboys after the biting losses to the Colts and Bears.

WYNN'S WINNER
Rams 38, Cowboys 31

Quarterback Zeke Bratowski will be on the spot. Castigated by Waterfield for his play-selection last week, The Brat will have to redeem himself today or face competition for his job from bench-warming rookies Ron Miller and Roman Gabriel.

* * * *

WITH DON Meredith probably sidelined because of a sprained ankle, popular 10-year veteran Eddie LaBaron will quarterback the Cowboys.

The 5-7, 169-pound COP alumnus has found a fountain of youth in the Texas oil fields. In two games, he has completed 29 of 41 passes for 378 yards and a 70.8 percentage, and had a 99-yard touchdown pass nullified by a penalty last week.

LeBaron has excellent receivers in flanker Frank Clarke, who caught 10 passes in the first game; veteran star Bill Howton, who is knocking on the door of Don Hutson's all-time records, and Lee Folkins, who may be remembered for his sensational touchdown catch for Washington in the 1960 Rose Bowl Game.

* * * *

DALLAS ALSO has the runners. Don Perkins gained 108 yards against the tough Pittsburgh defense last week, causing Big Daddy Lipscomb of the Steelers to comment, "He really belts. He gave me trouble all day." And is there a more appropriate name for a fullback than the Cowboys' Amos (Forward) Marsh?

VALERY REPAIRS OWN SPIKES, SETS RECORD

MOSCOW (UPI) — Valery Brumel, Russia's world record-holding high jumper, surpassed his own standard Saturday when he leaped 2.27 meters (7 feet, 5¾ inches) in a pair of patched up shoes which he repaired himself at the last minute.

Brumel revealed after breaking his own world record of 2.26 meters (7 feet, 5 inches) that he discovered a hole in one of his spiked shoes just before the Moscow Institute of Physical Culture Meet at Lenin Stadium.

He took the spikes to a nearby shop but was told they didn't repair "special footwear," Brumel said.

"I wangled a piece of twine from them and somehow sewed up the hole myself. It seems I did a good job," he added. It was only the second time Brumel had worn the spikes.

Brumel set his previous world mark during the track meet between the United States and Russia at Stanford, Calif., last July 22.

SWEDISH SPRINT STAR IS KILLED

ALVESTA, Sweden (UPI)— Owe Jonsson, 21-year-old Swedish sprinter, was killed Saturday in a traffic accident between Alvesta and Gemla in southern Sweden.

Jonson was regarded as one of Sweden's greatest short-distance runners. In the European championships in Belgrade Sept. 6, he became European champion for 200 meters with a time of 20.7 seconds.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

What About Fish Counts?

Every month or so — thank heavens it's no oftener than that!—somebody wants me to take his "pass" and run for a touchdown through what he calls impolite boat crews, incorrect fish counts, irritating boat captains and landing operators who hear no evil, see no evil, but speak plenty of it.

This is nothing new. It happens every year when a customer takes a dislike to somebody in the sportsfishing industry and feels that he didn't get a fair trip for his money.

I have checked many complaints. Mostly, the squawk was made without cause. In a number of instances the unhappy customer was in his cups, or far worse, crawling out of a bottle.

However, there are times when the customer is right. Right to the extent that he has a legitimate reason for howling about the service he didn't get.

Even a landing operator will admit that occasionally a raw crew gets out of hand. When that happens the landing official usually fires the crew on the spot. It has happened twice this year on one boat.

Even if it means suspension of the boat's schedule for the next day or week, improper practices should not be allowed to exist.

WHEN ONE OBSERVES THE LOCAL sportsfishing scene as long as I have, he gets to know the operators in a very personal sort of way. Loose talk that landing officials allow illegal practices to take place on their boats is something that I can not swallow. I know them too well.

A landing can not survive if it continues to allow commercialism on sportsfishing boats. Any landing executive knows that and is prepared to fire a crew if necessary. The two types of fishing just do not mix.

Such a charge was a starter for this article. G.W.C. complained that he and his wife were pushed around by deckhands who were fishing strictly for themselves.

Not only that, but he said that he saw those same deckhands selling fish at a market and receiving money.

Also, he said, the galley girl told all anglers aboard not to pay any attention to the 10-fish limit on kelp bass. "Just put the extra ones in that can," she said, "We have to make extra money to live."

On another occasion, says the customer, the crew of the same boat permitted everybody to catch all the halibut they wanted, but made them limit themselves to two fish each when they left the boat. Dozens of halibut were left in sacks.

When such as this happens, it should be brought to the attention of the landing executives immediately. It not only is repulsive to the angler, but is absolutely illegal as regards captain, crew and even the fish market.

SPORTFISHING IN LONG BEACH is big business. It's a highly legitimate business, but fierce competition has caused it to run more often in the red than the black.

Expansion of facilities, high cost of labor and materials, extreme cruising distances to albacore schools, plus tremendous competition from other participating and spectator sports, plus those with TVitis—all have given the landing operators headaches in the last two years.

However, as always, I am saying good words for them and I hope that brighter days are in store. I'm also saying that if anybody suspects illegal sales by members of the crew, if he is the victim of abuse by that crew or the boat's captain, the place for a complaint is the landing office immediately after docking.

Nobody's going to throw rocks through your windshield for voicing a legitimate complaint. The landing official will appreciate your calling and he will tell you that. But be sure that you have a real complaint. Remember, those men are trying to earn livings just as you and I. Ask yourself if you'd like to trade places with the skipper of a live-bait boat or a member of the crew. I'd like to hear your answer.

NOW ABOUT THOSE FISH COUNTS! C.H. complains that every skipper in Long Beach, San Pedro, Newport Beach and Oceanside adds at least 100 albacore, 100 bonito or 100 of some other species each day to make the figures look good to the public. C.H. exempts San Diego; why, I don't know.

Years ago the fish count was a real problem. Skippers vying for business did pad their counts. I remember one meeting at which the skippers were cautioned about such a practice under penalty of losing tabulations in all daily publications.

Finally the Department of Fish and Game stepped in and demanded that accurate fish counts be posted with the DFG daily OR ELSE!

These newspapers have accepted and published fish counts daily under the heading FISHING FACTS. Undoubtedly, there have been slight inaccuracies, but I hardly feel that any landing operator now would permit skippers to pad the figures purposely. There is too much at stake.

In fact, Eddie McEwen, Pacific Landing executive, offers to wager $100 with C.H. on any boat any day of the year. If C.H. finds the count padded, Eddie will pay him $100 out of the crews' salaries. If not, C.H. will pay the crew $100 extra. I'll bet the crew would like that in these lean days of kelp bass, bonito, halibut, rockfish and small passenger lists.

to the way Willie started against the Mustangs last season when he went 93 yards on his first rush from scrimmage to set a new USC distance record.

This time it wasn't a record. It was three yards shy.

If the Mustangs were shocked, they didn't show it.

They came back with a crunching charge and stopped the first Trojan series without a first down. After Troy's punt, the Mustangs marched 53 yards in 12 plays and kicked a field goal from the 17. The kick was by fullback John Richey.

So after nine minutes it was 7-3.

The Mustangs kept crunching, too. They forced Troy into mistakes. First, the Trojans marched to the 15 where QB Bill Nelsen threw a hurried pass under pressure and it was intercepted at the 12.

After a 10-minute punting duel through the middle of the first half, the Trojans penetrated to the Mustang 25 but Kenny Del Conte fumbled and a Mustang pounced on it.

Troy finally put something together late in the half, going 79 yards to a touchdown. Willie got the march going with a 32-yard gain around right end behind a strong block from Larry Sagouspe that shook him loose down the sideline.

That got the ball across midfield. The next big play was a 15-yard pass completion from Pete Beathard to Bedsole to the 16. Then Beathard pulled a rollout that went 15 yards to the one. He injured his shoulder diving for the goal line and was replaced by Bill Nelsen who pushed it over on two sneaks. Beathard didn't return to the game but was reported not to be seriously injured.

SMU was offside on the PAT placement try so Troy tried a running play for two points from a yard and a half out but Brown's dive over the middle was inches short.

SMU came close to scoring before the half as Ken Del Conte fumbled on the Troy 25 in the final 10 seconds and the Mustangs threw a pass that got to the 15 at the gun.

The Trojans scored with six minutes gone in the third quarter when Nelsen rolled out and threw 25 yards to Bedsole on the goal line in a picture play. Then two minutes into the fourth period Bedsole jogged out for another pass and turned on the steam when the defender came up to cover him.

Bedsole left the defender far behind as he completed a 59-yard pass-run play by gathering in Nelsen's toss on the Mustang 20 and skipping over for the TD that made it 27-3.

Reserve quarterback Craig Fertig, who went into the game with only a few seconds of experience, engineered a 62-yard scoring drive in the closing stages as the Mustangs, who did not possess three units to alternate, showed obvious signs that they were pooped. Fertig got the TD from two yards out and another reserve QB, Tom Lupo, missed the PAT placement. Lupo had connected on three earlier tries.

KELSO GALLOPS FROM BEHIND, WINS EASILY

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, bucking for an unprecedented third straight horse-of-the-year title, came from eight lengths off the pace and won the $115,200 Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday.

The Bohemia Stables' five-year-old gelding, under Ismael Valenzuela, roared home 4½ lengths in front of George D. Widener's Jaipur. Mrs. Robert G. Dotter's Guadalcanal was third, another 6½ lengths back.

This was the third time Valenzuela has been up on Kelso and the third time the pair has come home in front. Kelso covered the mile and a quarter in 2:03⅕ and paid $3.80, $2.50 and $2.40.

Even though it appeared that Kelso was in a bad way when he permitted Beau Purple to open up an eight-length margin, the victory was easy once Valenzuela gave his mount the word to turn on the steam.

Valenzuela admitted he had a few uneasy moments when he took note of Beau Purple's wide margin.

"That horse got so far," he observed, "that I moved earlier than I expected. Then, when I got to him, Kelso was going so easy I just kept moving. I never hit him."

Notable II Captures Final-Day Feature

By ERNIE MASON

POMONA—A couple of old timers got together at Pomona Saturday afternoon and wrote 'finis' to the most successful Los Angeles County Fair race meeting of them all.

Notable II, a 7-year-old native of Argentina shocked the 20,032 closing-day fans by winning the $22,850 Pomona Handicap and the guy who rode him home was 39-year-old Wallace (Bud) Bailey, the man who in 1948 rode Terry Bargello to victory in the initial running of what is now the Pomona 'Cap.

In the mutuels Notable returned $30.80, $10.40 and $6.00, while Victory Beauty paid $5.40 and $4.00 and the third horse, Mr. Wag, rewarded $4.80 to show.

The final-day gathering of 20,032 brought the 14-day season total to an all-time record of 182,583 for a daily average of 13,041. Also a record was the 1962 total handle mark of $12,273,258.

GIANTS--

loaded the bases for the Giants in the second. Marichal gave himself a 2-1 lead by pushing a two-strike squeeze bunt single toward first base.

The Giant righthander walked two men in the third, but an intervening double play meant only one was aboard when Larker put the Colts ahead 3-2 with his ninth home run, a high fly near the right field foul pole.

Two singles sandwiched around an error produced another run and finished Marichal in the fifth inning.

Bruce erased the Giants' best late threat when he got Cepeda and Haller to fly to left with two on in the eighth.

Downey Poloists in Romp

By BRUCE YOUNG

Incomparable Downey High easily won the first Moore League water polo tournament Saturday with a 13-1 win over Lakewood in the Long Beach City College pool.

The Vikes, who whipped Jordan on Friday, 14-1, drubbed Wilson, 15-1, in the elimination game Saturday to reach the finals. Mike Sullivan was the goalie who allowed only three points in three matches.

Mike Bryant paced the well-balanced Downey attack both in the final game and for the tourney. He scored four goals against Lakewood and had 10 in three games.

* * * *

DOWNEY also won the Cee title, but Millikan upset the Vikes for the Bee Crown with a 6-5 win, the final goal in a sudden death overtime by Bruce Bradley.

Millikan won the varsity consolation title, beating Wilson, 6-1, on three goals by Ken Crilly and goalie Martin Douglas' fine work.

Spahn Top Lefty After 18th Win

Compiled From Wire Services

Harmon Killebrew, who leads the American League in home runs and runs-batted-in, added his 47th and 48th homers Saturday as the Minnesota Twins sewed up second place with an 8-4 win over Baltimore.

Killebrew, however, went into the record books for a different reason than his hitting. The big slugger set a major league record for strikeouts in a season when he fanned for the 142nd time.

Warren Spahn became the top left-handed pitcher in baseball as he pitched Milwaukee to a 7-3 victory over Pittsburgh. It was the stylish southpaw's 327th major league victory and 18th of the season. Tom Sisk, rookie from Long Beach, was the loser, giving up four runs in three innings.

Tom Tresh's three-run homer, his 20th of the year, paced the Yankees to an 8-6 win over the Chicago White Sox. Whitey Ford Jim Coates, Marshall Bridges and Bob Turley all worked for the Yanks in tuning up for the World Series. Turley got the victory.

NOW! YOU CAN LEARN . . .

SPANISH • FRENCH • GERMAN • ITALIAN • RUSSIAN AND ENGLISH FOR SPANISH - SPEAKING PEOPLE!

If you have ever wanted to learn a foreign language quickly and fluently, this is your chance. You learn a foreign language in the way we have all learned to speak—by listening to words and phrases, with the added advantage of being able to see and hear the words and phrases simultaneously.

Each of these language courses consist of four long-playing 10-inch hi-fi records (33⅓ RPM). You receive a handy conversational manual with each record. Through this modern record-teaching technique you can quickly become adept at Spanish, French, German, Italian, Russian, or English. You may find you want complete sets of several languages.

LOW COST OF $1⁰⁰ A RECORD

Are you a student, a traveler, a business man? The INDEPENDENT and PRESS-TELEGRAM is pleased to offer to every reader the opportunity to learn a foreign language that will assist in studies, travels abroad, or business. The speed-learning techniques incorporated in these language courses were pioneered and developed by teachers and educators to teach languages quickly to the armed forces during World War II. The recordings are made by educated natives of the countries whose languages you wish to learn! the conversational manuals have been approved by outstanding educators.

At the extraordinarily low price of $1.00 per record you may wish to get sets in several languages.

HERE'S HOW TO GET YOUR LANGUAGE RECORDS

Order as many records as you wish. Simply mail a SEPARATE order blank for EACH record, plus six differently numbered record coupons and one dollar for each record.

Record coupons will be published daily MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY on Page A-2 or B-2 of the Independent and Press-Telegram. Start saving coupons at any time—coupons do not have to be consecutively numbered.

Be sure to fill in your order blank completely. Check the language you want—then check the record in that series (1, 2, 3 or 4). Order as many records as you want, but each order must be accompanied by properly filled out order blank, six record coupons, and $1.00 per record.

RECORDS MAILED DIRECTLY TO YOU

All records will be MAILED DIRECTLY TO YOU. This service, postage, and tax are included in the low price of $1.00 per record.

With your order blank which appears in the right hand corner of this advertisement (and which will appear each day on Page A-2 or B-2), you attach SIX DIFFERENTLY NUMBERED RECORD COUPONS (coupons will appear every day on Page A-2 or B-2, also). Mail with $1.00 (cash, check or money order) for each record you order.

That's all there is to it! You'll find learning a foreign language, or improving your English, this way fun and fast. Your whole family can learn together. Plan now to take advantage of this special Reader Service of the Independent and Press-Telegram.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

New Gina Film Very Revealing

By EARL WILSON

ROME — Gina Lollobrigida goes naked in her next movie, "Imperial Venus."

"How did it happen?" I asked Gina and her husband, Dr. Milko Skofic — though I guess I shouldn't have been surprised, since everybody's doing it now.

"She just undressed in front of everybody," smiled Milko. "It is a scene in which she's posing for an artist. He doesn't seem to get inspired. She starts complaining of the heat and takes off her clothes. Then he gets inspired."

* * * *

GINA AND Milko told me about it out at their home on Appia Antica. This is the section that some day may be known as "the Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton country," because they had their homes near here back in the days of the Papparazzi, which, you remember, was one of the wild tribes of modern Rome.

We had left the Via Veneto, Doney's, and the tie shops of Barberini behind us and ventured out here at dusk. A big gate had opened to admit us. We walked into the well-lit home. A well-built girl in flesh-colored slacks greeted us.

In "Imperial Venus," her lover is young Stephen Boyd, and she's going to make "Crazy Sea," with the new French Humphrey Bogart, Jean-Paul Belmondo. Then there's one unreleased, "The Beauty of Hippolita," in which she plays, she says, "a blawnd."

"I only show my back to the camera," Gina said, finally, "when I have my clothes off."

Stores Showing Finest of Home Furnishings

Spanish Influence Noted in Furniture

By STELLA ROACH

Once again the home is becoming a status symbol. For many years it was the automobiles but the compacts have given Americans a different perspective about cars. Now, as in great grandma's day, the home is again being looked upon as a place or the thing that signals out a family's prosperity—not only prosperity money-wise but wealth in happiness and well-adjustment.

More Americans are investing their money in building better homes or improving the ones they already have and along with this goes the buying of better furnishings. The "second" home is another important status symbol. Many families now own vacation homes by the seaside, in the mountains or at the desert.

Women, more than men perhaps, concentrate on fashion for the home as well as for dress. What is fashionable for today's homes? Fortunately, there is a wide choice and a woman can easily select what she likes best and still have a fashionable home. For in today's world of interior design individuality plays an important role, regardless of what trends are strongest.

* * * *

IN SOUTHERN California there are a number of places and organizations — besides the smart furniture store — which keep a finger on the home furnishings pulse of the nation in general and this area in particular.

But the mecca of all trend-setting spots in this area is the 13-story Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart where 600 showrooms carry 2,200 lines of furniture, floor covering, lamps, fabrics, pictures, works of art and many other accessories. The mart is not open to the public — only retail furniture store dealers and buyers may enter its doors. But here one can see what is going on fashion-wise for the home and here, too, many a trend has been started.

Long Beach retail furniture stores now reflect many of the outstanding showings of the mart since the stores have purchased new stock for fall selling.

At the present, the Mediterranean influence is seen everywhere in home furnishings. A look at the map shows many countries bordering this famed sea so it is not amazing then to say that much of today's furniture and its accompanying accessories have the mood of many nations: France, Italy and Spain have the strongest influence but designers are also borrowing from Asia, Egypt and her neighbors, Greece and others.

* * * *

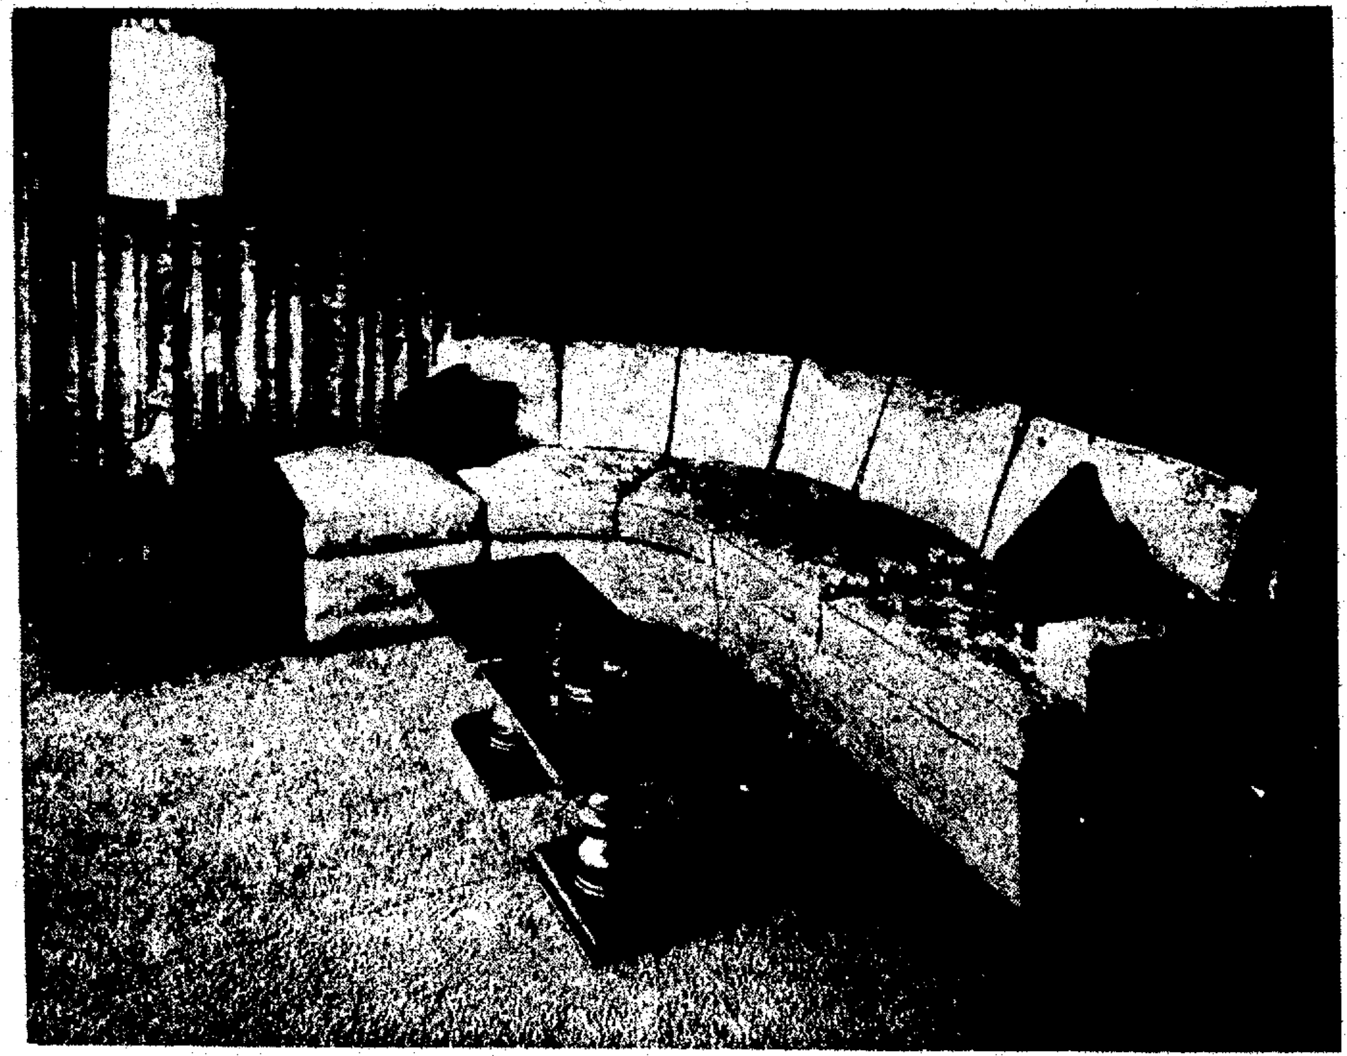
OF ALL the Mediterranean countries, however, the Spanish influence is the greatest, this is particularly true in Southern California. And this is easy to understand. After all, the early settlers here were Spanish and Mexican. Several beautiful lines of furniture are being imported from Mexico; several others in the Spanish motif are being made right here in California.

For several seasons French and Italian provincial have been popular and they continue to be. In recent months the French "court" type furniture has been shown more and more. As its name implies court furniture is more elegant than the provincial or country styles of French. This is all in line with the growing popularity of traditional furniture which for a while was so completely overshadowed by the contemporary styles.

* * * *

TRADITIONAL is back an it is back in a big way. The nation's First Lady, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, with her great program for restoring and refurbishing the White House has also rekindled interest in more formal furnishings. Contemporary is still high in favor but not as much as two or three years ago. The return to elegance perhaps has something to do with the decline in popularity of contemporary furniture which lends itself better to casual living. However, at the last market showings contemporary furniture was not as faddish as it has been heretofore: Warmth has been added to it.

A recent survey brought out this interesting fact: Many young couples prefer Early American while Senior Citizens are showing a definite leaning toward Contemporary. But no matter what the age, American couples are showing greater interest in their homes and what goes into them and well they should . . . there is no greater investment or no greater contribution toward a happy life than a lovely home.



SECTIONAL BRINGS ELEGANCE TO ROOM

This display of luxurious living room furnishings is found at Carl's Furniture. The suggestion of elegance is modified by the relative simplicity of the setting. The plush sectional is covered in off-white damask material. Two gold bunching tables provide a practical yet dignified addition to the group. A heavy antque gold chest beside the bumper end creates the proper balance required and the ornate lamp supplies the needed contrast to set off the attractive setting. This is just one of the dramatic room settings shown at Carl's, 1250 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Reeds Used Varied Ways

Oriental artistry with American comfort is on parade at leading furniture stores.

The excellent reed furniture displayed includes intricately wrought headboards, coffee tables, teacarts, chairs, dividers and some very interesting bar stools. Combined with exotic fabrics, rattan furnishings dramatically set the scene for casual living at beach or desert and are ideal for young couples seeking distinctive backgrounds on a limited budget.

Near Natural Colors Sought

"Bleached" woods do not necessarily indicate blond woods today. Some years ago, bleached to pale amber was the favored wood color.

Today color preference is for tones in the warm amber to deep rich brown range. But wood colors are not nearly so artificial as they once were. Finishers strive for a depth of color approximately what the shade would be if the natural wood was splashed with water.

In order to maintain the natural tones and grain pattern, many woods are put through a stablizing process before the furniture finish is applied. The old term "bleach" is still used for this process.

Carpet Terms

BROADLOOM is a designation of carpet width. It does not describe any special style, quality or construction. The term refers to any carpet made in seamless widths of 6 feet and over.

PILE YARNS, sometimes called "face yarns," are the tufts of yarn seen on the surface of the carpet.

BACKING YARNS are the materials that form the carpet back of foundation, to which pile fibers are anchored.

PLY is a layer of thickness of yarns used in carpet. If the pile yarn is described as "4-ply", it means that each tuft is made of 4 yarns spun together.

WILTON, AXMINSTER, and VELVET are types of looms on which woven carpet is made. Carpet woven on these looms is also described in these terms, such as "a Wilton carpet", "a velvet weave", or "an Axminster".

TUFTING is a carpet construction process in which pile yarns are sewn through a pre-woven backing by wide multiple-needled machines.

KNITTING is another construction process in which carpet pile yarns and backing are interlocked by the knitting process.

Wall Accessories Attractive, Useful

While paintings are enjoying a large popularity revival at present, many other wall decoratives—some with useful purposes—are also offered for home decor.

Practical as well as attractive is a Scandinavian wall-hung telephone stand. Modern in design, this has gracefully curved end supports which permit its incorporation in a traditional decor. The use of dowels for the telephone and directory bases give it a light look which will not overpower a small room.

NOT MEANT for washing but serving a useful purpose as planters for real or artificial flora, is a new collection of lavabo designs. Consisting of graceful urns paired with matching basins, the group includes a classic Greek styling as well as a highly ornamented Italian pattern.

Mirrors, to decorate a room and give the ladies an opportunity to take a quick glance at their grooming, are highly ornamental in the new offerings. Emphasis in one big collection is on antique gold finishes in scroll designs.

'Tender, Loving Care' Needed to Keep Beauty in Furniture

Tender Loving Care—that's the secret of perennial beauty in your personal appearance, your clothes and your furniture. The Home Furnishings Industry Committee suggests the following "TLC" hints to help keep your furniture in top condition.

Never place your fine woods where they'll be constantly subjected to heat, direct sunlight or open windows. Even when woods have been treated to resist almost anything, you are wise to always use hot dish pads. And storing extension leaves for the table in a cool, dry place will avoid warping.

• • • •

THERE ARE several ways to repair surface scratches and dents. Touch-up sticks, similar in appearance to crayon, can be bought in a variety of colors to blend with finishes. Some are referred to as putty sticks, or are in a tube with a paste consistency. Either of these can be purchased through a good paint store or a refinisher.

Iodine applied lightly with a fine brush can also serve the purpose. Keep in mind that the stain or dye will darken with age, so apply lighter than the finish of the furniture.

Deep dents and gashes should always be repaired professionally.

To remove white spots caused by hot or cold dishes, rub lightly with a flannel cloth dampened with spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint. Wait until dry before applying good wax or polish.

Highly polished surfaces may grow foggy. Dip a clean cloth in a solution of vinegar and water (one tablespoon vinegar to one quart water) and rub with the grain until surface is dry.

• • • •

BEFORE CLEANING upholstered pieces, always vacuum to remove as much dirt and dust as possible. With slipcovers, it is well to remove and vacuum twice a month.

If you are uncertain of the color fastness of the fabric, always apply your cleaning solution in an inconspicuous place first.

In general, most stains and soil spots on upholstery can be removed by noninflammable carbon tetrachloride.

Dissolve a neutral, nonalkaline soap in boiling water; add cold water to the paste and stir until you have thick, dry suds. Scrub a small section of the fabric with the suds, working in a circular motion toward the center with a stiff bristle brush. Scrape off suds and rinse with a weak salt water solution applied with a soft rag.

WHEN REMOVING spots, never pour the cleaning solvent directly on the fabric; pour on a clean cloth. Remove excess cleaner with a blotter and sponge lightly with alcohol. And always avoid bleaching solvents.

Do not clean leather upholstery with furniture polishes. Use a mild soap and damp cloth. Rinse with second damp cloth and rub with a dry clean cloth.

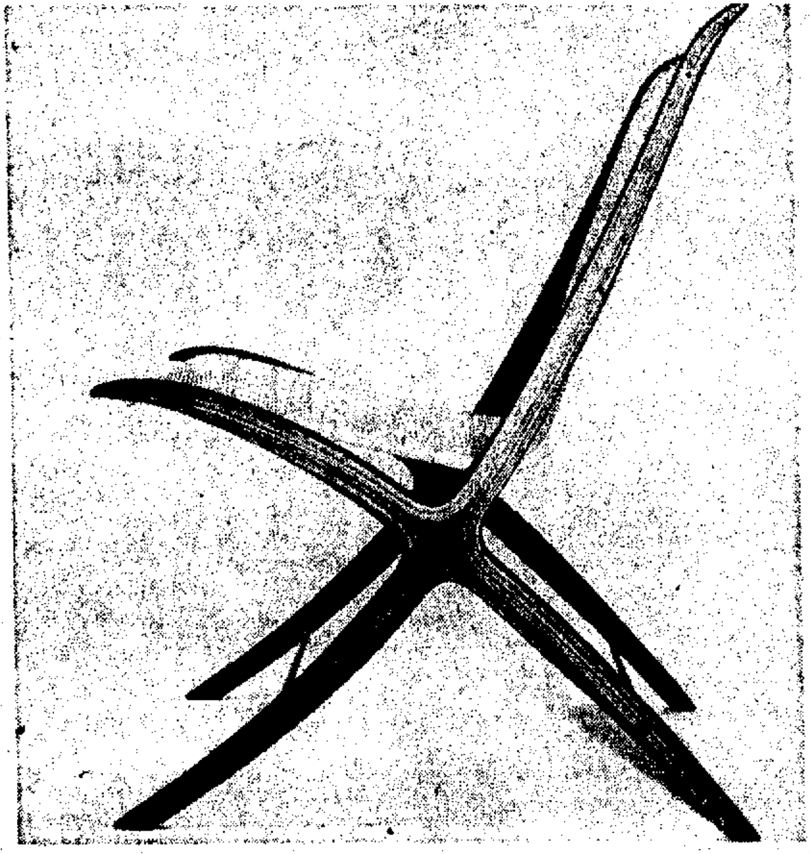
Care should always be exercised in the use of cleaning solvents, for they can irritate skin and lungs. Always work in good ventilation.

TEAK, LEATHER CHAIR

This elegant looking chair is made of teak wood and suede leather. Scandline Furniture received an award of merit for this chair. Its smart lines are combined with surprisingly good sitting comfort. Next to the chair is the "Big Bikko" end table. It has two tops and can be placed on the end and used as bedside table or writing desk.

BRINGS RICHNESS TO ROOM

A refreshingly new and individual feeling of richness is imparted in any room when this rug goes into it. High-piled elegance of lustrous wool with magnificent colors that have the radiance and depth of fiery gems, this rug is shown at Harlow Carpet Co., 340 E. Fourth St.



A DANISH IMPORT

Graceful lines, sculptured detailing and an imaginative use of woods highlight a new collection of sophisticated Danish Imports now on display at Frank Bros., 2400 Long Beach Blvd. Shown is just one chair of this trend-setting group which marks a departure from conventional designs.

TEENER'S ROOM

Your teen-age daughter would love a room like this which is designed for study, play and sleep. The hanging shelf can serve as a dressing table or a desk forr study. The neat carpeting adds much to the attractiveness of the room.

USE RUG IN DEN

The floor gets the wear in most dens with the youngsters lounging as they listen to recordings or view television. So for the modern den a good rug of lasting materials is a must. Here is a pattern in nylon materials which will give long service.

Versatility Still Keynotes Furniture

In spite of the definite move toward more formality in home furnishings, new furniture does retain the important feature of versatility which makes it useful and decorative in more ways and places.

A 16-inch chow bench with provincial legs may be used alone or in groups of two or more, lined up or clustered to create the desired shape or size. For compactness, these tables also stack.

Similarly flexible is a group of "Domino" tables. Hexagonal in shape, these create interesting patterns in varied arrangements.

From side-by-side to almost face-to-face seating is offered in the "Tete-a-Tete" unit, which consists of two chairs joined to a small table. The chairs rotate easily on a connecting bracket - support. Practical in every aspect, the unit features a laminated plastic table top in walnut,

SHOWN AT DAVIS FURNITURE

Davis Furniture, of 1975 Long Beach Blvd., presents Chateau by Thomasville. In Chateau, the whispers of court intrigue, well laced with lusty country warm-heartedness, give you French furniture that's wonderfully right for today's American home. Chateau has captured the best of the best from centuries of all French furniture design.

Return of Carvings Is Noted

With the current movement toward greater luxury in home interiors, there is a notable return to craftsmanship detailing on furniture.

Intricate carving details the brace of a three-foot console which is lighted from within. A handcarved pedestal imported from Italy supports the top of a new solid walnut stationary or extension "Florentine" table.

Mexican imports, too, evidence much carving. A South-of-the border breakfast is one of many which is heavily carved. Available in a variety of colored finishes, including a new antique gold leaf, this piece is accented by solid brass pulls.

Carved effects are also popular on lamps. Wood bases are intricately turned; one producer is showing several appliqued-china bases, featuring medallions and scrolls.

Test Rug Sample in Own Home

The surest way to know that you will be happy with the carpet you are planning to buy is to see how it will look in your home.

Realizing this fact, many carpet retailers today provide "in-home shopping" services that are becoming more and more popular with their customers.

You can arrange for a salesman to call at your home with a selection of samples, perhaps some that you have seen at a store or several in the colors and textures which interest you most.

* * * *

THEN YOU—and possibly other members of the family—can see exactly how a carpet will look under home lighting conditions and in conjunction with existing colors and furnishings in a room.

This easy shopping is a boon to busy mothers — no baby sitting problems here!— or working wives who find it difficult to arrange time for shopping.

A trained carpet expert can also determine exact measurements of a room, or give advice on qualities best suited to traffic needs, when he sees your home.

Ask your local retailer about having carpet samples brought to you, or other arrangements allowing you to view carpet in the surroundings in which it will be used.

Select Theme Piece for Room

Choosing a china cabinet, secretary, hutch buffet or break-front as a style hteme establishes architectural character in a room where one has not been created by the builder.

The theme piece can settle hazy doubts about which furniture style or design you really like. Its design will most fully express the characteristics of a style, whether period or contemporary.

This chair swing not only is comfortable but a good conversation piece. It can be suspended from the ceiling (with proper anchorage to a beam) or a metal tripod is available. And, it comes in adult or child s

DRAMATIC NEW GROUPING

Lloyd's is featuring this dramatic new grouping in their design studio at 4141 Atlantic Ave. The group includes many unique and unusual pieces in the Spanish theme, so popular with today's homemakers. Lloyd's design studio was recently created to exhibit groupings in rooms with a home-like atmosphere.

'Inner Space' Big Problem in Homes

The exploration of outer space is a challenging topic, but many families today are faced with a more immediate problem: What to do about inner space of homes that seem to shrink as families expand.

The only solution is to make sure that all available space is used to best advantage. Extra room can often be created from an overlooked or forgotten corner.

One couple did just that recently by turning an attic space intended for an off-season clothes closet into a charming upstairs studio.

By making one closed wall of this attic an expanse of window, and adding some comfortable furniture and a rug, the would be "clothes closet" was transformed into a cheery extra room.

* * * *

A CARPET or rug is invaluable in such remodeling plans since it provides the finishing touch of comfort and beauty, at the same time it serves as a sound-conditioner. The rug cushions footsteps in the new room and keeps other distracting noises from drifting upstairs or down.

For this project, a handsome fringed rug which covers all the usable space of the floor was selected. In another area without sloping ceilings, a carpet might be fitted to cover a floor completely—also an economical step if floors are in need of refinishing.

* * * *

THE SLOPING ceilings of this attic space were even turned into an advantage when their architectural interest was played up by good lighting.

TWIN BEDS BY NIGHT

This curved sectional is a dual sleeper, providing the home with twin beds by night and an attractive living room setting by day. It is offered by the Sleep Shoppe, Fifth Street and Long Beach Boulevard, in a choice of decorator colors and stylings to fit the decor of any home. In business eight years, the Sleep Shoppe is now in a new location.

Install Glamor in Your Dining Room

Eating can be fun — even for those on a diet — when the meal is served in a glamorous setting such as is provided by the new dining furniture offered by retail stores in the Long Beach area.

By her selection of a dining group, the lady of the house may determine whether her meals will be eaten in the exotic atmosphere of Italy, the Orient, or Latin America . . . in a nostalgic period setting . . . or in a sophisticated, contemporary manner. Will the meal be casual or more formal in mood? The new dining furniture is offered in every type.

Interesting informality for in- or out-of-doors is provided in a new imported rattan table with luau chairs. This grouping is low, in the true Oriental fashion, but the chairs provide comfortable backs for less-than-supple Occidentals who can't squat on the floor. Highly practical for Western living, the rattan table is constructed on a metal frame, so that it may be left outdoors all year 'round if desired—rain goes right through the woven rattan, and the metal frame prevents warping.

* * * *

LESS CASUAL, but still reflecting an Oriental heritage is another rattan group with a 40" round, glass-topped table, framed with a polished edging. Matching woven rattan chairs are available with or without cushion seats.

Ideal for lanai dining, bringing an outdoor effect into the house, is the "Coronado." Iron frames in unusual hand-brushed finishes create an elegate, almost French Provincial mood in this group. Table tops are of "moulded marble," a combination of 85 per cent marble and 15 per cent plastic, which looks like natural marble but is less porous and easier to maintain, since it is scratch-, heat- and stain-resistant. These tops are offered in a choice of four color tones. Coronado chairs are comfortably padded in vinyl-covered foam.

Other new metal dining groups include an Italian styling and an almost Grecian design in verdigris-finished wrought iron with a round, glass-topped table.

* * * *

A GRECIAN INFLUENCE is also seen in a 48" round table with a walnut top and unusual handturned base in gilt-touched white. The unusual feature of the base is that it is available with flared "fingers" supported the table over a pedestal . . . or reversed, with the fingers becoming the feet of the table, which rests on the pedestal. Chairs feature high backs cradled in walnut.

The foundation of the Palace of Justice in the new city of Brasilia inspired another new dining table. These sweeping curves form the base of the round extension table in grain-matched walnut. Colonnades from Brasilia's Alvarado Palace of the President are reflected in the dining chairs, the backs of which are slightly higher than usual for extra comfort.

Contemporary dining in a warm, gracious mood is offered in a new grouping (by Kalpe) featuring a cross-grained pattern on the walnut table top. The table (40" x 60" closed, and extending to 84") is designed with cross-banding at the ends and in the center . . . so that it has a one-piece look with or without its cross-grained insert.

When Buying Carpets or Rugs Be Sure of Your Investment

It's often been said that asking the right question is the most effective way of getting the right answer.

To take the guesswork out of buying carpets and rugs, the American Carpet Institute has applied this maxim to shopping. Market research has revealed a "logical pattern of decision" for shoppers who want to be sure of making a wise investment.

There are just four "right questions" which should be asked in choosing a carpet or rug: What color? What texture and/or pattern? What can be expected in performance? How much should I spend?

* * * *

IT'S IMPORTANT to remember that the questions should be asked and answered in that particular order. Here's how it works:

Starting out with the idea of choosing a carpet or rug for a particular area of your home, decide first on the color you want and need. You may want a carpet to fit in with an existing color scheme, or one that will get a new room off to a good start. In either case, pick a color family you like and start looking for carpets in that group.

Of course, you'll quickly see that many variations are possible. For example, if you decide on green as a color family, you might choose a "tweedy" carpet with a mixture of green tones, or a solid-color light green. Since color can be practical as well as decorative, consider the use the carpet will get. (Medium tones, color mixtures and patterns are best at disguising signs of use between cleanings.)

* * * *

SECOND, decide on texture. Again, many variations are possible — from the velvety, "plush" styles for the most formal rooms, to those with a rugged, informal appearance. To be practical, remember that carpets with closely-constructed, well-defined textures hold their appearance well during use.

Third, consider performance in terms of use. Remember that there are two aspects to performance: (1) The actual wearing qualities of a carpet, chiefly the abrasion-resistance of the pile surface, and (2) the way a carpet will look during use.

Appearance-retention qualities depend to a large extent on color and texture, which at this point have already been chosen. Durability is determined largely by how well the carpet is made.

* * * *

TO JUDGE the quality of a carpet or rug, look for "density" — the amount of yarn used for surface pile, the closeness of construction. You can determine this for yourself by bending a piece of carpet toward the back and seeing whether the tufts, or rows of yarns, stay close together. Although gaps known as "grinning" can be force even in a carpet of good construction, this condition, combined with low, sparce pile generally indicates lesser quality.

Fiber also plays a part in performance value of carpet. Wool, the classic carpet fiber is noted for its balance of performance characteristics—abrasion-resistance, resiliency, good appearance and economy. Other fibers developed for carpet use may excel in one or more of these qualities. Nylon, for example, is noted for its strength and abrasion-resistance; acrylic fibers, for their resiliency; cotton, rayons and acetates, for economy. Your carpet retailer can tell you more about specific fiber characteristics.

Remember, however, that fiber content alone does not determine the quality of a carpet. Always give equal consideration to the general quality of construction.

THE FOURTH and final decision — price — can be made wisely only when you have found a carpet or rug that fits your decorative and functional requirements.

Of course you will be looking for carpet within a general price category. But it would be foolish economy to install a skimpy carpet in a heavy-traffic area of your home. It would be equally unwise to choose even a good-quality carpet if you are not satisfied with the color and texture, or if the color and texture would be impractical in your home. Fortunately, the range of choice today is wide, so that you will have no difficulty in making these four decisions in your own budget category. Whether you can afford carpet in the low, medium or high price range, you can still find a style that pleases you and the quality that will give performance equal to the investment.

Asking just four questions can give you the right answer —a carpet or rug that is the "best buy" for your individual needs.

Can Obtain Special Rug

Custom-made rugs are now available from leading manufacturers, who can provide virtually anything you want in color, texture, size or shape. You can have a rug made to fit exactly into an odd-sized rooms, or a room with unusual architectural features.

These rugs are generally custom-tufted on special machines, after you have approved design sketches or color swatches. Needless to say, any special pattern or design can be made for you, and the size or shape might be almost anything—up to 30 or 32 feet in seamless widths.

These "one-of-a-kind" rugs are ordered through retailers offering a custom service, or through your decorator. They frequently are just what's needed for a room that is being redecorated, when special fabrics and furnishings have already been chosen.

Proper Finish Keeps New Look

Properly finished furniture, today, will maintain its new look without darkening. The pre-finish step may involve a light application of color toner to develop fully the highlights and contrasts of grain. This might be compared to what many women call a "touch-up." Actually it brings a wide variety of lighter woods into the preferred warm brown range and gives them depth without destroying their natural beauty or grain characteristics.

Imports This Year Widely Diversified

Imports on display at Long Beach area furniture stores are as diversified as the countries from which they come. Pieces in every style and use category are represented in the new lines introduced here.

Still popular for its versatility and durable features is rattan, which appears in several import lines. A series of graduated rattan stools have many uses, in addition to adding exotic accent to a room. Suitable for service as stools, occasional tables, or ottomans, they may even be inverted to become, with the addition of a liner, handsome and practical wastebaskets. Unusual shapes and intricate woven patterns are featured in new chairs from Hong Kong and the Philippines.

SCANDINAVIAN pieces continue to exemplify the ideal in contemporary styling. A new Danish chair features legs set diagonally under a rounded seat, on a center front, with legs at each side and at center back rising to support a sculptured back and arm rest. From Sweden comes a simple pedestal dining table in teak or walnut. Circular, this piece extends to a 95" oval.

A widely expanded group of Scandinavian pieces includes two new rockers and a line of teak bowls and trays. A popular wall system, previously offered by this firm in teak only, is now available in Walnut as well.

THE HEAVY SPANISH mood, now receiving increasing interest, is typified in a collection of Mexican imports. In addition to tables, chests, and chairs, this group includes several large, elaborately carved desks, as well as black wrought iron in chandeliers and sconces.

Imported carpeting is being offered in long color lines, in both velvet and Wilton qualities. Gold hues are leading in this group. Three new all-wool area rugs from Japan include a scalloped rug with sculptured pattern, available in any solid color; an ivy-bordered piece; and a rug bordered in an ancient Roman motif. All of the Japanese imports are of tufted quality; the latter two are available in any size and color combinations.

New Carpet High Styled

Neat and high-styled best describes the new carpeting and rugs now available.

Throughout the new introductions there is a continued emphasis of a refined taste in design — neat patterns and precise textures. They are colors and color combinations in carpets with tightly-looped, closely-woven textures.

A complete range of fibers developed for carpet and rug use has been employed to achieve the new stylings. These include wool, continuous filament nylon, acrylic fibers, staple nylon, and to some extent rayons and cottons. Polypropylene, newest of the man-made fibers, is represented in several new styles.

Some Carpeting Is Moth Proof

If you bought an American-made carpet in the past four years, you probably don't have to worry about damage from moths or carpet beetles. Since 1958, leading carpet makers have been giving wool carpets a permanent moth-proofing treatment that lasts the life of the carpet, even after frequent shampooings. Carpets made of synthetic fibers are naturally moth-proof. Check the labels when buying carpets and rugs to make certain they are safe from insect damage.

Small Plaques Used in Group

"By using small plaques in a group rather than a single large picture, the wall treatment can be exactly scaled to match the size of the room and furniture," a designer says.

"Thus, whether you have twin beds, a full-size bed, or a king-size bed, you can obtain a wall accent that is in correct scale by using plaques."

Make Room Come Alive

Opposite walls should have similar groupings or should appear evenly balanced in quantity or interest.

Furniture placed with lines parallel to the walls creates greater unity than when placed in diagonal positions.

Also remember you want to create a balance between figured and plain materials, colors and textures. The smart woman will learn the many illusions she can create through rugs, drapery, wall and fabric colors. Rooms can appear larger, ceiling lower, defects hidden and assets exploited.

Carpet Industry Big Importers

The U. S. carpet industry is an active participant in world-wide trade. Last year carpet makers imported more than 157-million pounds of wool from more than 10 nations throughout the globe. New Zealand and Argentina are the leading sources of carpet wools, which are tougher, springier and coarser than the soft, fine domestic fibers used for clothing. The industry also imports millions of pounds of jute annually for carpet backing fibers.

Carpet on Wall Popular Trend

Carpet on the wall is becoming more and more popular as a design trend. Restaurants, theaters and motels have been installing carpets on the walls for a number of years because of the top noise-absorption it offers and the distinctive decorative effect it creates. Now, the trend has even spread to some homes. Homemakers find it not only practical and eye-catching, but also cheaper in some cases than wood panelling or wallpaper treatments.

Luxury Outstanding in Bedroom Groups

Feel rich—whatever the size of the bank account—in a bedroom furnished to assure luxury and convenience. This is the invitation of the bedroom manufacturers whose new groups are on display.

Luxury is evident in detailing and rich finishes in the recent introductions, which have been designed with many new convenience features, to give the bedroom the true atmosphere of relaxation and repose it should have. Broad selectivity in the styling of the new lines also assures satisfaction of individual tastes and needs.

Obvious in many lines is the influence of the Mediterranean, noted in all phases of home furnishings at the recent Summer Market in Los Angeles. One correlated grouping (by Furniture Guild) features carved accents and high poster finials on the headboard, in a Mediterranean mood. The scooped line of the headboard itself is reversed in an arched base on low, broad nightstands to add interest to the group, which is offered in antique white or spice brown finish.

* * * *

MORE MEDITERRANEAN influence is seen in an Italian Classic group (by Caldwell) featuring genuine cherry veneers with myrtle burl overlays, or in an off-white champagne shade with matching plastic tops. Or, for a boudoir with the luxury of the Louis', a "Chambord" group (by Fancher) reflects the opulence of the French court, with refinements of detailing and formal overtones.

A combination styling in the "Peppermill Road" group (by Lane) blends Early American details with the light, casual styling of contemporary for a serene effect, so desirable in the bedroom. By the same manufacturer is "Components," a budget-priced group featuring practicality in its modular character; a number of the units stack to form various wall combinations.

Convenience if emphasized by the bedroom furniture producers who are offering small, handy desks or combination vanity-desks suitable for bedroom use. One combination piece (by Glenn of California) incorporates a mirrored lift-lid, plus overhead compartment and drawer for working needs.

* * * *

A COMPACT roll-top desk is in black walnut (by Brown-Saltman) chest's commodious storage under its top, with three roomy drawers below. In this line, a gracefully curved vanity-desk has a 29-inch compartmented drawer; its companion mirror and padded bench repeat its almost Gothic curves.

Storage—always a problem in our attic-less homes of today—is considered by the manufacturer (Los Angeles Period) of a chest with five drawers and five trays. It features a Gothic motif in butternut veneers. This producer has also introduced a handy corner group consisting of two single bed units, one of which slides partially under a corner table for daytime seating. Storage units in this group incorporate reversible panels—in natural wood finish on one side, a choice of bright colors on the reverse.

Tips on Best Room Setup

Keep convenience uppermost in your mind when rearranging furniture; groupings for conversation, tables for magazines, books and ashtrays, and a good lamp beside a reading chair.

BRINGS LUXURY IN HOME

The ultimate in luxurious furnishings, the Louis XVI Console and Mirror, hand-carved in European hardwood, are available at Greer Furniture Co., 3800 E. Anaheim St. Greer's, specializing in transitional furniture, offers complimentary, professional decorating services.

SPACE-SAVING GROUP BY HENRY'S

Here is a contemporary room setting designed as a space-saver, using a two-piece section that fits into the corner, leaving no awkward space. As an accent for interest, the chairs, designed by Lawrence Peabody, feature woven cane seat and back foiled with walnut arms in interesting design. To further the space-saving theme, three occasional tables are offered instead of the usual large, space-demanding cocktail table. This is one of many idea groups created for individual homes by Henry's, 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Willbank's Carpet and Drapery Co. Brings Samples Into Home of Buyer

Today's quality carpet is lived with for years. The choice of a proper carpet is of primary importance in furnishing a home. The same is true in the selection of drapes.

Because of this importance, your selection should be made when you have:

1. A knowledge of what you are buying.

2. A confidence in the firm from whom you are buying.

The Willbank's Carpet and Drapery Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold, at a minimum mark-up, in sufficient volume to be profitable. The same policy prevails on its draperies

The extension of his premise was to operate, without frills and costly fixtures from a low-rent and thus low-overhead location in a Factory-Warehouse location at 1879 Freeman Ave., Signal Hill.

* * * *

BY ELIMINATING high rent and other cost raising features, the Company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet and drapery value at less cost.

This new experiment in merchandising paid off in large volume sales. These large sales, in turn, allowed Willbank's to bargain from strength in dealing with carpet mills, for quantity purchases, at great savings — these savings are likewise passed on to the customer.

Today, the Willbank's Co., is growing and expanding into other areas after building, in the Long Beach area, a reputation for selling, at a minimum mark-up, quality carpet and draperies expertly installed and with complete satisfaction guaranteed.

A shopper will find, on display, at the warehouse, the latest lines of carpets and drapery material in wide varieties, made by famous mills.

IT IS NOT the policy of the Willbank's Co. to sell you a particular carpet or certain drapery material, but rather to act as consultants—to explain the facts—to be definite in answering your questions and to assist in the selection of the best material, best suited for your needs—most in harmony with your decor and at a cost to fit your pocket-book.

You may, if it is more convenient for you, select your carpet or drapes right in your own home. Willbank's will, without obligation, send to your home a salesman, with a complete line of samples in which you are interested. Then you will see the carpet or drapes in the proper setting — make certain it matches your decor and have the entire family discuss its suitability for your needs.

Willbank's, too, is justly proud, of their industry-wide reputation for the very high quality of expertly trained, long experienced installers handle all installations, including the difficult and complex, with facilities and precision.

Look of Comfort Featured

The newest look in unholstered furniture, being shown at Long Beach area retail stores features comfort. Today's trend seems to be away from the consciously flat, "thin-line" appearance, to a more inviting, soft effect.

Loose pillows are widely seen, many cushions are notched, and there is relatively little use of exposed wood. A 100" Italian-style sofa features a loose-cushion seat and back, with a two-inch fabric band base encircling the sofa. Recessed legs are invisible, for a floating effect.

Simple, but rounded, lines are seen in another collection which also utilizes loose cushions. Quilted fabrics on this line add to the soft, comfortable appearance, while retaining a dressy look — far from the old bulky "borax" styles.

Use Casters

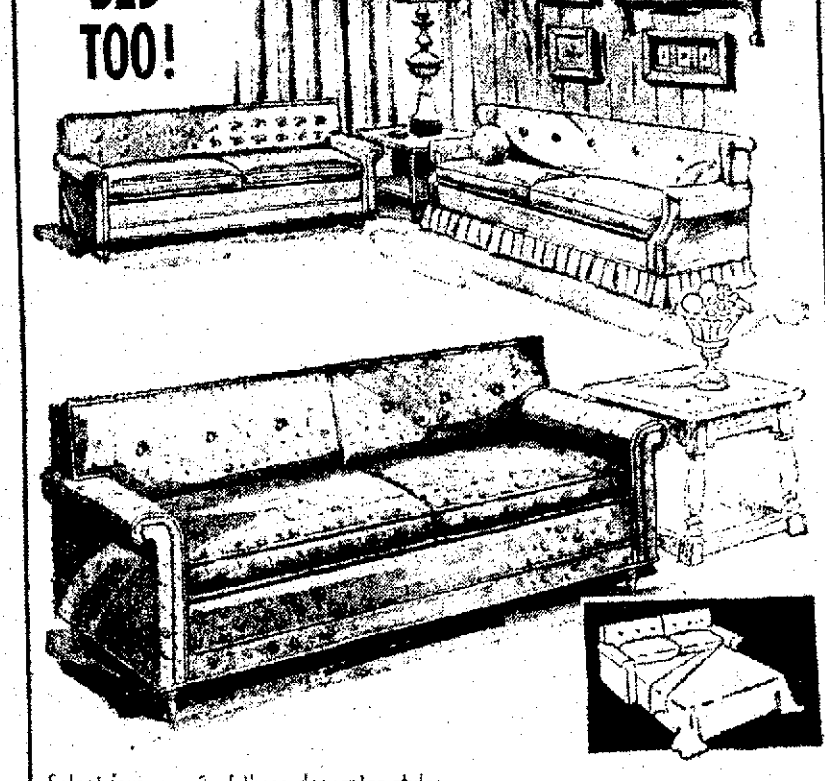
To prevent carpets from matting down under heavy furniture pieces, use casters and furniture rests under large chairs, sofas and tables.

BUCKET SEAT

Molded plastic chairs are shown this year more prominently than ever. Here is one that can serve at the dressing table, for the TV room or will provide comfort for reading in the den.

CUSTOM SOFA... AND A BED TOO!

For Living Room Beauty and Sleeping Comfort



Select from any 3 of these decorator styles . . . Modern, Contemporary or Early American. Here's the opportunity to get that extra bed in a beautiful sofa.

Baby's Room Joins in Decor of Homes

No longer need the baby's room be an island of uninteresting, obviously practical "baby equipment." New nursery furnishings are now designed not only to aid busy mothers, but to harmonize smartly with other furnishings in the home.

His Tiny Majesty's crib, for instance, need not be a stark, hospital-like combination of austere bars and boards. In the display is a charming canopied crib, available in an elegant antique white finish or in maple, to blend with early American decor. The unit comes complete with canopy (which is removable for washing). A matching chest is available in the white finish. A complete matching ensemble is offered for early American fans; a play pen with carved posts and a plastic teething rail, high chair, and a chest accented with traditional eagle-motif hardware. Also available in this group is a Colonial cradle . . . as relaxing for a baby as is the rocker for adults.

* * * *

ANOTHER CANOPY crib in both antique white and maple finishes has been styled for French Provincial interiors. A ruffly nylon covering for the arched canopy frame is included with the crib, which features special no-rattle hardware, not only to eliminate noise when baby bounces, but to permit parents to adjust the bedding at night without disturbing the child.

The spindle motif is also featured in a full maple nursery ensemble. Included in the group are a high chair . . . a nursery chair which looks like a miniature living room arm chair . . . a play yard . . . a practical toy chest-bench, to eliminate the clutter of beloved stuffed animals and dolls and still serve as an attractive seating piece . . . a play pen-crib combination . . . a love seat . . . a rocker . . . and a versatile three-tiered dressing table with pad, sturdy accessory tray, and soiled-clothes bag included.

Not only does Baby now have all this glamor, but added comfort is in store too—with new four- and five-inch high density urethane foam crib mattresses. These feature reinforced plastic covers in smart new multicolor prints; most of these have white backgrounds, growing in popularity today.

STUDY ROOM

Should Plan How to Use Furnishings

The purchase of new furnishings or just boredom with the "face" of a room means its time for rearranging. There are no rules that indicate a good or bad placement since every room has its own personality.

However, a few principles, adapted to your particular room, can eliminate a lot of trial and error. The Home furnishings Industry Committee recommends that you first plan on paper after considering these suggestions.

What fixed features must you work around—doors and windows (the way they open, height and width), mantles, built-in furniture, alcoves, niches, paneling, etc.? Don't forget to consider the broad expanses of wall space, or of broken-up walls, plus the dimensions of the room.

* * * *

FOR WHAT purposes is the room used? How many people usually occupy it? One glance at a well planned room should tell you what and why about it. Since you always want convenience and easy moving traffic within the room, the number of people will dictate some of the arrangement.

Keep in mind that you want people to be able to move logically and comfortably from one place to another—no moving chairs around, or sidestepping tables and obstructions. Door openings and passageways should be kept free, as must your heating and lighting outlets and open fireplaces.

* * * *

APPRAISE YOUR movable furniture in relation to the physical features of the room. Decide which pieces will complement these fixed features. For example, high windows and doors should have an agreeable balance of high and low pieces. You will want to work for proper proportion of one thing to another; a table to a chair or a chair to a wall space.

The furniture in a room should be related to the size of the room—your more refined pieces for smaller rooms; bulky, darker pieces for the larger areas. Try to avoid emptiness as well as overcrowding.

Distribution should be relatively even. Don't create a heavy, unbalanced look at one end of the room.

ATTRACTIVE NURSERY

"Daisies don't tell," so the saying goes; but a cheerful and well-planned nursery makes it quite clear to a newcomer in the family that his parents have spent some time preparing for his arrival. Modern interior finishing materials make it possible to combine attractive design with functional and practical considerations.

Cook Steaks on Habachis

People who fancy themselves as outdoor chefs but don't have the space for permanent barbecue equipment can broil a tasty steak, chop or hamburger on the habachis imported from Japan. Small, portable and easily stored when not in use, they will set the scene for a dramatic culinary performance with minimum effort.

Also shown are new designs in regular barbecue equipment; the big, hooded, prefabricated metal stoves currently high style as substitute fireplaces, and standard fireplace equipment of various designs. In addition to brass and copper finishes, polished pewter is new this year.

GOOD LOCATIONS mean better business. Check Classified "Business Property" for right spot for your organization. Look now.

MODERN TEA WAGON

This tea wagon caused considerable fine comment when it was shown at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart. It is of mahogany with antique white and gold striping hand-painted floral decoration using pastel salmon pink, pale yellow and raw umber. It has one drawer and drop handle with a removable glass tray beneath.

FEATURED AT LANES

This appealing room setting will be found today when Lanes Home Furnishings observes its first day of business today at 3030 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. The transitional colonial sofa with white brocade covering is accented by antique white tables and chest. Two quilted gold fabric chairs complete the grouping. Bill Rubbins, owner, will be showing a wide selection of traditional, provincial and early American furnishings today.

Wall Plaques, Mirrors Giving Bedrooms Refreshing New Look

Wall plaques, mirrors, and console tables — favorites for a long time in living rooms and halls — are now making their way into the bedroom for a refreshing new look.

So says Mary Ann Wills, decorating consultant to the Arabesque Division of Burwood Products Co.

"While framed pictures have dominated the bedroom up to now, homemakers are discovering that the deep-dimensional effect of simulated wood wall plaques provide added charm and result in decorative effects which are new and different," she reports.

* * * *

PERHAPS THE newest idea is the use of a wall mirror, matching console table, and wall sconces alongside the bed. While these pieces were originally designed for other rooms, in the bedroom they fulfill both a decorative and functional use.

"Functionally, the console table serves as a compact nightstand or dressing table without taking up any floor space," Miss Wills points out. "The mirror is useful for make-up and grooming, while the sconces add a touch of elegance."

Instead of crowning the headboard with a single large picture, Miss Wills suggests using a combination of wall plaques arranged in a unified group. These plaques are available in a variety of themes and finishes to ble with the bedroom furnitu

* * * *

SHE SAYS that these mensional accessories most welcome in new hom where the walls are ofte plain and without the decor tive moldings that added ch acter to the walls in old homes.

CORD CHAIRS OFFERED

Greatly resembling cane coverings, this new cord-covered chair and ottoman by Trends Pacific are appealing. Both the chair and ottoman fold.

Furnishings Accent Patio Individuality

Patios — once limited to a stereotyped sameness — can now be as individual as home interiors. The new patio furnishings offer a wide variety which will enable homeowners to decorate outdoor areas to suit their own personalities and tastes.

The new patio furniture collections include not only the conventional simple stylings, but Oriental — traditional types — even Early American. Equally varied are the materials which the patio furniture producers have chosen for their new lines.

One collection features a subdued Oriental flavor. Constructed of welded tubular aluminum with the innovation of diagonal vinyl lacing, this line is simple and distinctive as well as durable (it features extra-sturdy double legs). A complete line of tables, seating and lounging pieces (including a rocker) is offered in this group.

TRADITIONAL elegance combined with the practicality of contemporary Californian styling is shown in the "Acapulco" wrought iron dinette for outdoor or indoor use. Available in metallic shades of gold, lavender, or tan 40-inch "molded-marble" table top and four vinyl-covered box construction chairs. Table tops and upholstery are in colors coordinated with the wrought iron bases.

Fans of Early American may now indulge their preference in the patio, utilizing a line of redwood furniture in the Early American mood. Plaid coverings lend a gay accent to the redwood.

Also contributing to the current versatility in patio decor is a planter line. Available in a wide color range, as well as walnut, these planters are designed to enable the homeowner to enclose a plant in its standard five-gallon can, just as it comes from the nursery.

Furniture Shift Good for Carpet

For housewives only: If you need an excuse for shifting furniture, remember that it's good for your carpets.

A shift of a few inches relieves the pressure of heavy furniture on one spot. A more thorough re-arranging usually creates a new traffic pattern in a room, thus helping to distribute wear evenly over all areas of a carpet or rug.

Mix-Match Some Rugs

Many interesting rooms are furnished with two rugs which harmonize in color and style, but do not match exactly.

It's easy to combine different shapes, such as a rectangular rug with a round one—especially in a dual-purpose room where two or more areas should be highlighted.

It's no trick to do your own mixing and matching of rugs and carpets, with the careful color coordination already planned by designers.

Trend Toward Larger Scaling

A tendency toward larger-scaled furniture is noted among many of the new pieces on display here. Mindful of the generally smaller homes today, manufacturers have increased the scale without a bulky effect, through careful design. And the practical aspects of the larger pieces far outweigh any small additional space they may require.

Illustrative of the large furnishings being shown is a new walnut breakfront which measures 72 inches wide by 69 inches high. Offered in a choice of finishes, the breakfront actually consists of two pieces, aavilable separately—a buffet base and 48-inch high top. Cathedral foil lines the inside back, and it features special antique brass grilles. This design is also produced in a server size, 36 inches wide.

* * * *

EVEN SCANDINAVIAN furniture, a leader in the original small-scale trend, is moving to greater size. A prominent California manufacturer in this field is introducing larger pieces, increased in depth, width and height. Bulk is eliminated here by the use of rounded, softer shapes.

While the sectional has bowed in favor of the one-piece sofa, the latter is frequently increased in size, to retain a place of importance in the room. Over eight feet long is one new sofa. Utilizing a rich upholstery fabric, the piece features carved legs in an antique white finish. Other seating pieces, not all as long, achieve an effect by such design effects as flared arms.

A lamp manufacturer is introducing a series of dynamic large lamps . . . some featuring enameled copper tiles, some in stone-like glazes combined with harmonizing glossy glazes.

SOFA CONVERTS TO FULL BED

Upholstered Pieces Feature Soft Look

Soft! That's the word that best describes the latest upholstered furniture on display in Long Beach Retail stores.

This softness carries on a trend noticed early in '62—a trend toward less stark styling in both contours and cushioning of upholstered pieces. Now the soft effect—in keeping with the rich, more luxurious feeling of all home furnishings today—is seen in nearly all of the new introductions in sofas and chairs, evident particularly in curved lines, downy cushions, and carved details on exposed wood.

Exemplifying the trend in the extreme is a sectional which features exposed wood all around the top—ornately carved and with lacy open work. A sofa in the same showroom is highlighted by an inlaid wood piece across the top, giving the sofa a Directoire mood.

QUILTED coverings accent the soft look of many offerings. One firm uses a quilted print on a sofa which is designed in a curve—around the back and down to the arms.

The sofa has a double seat cushion and single, attached back cushion. Quilted solid colors are shown.

A curve is seen again on a dramatic armless chair with a high back which rolls over to form a curved silhouette. This is covered in an exotic print.

Squared curves form the shape of the cushions on a sofa which utilizes much exposed wood, including an arm cap. Another squared curve is seen in this firm's squared barrel chair, also accented with exposed wood, to give an informal but not stark effect.

EVIDENCES of soft, more lush and comfortable styling is even seen in Scandinavian pieces. Slightly rounded arms and backs are shown on a tailored four-seat sofa and matching high-back lounge chair by a leading manufacturer and importer of Scandinavian. Seat and back cushions are semi-detached on the sofa, loose on the chair. Increased softness of styling is achieved by the use of a kidney roll in each piece.

NEW PACE SET IN DECORATING

A fresh approach in color, concept and contemporary furniture design stimulated this imaginative setting. The area designation, a bedroom incorporating a dining-snack terrace, reflects a forward-looking trend in combining activities and integrating decorative treatments. Tempora is the new contemporary group by Fancher and is featured by Aaron Schultz of 4321 Atlantic Ave. in Long Beach.

New 'Solid Look' Is Provided by California Firm

Furniture more substantial in scale, more subtle in detailing, and more subdued in color and finishes will dominate the American homes in the months ahead. This, at any rate, seems the conclusion to be drawn from the new collection of Brown-Saltman of California, a pace-setter of the industry. The firm is presenting one of its largest groups of occasional pieces and ensembles this season. The work of two of the west coast's most distinguished young designers, the new items represent a significant new trend away from the Scandinavian influence with greater emphasis on elegance, proportion and comfort.

John J. Keal's occasional tables include a correlated grouping of two coffee tables, end table, lamp table, and two occasional tables, and utilizing the same square-U leg treatment, and designed to meet a variety of needs at relatively modest prices. A new domino table, generally merchandised in groups of four, features curved corners, heavy detailing and a hand-decorated ceramic tile top imported from West Germany. The star of the collection is an enormous coffee table with a top of hand painted underglaze tiles designed and hand-set by Jay Rivkin, one of California's most famous artists and muralists.

* * * *

THE DINING-ROOM and bedroom ensembles both feature the new "solid look" obtained by dispensing with applied pulls and hardware, and using instead a special molding at the top and bottom of each drawer which offers a concealed finger-grip. A recessed separator bar between each drawer, finished in an antiqued texture, adds accent color.

The bedroom grouping includes a treasure chest with plastic drawers concealed behind a sliding door; a 12-drawer Mr. and Mrs. Chest; a man's roll-top desk chest; a panel bed with free standing commode; and a storage headboard with adjustable top and integrated commode.

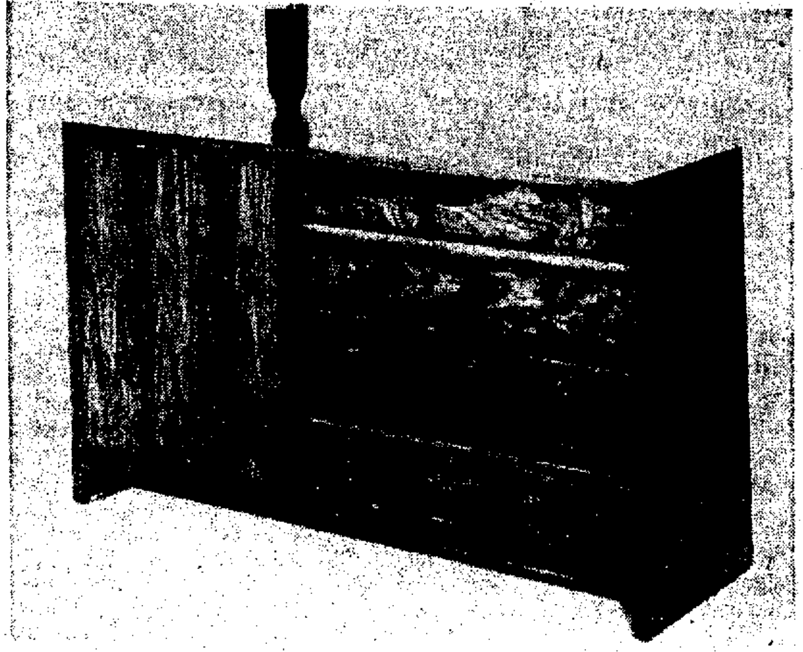
* * * *

TWO TABLES, one round and one rectangular, both of which can be extended to seat 12 people, provide the nucleus of the dining room grouping. Other pieces include a buffet and deck, side chair and arm chair. A new "Black Pearl" finish—a dark smoky ebony that reveals the grain of the walnut—is being offered this year as an alternate to Brown-Saltman's famous Satinoil finish. Soft-rubbed and with a deep sheen, it promises to provide a popular accent color for new decorative schemes.

Designer John Caldwell has contributed several interesting pieces, all reflecting a classic simplicity of line and detailing that is almost Shaker in its feeling. A graceful desk, with a single file drawer as well as pencil and stationery drawers, features a unique round pull in contrasting wood.

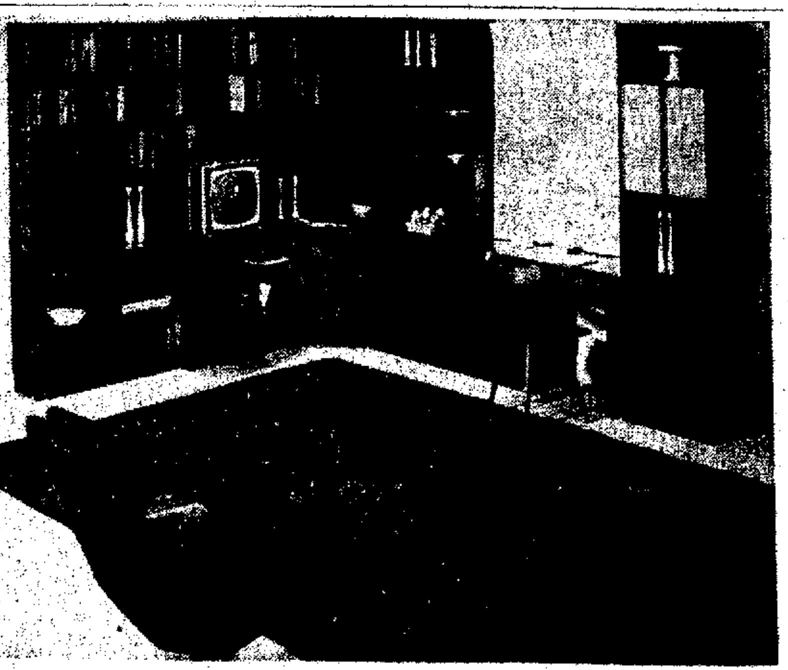
As companion pieces, he has designed a large, handsomely rugged coffee table with solid sides and a solid slab wood top; a matching end table; a vanity desk with companion mirror and bench; and a storage cabinet which is also available with fitted front panel and sliding record changer to provide a hi-fi music center. Accompanying the cabinet is a deck with open shelves or, if preferred, fitted with glass doors.

All pieces in the Brown-Saltman collection are of American black walnut.



BEDROOM TREASURE CHEST

One of the highlights of a bedroom grouping shown by Brown-Saltman of California this season is the treasure chest. There are plastic drawers concealed by the sliding door on the left.

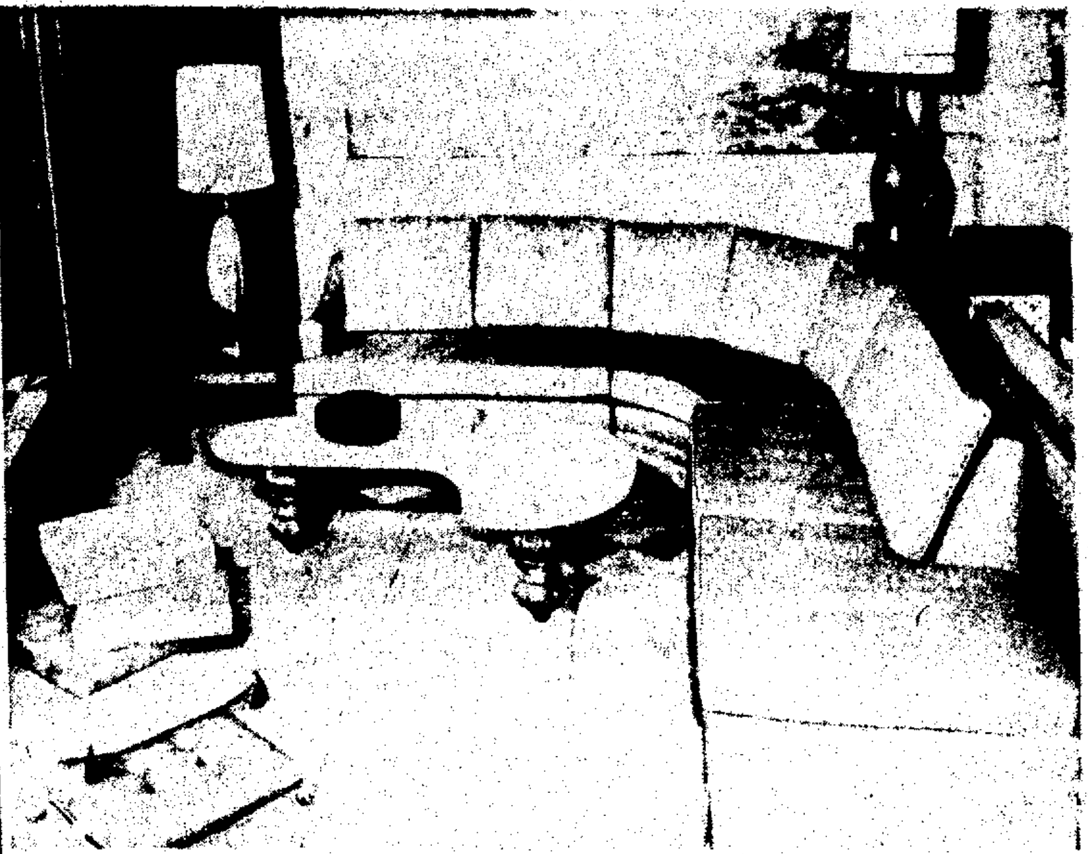


BROAD USE OF CABINETS

Exceptional variety can be provided walls in a room as well as meeting many needs. Cabinets, chests, record player units, speaker units and desks are included among the base sections shown here. The upper decks afford bookcases, cabinets, record storage. A chair and ottoman with reclining action complete the arrangement.

NEW CARPET STYLE SETTER

Offering a new breakthrough in the styling of continuous filament nylon carpets, Lees, who pioneered this fabulous yarn in carpet weaving, introduces "Bon Bon" as its 1962 highlight. Made in a random loop wave texture in subtle two-tone color combinations, "Bon Bon" is a new style setter. "Bon Bon" is made in widths of 12 and 15 feet and comes in a variety of colors. It is one of many qualities of Lees Carpeting carried by the Bixby Knolls Carpet Co., 4354 Atlantic Ave.



LONG-LASTING FURNISHINGS

The largest display of furniture made with the miracle fabric, Naugahyde, anywhere in the area will be found at Long Beach Upholstery, 3434 Atlantic Ave. Sofas, chairs, sectionals and hide-a-beds are offered. Naugahyde will not fade and can be cleaned with soap and water. It provides long-lasting wear. Here is a sectional arrangement the firm is showing.

DO JOB CORRECTLY

Painting Metal Requires Care

By MR. FIX

Sometime in your painting chores around the house there will come a moment when you will have to paint a metal surface.

Since rust and corrosion will quickly deteriorate untreated metal it is especially important to do the job correctly.

Simply continuing with the paint brush using the same kind of paint you are using on the wall is not good enough. But, with proper undercoating, you can make the finished surface the same as the surface around the metal using the very same paint.

* * * *

REMOVE OLD paint with emery cloth and steel wool. Clean up rust the same way. Wipe the clean surface with some solvent so that no grease or oil is present.

Then prime the area. Red lead for many years was the traditional paint for this job. It still is so far as many people are concerned. But primers containing zinc chromate are becoming popular because they dry more quickly than red lead.

When the primer is dry, put on the finish coat. For outdoors this can be any good house paint.

* * * *

MUCH OF this work has been eliminated by the one-step rust preventive paints, primer and finish coat combined in one product. With this sort of paint it may be necessary that only the loose, flaking rust be removed. The paint should penetrate the surface of the metal and check it from spreading.

When it comes to painting galvanized metal another problem is encountered. Paint the metal weathers. Since the will not adhere to a new galvanized surface. Better to wait six months or so while zinc coating is there to protect the surface from rusting anyway, it isn't likely that you will run into trouble while you wait.

If you are in a hurry though, there are special primers for this purpose. Or you can etch the surface, artificially weathering it by wiping it with vinegar. Rinse quickly with clear water and clean with a solvent.

Something new in bedroom decor is the use of a wall mirror, console table, and matching sconces alongside the bed. In this setting, the mirror group and vignette plaques—which are simulated wood reproductions of Early American home and historical scenes—carry out the theme of the room. The console table serves as an extra compact night stand and dressing table without taking up floor space.

Both Carpets, Rugs Offering Exciting New Colors, Styles

Carpets in a tempting range of colors share honors with exciting area and room-size rugs in fall style introductions.

The new colors, textures and patterns are shown in a complete range of qualities, from budget-priced rugs to luxurious carpets for the most elegant rooms.

Among the "forecast" colors are new pastel tints — pale blues, pinks and yellows —which show signs of increased popularity in the future.

Colors currently at a peak of popularity, seen for Fall, 1962, in a wide and varied range of styles, include blues and greens. These two hues, often teamed in color blends, are also seen "on their own." They are especially prominent in carpet and rugs designed to complement new furnishings with Mediterranean styling.

* * * *

THE GREENS range from the soft shades of mint and apple to the darker moss, bronze, and emerald tones. Blues are clear and colorful, with the addition of Federal and Dresden blues, rich peacock and turquoise tones.

Also prominent are "hot" colors — orange, russet and copper tones. Many carpets and rugs in these hues have heavy textures with a handcrafted look, in step with the Spanish design influence in home furnishings.

Warm tones are featured in the beige and brown families, the favored neutrals in carpets and rugs. There are sunny, mellow beiges and browns with a golden cast, labeled with such descriptive color schemes as "taffy" and "caramel."

In patterns are two geometric forms which designers have used in a variety of ways — plaids and stripes. There are small checked designs, formed by a combination of contrast color and nubby texture; shadowy, muted plaid motifs; striated textures with colorings which suggest a random stripe design; "crosscross" arrangements of high and low loops.

* * * *

STRIPES AND plaids are emphasized strongly in area rugs, which are more than ever bold and colorful. Large blocks of contrasting color, or bright splashes of color, are often used in these designs. Thick yarn fringe continues as a popular finishing touch.

Continuing the trend which was evident at the beginning of 1962, designers have also created more carpets and rugs which are "meant for each other." Colors are coordinated in groups, and styles are translated in both carpeting and rug form so that homemakers can have a continuity of design—but a change of pace in styles—through several rooms of the house.

* * * *

COLOR AND TEXTURES are closely linked in the new collections. Rugs with contemporary styling feature both a thick, shaggy or looped texture and a striking use of color. Subtle tones are seen in classic texture effects such as swirl designs. Varied textures are often used to highlight a solid-color carpet, giving the color a new dimension of dual-tone effect.

PLAIN ROOM NOW COLORFUL

Even the plainest living room-dining room combination can be converted to a modern, colorful place with taste, ingenuity, and some well-directed effort. The furniture and materials used for this imaginatively designed room setting were selected with an eye for durability and ease of maintenance. Typical of this are the slip covers and draperies.

Pick Own Favorite Color for Carpets

A decorator recently offered an excellent piece of advice on choosing carpet colors:

"Select your favorite color—the color you really like the best in your home—because anything else is a compromise."

Fortunately, this advice is not hard to follow, because carpets today are offered in virtually all colors, and in many variations of each hue.

* * * *

IF YOU LIKE blue, for example, you'll see it in carpets of all types, from solid blue pastels to tweedy mixtures of blue and green, or tone-on-tone blue.

Medium colors, mixtures of color and patterns are always most practical, of course—but you'll still find your favorite color represented, regardless of the carpet style and quality you plan to buy.

The wide color range offered today simply means that you can live with your carpet and like it, too—no compromise required!

Price of Carpeting Hasn't Climbed

While the cost of most other products has risen sharply in the past decade, carpet prices have actually gone down. The average price paid by a homemaker today for a rug or carpet is at least a third lower than the average cost in 1952. Modern production techniques and use of new fibers have made this possible.

Texture Gives New Dimension to Room Decorating Schemes

"How do you like the twist?"

If a carpet salesman asked you this question, he probably wouldn't be talking about a current dance craze. More likely, he would just be discussing one of the many texture styles now available in carpets and rugs.

Texture plays a big role in home furnishings, and ranks side-by-side with color in establishing the "mood" of a room, or emphasizing the style in which a room is decorated.

And, like color, texture has become so varied that you have a wide range of choice in carpets and rugs.

* * * *

BESIDES THE "twist" — which simply means that strands of pile yarns have been twisted together for a special texture effect — you can choose from a number of other styles. Here are some of the most common types:

Cut pile—This texture is a faimiliar one. Straight cut yarns form an even pile surface, especially luxurious when the pile is deep and thick. This velvety texture is often described as "plush pile."

Looped pile—Instead of being cut, surface yarns are looped for a texture that may be long and shaggy or low and dense, depending on the style of the carpet.

* * * *

"SCROLL" or "sculptured" patterns may also be seen in textured surfaces. Generally, these patterns, together with solid-color cut pile, are the most formal-looking carpet types and lend themselves beautifully to elegant furnishings.

Twist textures, loops or shaggy uncut yarns are frequently used with informal furnishings. In many smartly-styled contemporary rooms, a definite heavy texture is chosen for the carpet to complement smooth furniture finishes and sleek fabrics.

Special texture effects are sometimes achieved by "carving"—a process by which skilled craftsmen using electric hand clippers carve designs into thick plush pile. Another is "random-shearing," where some of the looped yarns are sheared to form a random cut and looped texture.

* * * *

WHEN YOU select texture, you will, of course, pick a carpet you like from the standpoint of appearance. But in most cases, you will also give some thought to the practicality of a carpet or rug texture.

Carpets with a definite texture hold their appearance well under constant traffic. For areas in daily use, it's best to choose a well-constructed, dense carpet with a tight-looped, tight-twist or combined cut-and-looped texture, or an especially dense cut-pile texture.

These carpets with texture interest are less likely to show "shading" than a solid-color, plain "plush" pile. Shading is not a defect; in fact, it is often considered desirable, since it produces an interesting lighting effect on a solid-color carpet. It simply means that light is reflected in varying ways as carpet tufts are bent under pressure, as is true of all pile fabrics.

So choose your carpet and rug textures from the dual standpoint of function and beauty—and add the "third dimension" of texture to your home decorating.

TAX COLLECTIONS REVEAL INCREASE IN BUSINESS

Orange County Shows Greatest Sales Gain

By BOB GEIVET

Fast-paced business and industrial expansions in Orange County led the state with a 23 per cent gain in sales taxes during the year's second quarter.

Figures compiled by Richard Nevins, a member of the Southern District of the State Board of Equalization, showed that the Orange County gain far outstripped the 11 per cent increase credited to Los Angeles County, and the average of 12 per cent gain in the eight southland counties.

Sales tax revenues yielded $3,048,429 to Orange County and its cities during the second quarter.

OF THAT TOTAL, unincorporated Orange County got only $123,765, the report showed.

Santa Ana topped the list of cities, with income of $670,959 for the quarter. Anaheim was close behind with $635,154, and Garden Grove was third with $329,935.

Allocations to other cities were as follows:

Brea, $34,855; Buena Park, $209,986; Costa Mesa, $163,490; Fountain Valley, $1,803; Cypress, $7,536; Dairyland, $2,874;

Fullerton, $225442; Huntington Beach, $50,282; Laguna Beach, $63,960; La Habra, $75,478; Los Alamitos, $7,923; Newport Beach, $142,546;

Orange city, $98,473; Placentia, $6,784; San Clemente, $26,701; San Juan Capistrano, $6,480;

Seal Beach, $11,018; Stanton, $57,901; Villa Park, none; and Westminster, $58,825.

* * * *

DURING THIS PERIOD, City of Long Beach received $1,223,354 in sales taxes. Los Angeles city's share was $11,774,594 of the total $26,746,370 accruing to Los Angeles County and its cities.

Other allocations:

Artesia, $25,149; Bellflower, $191,420; Compton, $332,346; Dairy Valley, $21,087; Downey, $378,151; Gardena, $147,067;

5,632 Companies Given Hughes Subcontracts in Past Eight Months

Hughes Aircraft Company has awarded subcontracts to 5,632 companies in 35 states during the first eight months of 1962 for subassemblies components and services needed for the company's space, defense and civilian programs, William L. Hoffman, vice president, administration and materiel, has disclosed at the Culver City offices.

Total outlay to these firms amounted to $87 million. Forty-eight per cent went to small business concerns, Hoffman said.

Hughes' subcontract allocations for the first eight months of 1962 represented an increase of 5 per cent over the previous year. During the comparable period of 1961, $82 million was distributed in subcontracts.

* * * *

"FEW PEOPLE realize that big defense contractors such as Hughes rely so much on the small businessman," Hoffman said.

"Hughes has multi-million-dollar contracts with the Air Force, the Navy, the Army and NASA, but we must depend on the under 500-man employer to support our effort."

In expanding these procurement dollars, Hughes issued a total of 146,000 purchase orders during the first eight months of 1962, covering such major programs as Surveyor soft lunar landing vehicle, Syncom high altitude communications satellite, Polaris guidance system, Falcon air-to-air guided missile, interceptor improvement program and other space and defense projects.

Hoffman reported that out of these 146,000 purchase orders, 106,872 purchase orders, or 73 per cent, were issued to small business.

Healthy Conditions for Realty Market

"A generally ample supply of mortgage money, favorable price situations, and current consumer buying intentions all add up to a healthy outlook for the real estate market," James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said Saturday.

"Favorable conditions in the mortgage and price fields make it evident that a better time to buy real estate either for residence or investment can rarely be found."

J. A. EDMONDS
Good Time Now to Buy

Ironically but understandably, this buying opportunity comes at a time when there is a general sluggishness in the economy, making good real estate buys available at quite reasonable prices. If the demand for housing increases as expected in the next two or three years, it is readily apparent that real estate is a highly valued investment.

* * * *

RECENT SURVEYS on consumer buying intentions conducted by the Federal Reserve Board and the University of Michigan show an increasing trend in the desire for home ownership. The Federal Reserve Board found that plans to buy houses among families with incomes of $7,500 or more were above levels of a year ago. This has particular significance since the survey showed that plans for the purchase of most other consumer items were generally about the same as, or a little lower than, a year ago, according to Edmonds.

The survey taken by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan found that people are doing a lot of thinking and planning about moving to new homes and locations. In fact, of those surveyed, over one-half had tentative plans to change residence. Of those considering a move, more than half said it would probably be in the next five years, he said.

* * * *

INCREASING NUMBERS of Americans, moreover, are buying their homes with the help of mortgage loans of larger size.

Edmonds said that according to the Census Bureau, a record 57% of the nation's owner-occupied homes were mortgaged in 1960, compared to 55% in 1956, and 44% in 1950. And the average mortgage debt per home was $7,400 in 1960, compared to $4,100 in 1950.

LEONARD E. VINSON
Retires From Santa Fe

Vinson Ends Rail Career

Leonard E. Vinson, division passenger agent for Santa Fe Railway at Long Beach 16 years, will retire Monday.

Vinson, who lives at 3524 Easy Ave., will close out a railroad career that began at Indianapolis in 1915.

Succeeding Vinson at Long Beach will be Orville H. Gilbert, traveling passenger agent at Hollywood and a resident of Burbank.

Native of Indianapolis, Vinson's first employment with Santa Fe was at Los Angeles in 1925. He served there and in Hollywood, San Diego, San Francisco and at Long Beach. His first assignment to Long Beach was as passenger agent in 1941.

STEPS UP

Richard D. Heaney has been appointed director of manufacturing for Robertshaw-Fulton's Aeronautical and Instrument Division at Anaheim, it was announced by J. F. Tobias, division general manager.

Chet Lynd Opening Big, New Tire Plant

C. B. LYND
Well Known Tire Man

PHIL GODDARD
Sales Manager of Firm

With the most modern facilities for serviving and recapping tires, the C. B. Lynd's Tire Specialties Inc., is celebrating a grand opening. It will continue through Oct. 6.

This really is a re-opening.

Because of construction for the new freeway, the former facilities were removed and the new plant setup in the same locale at the northeast corner of Spring St. and Cherry Ave.

"Chet" Lynd came to Long Beach about 35 years ago as a salesman for General Tire & Rubber Co. Since then he has always been active in the tire business locally.

Now, with his stepson, Phil Goddard, Lynd is opening the finest facilities of their kind in the area. These include a Shell service station, almost all phases of under car repair and brake work, a large air-conditioned tire sales room where patrons may wait while their car is serviced.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, the new corner houses one of the most complete tire recapping plants in the Southland. As an independent operation, this is probably the only retread plant in this area equipped to retread such a wide range of tire sizes, Lynd reports.

They will retread passenger car, truck, industrial, off-the-road equipment and airplane tires, in addition to many specialty items.

Lynd has been a pioneer in the recapping business, having had an interest in one of the first retread plants in Long Beach. He was one of the first to equip a service truck to take care of replacement of worn tires, on the job, for large construction equipment.

GODDARD virtually grew up around the tire business, working his way up to his present capacity of sales manager. Phil attended Long Beach schools and after serving in the Navy in the war, completed his studies and graduated from USC. He and his wife Pat have three children attending Long Beach schools.

The C. B. Lynd's Tire Specialties Inc., is a franchise dealer for General Tire & Rubber Co. From now through Oct. 6 the company is celebrating the grand opening with open house and the awarding of many prizes.

Astropower, Space-Age Facility, Opens Big Plant in Orange County

EXECUTIVES OF FIRM

Executive office of Dr. George Moe (right), Astropower, Inc., vice president of research and engineering, is located in firm's 8,000-square-foot administration building. Talking with Dr. Moe is Walter Babecky, manager of industrial relations for the space-marine electronics and propulsion subsidiary of the Douglas Aircraft Co.

Astropower, Inc., newest space age research and development center in expanding Orange County, has unveiled its modern 40,000-square-foot facility in Newport Beach.

At an informal open house, Donald W. Douglas Jr., Astropower board chairman, and other executives welcomed company employes and their wives and guests from government, the military, the Orange County community and industry.

The firm, which specializes in space-marine electronics and propulsion, is located at 2121 Paularino Ave. It is a subsidiary of Douglas Aircraft Co.

Visitors toured Astropower laboratories — electronics, physics, solid-state devices, ordnance, materials, chemistry and oceanography—and were briefed by scientific personnel about projects now under way.

* * * *

ASTROPOWER RESEARCH projects include fuel cell component experimentation, development of optical decision filters, advanced studies of marine power and propulsion systems and testing of materials used in space vehicles.

The center, an 8000-square-foot administration building and a 32,000-square-foot engineering and laboratory structure, is located on a portion of a 50-acre site across from the Orange County Airport.

Master plan for the site calls for construction, as needed, of a 19-building science complex with 500,000-square-feet of floor space.

* * * *

THE ADMINISTRATION building and the laboratory section of the other structure consist of distinctive 20-foot-square modules, each with its own individual pyramid-shaped roof. This type of construction permits unusual growth flexibility because new units can be added where needed in patterns promoting working efficiency.

The modern, air-conditioned administration and engineering-research structures, built by the Irvine Co. and leased to Astropower, were designed by William L. Pereira & Associates. Contractor was the C. L. Peck Co.

Astropower officers include C. C. Noah, acting president; Dr. George Moe, vice president of research and engineering, and E. W. Smith, vice president of administration.

WORK IS UNDER WAY

Space-age research tool is this plasma jet used for high temperature materials testing at Astropower, Inc. Plasma jet, which can produce temperatures up to 30,000 degrees F., is demonstrated by Lon Bell, Astropower, chemistry laboratory research associate.

World Fair Talk Is Set for Ad Club

Glenn D. Bourret, assistant to the executive vice-president of the International Exposition for Southern California, Inc., will discuss the economic impact the World's Fair, to be held in Long Beach in 1967-1968, will have on Southern California before the Advertising Club of Long Beach at their noon luncheon meeting Thursday, in Lafayette Hotel.

Bourret will illustrate his presentation with color slides which will show the studies that have been made to insure an attendance of some 40 million people. Bourret will also present slides of various edifaces, now in the planning stage.

* * * *

A LONG-TIME specialist in the exhibit and display profession, Bourret has been associated with the Northrop Corp. and Industrial Displays, Inc. Prior to coming to California, he operated his own convention and show management business in Kansas City, Mo.

Guests who will attend the meeting are Mayor Edwin W. Wade, Consul General Enrique Chanut of Chile, who represents Long Beach sister city, Valparaiso; Diane Olson, Miss Welcome to Long Beach and Austin Peterson, regional director of the Advertising Council.

John Sarver of Curtis, Sarver and Witzerman Advertising Agency will chairman the meeting and Raymond R. Garcia, president of the club will preside.

Break Ground for Major High School

GARDEN GROVE — A bold new concept in design will be realized when Garden Grove Union High School District opens its fifth plant in the fall of 1963.

Ground was broken Friday for the construction at Sugar Avenue and Ward Street for the plant costing at total of $4,148,716 — including $2,810,243 for construction.

The building complex will cover only six acres, rather than the 20 acres usually set aside for structures on a high school campus.

* * * *

TWO MAJOR academic buildings will each have central library and resource centers, and there will be a forum auditorium for the language arts and social studies building. The science and mathematics building has its own library and resource center, plus forum for 200 students.

Construction around the "core" will save ground space for other uses, and in addition make all classrooms more easily available, according to president William Whitlow of the board of trustees.

* * * *

THE PLANT INCORPORATES provisions for team teaching as well as for group instruction in the forums, it was explained.

Construction will be prestressed, post-tensioned concrete tilt-up slabs, aluminum "curtain" walls, acoustical tile ceilings, resilient floor coverings—and complete air conditioning. It is designed for 2,000 students.

The land cost $586,729; engineering, inspections, landscaping and equipment account for the costs above construction.

Becker and Davis Firms Affiliated

In a joint statement Max W. Becker, Advertising and Davis, & Associates, public relations, announced an affiliation of their activities.

Explaining the affiliation, Chuck Davis, manager of Davis & Associates said: "By joining together in this enterprise both Becker and ourselves are able to offer a greater range of service to our clients. With such an expanded operation we are also in a position to enlarge our areas of activity in both advertising and public relations."

* * * *

BILL BECKER, general manager of Becker Advertising stated that while Davis will work directly with the agency on certain of their accounts, he will maintain his existing public relations contacts.

Becker Advertising, established in 1927, is generally considered one of the leading advertising agencys in the area while Davis & Associates, formerly located in Belmont Shore, is a relatively young firm having started in 1959. Both Becker and Davis are active in local, state, regional and national advertising and public relations programs.

Van Camp's Sales Show Big Increase

Van Camp Seafood Co. reported a net sales of $73.5 million for fiscal 1961-62, a 20 per cent gain over the previous year.

Net income, according to an annual report to stockholders, was $3.2 million, up 20 per cent from $2.6 million the previous year.

Company President Gilbert C. Van Camp Jr. predicted an $8 million increase in sales during 1963 through production alone at four recently acquired Peruvian fish meal reduction plants.

He said fish meal produced in South America will allow Van Camp "to gain entry into the European Common Market and other foreign markets with a product that cannot be procured in adequate volume from other sources."

The annual report shows Van Camp has made a steady gain in total sales during the past six years, rising from $45.6 million in 1957 to the $73.5 last year.

Bolsa Park Holding to Original Pricing

A BOLSA PARK HOME

Beautiful fireplace points up the living room in this model of a large home offered in Bolsa Park. The homes are priced at $20,350.

Buyers, eager to take advantage of the original low prices at Bolsa Park, the new Huntington Beach community readying its third unit, will find the spacious four-bedroom homes still remaining in the second unit at these prices, a spokesman announced.

In addition to the four bedrooms which are placed in a separate sleeping wing to provide greater quiet and privacy, the homes include a family room which adjoins the living room to create a lengthy interior view and two full baths, one off the master bedroom, the other centrally located convenient to the other bedrooms and for use by guests.

* * * *

THESE HOMES in the second unit sell at $20,350, but due to increased land prices and rising construction costs, these and the other homes in the third unit will be priced higher.

"Bolsa Park offers genuine lath and plaster construction, plus a lavish use of ceramic tile," said sales director Ernie Merrill. The homes include a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar, full ceramic tile bath with shower over tub, and a separate ceramic tile shower with special decorator tiles.

* * * *

OTHER LUXURY features of the Bolsa Park homes include custom entries, loggias, marble-like floors of pure vinyl; beautifully finished exposed beams; fireplaces of Palos Verdes stone; heavy shake roofs with wide overhangs; louvered doors, separating the kitchens from other areas. New Model Ready at Chestnut Lane

CHESTNUT LANE HOME
Rich stone siding graces this new plan at Chestnut Lane. The double entry doors, sign of the finer home, have ornate escutcheons harmonizing with exterior trim and with interior hardware as well. A full-grown olive tree is presented to every homeowner. The Manila is Chestnut Lane's new furnished model being shown today from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. on N. Glassell in the City of Orange, one-half block north of Katella Avenue.

Another furnished model is offered at Chestnut Lane this weekend. The Manila, elevation "A" of the 100 plan, has been interior decorated to dramatize its beauty. Plan 100 features a planted trellis-roofed breezeway area between home and detached garage. The living room focuses on the fireplace with its raised sweeping 12 ft. hearth, tiled in del piso and matched to the entry tile.

In addition, the Montana, elevation "A" of the 400 plan, has been opened to viewers for the first time.

* * * *

THE CHANGES were occasioned by increased impetus of sales during Sept. Interested homebuyers are urged "to make selection of the elevation, plan and lot of their choice now while there is still variety" by Don McMullen, marketing services director for Walker & Lee who are sales agents for Chestnut Lane.

All four Chestnut Lane floor plans include air-conditioning throughout, complete perimeter insulation, four bedrooms, two baths, integrated owners' suites, deluxe all-electric Medallion Award kitchens, three year warranted nylon carpeting throughout living room, hallways, all bedrooms, and owners' suite including bath and wardrobes and many custom-concept trim and finish materials.

Purchase prices range from $24,950 with a variety of financing arrangements. Eighty and ninety per cent loans as well as 5¾% interest are available. Models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

From the Long Beach area, lookers may take Katella Ave. direct to N. Glassell Ave. in Orange and left one-half block to models. The distinctive community is only seven minutes drive from the Autonetics industrial area in Anaheim.

Retirement Units Open in Carlsbad

Gaining momentum, the coastal area from Long Beach to San Diego has become a magnet for retired persons seeking homes. It gets further impetus this week as first units of a 98-unit project at Carlsbad are opened for viewing.

Called Carlsbad Village, the new multi-million dollar development is a joint investment by Archie Koyl and Walter M. Campbell, both of Los Angeles.

Koyl, long identified with the building industry in Southern California, says:

* * * *

"CARLSBAD VILLAGE is the result of two years of research in the retirement field by architects, engineers and builders and reflects our confidence in the coastal area as a retirement haven."

The Carlsbad Village units are located on a 10-acre site and are clustered around a large recreational hall. Underground wiring, individual car ports and patios, a heated swimming pool, putting green, barbecue facilities and a hobby shop are other on-site attractions.

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
Handsome residence pictured is Garden Park Estates' prize-winning two-story luxury home. Recently introduced, it is one of the all-new models at Garden Park Estates, Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, that also include attractive, luxuriously appointed one-story dwellings.

Now an award winner, Garden Park Estates charming, two-story luxury residence continues to be the biggest attraction in the new home community at Knott Ave., and Garden Grove freeway.

A favorite since its recent introduction in the all-new unit of architect - designed dwellings, the two-story features five big bedrooms. Unusually spacious because of its two full stories, this space has been used to afford the maximum privacy and pleasant communal living. Highly popular too, are the two handsome fireplaces: one in the master bedroom on the second floor and another in the living room.

* * * *

ON THE SECOND floor, there are three bedrooms and a bath, and the other two bedrooms form a quiet "sleep wing" on the first floor separated from the living areas by the hospitable entry hall. The appliance - equipped kitchen faces the front, and the large living room overlooks the rear patio-garden area.

Garden Park Estates new unit presents a widely diverse range of exterior elevations and a broad range of three, four and five bedroom plans.

With moderate full prices from $17,800 to $25,450, there is also an unusually broad range of financing. Veterans may purchase on VA loans with terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs and monthly payments from $98.50, including principal and interest. For those veterans who qualify there are Cal-Vet loans. Terms for "everyone" include good conventional financing or choice of 30 or 35-year FHA loans.

Open seven days a week, Garden Park Estates and the display of furnished models is reached by driving from Long Beach east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College, to Knott Ave. and the unit.

Homes for Retired in Ideal Site

The latest boom in housing developments is the Senior Citizen's retirement community. Few, if any, within the state of California can match the many advantages to be found at the beautiful Country Club Retirment Homes in Hemet, says sales agent Gilbert J. Hayes.

Famed for its near perfect healthful climate, Hemet is located in the San Bernardino mountains area, within easy driving distance of all of Southern California's resort and recreation areas.

The developers selected a site across the street from the Echo Hills Country Club, on which to locate Country Club Retirement Homes. To qualify for purchase of a home, one member of the family (man or wife) must be over 48, children must be 18 or over and unmarried.

The two bedroom one and and two bath homes surround an ideal recreation area, complete with heated swimming pool, putting green, an activities building with snack bar, shuffleboard, horseshoe pits and bowling green.

ALL THE LUXURY features that one would desire are included in the realistic price of Country Club Retirement Homes. Such features as beautiful wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, built-in range and oven, and year round living comfort is assured by fully insulated walls and ceilings and refrigerated air conditioning.

The full price of these quality homes is from $13,250 to $14,550, with down payment as low as $1000 plus costs.

Mr. Wm. C. Buster, General Contractor, San Bernardino, California

"I BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT I LIVE IN A GOLD MEDALLION HOME"

"If the choice were mine, I'd build a Medallion Home every time," says Mr. Buster. "That's why I'm pleased with the trend to electric living today in Southern California.

"You might think I'm prejudiced — the home I built for my family is a Gold Medallion Home — but I'm really being objective when I say nothing can be more modern, more convenient and comfortable than a home with quality electric features. If you want stronger reasons for living electrically, ask my wife — she's really prejudiced."

Remember this experienced builder's enthusiasm for electric living when you build or buy a home, and make sure it bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in four earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen — cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring — Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting — planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

Seems I've Seen THAT Look Before

...Designers Go All-Out, Everything's In: Cowboys, Cossacks, Missiles and Middies

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Who knows? Next season you may look like a lamp post, a deep sea diver or a limbo dancer.

Because everywhere you look, around the corner or under a tree, there lurks a new look.

This season, to "make a woman look like a woman," designers have used everything from missiles and mobiles to Nehru and night shirts for fashion inspiration.

One designer flipped his drawing board and dreamed up a motorcycle suit styled after the ancestral Japanese kimono—fashioned it in hairy Scotch wool plaid, no less.

THINK THAT'S WILD? Read on.

High fashion, circa 1962, also is suggested by men's underwear (pardon the reference), a lion's mane, monk's hoods, cobbler's aprons, Madonna capes, tin lizzy dusters, togas, ponchos and horse blankets.

It's the greatest male robbery since Jesse James. Every type male attire—including spats—has come out as a female fashion this fall. Neither man nor beast seems to have escaped the designing ways of haute couture.

There's the sculptured look, the spare look, the Mati Hari look, the natural look, the Western influence, the Indian influence, the Cossack look, the Jules et Jim look.

It makes a gal not know which way to look.

There are muffled throats and mobile skirts, turtle necks and hooded cardigans, Espadrille breeches (long leather knickers adapted from, of all things, Spanish men's underwear!) and long john shirts, crash helmets and knee-high boots.

NO RUBBER stamp look, this season. Milady can be the last word in almost any fashion she chooses.

Oh yes, one thing we forgot to mention: the Little Red Riding Hood look.

You know, hoods and capes and all that stuff.

But this season, Little-You-Know-Who shot the wolf and draped it around her neck.

There's all that fur for fall, you know.

NEHRU NEVER KNEW,
we're sure, that his famous coat could go so glamorous—like Adele Simpson's

Concert Has Cruise Mood

—Staff Photo

NOT A WORRY, not a care. Three members of Symphony Guild (left), Mmes. Arthur Ebright, Darrell Neighbors and Robert Westmyer, play relaxed game of shuffleboard aboard passenger steamer docked here. That's the way to capture mood of Pops Concert "Mediterranean Holiday" evening, they say. Event, combining music and evening of dining and dancing, will take place in Lafayette Hotel Friday.

Patricia Morison, of Broadway fame, will be guest soloist for Long Beach Symphony Guild's fourth annual Pops Concert—a social evening of music, dining and dancing.

The concert, featuring a Mediterranean holiday mood, will take place in International Ballroom, Lafayette Hotel, at 8 p.m. with Lauris Jones conducting the Long Beach Symphony.

Preceding the concert, there will be a no-host cocktail party in the Cavalier Room. Dinner and dancing to the music of Roger Bacon's Orchestra will round out the evening.

Mrs. Timothy Spangler, 645 Sand Piper Drive, is in charge of reservations.

Mrs. John H. Dale, pops chairman, will be assisted by Mmes. Matthew Locks, Earl Marks, Robert Soth, Chalmer Donovan, Robert Westmyer, Richard G. Hanson, Duane Kuster, Raymond Lindgren and Arthur Ebright.

To carry out the Mediterranean theme, the ballroom will be decorated in a shipboard motif.

Gimmicks 'n' Gadgets Going Great

Today, everyone is out to build a better mouse trap—butter cutter, coffee heater, potato peeler.

Modern manufacturers are going all-out. They are dreaming-up, sparking-up and turning-out gadgets that grandmother never knew. The ideas may be oldies but not the shape, the push buttons, the levers.

And, in the kitchen, these inventors are most inventive of all.

Here are a few of the new. All are priced at $1 or less.

* * * *

THE COOKIE dropper. A spoon you say? That's quite passe. Stainless steel cookie scooper is what's needed nowadays. Drops batter without spatter, neatly and evenly onto any old cookie sheet.

* * * *

THE BUTTER cutter. Play fair. Don't serve guests uneven, lopsided little patties. Unique, nifty cutter turns a quarter pound of butter into 18 same-width slices.

* * * *

THE DOUBLE puncher. Tempered tool steel can opener to save tempers. Punches two holes in top of can of milk, beer, juice in one operation. Think of the time that's saved.

* * * *

THE THREE-WAY chopper. Chop-chop's the word for this one, all right. Spring action stainless steel blades go to work on just about everything from lettuce to beef. The chopper (which shreds, too) will even cut meat into cubes and can be used while vegetable or what-have-you is on the stove cooking.

* * * *

THE NO-DRIP food drainer. No tussle with slippery lids. This drainette (rust proof and heat resistant) fits over any size pot or pan. Makes draining liquid from cooked food a simple matter: no loss, no spatter.

* * * *

THE APPLE corer. It slices, too. Another stainless steel wonder, this gadget sections and cores an apple (or pear) in one operation. Good for kiddie concentrated families where apple munching is a must, or for the woman who cans her own food.

* * * *

THE COFFEE heater. For overtimers, travelers or garage putterers. For those who drink coffee everywhere—all the time. This quickie water warmer is a nifty friend. It consists of extension cord heater which plugs in any electrical wall outlet. Drop unit into cup and heat-up instant drink of java. Wonderful for persons who work late at the office—need eye-opener cup to keep going.

Disaster Hits U.S. Team

Going into the last day of the World Championship match, Italy had a 17 International Match point lead. With 48 hands to play this was surmountable.

However, they added 14 IMPs to their lead right off the bat when both American pairs went sour.

Opening lead—♣4

The bidding in the box occurred when America sat East and West. East's two club bid was Stayman and after East jumped to three hearts West should have bid either three no-trump or four hearts but West bid four diamonds whereupon East made a move toward a slam and wound up playing five hearts instead of four. South opened a club. North took the club ace and king and shifted to a diamond. East was down one and still had to lose a trump trick.

* * * *

THIS LOSS would not have been severe if something worse had not happened at the other table. Italy's East arrived at four hearts after a no-trump opening by his partner and South, deciding brilliancy was called for, opened the eight of diamonds.

This made the hand duck soup for declarer. He played a high diamond from dummy and after it held there was no diamond loser left. He still lost two clubs and a trump, but made his vulnerable game.

Nuptial Lines Recited in Formal Ceremonies

A princess style gown of bridal taffeta was selected by Esther Gertrude Linde, daughter of H. Daniel Linde, Lakewood, and the late Mrs. Linde, for her marriage to Lt. (j.g.) Robert Scott Dickinson at Bay Shore Community Church.

The newlyweds will reside in Long Beach following a Northern California honeymoon trip. A Stanford graduate, the bridegroom is stationed aboard the USS Lucid. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard N. Dickinson of Redwood City.

Included in the wedding party were Mrs. Lee E. Miller, matron of honor; Michael Benjamin, best man; Mmes. Duane Kofoed and Thomas Courtemarche, bridesmaids and the bridegroom's brothers, William Joseph and B. Neil Dickinson, ushers.

Knight-Gaudino

Three hundred guests gathered in First Christian Church to witness the marriage ceremony uniting Gay R. Gaudino and Bill L. Knight.

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gaudino, 3318 San Francisco Ave., and Mrs. James L. Knight and the late Mr. Knight.

Lyn Gaudino, maid of honor, was her sister's only attendant. Candles were lighted by the bride's brothers, Don and Rick. Debby Morgan was flower girl and Billy Dennistorin carried the rings.

Bill Harrison attended as best man and guests were seated by Dave Hodges, Gary Hudnall and Craig Hoover.

The new Mrs. Knight was graduated from Poly High School and attended Pacific Christian College. The bridegroom attended schools in Atlanta, Ga., and now is enrolled at West Coast University.

Trodick-Bock

Gerilyn Lee Bock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bock of Lakewood became the bride of Alfred John (Dick) Trodick of Anaheim in a service at St. Thomas of Canterbury Church. She wore a white lace wedding dress.

Carolyn Lee Bock, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mmes. Richard Watson and Ray Ellison were bridesmaids. Darlene Bock was junior bridesmaid.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Trodick, Anaheim, was attended by Harry Trodick, best man, and Richard Watson, Richard Stumph and Robert Bock Jr., ushers.

A graduate of Lakewood High, the bride also attended Cerritos Junior College. Her husband currently studies at Fullerton Junior College. They are residing in Anaheim.

Wilson-Stephan

A romance which began on the campus of Arlington College culminated in the marriage of Marilyn Kay Stephan and Charles Kent Wilson in College Park Church of God.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stephan, Hawthorne, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Wilson, Garden Grove.

Bridal attendants were Carol Klein, matron of honor; and Cindy Hatch, Norma Craddock and Alma Cox. Attending the bridegroom were his brother, Keith and Bobby Sargeant, Corky Schauers and Bruce Stephan.

Collins-Moore

At home in Long Beach following a resort honeymoon trip are newly wed Mr. and Mrs. James Collins (Mary Lou Moore).

Nuptial lines joining the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Prentice Moore, 1909 E. 59th St., and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Collins, 5720 Lester St., were read before 250 guests at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

The bride, wearing a gown of lace and peau de soie, was attended by Marleen Maxfield, maid of honor, and Karen Blain, Barbara Baum and LaVonne Hammond. Bridegroom's attendants were his brother, Hugh, best man, and Tyler Moore, Michael Collins, Robert Calhoun, Lawrence Powell and Richard Stancer.

The newlyweds both are graduates of Jordan High School. He continued studies at Long Beach City College.

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson ● I, P-T Women's Editor

(Editor's Note: While Women's Editor Iola Masterson is on vacation this column is being written by staff members.)

CURTAINS DOWN, shoe and hat boxes stacked outside the closet, broken tub faucet, the downstairs bath stripped of wallpaper. Zounds, we knew the hurrican season was here in the East, but didn't realize Bee and George Hart's bay side home was in the path.

"Fagged"

Blame actually falls to fervent but prolonged decorating in the Hart hacienda. Bee hoped all would be in shining new readiness Friday when she and George asked some 50 friends for cocktails to celebrate their 24th wedding anniversary.

But then little things like the new wallpaper being misdelivered to Los Angeles plus other aggravating delays made the situation almost funny. Bee just threw her hands up in despair and went ahead, planning around fresh paint and damp wallpaper. And the point is, the guests had such a good time that the disorder went almost unnoticed.

The Harts are ignoring the whole mess this weekend, for they set sail Saturday for Catalina on the "Joy" with Betty and Palmer Wentworth as guests and are probably this minute seeking island treasure buried by the Los Angeles Yacht Club.

MENTION windmills, tulips and dikes to the average statesider and his mind lights up in red neon, "Holland!" Fact is, these attributes we relish are mainly picturesque material for children's stories now. But how else to lead up to the news that Fred Chel, a native of Rotterdam, and Elizabeth are getting out the airline luggage for Fred's first trip to the homeland since 1946.

Eilzabeth's sister and brother-in-law, Lily and Bert Whitchurch, will come down from Scotland to meet them at the airport in London.

While the sisters exchange chitchat for several days in England, Fred will visit his father, Cornelis Chel. Later Elizabeth will trek to The Netherlands where a dinner party for them, being planned in great detail by Fred's sister, will include high school friends and teachers.

The trip is the Chels' way of saying happy 10th wedding anniversary to each other.

SIDEWALK CAFE opened Saturday night and closed the same night. Now this does not indicate that the cafe wasn't a smashing success. It was, with its crisp green and white chairs and umbrellas and overflowing flower cart. It's just that Vi and Lee Thompson were in the Ultimo Avenue cafe business for social reasons. Their cocktail-buffet introduced to their friends newlyweds Jerry and Nancy Thompson who honeymooned for almost three months in Europe and what is more European than a sidewalk cafe, we ask you? (Incidentally, the young Thompsons did a "small world" double take in London when they ran into Tom and Jody Biby Ramsey).

Live music volunteered by Jack Gray who is handy at the keyboard, and Dr. George Coates of Arcadia who strums a mean steel guitar, added zing to the already fun splashed party.

Little Club will pick up its needles Monday and thread through one another's summer activities during the semi-monthly layette sewing session in the pleasant confines of Virginia Country Club. To the gentle whir of machines methodically putting in seams, talented hands will feather stitch kimonos, robes and saques. Members have this all down pat, for they have sewed and chatted for 30 years. Dorothy Updike, president, will cease basting and scissoring long enough to conduct a short business meeting.

ALL DADDY DOES is go away and talk talk talk, and Melinda Muchmore has put her 10-year-old foot down. This week, as a birthday present, she will accompany Don as he campaigns for the state college and university school bond issue (that's Prop. 1-A on the ballot, citizens), and golly she may get even as far as Fresno. Melinda isn't nearly as impressed with the fact that Don is vice chancellor of California State Colleges as she is with being able to be with her own dad for a change. When elections are over, Don will tone down the voice box and take Virginia to Palm Springs to collapse happily alongside some sunlit pool.

"No yakking"

* * * *

Another little lass who is bound to be the apple of her father's eye is Jennifer Williamson who cleverly chose Sept. 24 for her birthday, same date Al chose 20-some years earlier. Great Uncle George Paap supervised her entry at Harriman Jones, and mother Sondra thus made grandparents of John and Madeleine Paap for the fourth time.

ENSCONSING daughter Sherry at Oregon State was the ideal excuse for Shirley and Bill Gillis to revisit old haunts northward. In Astoria, which they called home at one time, they renewed acquaintances with friends and spent a couple days in Warrenton in Nancy and Eben Carruthers' guests cottage. Refreshing, too, to be with Annetta and Joe Russ at their cattle and sheep ranch-on-the-Pacific (that jeep ride swooping up and down the hills was especially refreshing, putting it mildly.) The Russes have visited here often; the Gillis girls summered there, so it looks like a perfect central spot to meet for Thanksgiving.

"Got visitors!"

AN AUTUMN holiday took Audrey and Bob Langslet to Solvang, the Hearst Castle, San Francisco and back home via Fresno.

LIKE LEAVES falling from a poplar, invitations scattered 200 directions to friends of Bernie and Bill Swenningsen bidding them next Saturday afternoon to Pacific Coast Club to meet recently wedded Nancy and Bill Swenningsen. Predictable prediction: colors varied as a maple leaf in the women's dresses; cloth the gold of a falling aspen leaf covering the handsomely decorated table.

Bogdanoviches Plan Party for New Daughter-in-Law

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Bogdanovich will introduce their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Martin Bogdanovich, to friends and relatives at a party in her honor this evening.

The new Mrs. Bogdanovich, the former Korleen Dillabough, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dillabough of Philadelphia.

She and her husband married a year ago last August at Washington Memorial Chapel, Valley Forge, Pa.

They lived in Philadelphia where he has completed studies for an M.B.A. degree from Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania.

An alumna of Springside School in Chestnut Hill, Pa., the bride made her debut in 1956.

She then attended Pembroke College in Providence, R. I., the sister school to her husband's alma mater, Brown University. Both received B.A. degrees in 1960.

They will now make their home in the harbor area, where he will be employed by Star-Kist Foods, Inc.

* * * *

ATTENDING the party will be Martin's aunts, Geraldine Bogdanovich, Mrs. Walter Brewer, Mrs. Roberta Griffin, Mrs. Donald P. Loker, Mrs. Lucretia Tripps and Mrs. Nicholas F. Trutanic, and his grandmother, Mrs. Roland Swaffield.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Act While There's Still Time

DEAR ABBY: After ten years of marriage I have found out that my husband has been embezzling checks from the company for which he works. I stumbled on this quite by accident about two months ago.

He is a good husband and father. We don't live extravagantly and I don't know what he is doing with the money. We have three precious children and it would kill me if he was caught and sent to prison. I can't bring myself to tell my pastor or my dear mother. I don't want to discredit him in their eyes. I shall be watching and praying for you to tell me what to do. He doesn't know I know.—BURDENED.

ABBY

DEAR BURDENED: Tell your husband what you know—today! And insist, upon threat of exposing him yourself, that he confess to his employer while he may still be able to make restitution. The law will be easier on him now than later.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a beautiful girl, and after 10 years of marriage I am still crazy about her, but she can't hold a candle to my mother when it comes to housekeeping.

She's a romantic mate, a good cook and she isn't lazy. We have six adorable children and she's a terrific mother. I give her credit for teaching them to love each other, to share and to control their tempers. She never nags and asks very little for herself. But our house is usually upside down. It's an old house but my mother lived in an older house and kept it as neat and spotless as a hospital. How can I get my wife to be a better housekeeper?—UPSIDE DOWN.

DEAR UPSIDE: You are married to a beautiful, romantic, undemanding woman. She is a good cook and a terrific mother to your six children. Quit comparing her to your mother and count your blessings. You can't have everything—but you come close.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Last week I had planned a dinner party for a dozen people. The dinner was based on one main dish which I placed in the oven the afternoon of the party. An hour before the guests were to arrive I discovered my young son had fooled with the oven dials and, as a result, the main dish was uncooked. (It takes five hours in a slow oven.) I phoned the guests and postponed the dinner party. My husband said I should have prepared something else in a hurry or taken them out. What is your opinion?—ON THE SPOT.

DEAR ON: Your husband was right. Your guests would rather have had scrambled eggs or canned spaghetti than have been told to stay home. Real hospitality is not what is served, but how.

The couple, both active members of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Compton, will marry on Valentine's day. They will make their home in Santa Ana.

Chinny-Chin-Chin

A new idea in neckline fillers is a dickey with a turtle neck collar, offering the throat-covered look without the bulkiness of a sweater under a jacket.

For dress-up occasions are dickeys with velvet or satin ruffles up to the chinny-chin-chin.

Four Brides Wear Wedding Bands

Following their wedding at St. Thomas Episcopal Church and reception at Skylinks clubhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edward Helman (Sandra Diane Wonderly) honeymooned in Carmel. They are now at home in Long Beach.

The couple departed on a trip north following receptions in the church and in the home of the bride's parents.

Joan Hovey, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, while Edmund Gibbs was best man. Guests were seated by David Hovey and Donald Craig, brothers of the bridegroom and bride respectively.

The new Mrs. Hovey attended the University of Nebraska and was graduated from Long Beach State College with a major in social welfare. The bridegroom is attending LBCC.

Betts-Beeson

A portrait gown of white peau de soie etched with reembroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls was chosen by Bettye Jo Beeson for her marriage to Ens. Fred R. Betts, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Betts of Long Beach.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Beeson, Memphis, Tenn., the bride chose Mrs. Charles Carpenter, Mrs. Richard Bell and Carol Schaefer to attend her. Best man to the bridegroom was George Walker; ushers were Richard Bell and Charles Carpenter.

After a trip to Yosemite and Montana the newlyweds are at home in Long Beach. The bride, a former airline stewardess, attended Memphis State College. A graduate of Wilson High School, the bridegroom completed his studies at Stanford University where he was an Alpha Delta Phi.

Prince-Muschalik

In a candlelight wedding ceremony at First Orthodox Presbyterian Church, Myrna Mae Muschalik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Muschalik, Sunset Beach, repeated vows to become the bride of Paul Richard Prince, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Prince of Long Beach.

Dressed in gowns of autumn tones were the bride's attendants, Dorothy Grinager, Sue Chamberlain and Mrs. Kenneth Hoback. John Prince served as his brother's best man, while Louis Young and Garber Davidson ushered.

The new Mrs. Prince attended LBSC. The bridegroom, a Poly High graduate, is a student at UC, Berkeley, where he is an Alpha Sigma Phi. They are at home in Berkeley after a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe.

The big bow is back, blazing through new fall collections with beau-catching frivolity.

Choir-boy bows, soft and fluttery, adorn suits. Tailored bows accent waistlines and nipped back lines.

BOWS OF SILK, wool and sometimes velvet resemble butterflies with wing spans ranging from eight to 18 inches — and sometimes larger!

There are tilted bows at the waist, vertical bows at the shoulder and bows at both hips — fore or aft.

All designed as male bait, of course, to help a gal snag her beau.

CLEAN STORAGE. We're not quite as definitely seasonal in our fashions here as in the East, but we still have to hang things away in the closet for a long time. If garments are worth saving, they are worth cleaning before hanging! Spots and stains (even invisible ones) set and chemically change the fibers over a long period. They must be removed. MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION setting Tuesday aside as Day in Court for all legal secretaries is studied by those most vitally concerned: Superior Court Judge Joe Raycraft (seated left) and Municipal Court Judge Merrill Lillie whose courts will be visited; James Baker (seated right), president of Long Beach Bar Association, who, along with his fellow attorneys, will be sans-secretary for the day; and Florence Dolbee, president of Legal Secretaries Association of Long Beach, sponsors of the event.

Secretaries in Court

In tribute to legal secretaries of Long Beach and the nation, Mayor Edwin W. Wade has proclaimed Tuesday as Day in Court for all legal secretaries in the city of Long Beach, in conjunction with the National Legal Secretaries Association.

Being observed for the seventh year, the day will give secretaries an opportunity to attend court sessions under the auspices of authorities to study, first hand, procedures of the courts and to observe the inner working of the judicial branch of the government.

Past experience has proved that such Day in Court observances enable secretaries to become better acquainted with the procedures and rules of the particular courts — knowledge which increases their skill and competence as legal secretaries.

All secretaries, whether or not members of Long Beach Legal Secretaries Association, are urged to attend and all attorneys and law departments are being requested to permit their secretaries time off to attend at least a portion of the session.

* * * *

CHAIRMAN Lois Hiatt has announced that registration will be held at 8:15 a.m. in Room 210 of the Long Beach County Building, 415 W. Ocean Blvd., after which those in attendance will be welcomed by judges of both the Municipal and Superior Courts. President Florence I. Dolbee is in charge.

Registration in the San Pedro-Wilmington area will be in Room 607 of the Courthouse, 638 S. Beacon St., San Pedro. Hostess for the Day in Court program for this area will be Dorothy Meuser.

Major & Minor Notes

Laud Achievements of City's Musicians

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Long Beach has reason to be proud of the artistic achievements of outstanding musicians now resident in our area. There are others of distinction in our midst of whom I have already written, or of whom I shall write in future articles.

Julien Musafia, pianist, and assistant music critic of The Independent, Press-Telegram, and head of the piano department at Long Beach State College, has had a very active and successful season.

Despite the fact that in August of last year he broke his left wrist in three places while on vacation, and wore a cast for six weeks, he still managed to practice with the cast on and prepared a two and one-half hour concert of chamber music with violinist Israel Baker and cellist William Vandenburg, which was given in November in Hollywood.

* * * *

IN FEBRUARY he gave a four-hand piano recital with Michael Searott for the State College scholarship fund. In March he played a recital for the Women's Committee of the Long Beach Symphony and in April he played with a wind ensemble of State College the Liszt concerto, which he transcribed for band.

With the Inglewood Philharmonic he gave the American premiere of the "Variations for Piano" by the Norwegian composer, Knut Nysted, and played a chamber music concert with the Pacific String Quartet. In addition to his composing, Musafia has written a book, in collaboration with Morris Ruger, to serve as an introduction to contemporary idiom for the piano student.

* * * *

INVITED TO THE Tschaikowsky competition in Moscow last spring was Joanna Hodges, pianist. Unfortunately, an injury to her hand barred her from competing, but she had, however, a signal success in Rumania in five orchestra performances. In Bucharest she played the Khachaturian concerto with the Radio Television Orchestra; in Boboc she played two performances of the Tschaikowsky concerto with the State National Symphony Orchestra under Elenescu. In Arao she played with the Philharmonic Orchestra under Jan Huss the Khachaturian concerto.

Says Miss Hodges: "The entire experience was extremely rewarding. But one was made to realize that without spiritual approach to art, it is left dead—uninspired and without purpose. Unfortunately, this is the Soviet lack.

* * * *

VERNON OVERMYER, pianist, has had a season of rewarding success as accompanist and soloist on tour with the Lola Montez Dancers. In August he appeared as accompanist for the celebrated soprano, Shirley Verrett-Carter in concerts at the Redlands Bowl and in Oxnard. The critics were loud in their praise with such phrases as: "Mr. Overymyer's accompaniments were flawless" . . . "exciting accompaniments of Vernon Overmyer . . . "in all his accompaniment he provided the right atmosphere."

Later this fall, Overmyer will appear as soloist with the USC Symphony under Ingolf Dahl, playing Stravinsky's "Capriccio" and will also appear in two concerts with Mary MacKenzie, contralto, in San Diego.

Juanita Moore Stars in 'Purlie Victorious'

Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Blvd., opens its 1962-63 season at 8 p.m. Thursday with the comedy-drama, "Purlie Victorious," by Ossie Davis.

The star will be Juanita Moore who currently is playing in the Judy Garland-Burt Lancaster motion picture, "A Child Is Waiting," and Jackie Gleason's "Papa's Delicate Condition." She has appeared previously in "A Raisin in the Sun" at Magnolia.

* * * *

"PURLIE VICTORIOUS" has its setting in the cotton plantation country of the Old South in the recent past. Handling the role of Purlie is Bob Do Qui who recently appeared with Miss Moore in "The Blacks" in Los Angeles.

Jocie Dotson who plays Lutibelle studied theatre arts at UCLA and recently was seen in Los Angeles in the revue, "Fly Blackbird."

Carl Yates appears as "The Captain." Carl has appeared in "The Andersonville Trial" and "Send Me No Flowers" at Magnolia.

* * * *

NAPOLEAN WHITING, a veteran of 20 years of vaudeville, night clubs and television and movies, portrays Gitlow.

Undine Aulet appears in the role of Idella. She has studied at LBSC and teaches English in the Long Beach school district. Ted Cheadle and Richard Moore complete the cast. Reservations may be made by phoning the Magnolia Theater. Pat Brown directs.

'CRITIC'S CHOICE'

Don Kroll, in the "Critics's Choice," is the center of attention of his two wives, the second and current wife played by Nila Williams (left) and the first and opportunist wife featuring Norma Aagaard. As a dramatic critic, the leading man puts his professional integrity above romantic involvements in the sophisticated comedy at Community Playhouse.

Bud and Travis

Bud, Travis Head Bill

Folk singers Bud and Travis, together again by popular demand, will open Long Beach City College's 1962-63 "Evenings at Eight" season at 8 p.m. Friday in the college auditorium. A limited number of season books will be available at the box office.

Noted equally as singers, instrumentalists and gifted ad-libbers, Bud Dashiell and Travis Edmondson have been cited for their special blend of "styling finesse, droll musical mischief, spontaneity and sound musicianship."

* * * *

EDMONDSON is a native son of Long Beach, but received most of his education in Arizona, where he studied anthropology and became an honorary member of the Yaqui Indian tribe. He got into the entertainment field as a result of special research of folk music for Library of Congress.

After appearing at the Purple Onion and the hungry i in San Francisco, Edmondson toured with the Gateway Singers until he teamed up with Dashiell in 1958. The pair gained national fame during the next two-and-a-half years and won such awards as Best Musical Duo, Most Popular and Most Played.

'Browsing Room' Holds Interest for Artists

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A browsing room, rather than a gallery per se, has been added to International Gifts, 142 Main St., Seal Beach. The concentration is on drawings and graphics, although there are some oil paintings in the collection. There are some works hung in the gift shop itself as well as on the walls of the back room and the visitor may go through portfolios of unframed drawings and prints by local artists and through framed works stacked against the walls.

* * * *

JOHN LINCOLN'S drawings are marvelous; his mastery of technique has led him into experiments which intensify gentle shades of wash and musing line. Among these are two ladies' heads, one realized in conte, the other drawn in line, washed with bright orange watercolor hair and crowned with a collage of luxurious, Victorian flowers. Surrealism, whimsey, and satire influence the many works by Lincoln in this collection.

* * * *

DICK SWIFT has several of his graphics here, many of them familiar to the Long Beach public. "Othello and Desdemona," a many-hued seriagraph, has a medieval sinister quality which results from carefully-schemed contrast of dark and light.

Marvin Saltzman is represented by several high-color oils, a folio of brilliant black and white wash, line drawings and graphics. A framed study in thick and thin line, completely abstract, is outstanding.

* * * *

BETSY ZILLE is strong and facile in her several colored ink drawings. Ralph Palma works in disciplined ink line studies of the human figure. Similar works are present by Bob Paskin who also works in wash drawing of groups of females which are great studies in lights, blacks, and volumes. These are but a few of the artists shown here.

Grace Carnot, proprietor of the establishment, can, if pressed, furnish a wealth of interesting background material on these artists.

Bob Houser

Chef of the Week

Charlie Jekyll was telling me—

Don't despair for America's two-party system. Society and nature have provided a most durable evidence of its viability in an arrangement called marriage, wedlock, man and wife.

Charlie was talking fresh from another loss in one of his great kitchen debates.

"How," he asked with the emphatic despair of a loser, "How can citizens fear for the two-party system when such natural, and incompatible predators as man and wife survive in much more intimate quarters than the political parties?"

Farfetched?

"My own situation even started with a billboard of sorts. I sent her a picture of myself—a stern face looking right into the camera, my finger pointing hard, and the caption, 'Charlie wants YOU!'

"Her father said it was a cheap stunt—Madison Avenue technique. He told her she'd better consider the other candidates. And talk about politics — many's the night I heard the old man yell, 'Throw the rascal out!'

"Okay, take unfair campaign practices. The incumbent in my girl's parlor started a whispering campaign against me. She found a note I had written to myself, 'Send flowers to C. H.' Aha, she cried. And I said wait a minute; what's your name? Clara Hyde, she said. And did you get the flowers, I said. Yes, she said. And that'll give you the idea."

My image with Clara improved slightly. But when I told her I charged the flowers she said I was stacking up debts our grandchildren would be saddled with.

I tell you politics makes strange bedfellows.

* * * *

WELL, I WON the primary. You see, said Clara, the power a single vote can have—my mother's? And we were married on a platform of conservative liberalism with my father-in-law carping that it had been a popularity contest and that the issues had never seen the light of day.

The press gave us a honeymoon for awhile, calling me prominent and Clara beautiful and telling where we'd be "at home." Thereafter we were reduced to an occasional mention in the birth notices.

If we are to meet the challenge of the future, Clara said in one of our kitchen debates, we must plan for this great population explosion. My beers became fiscal irresponsibility.

Nepotism reared its infantile head in the nursery and young Jekyll got all the breaks and attention.

Dope trafficking, she screamed, when I jokingly ordered a child's portion martini when we went out to dine.

What happened to yesterday's campaign promises, Clara demanded, when the carpet developed scraggly threads among the old.

When I got the nerve to set her down on an item of wifely obedience and viewed with alarm her treatment of the recent vows, she said she had been misquoted in the ceremony, that the simple, 'I do' had been lifted out of context.

* * * *

AN ARGUMENT over the use of the car and I was blasted for a despoiler of civil rights and a scoffer at suffrage.

There were only the usual beefs about the bank balance, the entries unentered, the bank and Clara at odds. No indeed, I told her, that is NOT what the founding fathers meant by checks and balances!

Those mornings after, when Clara wouldn't show in the kitchen and I warmed up young Jekyll's fare for breakfast. You can't get by forever, I warned, feeding your constituents pablum.

Well, frankly, things got so bad I was feeling rundown and visited the doctor. He said this way of life is simply chipping away and eroding your constitution.

What in the world, I asked, can we men and women do in order to form a more perfect union?"

C of C Women Intensify City Beautification Work

Five sub-committee chairmen have been appointed for the civic beautification committee of the Women's Division, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

In making the announcement, chairman Mrs. George Taubman said the appointments come as another step in the group's long-range program for city beautification.

The chairmen and their committees are:

Mrs. Gustaf Erickson, entrances to the city (both buildings and lots); Mrs. Lloyd P. Mallin, publicity and promotion (a continuing program of education to make people clean-city conscious) Mrs. Francis Heusel, street approaches.

SINCE ITS inception last November, the committee's accomplishments have been numerous.

A Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week was successfully conducted in May, with an endorsement from representatives of 500 organizations who participated in the Community for Progress program here, also with the official support and cooperation of the City Council and Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

Participating groups include the Recreation Department, Park Department, Long Beach Board of Realtors, Downtown Long Beach Associates, Unified School District, Women's Architectural League, Architects Association, garden clubs, Junior League and other civic groups.

In cooperation with the civic beautification committee, the Long Beach Board of Realtors sponsored a "Build Long Beach Better" contest and DLBA accelerated their downtown tree planting program.

Seventy-four awards were presented to property owners for examples of beauty in city planning. The judging was based on improvement, design, landscaping and neatness.

* * * *

WITH THAT beginning, it is now the committee's plan to increase its activities, Mrs. Taubman said.

"Since it is realized that lasting results cannot be accomplished by a concentrated project once a year, we plan to make civic beautification a never-ending year-round program."

WHY GROW OLD?

Best Lose Weight, Men; Science Says You Should

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Almost as much research is being done concerning overweight as concerning hardening of the arteries. Since heart attacks, strokes, or vascular disease, are number one killers, and obesity has been shown to be hazardous to life, this is not a surprise.

Last year, at one of its meetings, the American Medical Association held a symposium pertaining to obesity and atherosclerosis. The following are some interesting conclusions.

* * * *

WHILE overweight is dangerous for women, it is a much greater risk for men in early years of adult life. Even in older years the mortality rates for obese men are almost twice that for obese women.

There seems to be no change or abnormality in body chemistry in the overweight person as compared to the individual with normal poundage. More and more emphasis is piling up that exercise is an important factor in maintaining the correct weight, and that lack of physical activity is an important factor in the overweight of many persons.

THERE IS evidence that periodic losses and subsequent gains in weight are not good for the health. It behooves us to achieve our ideal weight and then hold the line. If we will do this for a few months, the body seems to adjust and we can afford a few little food binges without the penalty of gaining weight.

Many young men feel that obesity is not dangerous for them. This is a fallacy. The greatest risks are for young men. Today, more and more evidence is accummulating concerning the important roles of exercise and the correct weight in maintaining health at a high level and in prolonging the youthful portion of life. We long have been aware of the cosmetic benefits of exercise and weight.

It's just as simple as this: cut your calorie intake to less than the energy you spend.

* * * *

IF YOU would like to have my calorie chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

THEN IT WAS THE JITTERBUG, NOW ITS THE TWIST

The 1930s--A Dividing Line for America

EDITOR'S NOTE—Reading headlines heavy with international threat, noting exploding crime statistics, watching the twist — an American sometimes wonders: is the nation moving forward, or backward? Seen through mists of nostalgia, the past often seems less frustrating, refreshingly simple. But pick a pivotal year from the nation's past, say, 1935. Now take a closer look.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

Discordant echoes from a disjointed time:

The din of PWA jackhammers scooping out Boulder Dam, and the clank of a million WPA shovels digging thousands of miles of new road.

Fireside chats. Dish night at the movies. Dizzy Dean and the Gas House gang. The furled umbrella and peace in our time. The Scottsboro boys.

LIKE THE TWIST in recent months, jitterbugging aroused frenzied interest in a troubled nation in the Thirties. Millions of movie goers remember Dimples, Shirley Temple (right), as she looked in "The Little Colonel" in 1935.

* * * *

"Knock, knock. Who's there? Albee. Albee who? Albee downa meetcha in a taxi, honey."

The fat man, bearded in blood, staggering out of the men's room of a Newark, N.J. tavern. "Bartender, gimme two nickels. Quick! Hello? Hello? This is Dutch Schultz. Send an ambulance. I'm dying."

* * * *

DUST STORMS blowing away the farms in the plains states. Cries of, "The river's rising, the river's rising!" in the Ohio Valley. Sitdown strikes. Race riots. Bonus marches.

Wizened old men and stern-faced women, 20,000 strong, filing off chartered buses in Chicago chanting:

"Onward Townsend soldiers, marching as to war
With the Townsend banner, carried on before—"

The Kingfish, tie askew, boyish forelock quivering with rage, roaring out his promise to make every man a king. The radio priest calling for a holy war against "the greed mongers of Wall Street."

* * * *

STRANGE new combinations of letters: NRA, TVA, REA, FHA, AAA — the New Deal's alphabet soup.

Strange new words: putsch, anschluss, lebensraum, blitzkreig.

Strange new signs: "Delightfully Air Conditioned." "Self Service Supermarket," "This Shop Unfair," "Ban Battleships," "Don't Shoot, This Car Does Not Contain John Dillinger."

* * * *

THESE were some of the sounds and signs of the Thirties: the depression years. The isolation years. The early Roosevelt years. The coming of the New Deal and the changing of the old order. The anxious calm before the terrifying storms.

Perhaps more than any other decade, the Thirties represent the dividing line between the America that is and the America that was.

Viewed across the abyss of time and misted over the shimmering light of nostalgia, the past can take different shapes for different observers.

* * * *

HERE WE ARE in 1962, exactly 17 years after the end of World War II. Even the most unfettered optimist sometimes finds it difficult locating any signs of improvement in the condition of the world and its people.

The daily headlines, certainly, hold little hope. A Soviet arsenal 90 miles off our coast in Cuba. The Berlin wall. Red China flexing its muscles. The war in South Viet Nam. The constant threat of atomic annihilation. Concern over which way the African and neutralist blocs will go in the cold war. Freedom rides north and south.

* * * *

THE THIRTIES provide comparable troubles, both global and national, and a comparable milestone year—1935—to judge our accomplishments and failures by. In 1935, as in 1962, America found itself exactly 17 years removed from the experience of a great war.

What lessons we learned or failed to learn from World War I were demonstrated that year when America turned its back on Europe and the rest of the world while Hitler reoccupied the Rhineland, Mussolini marched into Ethiopia and Japan overran Manchuria.

* * * *

THE SPIRIT of 1935—the midpoint in the Thirties and the point in our history as equidistant from World War I as we are from World War II, is reflected in microcosm in a trip the President took in October of that year.

Passing a ragged line of Pacifists, picketing the White House in protest against naval maneuvers in the Pacific, Franklin D. Roosevelt boarded a special train for a Western swing that enabled him to inspect some of the bigger work relief projects and eventually took him to San Diego. He was about to board the cruiser Houston to review the fleet when word came that Il Duce's planes were bombing Addis Ababa.

"Despite what happens in continents overseas," the President told a cheering throng in San Diego's football stadium, "the United States shall and must remain, as long ago the father of our country prayed that it would remain, unentangled and free."

* * * *

A FEW DAYS later, over the Houston's radio, he invoked the Neutrality Act, the first and stiffest of a series of congressional restraints on our delivering arms or aid to any nation at war.

BLACK-BOOTED ADOLF HITLER of Germany and Benito Mussolini of Italy stride through a crowd. In 1935 Mussolini attacked Ethiopia in the first of a series of aggressions by the two dictators along the road to World War II.

Today, with U.S. troops in Berlin and South Viet Nam and other trouble spots, with a Polaris submarine base in Scotland and missile bases around the world, without commitments in men and money to the United Nations, NATO and SEATO, with Peace Corps volunteers in dozens of countries, with our concern for the welfare of remote people and our responsibility as a world leader for maintaining peace everywhere on the globe, it is a little difficult to realize the isolationist mood of the country as few years ago as 1935.

* * * *

IN THAT year, when Japan walked out of the London naval conference because it wasn't allowed a fleet the size of Britain's when all of Europe except Finland was welshing on its war debts, when Capt. Anthony Eden, the lord privy seal, got nowhere trying to coax Hitler back to the League of Nations, most Americans concluded that all wars were the joint creation of a decadent European civilization and greedy munitions makers.

With a shrug, they wrote off Europe and concentrated on problems at home. There was certainly no shortage of them.

* * * *

BY 1935 the worst of the depression was over. National income was up 50 per cent. Automobiles enjoyed their biggest year since the crash. FDR could proudly report in a fireside chat that for the first time in 55 years the country had gone through 12 months without a bank failure.

Things were looking up all right, but the view was far from sunny. The apple vendors were gone from Wall Street, but in their wake came a million door-to-door salesmen. Hoboes and hitchhikers roamed the land. The nation's forests rang with CCC axes.

* * * *

YOU COULD buy a pack of cigarettes for 12 cents, a balcony seat at Loew's for 15 cents, a new Plymouth for $510, but a high school principal made only $1,200 a year, a good secretary $25 a week and it wasn't until 1938 that a minimum wage was established at 25 cents an hour with provision for a gradual raise to 40 cents.

As a comparison of federal budgets shows, our problem then was salvaging a nation—not a world. The biggest item in Roosevelt's $17-billion budget that year was $4.8 billion for public relief and it was the biggest single peacetime appropriation in history up until then. The biggest item in President Kennedy's $89.1-billion budget this year was $52.7 billion for defense. Between the two budgets, our national debt has jumped from $28 billion to $290.8 billion.

PUBLIC WELFARE, a government function now worthy of a cabinet post, was a relatively new concept in the Thirties, and the president was worried about its effects on the national morality. "To dole out relief in this way," he told Congress in his State of the Union message, "is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit."

To avoid direct handouts and provide some kind of useful work, the WPA was created in 1935. It made work for four million men, provided an inexhaustible supply of jokes about shovel leaners and snowdrift inspectors.

* * * *

MISERY was everywhere in 1935.

Floods lashed the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. Dust storms darkened the skies as far east as Albany, N. Y., and set the jalopies rolling along U. S. 40 and 66 in a mass exodus from the plains states to California.

—Associated Press Wirephotos

UNSEEN BY HIS vast audience, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's voice was a familiar one during the Thirties as he introduced his fireside radio chats. Today the President's voice and image are familiar in TV appearances.

In 1935 extremism in America was more than just a lunatic fringe. This was a time when the fires of zeal burned bright across the land, and spellbinding orators promised heaven in a relief basket.

DR. FRANCIS E. Townsend, a Long Beach, Calif., physician, claimed 25 million signatures on a petition to introduce his $200-a-month old age pension plan in Congress. Father Charles Coughlin, the radio priest with the scheme for radical inflation, had a weekly audience rating of 10 million listeners. Jim Farley figured Huey Long would poll 6 million votes on the strength of his share-the-wealth movement if he opposed FDR in 1936.

John F. Kennedy was a senior at Connecticut's Choate School, struggling to pass Latin and not mar an otherwise good report card. "We have definitely decided to stop fooling around," he wrote his father.

Papa Joe was glad to hear it. "I'm not expecting too much and I will not be disappointed if you don't turn out to be a real genius," he wrote back, "but I do think you can be a really worthwhile citizen with good judgment and good understanding."

Among evening newspapers, the Press-Telegram is FIRST on the COAST with the MOST COLOR ADVERTISING
the Independent is second in the morning field!

And in the entire United States, the Press-Telegram ranks ninth in the evening field in regular newspaper color advertising, and the Independent ranks seventh in the morning. The reasons for this leadership are consistently faithful reproduction of color advertising plus the effective family-coverage of these newspapers in the growing Long Beach area.

Many surveys show that color advertising out-pulls black and white by 50% and more.

Is Conflict Cause of Her Breakdown?

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Please listen carefully, I'm in love! Last summer I didn't believe in it because I was engaged to marry a wonderful girl. She was killed in a train wreck with another boy. It almost killed me to lose her, but the other boy is what really hurt.

So when my best boy friend came home and said he had met the girl of his dreams, I couldn't swallow it. I knew he'd just get hurt. But I didn't know it would be by me.

Because you see, I met her. She is short, but long on beauty with long brown hair and a pair of the most beautiful blue eyes I ever beheld. She wasn't in love with him, but suddenly I was with her.

She dates us both, and it has been curtains between him and me. She was nice to both of us, but she had a breakdown and we were both told to never bother her again.

She was very sick, but now she is the same girl and I want to see her again. I wouldn't hurt her for all the world. What shall we do now? Continue the rivalry?

—C. T.

DEAR C. T.:

Many things contribute to a breakdown, and perhaps the conflict between you and your friend was a part of her illness. At any rate, talk with her mother or someone who knows her well and get their advice whether you should see her or not.

It is important to give her a chance to recover fully before you reopen any conflicts.

—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm a boy with too many girls. I'm considered popular, and that's plenty for most fellows. But since the first of the year I have dated 10 different girls.

A month ago I met THE girl and we started dating. Now previous girl friends have cornered her and told her something. I don't know what they could have said, but now she wants to break up.

I've tried to find out what they said, but it's no use. She won't talk. My question is: What can I do to stop us from breaking up?

—CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:

Ask them — the girls, I mean. Evidently it's something devious and insidious (got a dictionary?). If there's no truth in it, tell them to clear the air with THE girl. Use your popularity-proof winsomeness. Quick, now.

—M. M.

Judge Slows Down Human Kangaroo

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Judge Gerald J. Klein said a traffic offender—one of the last of 200 cases he handled in a single night—paid a $10 fine and then hopped across the courtroom, bounding up and down.

"Why are you walking that way?" the judge asked.

"If I'm in a Kangaroo Court I thought I ought to act like a kangaroo," the man replied.

The judge sobered the defendant with a prospect of 48 hours jail time for contempt. Then he relented and released the man, after lecturing him on the dignity of courts.

Nation's Capital at Last Will Get Jet Airport of Its Own (in Virginia)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States builds the world's largest commercial jets—but try to reach the nation's capital in one.

To date jet passengers bound for Washington have had to deplane at Baltimore's Friendship Airport, a good hour's drive at midday to the heart of the town, assuming you find your baggage on time.

But all that is about to change. Washington is to have a jet airport all its own named after the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles. President Kennedy is to dedicate the terminal building Nov. 17.

* * * *

THE NEW airport is something to behold with a 178-foot-high control tower, which looks for all the world like a needle atop an elongated spool.

A graceful hanging roof suspended hammock-like by cables between supporting columns covers the 600-foot-long terminal.

Water rushing off the 2½ acres of roof during rainstorms feeds a man-made, 20-acre lake near the terminal. A $4 million, 250-room hotel with glass-enclosed swimming pool and rooftop restaurant is to overlook the lake.

Dulles occupies 10,000 acres in Virginia's Loudoun and Fairfax counties 27 road miles west of Washington, near the expanding village of Chantilly.

* * * *

IT HAS two parallel main north-south runways, a mile apart, each 11,500 feet long. There is also a 10,000-foot diagonal runway.

Says N. E. Halaby, Federal Aviation Agency administrator:

"This is the first airport designed specifically to handle jet transports. It will be the finest airport in the world."

The FAA is building and owns the jetport.

OUR COVER

Colorful fireworks and soft lights reflecting on the sea and sky contributed to the making of Southland's spectacular cover photo of the Long Beach Harbor, photographer John H. Neagle used a 4x5 speed graphic, f4.7 lens on high speed Ektachrome. The exposure was made on tripod, time, with lens stopped to f11. After a short exposure to record the city lights, slide was held in front of lens, then removed to record fireworks rocket bursts. Photo was made for Long Beach Promotion, Inc., for use primarily in advertising and promoting use of new Long Beach Arena, shown just left of fireworks bursts. The City of Long Beach plans to formally open new Arena with three-day open-house program Oct. 6, 7 and 8.

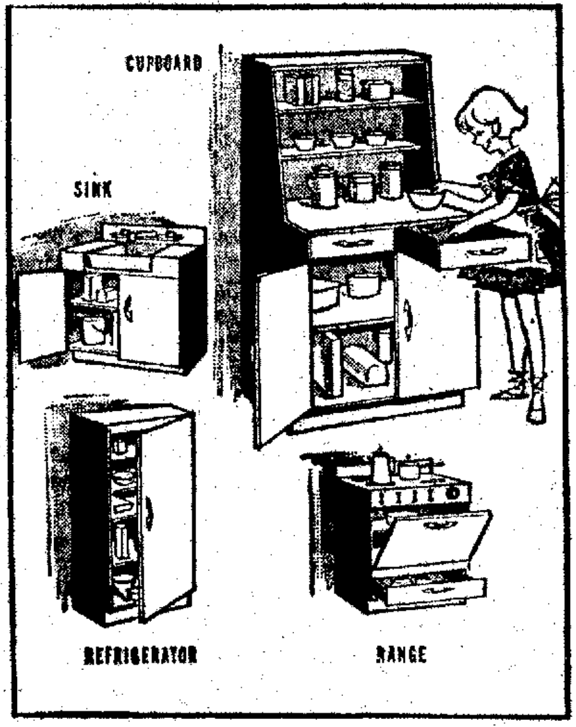
ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook



Little girls like to play grownups and a kitchen of their very own, like this 4-piece set, has big appeal.

By Bill Meyerriecks

FALL ARRIVES and those wonderful days when the children could play outdoors all day long fade into a memory and a mother's problem becomes: what can the kids do inside next?

If little girls predominate in the swarm that flutters in and out of your house, this week's Sketchbook project will solve your problem and give the youngsters hours of fun.

ALL OF THE miniature kitchen furnishings are made of ¾-inch thick wood, roughly two-thirds lifesize. Sink and range have counter heights of 24¾ inches. Both are 20 inches wide and 12 inches deep. The refrigerator and cupboard are 42¾ inches high, 20 inches wide and 12 inches deep.

TO OBTAIN Play Kitchen Equipment Plan S-73, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Pattern for a Spice Rack

AS THE SUMMER season nears its end, it's time to begin thinking about the indoor period ahead, lining up home workshop projects. And here's one for the home carpenter to start off with, perhaps readying it for a gift later on.

Pictured with Lynnette Mucelle, NBC television actress, is a handsome spice rack with handy towel and pot rod at the bottom. It's quaint, it's dainty and easily built at low cost, using a full-sized pattern to trace out the parts for cutting. Assembly is easy with detailed instructions and illustrations. Pattern gives the materials list.

To obtain the full-sized Spice Rack Pattern No. 269, send name and address and 50 cents to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: We are interested in the name of PETERS. — M. G., Lakewood; Mrs. C. P., Long Beach.

M.G., C.P.: PETERS, an old English name, was acquired from a remote ancestor baptized Peter, meaning "the rock." William Petres who used an early English spelling of this name, lived in Somerset in 1327. The Peters coat-of-arms from Kent has three red roses on a golden shield. Hugh Peters, 1599-1660 was famous in 17th century New England. He was educated at Trinity College, England; took holy orders in the Church of England. Then he emigrated to America in 1635. He became pastor of the church at Salem, Mass., in 1636; was elected overseer of Harvard College in 1637; in 1641 he was sent back to England to represent New England in trade laws. He actively opposed the restoration of the Stuart king, Charles I, for which he was hanged and quartered.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please trace FRANKLIN.—Mrs. F., Whittier; R.F., Westminster.

MRS. F., R.F.: FRANKLIN, an old English surname, came from "Frankeleyn," a term used for a "free man" who was not in servitude to a nobleman or baron. Frankeleyns paid taxes and entered military service. The family of the famous American, Benjamin Franklin, were yeomen and blacksmiths at Ecton, Northamptonshire, England. They lived at this town at least 400 years. A few miles away the ancestors of George Washington had their home. The Franklin coat-of-arms has two red lion heads on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What do you have on LIVINGSTON. —Mrs. N. O., Barstow; I. L., Long Beach.

N. O., I. L.: LIVINGSTON is Irish as well as Scotch in origin. The Irish clan MacDuinnshleibhin, meaning "Sons of the little lord of the mountain" modernized their Gaelic name to the phonetic spellings Levinston and Livingston. This Ulster lineage claim Donnsleibe O'Heochadha as their 11th century ancester. The Scotch Livingstons descended from an ancester who lived at the town of Livingston in Linlithgow. In this instance Livingston was respelled from Leofingsstan" deciphered as "Beloved one's fortress." The English Livingston coat-of-arms has three red five-leaved rosettes on a silver shield, with the motto, "If I am able."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give history on BASS.— Mrs. B., Long Beach.

MRS. B.: BASS is the result of an English respelling of the old French term "Le Bas," meaning "Of short stature." This personal descriptive surname was recorded in England by Nicholas Basse in 1327. The Bass coat-of-arms is a silver bordered black shield with no emblem on it. This family was famous in the early days of Massachusetts. Hannah Bass, descendant of Samuel Bass the American ancestor, was the second wife of Joseph Adams who was the grandfather of President John Adams.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on SNYDER. —D. S., Long Beach.

D. S.: SNYDER, from the German surname Schneider, is an occupational origin name meaning "Master-tailor of clothing." Schneider descendants ranked high among medieval nobility and were granted a coat-of-arms at Strasburg in Alsace, which was then part of Germany. The upper half of their shield has a red rose on a silver stripe across it. Early American records list Edward Snyder, born in Pennsylvania, 1793 and Nicholas Snyder, born about 1770, Bennington County, Vt.

DEAR MISS RULE: What are the sources of PUCCI, PATTI and BONITTA.—L. P., Lakewood; S.P., Long Beach, W.B., Artesia.

L.P., S.P., W.B.: PUCCI, PATTI and BONITTA strangely stem from the same Italian baptismal name. Giacobo or Iacobo (Jacob) meaning "the supplanter." Among the many medieval Italian nicknames and surnames taken from Giacobo and Iacobo were Iacopucci, shortened to Pucci; Iacopatti which evolved as Patti, and Giacobono which emerged as Bono and was enlarged to Bonitta.

WOOD. — Mrs. R.B., Long Beach.

R.B.: WORMWOOD may be either English or German. The British source was "Wurma-wudu," an early Saxon phrase translated literally as "dragon's-forest." The German source, Wurmholz, has the same primitive meaning.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze HENKE, HENCKEL and HINSCHE. — D.H., Seal Beach; M.T., Long Beach; M.H., Lakewood.

HENKE and HENCKEL are traced to an ancient German name-founder, Hagano, whose name meant "owner of hedged property." HINSCHE is a dialectical form of Hencke.

You Ask We Answer

By Hoskin

Q. Who was the first person to make a world globe? B. F.

A. This was probably Crates, an ancient Greek philosopher, who exhibited one about 150 B.C. The oldest globe now in existence was begun by a German, Martin Behaim of Nuremberg, in 1492. It is 20 inches in diameter and marked with 1,100 place names. Silver patches represent snow and ice, and flags, boats, fishes, and a mermaid are shown on the surface. The Behaim globe is in the Germanic Museum in Nuremberg.

Q. When was the first direct blood transfusion made, between persons? M. S.

A. The late Dr. George Crile, internationally known surgeon-scientist of Cleveland, Ohio, in 1905 performed what is believed to have been the first blood transfusion direct from the artery of a human donor to the vein of a human recipient.

Q. Where, in the Bible, is there a reference to a man who hanged himself because his advice wasn't taken? T. R.

A. In II Samuel 17:23. In the King James Version this reads: "And when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled his ass, and arose, and gat him home to his house, to his city, and put his household in order, and hanged himself, and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father."

Q. Where does the water in a spring come from? L. N.

A. The Geological Survey says that the ultimate source of the water of any spring is the infiltration of water from precipitation, or, in some places, from streams, at a higher altitude than the spring. In places where the ground water is under artesian pressure, it may rise along natural openings just as it rises in a flowing artesian well; however, for either artesian or gravity springs the flow is always due to the fact that the land surface where the water enters the ground is higher than the point of spring discharge.

Q. How many constitutions has the Soviet Union had? D. M.

A. The present one is the second. It was ratified on Dec. 5, 1936, at the Extraordinary Eighth Congress of Soviets and replaced the first constitution of the USSR, ratified in 1924.

Taking to the toes produces a healthy, graceful crop of coeds

Baby Ballerinas

By Mary Neth

Photos by Roger Coar

Pointed toe, away they go. Ballerinas-to-be practice in class. Front row, spirited kick; center, leaping changement; back, trying to make up mind.

BRIGHT-EYED baby ballerinas are keeping dance teachers on their toes these days.

Yesterday's terpsichorean trends are all but passe. Today's youngsters want ballet. And an estimated six million of them are getting it.

Result: booming ballet schools have new goals.

"Now, emphasis is on building self-confidence and grace and not in turning out pint-sized Pavlovas or ringleted little Shirley Temples," says a local instructor.

UNHAMPERED by stage-struck mamas (they've all but disappeared), schools aren't wasting time on frills.

Some even have cut out the costly but parent-pleasing recitals of the past.

"They were too time-consuming," explains one such studio owner. "We've replaced them with yearly examinations by London's Royal Academy of Dance. That way, if a whole class turns up with sloppy turns, we know it's the teacher who isn't in good form."

Graceful plier in first classic position. Young toes go every way, hands go astray. Later, arms and legs behave; first graders turn first raters.

Wrong feet slip forward as two pint-sized Pavlovas curtsy to teacher. She will have to unscramble them by demonstrating the step with a back view.

Though most instructors accept children from age 3 on, they suggest 6-year-olds as better beginners. Smaller tots are apt to become bored little ballerinas before getting off the ground, they warn.

Classes are generally held once a week, an hour at a time. The cost is such that ballet and a balanced budget both are possible. Neither tuition nor equipment (leotards plus soft dance slippers) are expensive.

THE BENEFITS? Upright posture, strong feet, well developed legs, grace, poise and highly developed coordination go hand-in-hand with a dancing introduction to western art and history.

And, where history is concerned, ballet can't be beat for color and romance.

The idea of the formalized dance was imported along with precious jewels and spices from the Orient by Marco Polo.

It made quite a hit in Italian courts of the day, where war-ready nobles found boredom their biggest battle.

That's where the stance (legs turned to the side) originated. For sword-swinging warriors it was the only pose possible—any other stance and those waist-dangling weapons were in the way. Later to give esthetic reasoning its due, the peculiar posture was found to be most flattering to view.

BUT BALLET didn't really become ballet until it arrived in France. The French developed it and while doing so codified the steps, too. Today, leaps, twirls and basic positions still retain French names.

Russia didn't get into the act, no matter what she might say, until much later when Peter the Great imported the dance in an attempt to westernize his country.

England adopted ballet during the Napoleonic Wars and deserves credit for adding finer points and setting classical movements.

The United States gave the dance its present popularity. Nowadays, one TV showing (20,000 viewers) wins a bigger audience than all Czar Peter's performances did combined.

BUT, IT TOOK the little girl down the block plus a movie to really perk up interest in pirouetting as a personal pastime.

At least, that's the way one ballet teacher sees it.

"The movie 'The Red Shoes' put ballet schools on their feet for the first time," says he.

"Every little girl who saw that movie—and many saw it five times over—left the theater with the dream of twirling before a romantic backdrop—a lovely prima ballerina."

A look at the tots taking to their toes today and one thing's for sure, they may not all become ballerinas but they will be a healthy, graceful crop of coeds.

Albacore Hunt

By Bert Resnik

THE PHONE sounded as excited as a three-alarm fire gong. It was Nat calling.

"The albacore," he gasped, "are running!"

Big deal.

"Amazing," I replied. "When did they give up swimming?"

It stopped him momentarily, but he came back strong.

"Such talent," he said without a trace of admiration. "Such wit. Why don't you save it all and write a book. Then I could be sure I wouldn't read it."

I have loyal friends.

"Look," he continued, "do you want to go fishing or don't you?"

Frankly, I didn't.

"Sounds great, Nat, but I don't have any fishing pole."

It was the wrong answer.

"Then it's settled," Nat said. "I've got two rigs."

Two rigs?

"Congratulations," I said, "but what are we going to use for fishing poles?"

He came back stronger.

"Look, wise-guy pencil-pusher," he delicately said, "are you going to just go on sitting behind a desk and let life pass you by?"

It was, of course, an adolescent question. It was as if we were once again children and he said, "I dare you." No man who has reached the maturity of experienced wisdom need heed the "dare."

A "DARE," in the true philosophical sense, is not a challenge to manhood. It is a mere needle prick to the ego.

Naturally, I regarded Nat's "life pass you by" query as simple child's play. It was something to be ignored unless one, indeed, was overly concerned with ego needles.

"What time will you pick me up?" I asked.

At 10:30 Saturday night Nat picked me up. A half hour later we boarded a boat that made my youngest son's plastic play-pool look like the Queen Mary in comparison.

There was something wrong with the dock.

Rock dock, rock around the clock, dock.

Ugh!

We f-i-n-a-l-l-y pulled away from it.

SHORTLY AFTERWARDS, our boat stopped by another sort of boating arrangement.

A husky chap on this boating arrangement deftly hoisted a hand net numerous times and loaded a sort of container on our boat with swarming beasties.

"Bait," said Nat. "He's putting the bait in our bait tank."

"Naturally," I said. "Even I know you can't fish without bait. Pass me a rig."

"What?" exploded Nat.

"A rig," I said. "You know, what you have two of instead of fishing poles. I want to start fishing."

He was patient with me, my friend.

"Not quite yet," he said.

Our boat made it safely past breaking water. The water was broken by some kind of a rock-like pier.

And happily we sailed on into the star-lit night.

THE SEA was as smooth as an active volcano with an acute case of hiccups—nasty word, hiccups.

I decided I'd go downstairs and lie down in one of the beds.

I went downstairs. I came back up—nasty word, that. I went downstairs. I came back up—up, up, up. I went, etc., etc., etc.

On my fifteenth trip, I shared a portion of the rail with a compatible traveling companion by the name of Jack.

"I was in the merchant marine for four years," Jack moaned, "and this is the first time this ever happened to me." He didn't seem inclined to say anything further on the subject, being otherwise occupied.

To tell the truth, I wasn't too interested in hearing any more, being likewise occupied.

SEVEN HOURS after leaving the dock, we slowed down near an island called San Clemente. I repeat—seven hours.

We then engaged in a great fish hunt, the process being expedited by a bait boy blithely tossing the swarming beasties overboard, one by one. This procedure is called "chumming," apparently derived from the hope that the albacore, their appetite whetted by the free samples, will chummily congregate around the boat and not see anything fishy about the hooks.

This is precisely what the albacore did.

I baited my hook, dropped it into the water and held onto the pole. It was truly a sporting occasion. All around me my fellow sportsmen were elatedly cheering on the fish.

"Gaff!" they yelled. "Gaff! Gaff!"

Companionably, I joined the fun.

Illustrated by Richard Wallmeyer

"The sea was as smooth as an active volcano with the hiccups."

"Gaff!" I shouted. "Gaff!" Gaff!"

THE SKIPPER came running with a spear-stick that was shaped at the end like a giant fish-hook.

"Where?" asked the skipper.

"Where what?" I replied.

"The albacore, the albacore," said the skipper.

I informed him that I hadn't quite caught one yet, let alone two.

He took my pole, put on a fresh bait and threw my hook far back into the water—a process called casting. He held the pole 10 seconds. The line on the reel went zing!

"Follow the fish," he ordered.

As if I had a choice.

It led me first around my friend Nat whose pole was frantically bending up and down and whom I inadvertently bumped.

"Pardon me," I ventured.

Nat snarled. I mean literally.

"Look," he snapped. "One thing you got to learn. When you hit albacore, there are no friends."

THE ALBACORE next led me around the boat to a rendezvous with my railbird partner in misery, former merchant mariner Jack. It was a rendezvous for more than two. For my albacore and Jack's albacore had a jolly game of ring-around-the-rosy. Trouble was our fishing lines got tangled together like a pair of love birds who had been separated for three years.

The skipper came over. He didn't say a word.

You have no idea of how loud contempt can be when it is speechless.

The skipper untangled the tangle. My fish was still on the line. Jack's wasn't.

Jack snarled. I mean literally.

It was like Nat said. There are no friends on an albacore boat.

Thirty minutes later—again literally—the skipper came over with his spear hook and gaffed—I learn fast—my fish.

I was dead tired. I wasn't sure whether I had caught the albacore or the albacore had caught me. I retrieved the poor bleeding devil from the deck — the fish, not me — and walked downstairs where I got an empty potato bag from a cupboard.

THE ALBACORE in the bag, so to speak—ha, ha, that's a finny one—I hung him up to dry alongside the bait tank.

The albacore had stopped running —I learn fast—and the skipper started to mount the bridge — nautical terminology, of course—when he suddenly stopped. He then proceeded to have a case of instant apoplexy.

"Holy Toledo!" he screamed. "Who is the stupe that took a bloody albacore down into my cabin?

"Look at all that (profane, profane) blood.

"Who is the (profane, profane) idiot that pulled such a (profane, profane) stupid trick?"

It has been said that discretion is the better part of valor. Discreet I am not. But honesty is another virtue. And it is a virtue at which I shine.

I admitted I was the "stupe."

THE SKIPPER wasn't overwhelmed at my shining honesty. He shoved a bucket of water at me and a rag.

"Clean it," he ordered.

He had his colossal nerve. Who did he think he was, Capt. Bligh? I was a paying passenger. The customer was always right, wasn't he?

I cleaned it.

A seven-hour return voyage can go much faster when you're cabin-cleaning. That, of course, is an advantage. It would have been a bigger advantage if the ocean cooperated. It didn't. More volcanic hiccups.

Land at last and oh, Columbus, wherever you may be, I know how you felt.

I STOOD on the land and looked again at my fish—my one solitary albacore.

What it had cost me in terms of meniality, lost friendship, evaporated self-confidence and wounded feelings, I would never be able to measure adequately.

I looked again upon my one solitary albacore.

You know something? It was worth it.

He was famed for his part in building a railway up a mountain, but Professor Lowe was also

California's First 'Astronaut'

Forerunner of the many devices that man has used to navigate the air, this early-day balloon is of type Professor Lowe used in observations.

By Eileen Heil

AERIAL reconnaissance is so important that the government is trying to establish platforms for this purpose in space but the man who first proved the worth of military observations is remembered only by a mountain peak near Pasadena which bears his name. Every plane that travels at a certain altitude to take advantage of the prevailing air currents uses the truths that he proved. But Professor Thaddeus Sobieski Coulincourt Lowe's story starts across the continent, at a place called Pea Ridge, near the South Carolina border.

The cook fires were glowing that damp, cold April morning and, as in all armies, the soldiers were grumbling as they prepared their morning meal. Silence fell as the sharp challenge of a sentry rang through the camp. Shortly, the sentry came in sight, using his rifle barrel to herd along a strange looking man.

"It's a man from Mars!" gasped a soldier.

Nobody could blame the man for thinking this stranger had come from outer space. For he was clad in full evening dress, including cape and high silk hat. To these soldiers from the hill country, he was a strange sight. The man tried to tell his story but nobody would listen. They passed the responsibility on to a higher officer and then another. Finally, the professor was taken to the tent of the commanding officer.

There he told how he had long believed that the air currents up above the surface of the earth always blew in the same direction and he had wanted to prove it. He waited days for the winds on the surface to be just right and when the time had finally come, he was at a banquet in Cincinnati. Only pausing to get a few copies of an extra edition of the paper, describing his feat, he went aloft in a balloon just as he was, without even changing his clothes. He offered the newspaper, with the ink still wet, in proof.

But Cincinnati was 900 miles away and to have reached this point, he would have had to travel 100 miles an hour. So the Confederate officers, understandably nervous for this was just a week after their soldiers had attacked Fort Sumter, refused to believe him. They condemned him for a Union spy and ordered him shot.

According to one report, a courier rode up at this point. "Professor Lowe," he supposedly said, "what are you doing here? I thought you were still in Charleston."

With this verification of his story that he was a man of science and totally uninterested in army tactics, they released him and escorted him back to the Union lines under a flag of truce.

Professor Lowe made much of this incident in later years, claiming he was the first prisoner taken and released by the Confederacy. If the soldiers had realized what a terror he would prove to their forces, they might have reconsidered.

Professor Lowe had seen a great deal of the army from the 7,000 feet he had reached as he drifted over the encampment and he promptly went to Washington to try to interest President Lincoln in using balloons for observation. He made several ascents from the grounds of the Smithsonian Institution. He was appointed chief of the aueronautical section for the Union Army.

President Kennedy received messages from space via the Telstar but he wasn't the first President to receive a message from the air. On June 18, 1861. Professor Lowe sent a message to President Lincoln designed to prove the worth of the aerial eye. The message used telegraph wires dangling from the balloon. The message read: "The city with its girdle of encampments presents a superb scene."

It seems strange to a nation that can hit a pinpoint in space but the guns of the Confederacy did not have enough range to shoot down the balloons and Professor Lowe and his associates could take leisurely photographs and drawings of the enemy's fortifications and maneuvers. His observations saved the army of the Potomac in the retreat from Richmond and during the Battle of Fair Oaks. But during the withdrawal to the James River, Gen. George McClellan lost his baggage and Lowe's balloons and generators for making the gas for them. That was the end of ballooning during the Civil War for the Union but it had been used from the Battle of Bull Run to Gettysburg.

Every school child knows the inventive genius of Edison but Lowe, a contemporary of his, is almost unknown. Yet whole industries have been founded on his discoveries. He is considered the father of cold storage, for he made the first artificial ice and shipped the first shipload of fresh beef from Galveston to New Orleans and after a 10-day voyage, it arrived fresh and palatable.

He invented a method of making illuminating gas which was widely used before industry started making use of the natural gas from oil fields.

California remembers him best for his connection with the Pacific Electric Railway that once linked Long Beach and her sister cities with loops of steel. The pride of the system was an inclined railway that ran from a point above Pasadena up Mount Lowe. Professor Lowe designed and built the railway and the hotel at the top. He had grand plans to enlarge the hotel and build another chalet on a neighboring peak. Connecting cars were to run on cables over the gorge between the two inns. But before he started, the nation went through a depression and by the time that was over, another inventor and his invention had brought an end to the professor's dream.

For the automobile was invented and as families began to own their own cars, interest in trips via the interurban railroad dwindled. Today, only the name of Mount Lowe is left as a memorial for the early airman.

Many parents are concerned that their children spoil their lives by marrying too early. A detail of Professor Lowe's early life might encourage those who feel that way. He married very young for his day, most authorities say 22, and probably never completed a formal education. The title "Professor" is only a courtesy one, given all balloonists in the 19th century. But this was no obstacle to him. He went on to accomplish so much before most of the events described here that he was one of the 10 men picked posthumously by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce as their Man of the Year for 1861.

Photos from the files of the Library of Congress

Thaddeus Sobieski Coulincourt Lowe, bearing the honorary title given to balloonists, "Professor," left his mark and his name in California history.

For Cascades

Growing plants atop a retaining wall or in a raised bed and letting their color cascade over the side is an eye-catching trick of the gardener's trade. Not all plants will oblige by growing down instead of up, however.

The California Association of Nurserymen lists the following as good subjects for this treatment: Ivy geranium, convolvulus mauritanicus, lotus Berthelotii, lantana and lobelia for sunny spots; trailing campanula for sun or shade; and hanging fuchsias for shady corners. Star jasmine is one of the best and very easy to care for.

How to Handle the Saucy Saucer

By A. C. McLeod

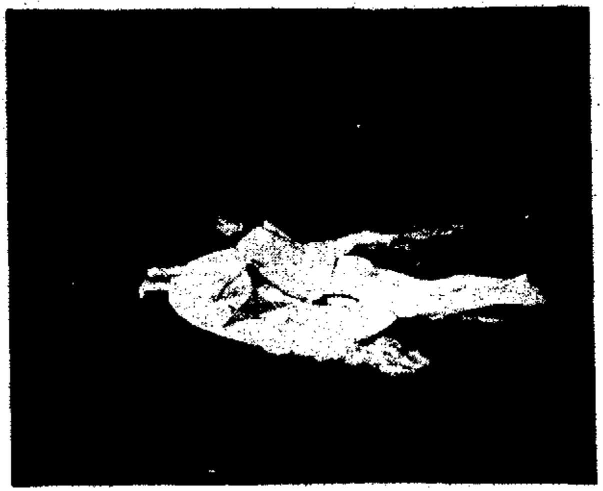
FOR THE PRICE of a few tanks of fuel, the man who owns an outboard boat powered by even a fishing motor can buy everything needed to enjoy disc riding. Boat and motor size are not important as 10 mph is considered an ideal speed. A disc, tow line and life jacket are the only other things needed. Discs, sometimes called saucers, are usually made of marine plywood and are 3 to 3½ feet in diameter.

The tricky disc is quickly mastered if the following points are kept in minds, says Tom Dorwin, water ski adviser for the Evinrude Boating Foundation. The first step is to lie on the disc with your feet out straight behind and on top of the water. Weight of the upper body should be placed on the elbows with the arms extended forward and kept flat on the disc. The tow bar is held with both hands which are extended over the leading edge of the disc.

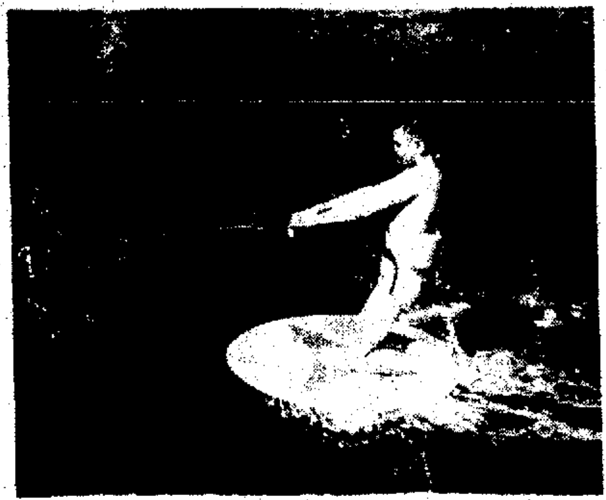
AS THE BOAT pulls the disc to a plane, slide your knees forward and get into a kneeling position. Then slide one foot forward and place it flat on the disc. At all times remember to keep the bulk of your weight slightly to the rear of the disc. This will keep the leading edge higher and prevent it from nose diving.

Next comes the ticklish part — standing up. To do this, balance your weight with one hand on the disc while the foot on the same side is slipped forward. Keeping your weight behind the center of the disc, stand up with your feet from 12 to 18 inches apart.

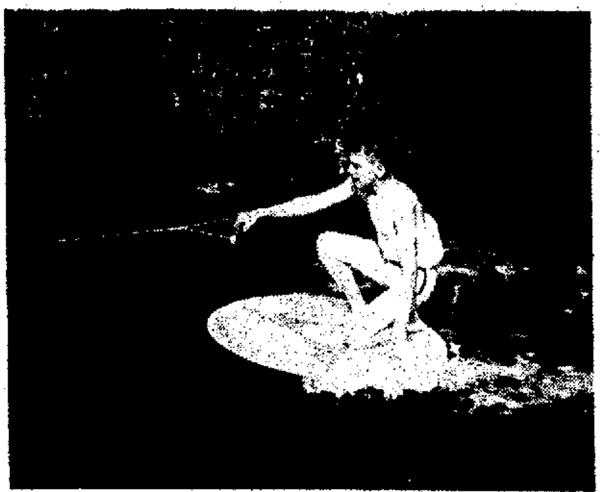
That's all there is to it, says Dorwin. Learning to ride the disc is quite simple, and before long, most beginners are even doing tricks.



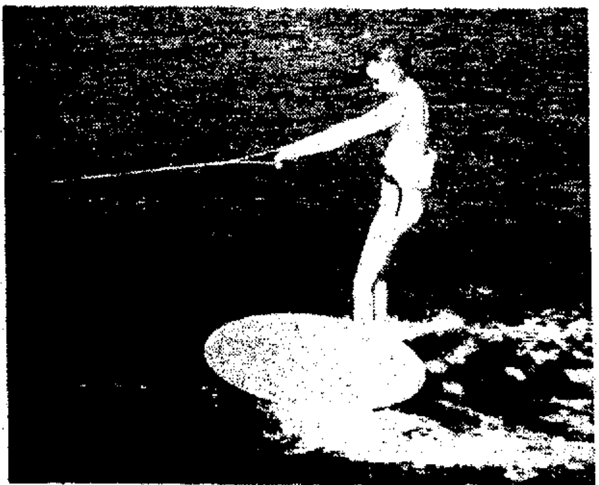
Learning to ride, lie with your legs trailing behind and on top of the water. Place weight of upper body on elbows, extend arms. Hold tow bar with both hands.



As the boat picks up speed and disc comes to a plane, slide one leg forward, then other to get to kneeling position. Balance is important; keep weight to rear.



To stand, slide one foot up and place it flat on disc. Balance weight with one hand on disc, slide foot on same side forward. Take tow bar in both hands and rise.



When standing, feet should be 12 to 18 inches apart. Stand behind center of disc to keep leading edge from nose diving. Keep knees flexed and lean back slightly.

Matriarch Junction: Town of No Men

By Nino Lo Bello

GO TO SAPUTELLI, central Italy hilltop town some 50 miles east of Spoleto (of Giancarlo Menotti's "Festival of Two Worlds" fame) on any day of the week, and you'll be impressed by one big fact: the town's only residents are women. Dubbed the "Town of No Men," Saputelli is probably the only distaff Dogpatch to be found anywhere in Europe.

In Saputelli, which has an official population of 300, every chore is carried out by the weaker sex. As you look about, you notice that the postman delivering the mail is female. Pushing 30, she reminds you of Gina Lollobrigida, above the neck and below.

You note also that the dozen construction workers building a house are women. The street cleaner is a woman. The pistol-packing mama serving as the only law enforcement officer is a woman. The driver handling the bus to nearby Germignano and Teramo is a woman. The town blacksmith is a woman. The court judge is a woman. and so on . . .

SAPUTELLI, in spite of the absence of males, is a thriving Abruzzi hamlet which bases its economy on agriculture. The dozens of farms that dot the hilly countryside around Saputelli are all worked by milady, ranging in age from 8 to 48.

Okay. So what happened to all the men?

The fathers, husbands and brothers of Saputelli today are found in Australia, Venezuela and Switzerland where they have gone to hold down jobs. Like many other small towns below Italy's invisible equivalent of the Mason & Dixon line (which separates rich North from poor South), dire poverty has forced able-bodied males to migrate to more lucrative areas—either to the northern industrial cities of Turin and Milan, or to foreign countries which need extra hands.

Even though there are no misters around, the unwed girls here who have rolled up their sleeves are not in the least worried about becoming old maids. It seems that the absent males of the town of Saputelli, which is also the surname of every family living here, took an oath that they would not marry a foreigner. On a Bible each and every man swore, in solemn public ceremonies, to come back to Spatutelli for a wife when he was financially ready for the big step.

The flood of "No, No!" replies that came back was decisive. Fully 100 per cent of the men reasserted their original vows of marrying a Saputelli woman, adding strong P.S. paragraphs to the effect that the Caracas defecter would some day get his comeuppance for disgracing the fair name of the town and family.

SO LIFE is back to normal around here. The women have calmed down, and the daily chores proceed as per usual. As 21-year-old Maria Saputelli, a bricklayer, said while she skilfully curled some excess cement off a brick she had just fitted into place:

"My finance lives in Venezuela. He hasn't forgotten me. I expect him this year."

As things are going now, eventually Matriarch Junction will end up woman-less, as well as man-less in their view that civic pride being the nice thing that it is, it's much nicer to have a man around the house.

In Saputelli, Italy, women do all the work; laying bricks, for instance. In fact, town's entire population is feminine.

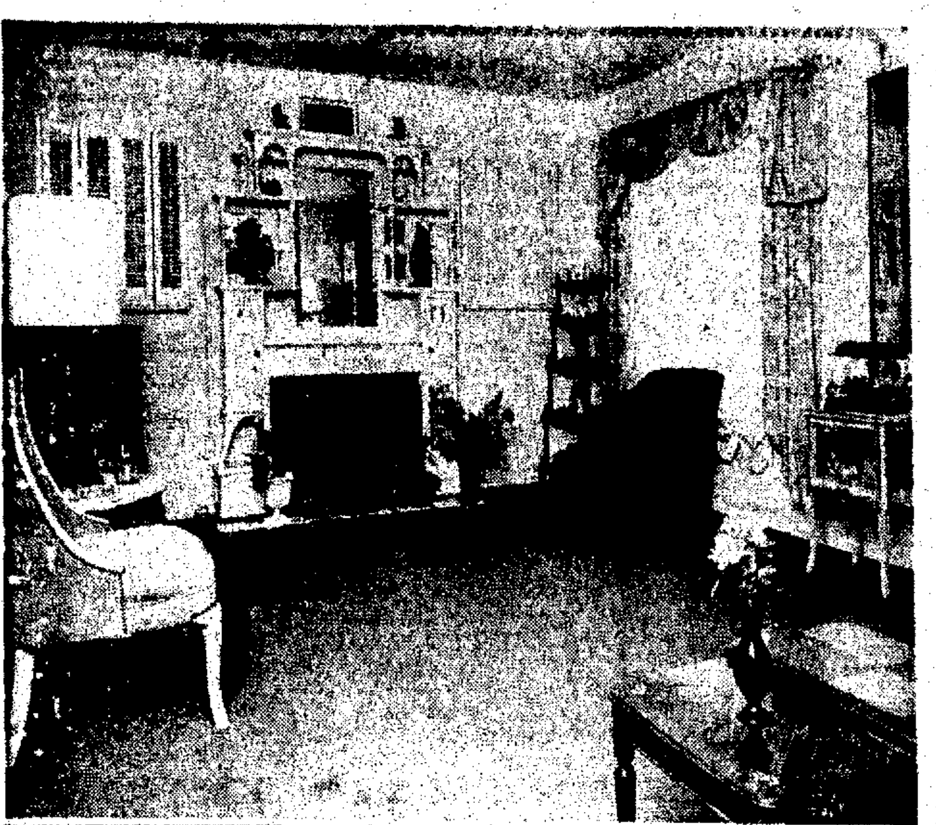
SOUTHLAND HOMES

Modest Home With Big Ideas

By Stella George



Saved from discard, this fireplace unit was restored to present identity in home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lakin.

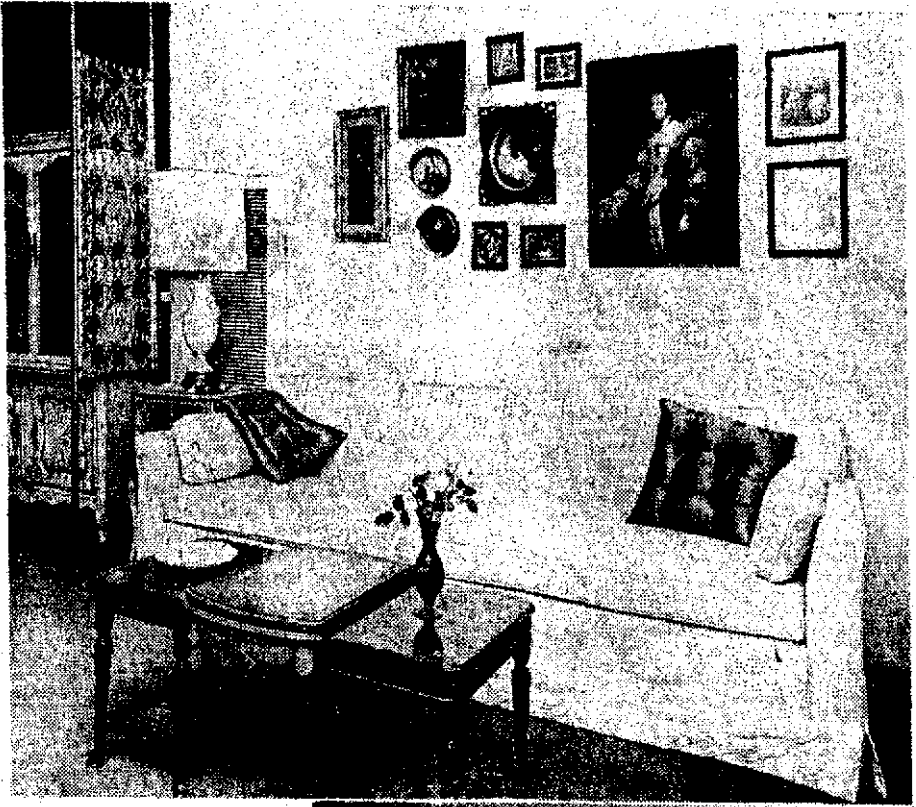
COLOR and elegance in surprising degree mark the interior decor of the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lakin, 1339 E. 57th St., which makes no more than a modest presentation from the exterior.

Bright red, thick carpeting covers the floors of living and dining rooms which open in quick succession from the front door. A white couch lines the wall at the right of the living room, facing an inlaid walnut coffee table. On the opposite wall a white fireplace unit attracts attention, which, indeed, it should. Once upon a time, it was a "junk" piece salvaged by Mrs. Lakin. A woman of imagination, she saw its possibilities and acted accordingly: an imitation fireplace section is lined with marble-like tile. The unit is painted white. Mirrored sections of plate glass are highly polished and the unit is tastefully ornamented to enhance its lines.

LIKE THE COUCH, the velvet chairs in the room are new, but many other pieces are in the same category as the fireplace unit. The console radio, too new to be an antique and too old to be modern, is an example. It recalls the old-time era of console radios encased in walnut cabinets which stood on high legs. In their day, these radios were fine pieces of furniture; but now they are virtually junk items. Mrs. Lakin bought such a radio and refinished it to resemble a French provincial piece complete with decals that look like engravings. It stands with pride in one corner of the room, and the radio itself still plays music beautifully.

Mrs. Lakin calls her decor "mostly Salvation Army", but it is doubtful that anyone would agree. She has managed to blend inexpensive discards with new acquisitions to achieve a pleasing decorative theme. The old drapes unite well with the new shutters on the windows in the living room.

The antique dining room furniture contrasts well with



This interesting picture arrangement over sofa actually is a collection of inexpensive items of this-and-that.

Rumpus room and kitchen are combined and form the most-used area of the Lakin home. Knotty pine lines the walls, furniture is comfortable, the table and bar are for dining.

Dining room, as seen from front entry. Divider at right adds an attractive touch in contrast to textured paper.

the red walls in the background. What appear to be fine silk drapes on the wall at the left are actually inexpensive flowered plastic, with hand made valances of the same material across the top. A plastic white filigree screen is a partial divider between living and dining room, partly hiding the china cupboard just in back.

THIS HOME is much larger than a front view indicates. A door from the dining room leads to a large and spacious rumpus room and kitchen, a combination of rooms designed for everyday family enjoyment. Directly upon entry is the kitchen area, warm and homey with knotty pine walls. In the center of the kitchen is a table for dining. A low bar separates the rooms at the left side. The rumpus room area is furnished with comfortable chairs and a couch, with a TV in the center of the far wall. This large room combination represents an addition to the home which once consisted of living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, and a bath.

The master bedrom has midnight blue walls. The furnishings are interesting since, once again, they had their humble beginning as "old Salvation Army". Old headboards are now antique white, matching the vanity. There is a sentimental touch in one corner: three little dolls on a chair, one of which belonged to Mrs. Lakin's grandmother, one to her mother, and one was her own as a little girl.

The teen-age daughter's bedroom is attractive with flowered plastic drapes, which resemble silk from a short distance, across the far wall. A third room, very tiny, is adequate for a den. Mrs. Lakin covered the small portion of the wall which needed papering with a smart, textured green.

Tips on Research

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

QUESTION: "My son, who has just started junior high school, is suddenly getting assignments of a kind he never had before—long lists of questions about government and history. He's never had any training on how to do research, and a lot of these questions aren't answered in the reguler textbook. Any suggestions would be appreciated."

ANSWER: Logically, the teacher should make sure his students know the rudiments of research before assigning them work requiring research. He has a limited amount of time, however, in which to do everything required of him, so the chore sometimes falls to parents.

First, the child should be introduced to some of the standard sources of information and trained to judge which of these sources is most likely to contain the desired information.

The useful, acceptable, and available sources include encyclopedias, dictionaries, the World Almanac, the New York Times Index, and the subject cards in the public library.

PROBABLY THE MOST useful sources for beginners are the World Almanac and encyclopedia. But a word of advice about the latter source. The major, venerable encyclopedias whose names are so widely known may not prove to be the most helpful. For the source should be one which the child himself can read and understand, one in which the needed facts are relatively easy to find. For his purposes some of the less famous encyclopedias, written for children and containing but a few essential facts on each subject, may be better suited.

Sometimes it is necessary to go to books other than encyclopedias.

If you do not know how to use the file cards in the library, take the child to the librarian and ask for help. She'll be delighted to explain how the cards are used to direct you to specific books.

When he finds the information he is seeking in a book, the child is tempted to write it down word for word. He should be encouraged, however, to write the fact down in his own words. This makes him think about it, and he learns it instead of merely copying it.

For the average youngster of 12 or 13, research is difficult. Adult direction is required. But adult participation usually should be limited to suggesting sources and how to use them. Let the child himself make the actual discoveries of fact.

Tarita, 19-year-old Polynesian girl who appears opposite Marlon Brando in "Mutiny on the Bounty," stands on a cliff high above the waters surrounding Tahiti. At anchor in the background is H.M.S. Bounty, the wooden vessel built by MGM expressly for the film and sailed to Tahiti to appear in the spectacular production. Tarita, a native of the neighboring island of Bora Bora, had never heard of the Bounty nor, for that matter, of Hollywood, or Brando, who plays the role of Fletcher Christian until she was selected for the top feminine role in the picture. Trevor Howard is cast in the part of Captain Bligh. More than 5,000 Tahitians and 1,000 canoes were used in one sequence.

MEDICINE AND YOU

A Heart Does the Unusual

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

A CLEVELAND doctor reports the unusual case of a man who remained conscious while undergoing closed-chest massage to restart his heart.

Ordinarily a person who undergoes heart massage remains in a coma during the resuscitation period.

The patient who remained conscious during the procedure was a 63-year-old man who had had a heart condition for several years. He had been living with a low pulse rate—only 20 to 40 beats a minute.

His heart stopped beating while in the hospital. Four minutes after closed-chest massage was begun, his respiration became normal, and he was conscious during the 35 minutes the procedure was continued.

Dr. George M. Bernier reports in the AMA Journal that the patient was discharged from the hospital a month later. A year afterward the patient was working on a part-time job.

ACCIDENTAL biting of the cheek, while painful, is far less serious than it looks, according to Dr. Robert I. Schattner, scientific director of a pharmaceutical firm.

Dr. Schattner, a dentist, says that the damage done to the cheek membrane causes an ugly swelling which looks infected. But what looks like infection is usually just a collection of dead tissue.

Soreness can be relieved by a preparation called Chloraseptic, he says. The medication, which requires no prescription, is sprayed onto the self-inflicted bite. It may be swallowed by a child without harmful effects.

WILD TOBACCO leaves, mistaken for collard greens, recently caused the death of a 7-year-old Southland child, the State Department of Public Health reports.

The plants were picked in the yard of a vacant house, washed, boiled with strips of bacon and served to a family of four. An hour later all four became dizzy and nauseated and had difficulty in swallowing, talking and seeing. Two members of the family, including the 7-year-old, were hospitalized.

Wild tobacco is native to Argentina. It was brought to California by the Spanish padres.

THE BROWN SPIDER (Loxosceles reclusa), common in the central and southern U. S., has been blamed for two cases of acute anemia in children.

One of the spider-bite victims, a 6-month-old girl, died in a hospital an hour after admission despite a blood transfusion and hormone treatment. She had been bitten the previous day.

The other child, a 4-year-old girl, recovered after a transfusion and treatment with hormones and antibiotics. She had been bitten near the left ear.

The report is in the Journal of the Oklahoma State Medical Association.

HICCUPS CAN sometimes be halted quickly by simply drinking four or five swallows of juice from a can of pineapple, says a Tallahassee, Fla., physician in the AMA Journal.

A DRUG called Dianabol, given to 42 underweight patients on geriatrics wards of a mental hospital, resulted in weight gain for 33.

Average weight gain: 5 pounds a patient. Two patients lost weight, and no change was seen in seven.

Patients took the drug from four to six weeks, and no adverse side effects were experienced, according to the Journal of the Medical Society of New Jersey.

YOU CAN NOW give your child fluoride, to prevent cavities, and vitamins in a single tasty tablet.

The chewable tablet, available on prescription from your dentist or doctor, contains a daily supplement of fluoride and of vitamins A, B6, C and D.

For the very young the tablet can be crushed and sprinkled on baby food.

Pineapple Joins Kabob Ranks

Chunks of pineapple add brightness to the lineup of this kabob assembly with marinated turkey or chicken.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Economics Editor

CRISP chunks of canned pineapple add bright new interest to this kabob combination. The sweet, refreshing fruit is alternated with flavorful marinated turkey or chicken for an excellent barbecue entree.

The interesting marinade is a rich mixture of pineapple syrup, honey, vinegar, oil and catsup. Dry mustard and chopped fresh mint are perfect accents. This recipe makes just the right amount for marinating the meat and brushing on the kabobs as they barbecue — there's none left to throw away!

Skewering just the meat and pineapple makes a wonderfully hearty meal. Other suggested vegetables are delicious extras. The wise hostess will make plenty — their tempting aroma and succulent flavor are simply irresistible.

Pineapple Skewers Pacifica

1 (1-pound 4-ounce) can pineapple chunks
½ cup soy sauce
¼ cup honey
¼ cup cooking oil
1 teaspoon dry mustard
⅓ cup wine vinegar
2 tablespoons very finely chopped fresh mint or green onion
½ cup catsup
1½ to 2 pounds boned turkey breast or chicken

Drain off ¼ cup syrup from pineapple and combine with soy, honey, oil, mustard, vinegar, mint and catsup. Beat thoroughly until blended. Cut turkey in small cubes; pour on marinade, cover and refrigerate an hour or longer. When ready to grill, thread marinated turkey, drain pineapple chunks and any other items desired, such as water chestnuts, mushrooms, parboiled small white onions or tomato wedges on skewers. Brush with marinade and grill over coals until turkey is tender and glazed, brushing now and then with marinade. Makes 8 servings.

$5 for Your Recipe

OLD-TIME foods hold nostalgic interest for many and Old-Fashioned German Potato Bread wins $5 as best recipe of the week for Mrs. Orna Willis, 5632 Dairy Ave., Long Beach 5. The recipe:

Old-Fashioned German Potato Bread

3 med. size potatoes, cooked in salt water
1 qt. of water left from cooking potatoes or add enough to make quart
1 pkg. Fleischmann's yeast
1 tblsp. salt
2 tblsp. sugar
3 tblsp. shortening
8 cups flour

Cook potatoes until well done and remove from water and mash until smooth. Leave the quart of water overnight and then heat until luke warm. Dissolve yeast in 1 cup of warm potato water. Add the salt, sugar, shortening and stir in enough flour to make a stiff batter. Set in warm place and let rise for one hour or until double in bulk. Then knead in enough flour so the dough can be handled without sticking. Set to rise again in warm place until it doubles its bulk again, then work down and make into loaves or rolls. Bake in moderate oven for 50 minutes.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Rajah Cat Is All Cat!

By Eleanor Avery Price

The Burmese cat is a rich, warm brown. He's medium size, and his eyes are gold which contrast beautifully with his glistening coat. He's very affectionate and loves his home and owner with a "dog-like" devotion. In fact, he's referred to as the "dog" of the cat family. His intelligence is astonishing and he is able to understand and respond to quite a few words and commands. He learns to retrieve, will walk with his master or mistress on or off leash, and likes to play in water.

THE BURMESE enjoyed high esteem as the Rajah cat, pet of Burmese royalty. He had a sheltered life in the temples, and his wants were attended to by acolytes. If such a feline sickened or died, woe be it to his personal servant.

Nearly all Burmese in the United States are direct descendants of the Burmese female named "Wong Mau," an import owned by Dr. Thompson of San Francisco. It was with difficulty that the breed was saved from extinction since few other imports were available. After World War II, however, interest in this cat spread.

GERMAN Shepherd Dog Club of Long Beach has a match today at Recreation Park. Also today, Orange Empire Dog Club has an all-breed sanctioned match at Upland Park. If the basset is your breed, you'll enjoy the AKC sanction basset puppy match and futurity today at Cortez Park West Covina.

Mums in Bloom

September inevitably arrives to find few or none of fall's favorite flower — the chrysanthemum — in many gardens. Usually gardeners who failed to plant mums earlier wish they had and vow to do better next year. Actually there's no need to cry about it, for local members of the California Association of Nurserymen offer fully established plants, ready to bloom and in bloom. These can be transplanted directly into the garden or used as house decoration right in the pots. There is no faster way to give your garden fall color.

October's Import

TOMORROW marks the beginning of a historically eventful month. People who have difficulty with spelling might well rejoice that October is so named; at one time the Roman Senate tried to have the month named "Antoninus" and "Tacitus," and once even tried "Faustinus."

Four American presidents made their first public appearance in the eventful month of October: John Adams in 1735, Chester A. Arthur in 1830, Theodore Roosevelt in 1856, and Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1890. Another famous Roosevelt, Eleanor, made her bow to the world on Oct. 11, 1884. In the same month, 57 years later, she made her famous trip to Great Britain to gain information on the conduct of the war.

IN SPITE of her tender age, she was only hours old on the evening of Oct. 6, 1820, Jenny Lind "gave promise of becoming one of the world's greatest singers."

The parents of Chiang Kai-shek sent out birth announcements on Oct. 31, 1886. Chiang himself sent different announcements when he became president of China on Oct. 10, 1928.

ON A FOGGY morning in London on Oct. 14, 1644, the father of a new son predicted, "'e'll be a great man some day." William Penn later proved that his father was right.

A nameless cow decided to make a name for herself on Oct. 8, 1871, when she started the Chicago fire.

"Money is everything," someone thought, and the United States Mint was established at Philadelphia on Oct. 16, 1792. Anticipating a housing shortage in years to come, the cornerstone of the White House was laid in 1792 on lucky Oct. 13.

The Statue of Liberty was ceremoniously dedicated on Oct. 28, 1886.

Many happy, middle-aged businessmen of today look back to Oct. 29, 1940, when the first peacetime compulsory military service began in the United States.

Nevada residents have a double celebration on Halloween each year. It was on that date in 1864 that they had a feeling of belonging: Nevada was admitted to the Union.

The fact that all of these events occurred in the month of Indian summer might explain why Columbus had no other alternative than to make his discovery a date that would be easy to remember.—STELLA GEORGE.

BOOK REVIEWS

A Plot to Unseat the President

By Vera Williams
Southland Book Editor

"SEVEN DAYS IN MAY" by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II (Harper & Row, $4.95) is the most absorbing book yet on Washington politics and capital intrigue.

Knebel and Bailey, Washington reporters for Cowles Publications, center their novel on a plot familiar abroad but rarely if ever used in an American setting.

Their subject: a plot by the military brass to take over the goverment and unseat the president. Several members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff figure the only way they can save the nation is to seize the White House. So they set a target date: during a military alert.

Ring leaders are a group of conservative generals who resent the liberal leanings of the president. They decide to pull off the coup after the government negotiates a disarmament treaty with Russia.

One of the villains in the plot is a California senator.

The Californian gets into the overthrow attempt in the book, according to a presidential aid, because the Southern California economy would be hard hit if the world disarms.

Though the book hasn't been published yet, it already has caused some ripples in Washington.

One federal information specialist, who was in Long Beach for the National Postal Union convention in August, said one Senate office is passing around proofs on the book.

"I am waiting to see what will happen to the book when Gen. Walker reads it," said the government man. He forecast that Walker could, through an angry blast, put the book at the top of the best-seller lists.

The plot for a government takeover—as aired in the book—reads credibly enough on the surface. But the postal relations man says the authors, two newsmen, ignored one barrier in Washington to any such goings-on.

"The Washington press corps would have gotten wind

AMERICA AND WOMEN

by Marjorie R. Longwell

A lady of 80 and a girl of 11 both read the book and said: "It's interesting." Others have said so, too.

Of course a good book should be more than interesting, shouldn't it? A good book not only enriches our culture but it makes us stronger, better people, more capable of right action.

No one will be quite the same after reading AMERICA AND WOMEN.

You'll walk beside Margaret Brent (1601-1670), the Catholic girl who drilled her settlers and marched them toward an enemy and saved Maryland. You'll enjoy Anne Hutchinson's love story (1591-1653) and realize she gave her life for FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

You'll applaud that astonishing career girl, Eliza Lucas Pinckney (1723-1793), and wish you were as brave as was Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906).

There is Mary Baker Eddy also that remarkable Negro Woman, Maggie Lena Walker and the wonderful Jewish girl, Emma Lazarus. There are 7 women in all — and they helped make U.S.A. great.

Everyone's reading AMERICA AND WOMEN. Why not send for YOUR copy today?

Sister City Gesture of Good Will

Ann Mosher presents a gift of poster paints to Mexican student as Studio City gift to Ajijic, Mexico.

By Irma McCall

A BABY ELEPHANT, a Japanese tea garden, 1,000 Douglas fir seedlings, 500 folded paper flying cranes signifying peace — are samples of gifts exchanged between United States cities and their foreign sister cities.

Ann Mosher, a fifth grader at Cleveland Elementary School in Lakewood, was thrilled recently to present a gift of poster paints from Studio City, Calif., to the children of its Sister City—Ajijic, Mexico.

CENTAVOS and pesos for spending money are rare in the fishing village of Ajijic, near Guadalajara. But thanks to Miss Neill James, eager boys and girls can jingle a few coins in their pockets. This American woman, long resident of the village, supports a small adobe library with a patio where young da Vincis and Turners paint original scenes on cards. Tourists buy these cards for one peso.

It is a happy day for Ramon, Ana Maria or Juan when a card is sold. The peso may mean more tortillas or frijoles or "dulces" (sweets), or even a ticket to the circus, enchanting highlight of each summer.

Seeking an appropriate gift, the chamber of commerce in Studio City asked, "Can we send medicines and children's clothing?"

UNFORTUNATELY no, because Mexican custom duties are prohibitive. Ann Mosher's uncle volunteered, "We're driving to Ajijic and can take paints to the kids."

And so Ann—being along—had the proud privilege of delivering large bottles of blue, red and yellow poster paints to grateful little artists. Part of the gift will return to Studio City in an exhibit of lovely Christmas scenes, gorgeous flowers and birds, rainbows and whipped-cream clouds adrift in azure skies.

Sister City projects are one phase of the People-to-People Program started by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

TRAVEL—RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"Is there an electric razor that works on any current in Europe? I want to buy one as a present."

REMINGTON and Norelco put out razors that can be switched to various voltages—the usual difference is 110 volts A. C. American and 220 or 240 European. In addition, Norelco has a set of adapter plugs.

Nearly all European hotels—even small ones in the country — seem to have put in an excellent wall outlet that takes four kinds of plugs and switches from 110 to 220.

There's also a couple of battery-operated, self-contained razors. Abercrombie and Fitch (New York and San Francisco) have these. One friend of mine found they were all right. Another couldn't stand them. So it might be a matter of what the person likes — maybe have him look at one first.

"With ten days near Christmas, would you suggest several places you would go?"

THE CARIBBEAN, San Diego, Hawaii or Northern Mexico would be my choice. (I used to have a thing going for New Orleans. But the last two times, I found it overcrowded. Consequently, a contempt for the tourist that seems to go along with such prosperity.)

If you can make it before mid-November, the Caribbean is half the high-season price. In high season, I don't think it's worth the nudge.)

San Diego has the best U. S. weather—a mild seabreeze 70. Best in my opinion is the old but elegant Hotel del Coronado.

If it's Hawaii, this is the lightest season. More hotel room and more beach than summer and winter. Liveliest spot is Hilton Hawaiian Village. Quiet with atmosphere, the Halekulani. To get away from it all: Fly half an hour to Kauai and stay at Hanalei Plantation House on a hilltop over a wonderful crescent of white sand beach.

NORTHERN MEXICO: Topolobampo Bay near Los Mochis is the new, undiscovered spot. By car via Nogales, one day. Or from the east via a new train running out of Chihuahua. (This is probably the cheapest. Supposed to be a pretty good motel here or you can trailer or camp.)

A few places to write: Hotel del Coronado office, Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles; write Hawaiian hotels as listed, all Honolulu, Hawaii, except Hanalei which is Kauai, Hawaii; for Topolobampo, write Dan Sanborn's Travel Service, McAllen, Texas. I can't seem to get a good source of information on the Caribbean, But I liked Casa Montego at Montego Bay, Jamaica. They should send you a folder.

"I would like to take a present to friends I met during the war in Belgium. They live in the countryside. . . ."

I would guess a mechanical, wall-bracketed can opener. Kitchen gadgets are not as well known in Europe. Not electric, though. It won't take the current.

Julian Celebrates Apple Time

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

JULIAN. Pop. 420. Alt. 4,235. Once a gold boom town, now service and shopping center for fruit orchards and cattle ranches and for increasingly popular mountain resorts (many guest ranches and camps) in nearby Cleveland National Forest, Cuyamaca State Park, and desert resorts of vast Anza Desert State Park to the east. Excellent hunting and fishing in season.

THAT thumbnail description of a quaint little town in a beautiful setting 60 miles northeast of San Diego sounds like Julian might well be an ideal destination for a leisurely weekend drive, doesn't it?

Especially at this time of year when spice is in the air.

Well, next week would be an ideal time to go, for Julian holds its annual Apple Day celebration Oct. 6-7. Julian, as they say, will really let itself go. The big program will include everything from melodramas (in which California history is brought to life) to parades and dancing in the streets, a coronation ball and a barbecue.

MANUEL MUNOZ

Moving from San Diego to Los Angeles, Senor Manuel Munoz becomes general manager for Naviers Turistica Mexicana, S. A., Natumex Lines, owners and operators of the Mexican flagship SS Acapulco. The appointment was made by Lic. Miguel R. Cardenas, director general and president of the line. The Acapulco is making twice-monthly sailings between Los Angeles Harbor and Acapulco, Mexico.

On top of that, there will be an apple show, and visitors may buy freshly picked apples direct from the growers whose orchards dot the nearby landscape.

JULIAN WAS BORN when gold was discovered in the nearby hills in 1870. Apple trees were brought from central California the same year and, as the importance of gold decreased, apples became the prime source of income.

And they're not just ordinary apples. For instance, in 1907, fixe boxes of the Julian fruit won eight gold medals at an international exposition. The Golden Delicious, Delicious, Jonathan, Rome Beauty and other varieties continued to gain so much popularity that Julian held its first Apple Day in 1909. The event has been going strong ever since, except during some of the war years.

THE WEEKEND visitor should find ample motel or hotel facilities, but it would be well to make advance reservations during Apple Days.

Go one way and return another. For instance, a nice way to go to Julian would be Hwy. 18 to Corona, Hwy. 71 through Elsinore to Temecula; pick up Hwy. 79 which links Aguanga and Warner Springs to Santa Ysabel to Julian (approximately 100 miles from Corona). A quick but rewarding return route could be via Hwy. 76 to Lake Henshaw, Palomar, Rincon, Pala and Bonsiel to Oceanside, and thence home on Hwy. 101.

GOLDEN WEST Rail Tours—a group that loves traveling by train—is running a special lightweight, streamlined, air-conditioned Santa Fe train from Los Angeles Union Station direct to the grandstand for the 5th annual Grand Prix for Sports Cars on Oct. 14 in Riverside. The train leaves Los Angeles at 9 a.m., arrives back at the station at 8 p.m. Fare is $11.75 for adults. The Tours may be contacted at P. O. Box 201, Los Angeles 28.

IN THE TRADE: Peter Tornqvist, Western Regional manager for Scandinavian Airlines System, has appointed Torsten Rosengren as his assistant, with headquarters at 8929 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills. . . . A Long Beach-built DC-8 operated by Japan Air Lines has set a new Honolulu-Tokyo speed record. With 73 passengers and 12 crew members, the sky giant made the dash in six hours and 58 minutes.

Check Timetable for Sweet Peas

By Joe Littlefield

Varying growth and blooming schedules for different sweet pea strains should be calculated in planting.

SWEET PEAS have different blooming seasons and those on the same time schedule should be selected when planting a particular area — otherwise erratic blooming will result. (For instance, early Spencer sweet peas grow faster than the Cuthbertson strain and Cuthbertsons may be sown late in the year.)

Sow some dwarf bedding sweet peas, called Cupid or Little Sweethearts. They will grow about eight inches tall. Blooms have a wide range of shades, are ruffled and large. Grow a row of them edging a rose bed, flower bed, along a walk or driveway, but remember, prepare the soil beforehand. Grow some in pots for patio or porch color. They're quite unusual and different.

You'll be sorry and your sweet pea plants sorrier still, if you persist in keeping the soil constantly damp once the sweet peas have started to grow, whether seed sown or planted from packs. Young sweet peas don't like lots of water when weather is warm or hot.

TWO KINDS of problems may develop after sowing sweet pea seeds. Soil pests may damage roots, snails and slugs may chew off tender new growth, or too much water may cause the seedlings to rot off before they get a chance to develop.

One of the bad soil pest problems that sometime becomes a project is control of gophers. There are three ways to get rid of them: Gas the soil, trap the pests, or set out poison bait.

Gophers are more troublesome in newly developed areas than in older established neighborhoods. Flooding the runways discourages them temporarily. Car exhaust fumes channeled into runways via a garden hose work in some instances. Some gardeners have had good luck putting dry ice in the tunnels, gassing the gophers. There are poison tablets that may be dropped in the runways.

Some oldtime professional gardeners still feel the best way to control them is to trap them. The old-fashioned wire type trap still seems to be the easiest to set and good for results.

IF YOU'RE using a trap be sure you set it at an end of a used runway that comes up to the surface of the ground.

Where gophers are a serious problem, hardware cloth is lined in the plant hole, before plant is set out. The top of hardware cloth sticks up an inch or two above the ground level. Additionally, traps, poison tablets or gas is used to control them.

Tree With the California Look

By Walter Finch

AUSTRALIA has given California a favorite tree, and it is difficult to imagine the Golden State without eucalyptus towering up in almost every corner. So well has this family of trees—in its more than 30 varieties—adapted itself that it seems almost native in every respect.

Some eucalyptus are of interest only to specialists, but a great many of them are worth every gardener's attention, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Most common eucalyptus is the giant Blue Gum, which is definitely not for the small garden, nor for many big gardens either. There is a compact edition, however, which C.A.N. members rate as an excellent garden tree. Dwarf Blue Gum is quick growing to about 25 feet only and is recommended for screens and windbreaks or simply for growing as a small specimen tree.

More for the city garden is the Lemon Scented Gum, a refined tree, yet with good height at maturity. Its trunk is smooth and white; its long, pointed leaves have a lemon scent to them when crushed. It is suitable even in small gardens.

Scarlet Flowering Eucalyptus is the second most widely planted flowering variety. A round-headed tree, it produces red or pink flowers through much of the year with heaviest concentration in spring and summer. This is an excellent street tree and a good looker for any spot in any garden. And like all others in the family, it is absolutely no strain to grow.

Eucalyptus in more than 30 varieties fit the California scene. Choice is best made from containers at nurseries. Above, the Silver Dollar Tree.

Orchid Society

Ernest Hetherington, vice president of Fred A. Stewart, Inc., of San Gabriel, will guide members on an "Orchid Holiday" at the third annual open house of the Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park Clubhouse, 31st and Santa Fe Ave., Long Beach. Added attractions will be table exhibits and displays of blooming orchids. Everyone who enjoys flowers is invited.

Dorothy Digs

By Dorothy Jonson

At this time of year, roses are making their new wood so you should prune away only the old wood, leaving the new wood to make the bushes for next season. Since the making of new wood is important, keep up a generous watering schedule.

I believe in overhead watering is it is done early in the morning so that the bushes have time to dry off before the latter part of the day. If you wish to water later in the day, do so by laying the hose in the rose bed and letting the water seep down to thoroughly irrigate the roots.

If you have held off on feeding your roses through July and August, by all means feed them in September. Any good rose food will be satisfactory.

For roses that have weak stems causing the blossoms to droop, select a fertilizer that is low in nitrogen and high in potash and phosphate.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . shop for pyracantha and cotoneaster now and enjoy their colorful red berries through winter.

Use pot-grown chrysanthemums from nurseries if you failed to plant the young rooted cuttings last spring. You can buy them in full color.

Spray your roses. Mildew is often a major offender in September.

Plant freesias, sparaxis, ixias, Dutch iris. These four like to go into the ground earlier than other spring-blooming bulbs.

Reviews of Latest Books

of any such plot long before a crisis developed . . . you can't keep anything secret in Washington," he said.

In the book, the press doesn't hear about it until the climax of developments. And the authors allow their own Cowles press to miss the story of the century.

NOT LONG after man emerged from his caves to live in the open he began burrowing back into the earth.

Virtually every civilization in human history, including the ancient Egyptians, Hindus, Aztecs, Greeks, Romans and Babylonians, built vast underground works.

Modern metropolises such as New York sit atop unbelievably vast subterranean labyrinths.

Modern man has punched holes through the mightiest mountains for his highways and railways, tunneled under great rivers and bays and is now seriously thinking of building underground living quarters for scores of millions as a protection against nuclear devastation and fallout.

"ADVENTURE UNDERGROUND" by Sunday newspaper supplement editor Joseph Gies (Doubleday, $4.95) is a history of tunneling, a work of compelling interest.

Giant of Iceland Glaciers

Vatnajokull, largest glacier in Iceland, covers an area of 3,140 square miles, larger than any glacier in Europe, including those of Switzerland. It exceeds the combined areas of the states of Rhode Island and Delaware. Several other glaciers in the Kentucky-sized island of Iceland exceed 300 square miles in size. Despite all this ice, Iceland's coldest month, January, is warmer than in cities such as New York and Boston.

Almost 1 out of every 2 women suffer pre-menstrual tension
...but don't know what's wrong
WEIGHT GAIN, BLUE MOODS, "NERVES," IRRITABILITY
HEADACHES, TEMPER FLARE-UPS, MAY ALL BE SYMPTOMS

How new scientific tablet can now control these physical and emotional upsets without taking hormones, narcotics, or harmful sedatives.

Many women fail to realize that for a week prior to their periods, an excessive amount of water accumulates in body tissues—putting pressure on nerves and organs. As tension builds up, breasts become sore . . . you feel bloated, irritable, nervous, headachy . . . even gain weight.

Now medical science has at last found an effective, yet simple, inexpensive relief for this pre-menstrual tension. It's Pamprin—and it contains no hormones, no narcotics, no harmful sedatives. Pamprin will positively not interfere with the normal cycle, duration or flow of your period.

Pamprin safely rids the body of excess water and thus relieves tension as no aspirin or simple pain-reliever can. At the same time, doctors find, Pamprin has a wonderfully calming, soothing effect on the irritability, "nerves" and emotional upsets common to pre-menstrual time. What's more, many women who ordinarily suffered cramps and backache once periods began, found surprising relief, too. Pamprin with its exclusive medically approved formula is now available in tablet form, without prescription, at your druggist. Get Pamprin today. Try it before your next period. Or for a generous free trial supply of Pamprin Tablets, send your name and address today to Chattem Laboratories, Dept. 5, Chattanooga 9, Tennessee.

NICK KATSARIS
Writing to a Friend

USUALLY this column is devoted to recording the activities of restaurant owners, chefs and maitre d's. But today, at the suggestion of Nick Katsaris, owner of Sam's Sea Food and Hawaiian Village restaurant in Surfside, the emphasis will be on an unusual patron of Sam's who is far, far from home.

This patron is Dr. James A. Jetton of 16906 S. Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower. Dr. Jetton is Nick's family doctor and down through the years has given important medical aid to Nick, his wife Ruth, their four children and their grandchildren. Dr. Jetton has a thriving practice, but a few months ago he made a unique decision.

He decided to go to Africa.

AND HE DID. Last June, he shelved his practice temporarily, deciding he wanted to be of service in germ-ridden, ignorance-ridden South Africa. So he and his wife Marge traveled to Kalabo, a remote town in North Rhodesia. There, as a medical missionary, Dr. Jetton is helping the Seventh Day Adventists Church establish a hospital for the natives and is training them in modern methods of sanitation.

In his letters to the Katsaris family, Dr. Jetton has reported that he looks forward to receiving mail, driving 40 miles round trip once a week to collect it at a nearby town. The Jettons are roughing it without radio, TV or modern conveniences. For entertainment, they enjoy studying the African flora and fauna. "One morning, just for fun," wrote Dr. Jetton, "we used a bucket to catch 20 flying bats.'

Dr. Jetton and his wife will return to California in November. One of the first things they plan to do is visit Sam's Sea Food, where the good doctor will fill up on fine food which hasn't been available in Africa. His favorites at Sam's are grilled halibut and swordfish steak.

Dancer Gene Kelly Trades Tap Shoes for Reversible Collar to Play TV Priest

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gene Kelly follows the toughest act in show biz when he plays the priest in a television series based on the movie "Going My Way," which won Bing Crosby an Oscar in 1944.

Dancer Kelly will trade his taps for a reverse collar and cassock for the role of breezy Father O'Malley in the series which debuts 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, channel 7.

The part poses no particular difficulties for Kelly who is a Catholic, as are his co-stars, Leo G. Carroll and Dick York, and producer Joe Connelly.

In the event these laymen bollix up ecclesiastical form there is a real priest on hand who serves as technical advisor.

* * * *

"WE ALSO have dozens of priests visiting the set from all over the country," Kelly said during a rare break in production. "They are out here on vacation and curious to see how TV shows are made. Naturally, they graviatate to our show. We even had a contingent of nuns a few weeks back."

I caught up with the Gaelic star in the middle of Lakeside Country Club where the ABC-TV series was shooting a golf sequence.

Kelly had never played golf and was having difficulty learning to hit the ball

"I don't like to walk," Gene explained, "it requires different muscles from dancing.

* * * *

"I KNOW Crosby's quite a golfer, but I'm not purposely going to play Father O'Malley like Bing did, nor will I go out of my way to play him any differently.

"Since accepting the role I haven't seen the picture. However, when it was first released I saw it three or four times I liked it so well.

"That's the reason I agreed to this series. The character and stories appealed to me. If you look around and see what's on television today you'll understand how great this show will be for families with children."

Kelly, who directed Jackie Gleason last year in "Gigot," enjoys his clergyman role and says:

"The closer you get to priests the more human and fun-loving you discover they are.

"They are set apart from most other clerics because of their vows of celibacy. The fact that they can never live a normal family life makes them more interesting as men in many ways."

GENE KELLY . . . Going His TV Way?

* * * *

THE ACTOR-DANCER keeps his wits about him when priests are in the vicinity, watching their attitudes and deportment.

"After my son Timothy was baptised there was a party at my home," Kelly recalled with a chuckle. "Monsignor Sullivan from my church attended. I found him leaning against a door frame with his hands in his pockets.

"I told him I couldn't do that on the show without getting hundreds of letters from viewers complaining that a priest wouldn't stand around like that.

"He just laughed, and he continued to lean with his hands in his pockets. Most laymen forget that priests are very human people. I think our show will prove that."

Cultural Center

The proposed National Cultural Center in Washington, DC, will be the subject of an NBC-TV special on Nov. 11.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

There were a million people on the set and they all seemed to be watching one man.

The one man was wearing a beat-up baseball cap, a shirt that looked liked it had been salvaged from last week's wash before it was washed, a pair of khaki pants that looked slept in, yellow sweat socks and a pair of shoes that never in its lifetime could have been closer than 10 miles to a can of polish.

The one man, in all his disheveltry, would have made a Skid Row bum look like a fashion-plate.

The million people had come from all over the Revue Studios lot to watch in action the one man, John Ford, a six-time Academy Award-winning director.

"Too high, Jimmy, too high," said Ford.

THE "JIMMY" HE ADDRESSED was James Stewart. They were rehearsing a scene for the second-season start of "Alcoa Première" at 10 p.m. Thursday, channel 7.

The opening drama, "Flashing Spikes," is a baseball story. Stewart plays an oldtime ballplayer who was involved in a baseball scandal.

The scene under rehearsal was set in a baseball commissioner's office. A hearing was being conducted to see whether Stewart had tried to influence Pat Wayne, son of John Wayne, to throw a ball game.

Director Ford's "too high" admonishment was aimed at Stewart's voice level. The veteran actor nodded acknowledgment, then lowered his voice about a quarter level.

"Ok," said Ford, "that's it."

A make-up man moved in to handkerchief-pat Stewart's forehead and run a comb through his hair.

Cameramen checked their lenses and their marks. The actor-reporters covering the hearing double-checked to make sure they had pencils and pads.

"WHAT ARE YOU doing here—writing a script?"

I looked up from my notes. Ford was at my shoulder.

"No," I replied. "I'm a reporter."

Ford took the cigar butt out of his mouth.

"A reporter," he said. "You should be over there."

He gestured with his cigar to the table where the actor-reporters were sitting.

I explained that my reporter experience didn't include acting.

"Oh," he said, "a regular reporter."

He turned and walked back to his director's chair, ready for the scene to be shot.

He picked up a script, shoved his glasses to his forehead, and nose-read it. Then he nodded to an assistant.

"Quiet," yelled the assistant. He was immaculately attired.

They made one take—just one—of the scene, a relatively long sequence.

FORD WAS HAPPY with it. There wasn't any need to make any more takes. If it seems like I'm emphasizing the one take aspect, you're right.

It surprised me.

I have watched scenes being shot for about 100 television series. This was the first time, in my experience, any director had settled for one take.

Most directors average about four or five takes per scene. Some come closer to 12 takes.

Yet—and I learned this from actors, not directors—nine times out of ten the scene that will hit your TV screen will have been the first take.

Ford walked into a dressingroom while the maintenance crew got set up for rehearsal of the next scene.

I heard accordion music coming from the dressingroom Ford was using as his headquarters.

"HE'S THE ONLY DIRECTOR that brings with his own music—an accordion player," someone said.

The "someone" was John Ruth, sound man.

"Just Irish music," said John. "That's all he wants to listen to.

"It's a pleasure to work with this guy. He's bawled hell out of me twice.

"I'd rather work with him for six months than somebody else for five years. I learn something everytime."

He set his earphones down.

"Notice how most people say 'Yes sir' to him.

"Not me. I'm an ex-Marine. He's an ex-Navy admiral.

"When he talks to me, he says, 'Hello leatherneck.'

"When I answer him, I say, 'Hello admiral yardbird.'

The ex-Marine lit a cigarette.

"That man," he said. "He's the greatest."

I couldn't argue the point.

Woman Tortured by Agonizing ITCH

"I nearly itched to death 7½ years. Then I found a new wonder creme. Now I'm happy," writes Mrs. P. Ramsay of L. A. Calif. Here's blessed relief from tortures of vaginal itch, rectal itch, chafing, rash and eczema with an amazing new scientific formula called LANACANE. This fast-acting medicated creme kills harmful bacteria germs while it soothes raw, irritated and inflamed tissue. Stops scratching—so speeds healing. Don't suffer! Get LANACANE at druggists.

Pan and Fan Mail

I'm worried about Bill Leyden of "First Impression." He's been wearing an eye-patch for several weeks.

Mrs. Ruth Meade, Long Beach

Bill was wounded in the left eye about a year ago during a hunting accident. The eye still requires periodic treatment and Bill recently underwent additional corrective surgery.

Is there some way in which you could pass along to the advertising department of that certain headache-pill company that they have now reached the alltime low in television advertising?

It was bad enough when over the years we watched hammers pounding and lightning zipping inside the human head—but now!

We have husbands shouting at their wives, wives screaming at their own mothers, mothers yelling at their own children, and older women (usually depicted as the gentle grandmother type) showing disgust for all children because a ball is accidently tossed inside her yard.

I realize the purpose of all advertising is to obtain and hold the interest of the viewer, whether this interest is favorable or unfavorable — just make an impression.

But the advertising used by these people GIVES me a headache and I would never think of buying their stuff.

Mrs. W. R. Van Ness,
Long Beach

If they read this, Mrs. Van Ness, I think they'll get the message.

Would it be possible to request "Route 66" being shown again — the one that was filmed in Youngstown, Ohio (my hometown) concerning a (boxer) fighter?

I missed it, not having heard about it until the next day after it was shown on TV.

Mrs. Rena Fulmer, Lakewood

There's a possibility the (wrestler) fighter drama might be repeated next summer season. Right now "Route 66" is back on the road with first-run dramas.

Gold Rush Series

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer plans to make a television series based on the prize-winning novel, "The Travels of Jamie McPheeters." It would be about a boy and his father in the days of the gold rush.

A. As Berlin was falling to the Russians in 1945, Goebbels killed his six children, his wife and himself.

Q. I cannot understand why President Eisenhower made his Defense Secretary Charles Wilson sell his vast holdings in General Motors before assuming a cabinet post but did not make George Humphrey, his Secretary of the Treasury, sell his holdings in M. A. Hanna Co. Please explain.—G. P., Washington, D.C.
A. It is not the President who orders prospective cabinet members to sell their holdings. It is usually the Senate which must confirm the appointment which regards such action as necessary. Wilson voluntarily sold his holdings because the Defense Department awards large contracts to General Motors, and he did not want to be guilty of any conflict of interest. Humphrey declined to sell his holdings in Hanna on the grounds that he then would have deposited the money in a bank, and the Treasury Department regulates banks.

Q. How many times has Jack Benny's daughter been married?—Mrs. J. A. Walker, Akron, Ohio.
A. Two marriages, to Al Rudolph and Seth Baker, two divorces.

Q. Is it true that Queen Elizabeth and other members of the British nobility own 50 per cent of their nation's wealth?—Kenneth Knowles, Waterbury, Conn.
A. No. What is true is that 2½ per cent of the British population owns 50 per cent of Great Britain's wealth.

Q. During World War II approximately 15,000 Polish officers, the cream of Polish manhood, were massacred in the Katyn Woods. Who ordered the massacre—Stalin or Hitler?—Georgette Frost, Naples, Me.
A. A committee of the U.S. House of Representatives in 1952 reported that the Soviet NKVD was guilty of the massacre ordered by Stalin.

The most precious gift of all bringing up baby,® hints collected

by Mrs. Dan Gerber, mother of 5

The first time your baby is laid in your arms is a magic, mystic moment you'll treasure a whole life through. Suddenly you know this sweet and sleeping smile is truly yours. Suddenly you know something of the deep, bright meaning of life . . . in this greatest gift of all, your baby.

Food for thought. If you and your doctor have decided to bottle-feed baby, you may want to ask him about Modilac™ . . . the Gerber Baby Formula. This special milk formula, which really looks and tastes like milk, is adapted to babies' nutritional and digestive needs; provides nourishment comparable to mother's milk. No mixing needed. All you do is add the amount of water your doctor specifies.

Crying communique. Crying is a perfectly natural part of a baby's life. It's the only way he can tell you he's hungry . . . lonely . . . has a bit of air-bubble trouble, etc. With patience and perception you'll soon learn what most cries mean.

Solid dietary data. Several weeks after birth your baby's supply of iron diminishes. That's one of the reasons doctors usually recommend specially prepared baby cereals as the first solid food. Gerber Cereals are enriched with a special kind of iron that's easily absorbed by babies. They're also enriched with calcium and B-vitamins to provide further nutritional benefits.

Sandman statistics. Sleep patterns, like all baby behavior patterns, vary. Some babies simply need more sleep than others. But generally speaking, these are the sleeping "norms":

- First 2 months—most of the time, except when being fed or bathed.
- 2 to 3 months—18 to 20 hours.
- 4 to 5 months—16 to 18 hours.
- 6 to 12 months—12 hours at night, morning and afternoon naps.

Growth statistics. Your baby's biggest job the first year is growing. That's why he needs protein a-plenty to aid that growth. Gerber Strained Meats are high in protein, low in fat and extra-easy to digest. Made from selected Armour cuts, they're pure meat, with just enough of their own broth to insure a smooth, moist texture.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

VINCENT PRICE: his goal...

Original art in every home

BY LLOYD SHEARER

DENVER, COLO.

THIS COMING WEEK Sears, Roebuck will begin a monumental venture in American culture.

Here in its Denver store it will hang for sale approximately 100 works of original art—Rembrandts, Chagalls, Picassos, Dürers, Bohrods, Whistlers, Legers—the works of the great masters as well as those of the best contemporary artists, domestic and foreign.

These works will range in selling price from $10 to $3,000, from water colors to etchings. They will be offered on the installment plan for as little as $5 down and $5 a month. Each work will be guaranteed as an original work of quality, "just as we guarantee our lawnmowers or TV sets or any other Sears product."

The following week another 100 or 150 pieces of art will go on sale in each of 10 additional Sears stores: Hartford, Harrisburg, San Diego, Sacramento, Evansville, Madison, Pasadena, Birmingham, Oklahoma City, and Hayward, Calif.

If these first 1500 art works sell, Sears plans eventually to offer fine art in all 755 of its stores, bringing original works to the American public in unprecedented quantity and quality.

The guiding figure behind this experiment in culture is Vincent Price, 51, a towering actor—6-foot-5—and one of the most learned and erudite art authorities in America. To moviegoers, Price has long been regarded as a Hollywood heavy who specializes in horror films and melodramas, but in the international art world he is recognized as a former gallery-owner, collector, lecturer and connoisseur who spent a dozen years studying art at Yale, the University of London, and other art centers abroad.

The Personal Touch

Every piece of art offered by Sears has personally been selected by Price. On the back of each picture, he has written a brief note about the work, its virtues, and its artist, approximately 2000 brief essays in all.

"If this venture flops," Price declares, "I'll accept the blame, because the Sears people have been truly marvelous. They've given me carte blanche to buy 2000 works of art, to use my own judgment, my own knowledge of what constitutes good art and good taste."

Why, of all the art buffs and curators in America, was Vincent Price chosen for this job?

According to Charles Pearson, one of the Sears executives: "We decided a few months ago that we wanted to start a fine arts program for our customers. George Struthers of our Chicago headquarters, vice president in charge of merchandising, studied them all and decided that Price was the most qualified art authority in the country. He flew out to Los Angeles one evening, had dinner with Vincent and explained the Sears concept, which is that the ultimate in home furnishings is art—fine art. He asked Vincent if he'd take charge of the program."

Says Price: "I accepted immediately because I felt that here at last was a chance to expose the U.S. public to fine art at reasonable prices.

"The average housewife," Price contends, "doesn't realize that she can buy an original work of art for very little money. She reads in the papers how one Rembrandt recently cost the Metropolitan Museum of Art $2,400,000 and that the Somerset Maugham collection was auctioned off for another million or so, and art scares her. She equates it with millionaires like J. Paul Getty and J. P. Morgan. Well, it's not so. I've been a collector all my life and never having been a very rich one or interested in terribly expensive paintings for myself, I've learned to buy extremely well.

"I think 90 per cent of the people I know around the country," Price continues, "are scared to death to go into a gallery. They seem to be awed by it, which is nonsense of course, but that's the attitude we've had in America for decades. There are also hundreds of American cities without a single sizeable art gallery. And that's a pity, because we're a cultured nation, but until we have a cultural identity of our own, then the rest of the world pays no attention to us.

Pooh-poohing America

"I lived in Italy last summer while doing a couple of films, and the pooh-poohing of America as a cultureless nation just bored the hell out of me. The truth is that we're the most cultured nation in the world—only we undersell ourselves all the time.

"Why do we do it? I don't know. Maybe we suffer from a national inferiority complex. But just look—we have the greatest novelists, the best playwrights, the best theatre. More people attend concerts in this country than anywhere in Europe. Maybe we don't have a La Scala, but we have opera companies touring America all the time, and La Scala is a solo operation. In Rome there is no opera.

"I've lectured to 300,000 women across this country in the last five years, and let me tell you, they constitute the cultural backbone of this nation. They're great, simply great. You can make fun of the average clubwoman all you want—but when you lecture to them on Van Gogh or Whitman as I have, you find that they've studied up, they know.

"It's women who do the shopping, the buying in this country. They're the ones who'll talk their husbands, or drag them, into seeing the collections in the Sears stores. And that's why I'm so darn enthusiastic about this whole project.

"We're bringing art, fine art, to the people. To me the most exciting thing in the world is what man has made visually to prove he's a cultured human being."

Where and from whom is Price obtaining his art works?

He has gone to the universities, the art galleries, individual collectors, the art schools, individual painters.

"This first collection of 2000," he explains, "I bought from student shows from young painters who won awards this year. I bought the Rembrandt etchings from a gallery, the Dürers from private people. And I've paid cash for everything. We take nothing on consignment. If I like it, we buy it. No stringing the artist along.

"A few months ago I had a chance to buy a collection of 19th-century English watercolors—among the most beautiful things I've ever seen. Nobody in this country was really interested in them, and I picked them up for a song. A few weeks later the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York gave a show of English watercolors, and now you can't buy one on the market unless you're willing to pay through the nose. But here we sit with about 300 of them and we're going to offer them at reasonable prices.

"These works of art are certified as originals. We're not offering prints or reproductions. Not too long ago some French dealers offered me an enormous quantity of so-called original French lithographs. Well, they aren't originals at all. I checked with the Print Institute in Washington, and they told me they were reproductions. Now I'm a bit wary of those French dealers.

"I think for future collections some of our best work is going to come from American artists now working at various universities like U.C.L.A. and Iowa and Wisconsin. We've gotten one really top grade painting from a young professor at the University of Nevada and then, of course, there's Aaron Bohrod at the University of Wisconsin and many others.

They Like U.S. Dollars

"Eventually, I know, I'll have to go to Europe on a scouting and buying trip unless the foreign artists will send their works here, and I'm inclined to believe they will, since everyone seems partial to American dollars."

At the moment, Sears, Roebuck in Los Angeles is being swamped with submissions from artists everywhere. Many of the painters arrive in person, imperiously demand to talk to Price personally. Although he's been working from 8:00 to 8:00 six days a week, buyer Price, now on the verge of nervous exhaustion, can talk to precious few. He's devised a form which the artist fills out, stating what he wants for his work. One painter offered to swap a watercolor for a washing machine. Price indulges in no swaps, gives each work his considered judgment. Last week a gardener ambled in, showed Price a lithograph.

"Where'd you get it?" Vincent asked.

Said the gardener laconically: "Did it myself." He then explained that he'd studied with the top artists in Los Angeles, worked at Sears as a sometime salesman of garden supplies.

Price bought the lithograph on the spot for $45, had it framed, will offer it in Denver this week for $65.

"I can't tell you," Price enthuses, "what a revolution this project will inspire in the art world if it comes off. Just think of it! There are so many talented young people today who cannot earn their living in the arts. If eventually we end up supplying only 200 of our 755 stores with paintings, we will be providing artists with a ready market for their works. We'll be able to buy 20, 30, 40 paintings from each artist, and he'll be able to make a decent living and confine all his energy to his art instead of working part-time in the post office to make both ends meet."

Buying Shrewdly

In promoting fine art, Sears is not being purely altruistic—but the art works offered do not constitute particularly large-profit items, since Price and the company's executives believe the works should be priced fairly. This means that Price must buy carefully, spot trends before they become trends, concentrate on artists whose works will have a lasting quality, which is why Sears is offering very few abstracts in their first collection.

"I simply don't think," Price asserts, "that most of the wild abstracts have any enduring values. And I don't believe that art is a financial investment or should be used as one. If art only means money, then that will be one of the reasons for the disappearance of interest in art. If museums would only say, 'Look, we have a great Van Gogh show,' instead of advertising a show that is valued at $10,000,000, it would be much better for everyone.

"What matters in art is the beauty, not the money—because a picture valued at $50,000 one year may be worth $20,000 the next. Look at Bernard Buffet. Ten years ago he was unknown. Now he turns out 50 paintings a year at $10,000 a painting and up. In 1943 the famed J. P. Morgan collection was auctioned off in London. It contained many Gainsboroughs and Reynoldses. They brought less than a tenth of what Morgan paid.

"What we're trying to do is to educate, inspire, satisfy the hunger for good art in this country. To the extent that we do, we will succeed or fail."

How much is Vincent Price getting from Sears for this man-killing job?

"I'm working on a handshake deal," he says, "and a very small retainer—but the truth is, and I'll kill you if you print it, I'd do it for nothing. This is the most exciting, soul-satisfying adventure of my life."

If it comes off, Vincent Price at 51 will become the most powerful and regnant figure in the booming world of art. ■ an up-to-the-minute report on the question of the hour:

SHOULD WE GIVE EVERYONE THE SAME TIME OF DAY?

by SEN. GALE McGEE of Wyoming

WASHINGTON, D.C.

FELLOW AMERICANS, the time has come to synchronize our watches. It is said of us that we live by the clock. Actually, we live under an anarchy of clocks, all telling different times. Bold action is needed to clear up the confusion before we are accused of not knowing the time of day. Accordingly, I intend to call on the Commerce committee of which I am a member to study the possibility of abolishing the time zones and putting the nation on a uniform time.

The science of time-keeping is called horology. In the United States today, I would call it horror-ology. To start off, we have divided the nation into four time zones with boundaries that zig and zag to accommodate various localities. These divisions don't include Alaska, which has four time zones all its own, nor Hawaii which has its own separate time.

In the summer, 28 of the 50 states observe Daylight Saving Time. But only 14 put it into effect statewide; the other 14 observe it on a spotty basis, creating pockets of conflicting time. To compound the confusion, the states on Daylight Time change their clocks on different days. Only 11 states keep Daylight Time from the end of April to the end of October. Elsewhere, it expires sporadically in the fall like the lights of a city going out at night.

The resulting chaos of the clocks is enough to confound Father Time himself. As he trudges on his relentless course across the country, he must feel like throwing away his sickle and hour-glass in sheer exasperation.

Let me give an example of what I mean. It is a mere 35 miles between Steubenville, Ohio, and Moundsville, W. Va. If a bus driver were to keep correct local time at all the stops along the way, he would have to adjust his watch seven times.

Quaintness Is Costly

I love local quaintness as much as the next fellow, but this is carrying autonomy too far. On a national scale, this sort of thing is more costly and confusing than amusing. The Association of American Railroads estimates the cost of juggling timetables alone runs over $1 million a year. Not only the transportation but the communications industry is caught up in the time turmoil.

Indeed, anyone trying to conduct business cross-country is hampered by the time differences. An East Coast executive is ready to go to lunch by the time his West Coast contact settles down to work. When the Easterner gets back to his desk, it's almost lunch time on the West Coast. Then, as the Westerner returns from lunch, the eastern executive is putting away his papers for the day. The transaction of business is cut down to an hour or two a day. It's nonsense.

Even greater nonsense is the disorder into which the whole American time system has fallen. Not even the U.S. Naval Observatory, which prides itself on keeping the most accurate time in the world, is quite sure what time it is across the country. Says its time service director, Dr. William Markowitz: "The United States keeps the most confusing time of any country in the world."

Americans aren't easily gulled. They chuckle and boast: "I wasn't born yesterday." Yet many are the mothers, not knowing which clock to believe, who write anxiously to their government: "Please tell me when my baby was born?"

A familiar lament among inquiring reporters is that government agencies won't tell them the time of day. Did it ever occur to them that the agencies may not know what time it is?

Take Uncle Sam's official time-keeper, the Interstate Commerce Commission. At high noon here, the hands of the ICC's own clocks come together at 12. But at Union Station a few blocks away, the clocks, which are regulated by the ICC, show only 11. For by law, the railroads are required to operate on Standard Time.

One traveler, having missed train connections because of the time differential, penned this bitter parody in Chicago: "East is East and West is West, and never the trains shall meet."

'His' and 'Hers' Clocks

Not only railroad workers but Pennsylvania state employees are obliged to work on Standard Time, while their wives usually operate on Daylight Time in the summer. Perhaps what they need are "his" and "hers" clocks around the house.

Daylight Saving Time was first suggested by Benjamin Franklin, while he was Ambassador to France. It is said he woke up early one morning and found the sun already streaming in his window. He was so annoyed at wasting daylight that he wrote out a plan for moving the clocks ahead. He carefully calculated how many candles it should save the people of Paris. But the French, more romantic than the practical Franklin, rather preferred candlelight.

In those days, every town kept its own time by the sun, a poetic but impractical system. Thus noon would arrive at nearby towns four and eight minutes apart. Later railroad conductors began the practice of setting their watches at key stops an hour apart. This led to the four time zones which Congress formally established in 1883. But unhappily, the law provided no penalties against local communities which preferred to regulate their own clocks. The advent of Daylight Time in 1918 began the return to hometown-time which again is taking over America.

If Easterners would be prepared to sleep 90 minutes later and West-Coasters were willing to get up 90 minutes earlier they could both be on the same time. People on the West Coast would get up with the sun in the summer; people on the East Coast would get the best break in the winter. They would have sun in the morning while the Westerners were getting up in darkness.

I believe I can count on the support of America's bewildered travelers; and of those millions who stay at home but want to telephone long-distance and find themselves wondering: "What time is it there?"

I know I can count, too, upon support from such organizations as the Investment Bankers Association, Association of Stock Exchange Firms, National Association of Broadcasters, National Association of Travel Organizations, Association of American Railroads, Air Transport Association and many other bodies to whom the fight means money.

I won't be deterred by the controversy my proposal is bound to stir up. I know all about the cows and chickens that won't adjust their habits to the time change. I also know that tampering with time has almost caused wildcat civil wars in some communities.

Feelings ran so high in Tennessee over a time dispute that ICC examiner Thomas E. Pyne, who presented the federal government's views at a Knoxville hearing, had to be escorted by U.S. Marshals through a muttering crowd.

The state legislature voted in 1957 to keep Tennessee on Standard Time and made it illegal for anyone to set his clocks ahead. At least one holdout, insurance broker Albert H. Phillips, had a warrant sworn out against him. But the police, working on Standard Time, arrived with the warrant after Phillips had already closed his business on Daylight Time.

An Indiana preacher found that half his congregation favored Daylight Time, the other half Standard Time. After prayerful consideration, he set the church clock ahead one hour—and lost half his congregation.

For a couple of months in 1959, some offices in the Minnesota state capitol building observed Daylight Time while others stayed on Standard Time.

Setting our watches will not be easy, but we will save time by doing so. Won't you join me in my crusade for changing times? ■

A DIFFERENT POINT OF VIEW

Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York says, "I oppose a single time zone for the entire U.S. It would disrupt more lives than it would benefit and would trigger international dislocations. However, I believe our mixed-up "time" rules need a thorough overhaul. When Congress convenes in 1963, I will introduce a bill providing for a complete investigation of the tangled web of time regulations now hamstringing us from coast to coast."*

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

ABORTION IN JAPAN. Public health authorities in Tokyo will say nothing about it, but according to hospital attendants there an increasing number of American women are journeying to Japan for abortions. Japan has the most liberal abortion statutes in the world, approximately 1,500,000 such operations being performed each year. The price for an abortion performed by a medical doctor ranges from $1 to $10. The law in Japan authorizes an abortion should the doctor agree that "the continuance of pregnancy or delivery seems remarkably injurious to the health of the mother due to her physical and financial condition." The national Eugenic Protection Law which made abortion legal in Japan has been in effect since 1948 and is overwhelmingly popular in that overpopulated land.

FEWER ENGINEERS. In the past four years, engineering enrollments in U.S. colleges have gone steadily down. The government wants to know why. How come fewer students want to study engineering when the average college graduate with a bachelor of science degree can now start off at $7,000 a year in any number of U.S. corporations? Possible answers: the studies are too difficult, engineering isn't glamorous enough, the profession has a non-creative image. In 1957 there were 80,000 college freshmen studying engineering in this country. Last year there were 68,000. The government is worried -- especially since the number of Russian engineers each year increases.

SQUEEZE ON THE PRINCE. President Charles de Gaulle is putting the screws on Prince Rainier of Monaco. And the main reason, Monegasques believe, is that the Prince was just a little too smart. A few years ago after marrying Grace Kelly, Rainier turned his principality into a virtually tax-free haven. In Monaco today there are no individual income or corporation taxes for permanent residents, no excess profits or capital gains taxes. The result: more than 2,500 business firms have moved into Monaco which has only 2,700 citizens, almost one registered corporation for each citizen. Many of the corporations have been established to avoid taxation in France. To house these new corporations, skyscrapers have had to be built in Monaco, only 375 acres large. Naturally, land prices have boomed to where they are now $1,000 a square yard.

Not only does Prince Rainier own a lot of real estate in Monaco but also 20,000 shares in the gambling casino which controls the Monte Carlo Beach, five large hotels, two motion picture theaters, and is by far the largest real estate holder in the country. Rainier's personal fortune, it is estimated, has doubled five times in the past 10 years.

Four years ago in an attempt to pick up 44,000 shares of a Monaco radio-TV company, Images et Son, which had fallen into French hands, Rainier tried to invalidate the sale of the stock. This is what caused de Gaulle to blow his top. Now he wants Monaco subjected to French taxation laws.

Once this happens, Monaco loses its tax-free status, the real estate boom dies, the foreign residents flee, and Monaco becomes the poor postage-stamp principality it once was before Prince Rainier became so devilishly clever.

A SURPRISE CAKE

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Pour thin sauce on top of batter and bake.

For a wonderful dessert that is neither cake nor pudding, but a combination, make a saucy surprise cake. The cake, studded with raisins and fragrant with lemon peel, rises to the top of the pan leaving the thick luscious toffee sauce beneath. To serve, cut in squares and spoon sauce over each serving.

SAUCY SURPRISE CAKE

1½ cups sifted enriched flour • 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt • ½ cup butter or margarine, divided
⅔ cup sugar • 1 cup milk • ½ cup seedless raisins
1 lemon, grated peel and juice • ½ cup light molasses • 1¼ cups water

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream 4 tablespoons of the butter. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add milk alternately with flour mixture, beating until smooth after each addition. Stir in raisins and lemon peel. Spoon into well greased 8-inch square baking pan. Combine lemon juice, remaining butter, molasses and water in saucepan. Bring to boil. Remove from heat; pour gently and evenly over batter. Bake at 350° for 45 to 50 minutes. Serve warm. THE WEDDING CEREMONY reached the critical words: "If any man can show just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace."

"I object!" cried a voice, "we don't like her; she's a know-it-all."

"No, she'll never do," called out another voice, "she's tactless and drinks too much!"

This chorus of dissent, of course, never really interrupted anybody's wedding, but it does raise visions of many outside pressures which can plague the course of a marriage.

"Isn't it enough to be a good wife, a good housekeeper and a good mother?" is the question any innocent young bride might ask. The answer is: No, not nowadays.

"In sickness and in health," is part of the marriage vow, but there's a whole new list of qualifications for good wifery, and it all depends on what the husband does for a living.

If he's a salesman pushing to be a company executive, his wife may be the reason he doesn't get the promotion, no matter how qualified he is. Wife-rating is a new factor in job discrimination.

Prepared to Klatch

Say this fellow wants to go into politics. His wife has to be prepared to run a coffee klatch, kiss other people's babies, make speeches and above all be there beside him smiling for all she's worth.

Why have wives become so important? Back in the days when women were seen but not heard, they didn't carry much weight in a man's world. But now that women are educated, well spoken, polished, chic and outgoing, men have come to realize wives can be a major force in career advancement.

Greater demands are made of the wives of business executives, career diplomats, politicians and military men than those of the milkman or greengrocer, but the storekeeper's wife also has to be pleasant and charming to keep the customers.

Although playing the social game is important, oversocializing can often be disastrous, according to William Megary, executive director of Buttrick & Megary, Philadelphia executive hiring agency.

For example, a small company in a suburban area was losing money. So the company directors decided to bring in a general manager. While the new manager was getting settled in the community, he was wined and dined by the families of company executives.

"After three or four weeks of dinners and cocktail parties," says Megary, "it became apparent to the manager that the wives of the company executives knew as much about the company as their husbands." The manager concluded that the men weren't running the company, their wives were. So he decided he needed a new team of officers. They were all fired.

How do companies find out about a wife? One way is to ask that she join her husband when he's called in for a job interview. She's appraised on her background, how she gets along with other women, how much she can contribute to social relationships and what kind of hostess she would make. In addition, if the industry and the community are inseparable, their rating is even more rigid.

Politicians want their wives to read their speeches, get involved in community affairs, mix with other ladies—and above all to bring home the vote.

What happens when a lady marries a man who changes from a successful writer into a politician?

When Mari Michener married James Michener, author of South Pacific, Hawaii, etc., she never anticipated becoming involved in his career.

"I know a writer lives pretty much in his own world when he's writing and doesn't want any interference. I was happy being Mich's helpmate, but then he told me he wanted to run for Congress. I did everything I could to talk him out of it, because I felt we had enough pressures in our life.

"He decided to run, so now I'm in the campaign with him. I've made five political talks and I go to meetings with him and help him wherever I can. Right now I'm involved in raising money for the campaign, but I also handle his correspondence, keep his calendar straight, and I've even let him paint campaign slogans all over the car."

Early this year, the Navy issued new officer fitness reports which included a section on rating husband and wife teams for overseas assignments. The report caused such a commotion that the Navy rescinded the order.

On the other hand, the State Department is inaugurating a Wives Training Program to orient ladies in the ways of foreign service. Apart from language classes, women will be instructed in how to go into a community and work with the local people, with children and with hospitals.

Understanding Gets Grants

While businesses and governments take a long hard look at wives, so do scholarship foundations. The American Cancer Society, for instance, in announcing a new grant category recently for post-doctoral research scholarships, listed "understanding wife" as one of the major qualifications for a grantee.

You can't find a written rule about wife-conduct for men in the fields of sports or the arts, but smart women and good wives make their own rules.

Winnie Palmer, wife of champion golfer Arnold Palmer, is no missing link when it comes to her husband's career. When he was first starting out she was his business manager. Now that he's doing better, she takes care of his correspondence and socializing.

"If Arnie is to remain a good golfer," she says, "he can't go out nights and stay up late, so I do the socializing for both of us."

An actor's wife has her problems, too, but after 19 years of marriage Mrs. Walter Slezak has most of them under control. She reads scripts for Walter Slezak, goes out on the road with him during tryouts —but she will not entertain people for social gain.

"Walter has never gotten a job on the basis of a social contact," says Mrs. Slezak. "We only invite people to our home whom we enjoy. Nobody gets invited because they could do something for us."

When a woman weds, she acquires two sets of in-laws: her husband's family, and his office "relatives"—the people he works with. The wise wife learns to live with both of them. ■

HOTTEST SCHOOL ISSUE OF 1962

TEACHERS ON STRIKE

by ED KIESTER

SHOULD TEACHERS STRIKE?

Should the educators of America's children turn their backs on the classroom, pick up the picket signs, and close down the schools—even if they are admittedly underpaid and laboring under abysmal working conditions?

Should teachers demand the same rights as other working people—or is mass action beneath the dignity of their profession, even perhaps unpatriotic at a time when this nation and Russia are locked in a classroom cold war?

In the next few months, you're going to hear these questions argued again and again—nationally and perhaps in your own home town. The question of whether teachers have the right to strike—and, even if they do, whether they should use it — is the hottest school issue of 1962. The teachers themselves are disputing about it in conventions and school corridors from California to Boston. The educational profession is split into warring camps, one pro-strike and one anti.

A showdown on the strike issue is shaping up now in Los Angeles. Further tests, according to educational insiders, may come in Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit. And how the whole matter is resolved may affect your child's education for years to come.

The Battle of New York

All this fuss is the result of one day last spring when 20,000 teachers, led by members of the American Federation of Teachers, walked off the job in New York City—in defiance of a state law prohibiting strikes by government employes. Until that time, teacher strikes were rare and seldom very successful. But this time the teachers stayed out only 24 hours and scored a stunning victory. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller stepped in to guarantee them the biggest raise they had ever had and to promise a cleanup of harrowing conditions which denied many of them even a duty-free lunch hour.

The triumph electrified teachers everywhere. At last they saw a chance to win long-sought salary gains. AFT membership jumped 10,000. The rival National Education Association held a convention at which economic issues dominated all discussion. The AFL-CIO, with which the AFT is affiliated, announced a drive to unionize all teachers. It was predicted this would kick off a campaign to organize the white-collar fields.

Meanwhile, battle lines began to form.

"A strike is the inherent right of all workers," says Carl J. Megel, president of the AFT, for one side. "Teachers consider a strike a regrettable event. But to abandon the right to strike without an alternative would be to reduce teachers to peons."

"I don't believe teachers should strike, any more than I believe parents should," says Dr. William E. Carr, executive secretary of the 800,000-member NEA. "No action can be justified which impairs the health, safety or welfare of children."

Actually, both sides agree, the question is somewhat more complicated than whether or not teachers should strike. In most places now, teachers have little or no say in how much money they get or under what conditions they work. They may request a certain salary schedule, but the school board makes the final decision and the teachers can like it or lump it. In some states, they are specifically prohibited from joining a union or bargaining for wages, as unions do, and in many states they are legally forbidden to strike.

The AFT would like to see teachers placed on the same basis as other workers—with the right to unionize, the right to bargain, and, of course, the right to withhold their services if they don't like the terms. The NEA thinks teachers, superintendents and the board should sit down together to work out what is best for everyone—including the children.

What about other Americans? How do they feel about this controversial question?

In New York, those who went through the strike, both parents and teachers, aren't quite sure how they feel.

"I'm confused," says Mrs. Ruth Robbins, whose daughter was in kindergarten at the time. "I've always felt everyone has the right to strike. Yet I know how my little girl reacted. She thought her teacher didn't come to school because she didn't like the children any more. It was quite a while before she felt the same about the teacher again."

DIGNITY

Weary striker, Sheila Geist, rests arches during last year's strike of New York teachers.

"It was an irresponsible act," says Mrs. Grace Jaffe, mother of a fourth-grader, "not on the part of the teachers, but on the part of the authorities, who didn't really think about the consequences."

Among teachers, there was surprisingly little boasting about the supposedly successful strike. (In fact, the strike caused a bitter internal wrangle and only was authorized by a very narrow margin.) Many described the strike as unfortunate but necessary. Others regretted that it had made teachers "look like money-grubbers." The flouting of law was often mentioned. "I think it is shameful that a group of teachers deliberately set out to violate the law," said a high school teacher. "What kind of example is that?"

Divided Opinions

Elsewhere, opinions about teacher strikes are more sharply divided. Mrs. Clifford Jenkins, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, for example, strongly opposes teacher strikes.

"The professional person," Mrs. Jenkins says, "whether he is physician, lawyer, social worker, clergyman or teacher, puts his client's welfare above his own comfort or personal gain. He cannot withhold his services without violating professional ethics and public trust."

The National School Boards Association recently blasted not only teacher strikes but new state laws giving teachers the right to bargain collectively.

"It would be an abdication of their decision-making responsibility for school boards to enter into compromise agreements based on negotiation or collective bargaining, or to resort to mediation or arbitration, or to yield to threats of reprisal," the association declared.

"The teacher's mind should be on the students and not on the dollar," says a Midwestern school superintendent whose schools may soon face a strike challenge. Adds Samuel Prince, a Connecticut teacher: "If I wanted the same rights as a workingman, I'd get a job in a factory."

But on the pro-strike side, such sentiments are ridiculed. Walter Reuther, head of the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department, pooh-poohs the idea that teachers are like doctors or lawyers. "Doctors and lawyers can bargain with their clients," Reuther says. "They can even turn down clients if they desire to do so. Teachers do not bargain with their clients—the students—but with society. They have serious problems and the way to settle them is at the bargaining table."

Dr. Henry Herrmann of Wayne State University says teachers have been held back too long by "fake professionalism." "Teaching is not a profession," he says. "Teachers are workers." And many non-teachers are sympathetic to teacher strikes. Declares John McArdle, a Chicago salesman: "If teachers need to strike to get a fair shake, then they should strike."

But meanwhile evidence is accumulating that the question itself may soon be outdated. Arthur F. Corey, executive secretary of the NEA-affiliated California Teachers Association, recently proposed that teachers shelve the strike weapon and employ instead a system of "professional sanctions." Under this plan, a school district which consistently shortchanged its teachers would be blacklisted by the state teachers association. Teachers then employed by the district would be urged not to renew their contracts, and no replacements would be recommended. This system is now being used in Little Lake, Calif. At the NEA convention in Denver, it was adopted as national policy.

At the same time, in several states laws are being discussed which would grant teachers the right to unionize and to bargain collectively—but would deny them the right to strike. Instead disputes which could not be settled by bargaining would go to compulsory arbitration.

But, before such action is taken, teachers are convinced that the strike issue will be fought out in several other cities. And this time, unlike New York, victory may be neither swift nor so clear-cut. "Suppose," says one teacher, "that instead of lasting one day a teachers' strike interrupts children's education for one week, or two weeks or two months? How sympathetic will parents be then? How will the country view teacher strikes at that point?"

And perhaps the most sensible word on the subject has been spoken by Samuel Marantz, a Brooklyn chemistry teacher.

"I feel about teachers' strikes the way Jefferson felt about revolution," Marantz says. "He said people retain an inherent right to rise up and overthrow a government if it becomes tyrannical. But no one ever expects that right to be exercised. Likewise with teachers' strikes. Teachers have a right to strike like everyone else. But I should hope they would never feel compelled to use it." ■

TB

Let's really wipe it out

TUBERCULOSIS is generally believed to be a conquered disease.

Yet, last year in the U.S., this virulent lung infection killed 10,470 people. Another 53,600 came down with new, active cases. Both figures are much higher than those for polio in the years before the Salk vaccine.

Today's medical science, doctors agree, does have the means virtually to wipe out TB. But it just isn't being done.

One big stumbling-block is created by some 100,000 Americans with active TB who aren't seeing a doctor. These unknown cases spread the disease to others. Even when TB has been detected in a patient, there has to be "follow-up" treatment over a long period. Some states don't have adequate follow-up services.

Doctors, too, are partly to blame, for many are losing interest in TB, failing to report new cases to public health agencies even though the law requires it. Finally, slums and overcrowded living quarters, the age-old breeding grounds of TB, still fester in sprawling metropolitan centers.

All these causes push farther into the future the day of TB's "total eradication"—the goal optimistically set by a conference of TB experts in 1959. Yet the tools we need to achieve that goal already exist.

Wonder-working Trio

Three drugs developed since World War II—streptomycin, isoniazid and PAS—have proved they can control most TB cases. They have cut hospitalization time sharply, reduced the need for surgery, freed one-fourth of all TB beds in the last 10 years for other uses. Most encouraging of all, just last year it was found that isoniazid, ordinarily used to keep active TB in check, can actually prevent the disease among persons exposed to active TB cases.

But new techniques alone are not enough. Hand in hand with them, if TB is ever to be overcome, must go greater vigilance by both the community and the citizen. There must be a continuing, relentless search for TB cases and carriers. The tubercle bacillus that causes the disease can be spread even by people who do not have active TB.

What part can you play in the final drive to wipe out this disease? Dr. James E. Perkins, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, recommends these steps:

► Adults should have chest X-rays every year. Children should receive tuberculin tests as often as their doctors recommend—especially in pre-school and adolescent periods when the danger is greatest.

► All former TB patients—the so-called "arrested" cases, of whom there are 2 million in the U.S.—should remain under close medical supervision for the rest of their lives.

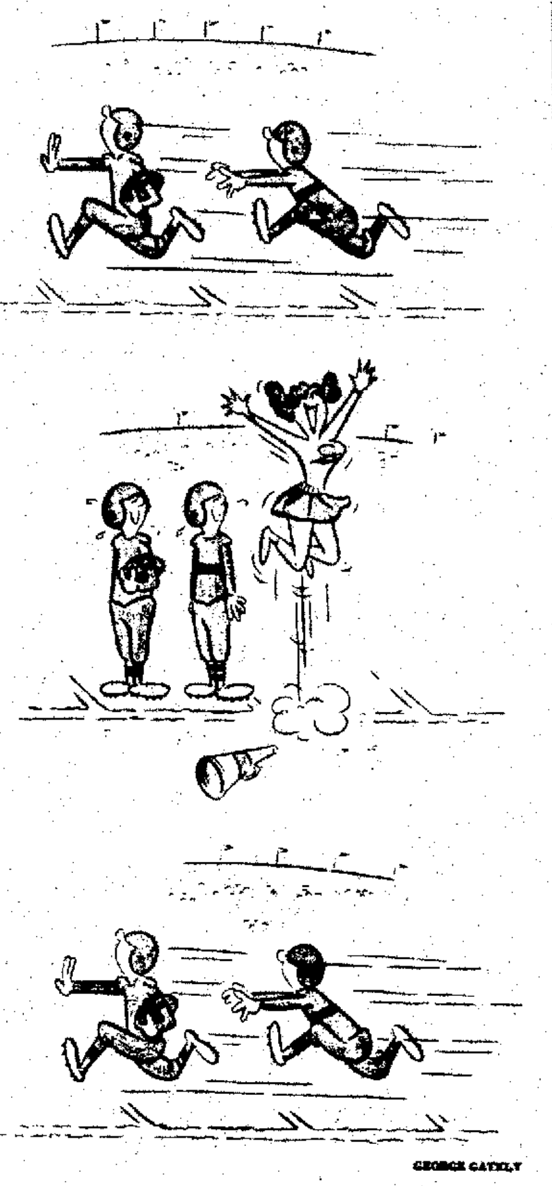
► All former patients whose disease was arrested before the beginning of the "drug age" (around 1945) should be treated with one of the three commonly-used drugs for a year or longer, depending on their condition.

► Communities must develop better TB case-finding techniques.

No matter what is done, TB won't disappear overnight. But there's a basis for optimism in a statement by Dr. George Dennison, health director of Birmingham, Ala., home of one of the nation's best TB control programs.

"If we can keep this infection down through the next generation," Dr. Dennison told PARADE, "I think we can eradicate the disease." ■

Broken field run



ANECDOTE of the WEEK

When Harold Macmillan, Britain's Prime Minister, fired some 16 cabinet ministers recently, Britishers raised their eyebrows. Some of the victims had been Macmillan's close friends, and even though the Conservative Party had been slipping at the polls, few had expected Mac would act so unflinchingly to keep himself in office.

At the next session of the House of Commons a number of verbal barbs were fired at Macmillan and his "purge." Slyest quip of all, however, came from a Liberal, Jeremy Thorpe. Eyeing the Prime Minister, Thorpe quoted:

"Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his friends for his life." ■

Editor's note: George Carlin was born in New York City but began his show business career as a disc-jockey on a Louisiana radio station while he was in the Air Force. Soon after his discharge he did a morning comedy show with Jack Burns, another comedian. The radio work led to a number of night club engagements, but the team split up when Carlin decided he wanted to be a comedy single. Since then, Carlin has played at such leading supper clubs as Chicago's Gate of Horn, New York's Living Room, the Colony Club, Omaha, and St. Louis' Crystal Palace. He has also been on the Tonight and Talent Scouts TV shows. Here are some of his favorite stories:

My favorite jokes

by GEORGE CARLIN

A woman visited her dentist and told him, "I've got to reduce, so go ahead and yank away."

"I don't understand," replied the dentist. "You want an extraction?"

"Yes," said the woman. "I want to be sure you remove my sweet tooth."

There must be some significance in the fact that when a man tells his wife to go to the devil, she usually goes straight home to her mother.

In Hollywood, a good provider is a man who's never late with the alimony.

A woman led her husband into a psychiatrist's office and said: "My husband is suffering from a delusion that he's a parking meter. Won't you please help him?"

The psychiatrist looked at the man, then said to him: "I'll try to help you, but first you'll have to answer a few questions."

"Don't be silly, doctor," replied the wife. "How do you expect him to talk with all those dimes in his mouth?"

People are funny. They want the front of the bus, the back of the church, and the middle of the road.

A director advised a young actor, "Don't think of those people out there as your audience; think of them as your family."

"Fine," replied the actor. "But what happens if my family boos?"

"Just ignore them," said the director. "Who pays any attention to relatives?"

A long-suffering wife complained to her husband: "Every time you see a pretty girl, you forget you're married."

"Oh, no I don't," he replied with resignation. "That's when I remember."

A wife was cleaning out her husband's closet when she came upon one very worn suit. "Honey," she called to her spouse, "this suit is terribly shabby. Don't you think I ought to give it away?"

"Definitely not," replied the husband. "That's the suit I wear when I go to protest my income tax."

A drunk was stumbling down the street, swaying from one side of the walk to the other. He was stopped by a policeman. "Where are you going?" the cop asked.

"Officer," answered the inebriate, "I'm on my way to a lecture."

"You're going to a lecture in that condition at this time of night?" the policeman asked incredulously. "Now you don't expect me to believe that, do you?"

"You would, sir," replied the lush, "if you knew my wife!"

Three prisoners in a Soviet jail were comparing notes. "I was jailed for coming to work late," said the first.

"My crime," said the second, "is that I came too early."

"And I'm here," moaned the third, "because I arrived at my job exactly on time. They accused me of owning an American watch."

I suppose you've heard of the insurance man who lost his job because he talked a customer to death after selling him a life insurance policy.

Two women were discussing furniture. One asked: "What period furniture do you have in your home?"

"I call it Period of Adjustment," said the other. "I bought it after my last divorce."

MARK TRAIL
by
THE DODDER, A PARASITIC PLANT, STARTS ITS LIFE IN MUCH THE SAME MANNER AS OTHER SEEDLINGS
A SLENDER SHOOT PUSHES ABOVE THE GROUND FROM THE GERMINATING SEED...
BUT HERE THE SIMILARITY ENDS, FOR NO LEAVES SPROUT FROM THE ELONGATED TENDRIL AS IT GRADUALLY MOVES AROUND IN A CIRCLE
QUESTING FOR A HOST, THE DODDER EXTENDS AS IT CIRCLES UNTIL IT IS SOME FOUR INCHES LONG
THEN IF IT FAILS TO MAKE CONTACT WITH ANOTHER PLANT IT SHRIVELS AND DIES...
BUT IF THE GROPING SHOOT DOES TOUCH A SUITABLE NEIGHBOR, IT WINDS AROUND THE STEM AND SENDS OUT SUCKERS THAT FUSE THEMSELVES TO THE HOST SOON THE VINE-LIKE FIRST SHOOT DIES, AND THE PARASITE DRAWS ITS NOURISHMENT FROM THE LIVING TISSUE OF ITS VICTIM!

By GEORGE WEEKS

The biggest damage suit ever filed against the City of Long Beach—but one which is credited with major benefits to the community—will go to trial Tuesday in U. S. District Court in Los Angeles.

This is the Navy's court action to compel measures for the halting of land sinkage that formerly threatened Long Beach Naval Shipyard as well as most of the harbor district.

Some observers consider the suit a major factor in achieving that result through accelerating the unitization and repressuring of the Wilmington oil field.

But the suit also seeks money damages semi-officially estimated at $54 million. Legal issues related to that claim will be the subject of skirmishing during the next several weeks.

* * * *

NAMED as co-defendants are some 400 oil companies in addition to the city, the principal producer of oil from the area, and the state which shares the oil profits.

For various reasons, the list has been pared to 38—with the state and city still included.

Trial is scheduled before Judge Harry C. Westover, to whom the case was assigned shortly after it was filed in August, 1958.

Although the hearings are expected to be lengthy, the question of the amount and allotment of damages won't be reached at this time. Other issues of law and fact which conceivably would obviate damages will be argued.

One issue is the city's contention that the federal government is estopped from claiming damages from land sinkage attributed to oil extraction. This argument is based on evidence that the government itself ordered that extraction continue at the time the city turned over land to the Navy for the shipyard in 1940.

In the suit the government asked for a mandatory injunction requiring the defendants to submit for court approval a plan for unified oil field repressuring; and if none was offered within 60 days, to halt all oil production.

* * * *

THE COURT in 1958 rejected the bid for an injunction and put the case off calendar. But late last year the case was revived at the request of U.S. attorneys for trial of the second element — the claim for damages, anticipated as well as actual.

The physical damage to the installations is now regarded as totally in the past. Recent bench-mark readings have shown not only that land sinkage has been halted but that in some portions of the shipyard area the land is rising slowly as a result of the

Cards Delay Dodger Pennant Celebration

The Dodgers failed to take advantage of the San Francisco Giants' doubleheader split with the Houston Colts Saturday so now, on the last day of the regular major league season, they are fighting for their lives. St. Louis defeated the Dodgers, 2-0, Saturday night and thus the Dodgers failed to clinch the National League pennant. A Dodgers loss and Giants win today would necessitate a playoff.

There were startling developments in collegiate football headed by Stanford's 16-13 upset of Michigan State. Southern California, with Willie Brown of Long Beach leading the way, bombed SMU, 33-3. Long Beach City College continued its high-scoring ways with an easy victory over New Mexico Military and Long Beach State gained its first win. See Sports Section for details.

MISSISSIPPI SHOWDOWN NEAR

Proclamation by JFK Starts Troops Moving

(Combined Wire Services)

President Kennedy early today ordered an Army engineer battallion to move into Mississippi to set up a tent city for 700 U.S. marshals to deal with the state's defiance of integration orders.

WASHINGTON, Sunday — President Kennedy ordered the Mississippi National Guard put under federal control early today and took the final step necessary before moving troops into the state from Tennessee.

With dramatic suddenness, Kennedy ordered federal troops mobilized at Memphis, Tenn., and then issued a proclamation commanding a halt to all "obstructions of justice" in the state.

* * * *

HE CHARGED that Gov. Ross Barnett and other state officials "have been and are wilfully opposing and obstructing the enforcement of orders" from federal courts.

He said the situation had become impractable to enforce the court order that Negro James Meredith be admitted to the University of Mississippi "by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings."

* * * *

ARMY TROOPS, meanwhile, were ordered moved into a strategic position at Memphis, Tenn., only 50 miles from the campus of the University of Mississippi.

In Jackson, Miss., Gov. Ross Barnett was attending an "Ole Miss" football game Saturday when he heard the news that federal troops had been ordered up for possible use in the Mississippi integration crisis.

"I have no comment," Barnett told United Press International from his box seat at the University of Mississippi - Kentucky game.

A BIG ARMY helicopter prepares to land Saturday at the Naval Air Station in Memphis, Tenn. The copter was one of 16 which brought an estimated 200 to 250 more troops to join federal forces there for possible action in Mississippi.

KENNEDY announced he will make a 15-minute television-radio broadcast to the nation at 4:30 p.m. PDT tonight. The White House did not formally announce the topic of the talk but the President is expected to outline the steps he has taken or will take in an effort to solve the dilemma confronting him.

Administration officials had been working throughout the day on a presidential proclamation which would pave the way for use of federal troops if the emergency warrants.

* * * *

HIGH OFFICIALS still hoped that emergency use of federal troops would not be necessary.

But as one official put it, there seemed little hope left that Gov. Barnett would bow to federal court decrees and admit Negro James Meredith to the university.

Barnett's resistance to federal court orders to desegregate the university already has touched off a crisis and its ultimate effects remained to be seen.

There had been an air of emergency all day and

SECRET TRIAL TOLD

East Berlin Reds Imprison U.S. Woman Singer as Spy

BERLIN (UPI) — A Communist East Berlin court has sentenced an American woman singer to six years' imprisonment on a charge of espionage, American officials said Saturday night.

Officials said the woman, Gabrille Hammerstein, 38, was arrested in East Berlin last January and was convicted in a secret trial early last month.

Miss Hammerstein, officials said, is the daughter of Dr. Gertrudem Rosenhain of New York City.

* * * *

DISCLOSURE OF THE arrest came as the official Soviet Tass news agency loosed a bitter attack against U.S. Defense Secretary Robert F. McNamara.

Tass said McNamara had made a "warlike statement" Friday in saying the U.S. and Allied planes ground troops are ready to use nuclear arms if necessary in Germany to guarantee Western right of access to Berlin.

American officials in Berlin said details of the charges against Miss Hammerstein were unknown and efforts of the U.S. mission here to contact her had been unsuccessful.

Miss Hammerstein had been in Berlin for about two years when she was arrested in the Eastern sector. She had described herself as a singer and free lance writer.

* * * *

SHE TOLD NEWSMEN in Berlin that she had good contacts in the East and was on friendly terms with Gerhard Eisler, bail-jumping refugee from American justice who is now East Germany's propaganda chief.

Two other Americans are known to be in East German jails.

They are Robert E. Mann, 19-year-old Stanford University sophomore of Sepulveda, Calif., and Jean F. Loba, 37, of Altadena, Calif.

Mann was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment last July on charges he tried to help an East German youth flee to West Berlin. Loba was arrested June 2 for unknown reasons during a visit to East Berlin.

Voters Decide College Building

By ROBERT WILCOX

Prompt construction of $35,675,200 in vitally needed college facilities in the Long Beach area hinges on the passage of Proposition 1-A on the November ballot.

This was the warning Saturday from the Citizens' Committee for Yes on Proposition 1-A.

Proposition 1-A is a state bond issue of $270 million, 80 per cent of which would be used for building construction, equipment and site acquisition for the California state colleges, the University of California and public junior colleges.

* * * *

UNLIKE A similar proposal which was defeated at the polls last June, the new measure specifies that 80 per cent of the funds must be used for higher education facilities and contains a list of 327 specific projects. The $20 million set aside for junior colleges is reserved for new construction.

Major projects for the Long Beach area schools:

Long Beach State College (Total: $5,126,400) — Construction of a $593,400 health service building, a $3,310,000 physical education classroom addition and a $1,150,000 language arts classroom building.

Orange State College (Total: $10,030,800) — Construction of a $4,429,700 music-speech-drama classroom building and a $3,752,000 gymnasium.

South Bay State College (Total: $7,717,000)—Acquisition of a $5 million site with additional development funds of $1,477,000, plus construction of temporary classrooms and service facilities with funds of $800,000.

University of California, Irvine (Total: $12,783,000)—Construction of a $2,287,300 library unit, a $3,867,000 natural sciences unit, a $1,510,300 multipurpose unit and a $754,100 cafeteria. Also included is $1,008,000 for various site development, including roads.

* * * *

THE REMAINING 20 per cent of the bond funds would be used to meet needs in other state agencies.

Among these projects are the construction of a $119,000 Irvine Lake forest-fire station, the $176,100 South Coast Agricultural Field Station near Santa Ana and a $401,400 auditorium at Fairview State Hospital at Costa Mesa. The sum of $317,400 would be used to remodel three wards at Metropolitan State Hospital.

Nevada A-Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A low-yield nuclear test was conducted underground Saturday in Nevada, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

The blast is the 52nd to be announced at the AEC's test site in the Nevada desert in a series dating back to Sept. 15, 1961. A low yield blast has a blast equivalent less than that of 20,000 tons of TNT.

Series to Discuss Big Ballot

By JIM McCAULEY
I, P-T Sacramento Bureau

California voters will wade through the largest number of state propositions in 24 years when they ballot Nov. 6.

There are 25 propositions to ponder—most since weary voters balloted on a like number in 1938. Things aren't nearly as tough as in 1879, however. Then there were 583 propositions as amendments to the new constitution.

In all propositions, voters act as lawmakers. It takes only a simple majority for a proposition to become law—even a state bond issue.

* * * *

FUTURE articles of this series in The Independent, Press-Telegram will discuss each proposition, and detail arguments for and against it.

Twenty-three of the propositions were placed on the ballot by the California Legislature.

Two of the hottest proposition issues, Senate reapportionment and subversive activities, were put on the ballot by petitions. Under the California initiative process, a law can be proposed as a ballot measure if at least 8 per cent of the persons who voted in the last gubernatorial election sign petitions.

Defense Spending Will Boost Economy in '63

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy will get a big boost next year from sharp increases in military spending under the Kennedy administration, the Defense Department reported Saturday.

It estimated that $27 billion in defense contracts will be granted in the fiscal year ending next July 1. This would be $2 billion more than in the previous fiscal year, $4.9 billion more than in fiscal 1961, and $6.6 billion more than in fiscal 1960.

The department noted that actual spending lags behind contract awards. Therefore, it said, the steady rise in defense contracts in the past two years has not yet been felt fully in the nation's factories.

New Furniture Takes Spotlight

There is a decided Mediterranean influence in furniture this fall, it is announced in a special section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram.

The annual Fall Furniture and Home Fashions Section brings you pictures and stories on the newest in furniture creations shown by the leading Long Beach area retail stores.

Another highlight of the new furniture is that most pieces are larger and built more sturdy but are designed to escape the bulky look.

Russ Protest Arrest of Pair

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States charged two Soviet U.N. diplomats Saturday with buying U.S. defense secrets from a sailor and demanded that the Soviet Union send the two home immediately.

The Soviet Union protested to the United States that federal agents had illegally arrested, manhandled and questioned the two men and it called for punishment of those responsible. The protest said one of the Russians was hurt.

The two countries acted in diplomatic notes that passed between the Soviet and U.S. delegations to the United Nations.

* * * *

THE RUSSIAN diplomats were Evgeni M. Prokhorov, 31, a second secretary in the Soviet delegation, and Ivan Y. Vyrodov, 38, a third secretary.

The sailor was Yeoman First Class Cornelius Drummond, 33, a Negro from Baltimore, Md., stationed at the U.S. Naval Base in Newport, R.I.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it caught Drummond Friday night passing classified navy instruction manuals to Prokhorov in a car parked outside a diner in Larchmont, N.Y., while Vyrodov was inside the diner.

* * * *

THE FBI SAID Drummond was arrested but the two Russians were taken to the New York FBI Bureau only for questioning and then, because of their diplomatic immunity from arrest, were released.

A U.S. diplomatic source said the Soviet protest and allegations were being studied at the U.N. mission.

He said the two Russians declined to reveal their identity to the FBI when apprehended and the FBI did not know they were diplomats until they arrived at its office.

When this was found out, the informant said, they were told they could leave, but they insisted on staying and arguing till the FBI managed to get another Soviet

Walker Arrives in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who commanded federal troops during the Little Rock integration crisis in 1957, arrived here Saturday night and announced: "I am in Mississippi beside Gov. Ross Barnett."

He told newsmen at the airport that "thousands and possibly tens of thousands of people from Florida to California" were on their way here to support Barnett "in the position he has taken for states rights."

He said sending federal troops into Mississippi to enforce an integration order would be a "conspiracy of the crucifixion by the anti-Christ conspirators of the Supreme Court."

I, P-T Foreign Record Offer Still Available

Students, businessmen and travelers will be interested in the new educational service The Independent, Press-Telegram now is offering its readers.

This project is the offer of a series of records teaching such languages as Spanish, French, German, Italian, Russian and English for Spanish-speaking people.

These records, which under regular labels would cost several times the price now made possible, can be obtained by readers at the bargain price of only $1 a record. Each language course consists of four long-playing 10-inch high-fidelity records, 33⅓, with a complete and handy instruction and conversational manual with each record.

A foreign language professor says of these records: "I have reviewed both the French and Spanish sets of the Hallmark records and find that the voices are native speakers — both men and women to give variety—using good, standard, idiomatic speech, talking on a variety of interesting, useful, and practical topics at a normal rate of speed. They use good pitch and intonation and expression. The vocabulary is very broad."

Use of these records can provide the language-learner with many fine listening experiences, should sharpen the "ear" and give him models for practice and developing his pronunciation. The student will become acquainted with a broad spoken vocabulary and this should be very helpful. Learning a foreign language of course requires a great deal of practice and guidance, correction, and further practice. These records will help to motivate students, too.

All records are mailed direct to our readers, or will be sent anywhere in the USA. For complete details regarding this unusual opportunity to learn a foreign language turn to announcement elsewhere in this edition.

A coupon, to be filled out for the records, will appear in the newspaper Monday through Friday.

L.A.C. Says: Deductible Medical Plan for the Aged

Four arguments in opposition to the President's Medicare bill were (1) That it would cover many people who could afford to pay their own bills. (2) That it was a first step toward socialized medicine. (3) That the measure provided for only a minority of medical expenses for the aged. And (4) That most of these people are already covered by medical insurance.

We believe the first three are valid arguments. But, regarding the medical insurance coverage for those 65 or older, we disagree. It is true many of them have medical insurance. But the coverage is inadequate and the cost is prohibitive for the great majority of the older citizens. One policy widely advertised for the aged by some of our largest insurance companies costs the individual $78 a year. It provides a maximum of $10 a day for 31 days hospital—a maximum of $200 for surgery and $100 for miscellaneous in-hospital expenses.

The wider medical coverage of group plans for younger people is denied all but a few of those who are retired and over age 65. But many of them believe they have insurance programs that provide much greater protection than is the actual coverage of the policies. The costs of adequate coverage are far above the ability of 75 per cent of the older people to pay.

It is first necessary to understand what is the ability to pay. The most comprehensive statistics we have seen are in the recent 186-page study by Blue Cross in its "Financing Health Care for the Aged." This organization covers more people with medical insurance than any other private agency. It must be assumed its statistics are conservative—if anything, favoring the ability of the people to pay for insurance—or directly pay their medical bills. It is therefore revealing to see how small are the annual incomes of individuals aged 65 or older.

Here are statistics in the study taken from the Bureau of Census 1960 for all persons aged 65 or older:

	Male	Female	Average
Less than $1,000	27.1%	73.9%	52.7%
$1,000 to $1,999	32.0	16.8	23.9
$2,000 to $2,999	17.3	4.5	10.2
$3,000 to $5,000	11.8	3.4	7.2
$5,000 and over	11.8	1.7	6.3

This would indicate that 75 per cent of all aged as individuals have less than $2,000 a year income. Only 6.3 per cent on the average have more than $5,000 a year. The statistics also show that net assets for spending units (a man and wife or with children with the head aged 65 or over) as:

20% less than $1,000.
15% from $1,000 to $5,000.
22% from $5,000 to $10,000.
43% over $10,000.

These assets include home ownership and other salable assets of the families whose head is 65 years or older. Where the man and wife are both age 65 or older the individual assets would be half of the above.

The Blue Cross study estimates the annual total medical cost for all people aged 65 or older averages $177 a year per individual. This cost is broken down as follows:

Physician service	$55 equals 31% of total
Hospital care	$49 equals 28% of total
Medicines	$42 equals 23% of total
Dental care	$10 equals 6% of total
Other medical costs	$21 equals 12% of total

The above statistics, we believe, give a fair understanding of the ability of persons over 65 years of age to pay their medical bills. On the average, more than half can pay the average cost out of income. But, when faced with above normal or catastrophic medical costs, they are faced with liquidating their meager savings or be in debt for the rest of their lives. It is for the above average medical costs the older people need protection.

The Kennedy Medicare plan for the aged, according to his estimates, would cost $1,100 million in the first year. Insurance actuaries estimate the cost to be at least double this amount. This cost was to cover only hospital costs for 90 days after $10 a day for the first nine days to be paid by the patient. It also provided for nursing home and house visits of nurses. It provided nothing for the family physician, surgery, medicines, or miscellaneous other costs in or out of hospitals. It is estimated this medicare program would have provided no more than one-third of the average medical costs for all those over age 65. (Blue Cross study shows average annual total medical cost for age 65 and over individuals as $177. Multiplied by 17 million in that category would total $3,000 million—thus the President's estimate of $1,100 million is about one-third of total costs.)

By comparison, a total coverage of medical costs for the aged based upon their paying the first part of their total bills up to 5 per cent of their total income and 20 per cent of the amount above that deduction—would give protection against catastrophic medical and hospital bills—at a cost to government of considerably less than the President's King-Anderson bill. It would call for the individuals to pay the amount of their bills they are capable of paying without undue hardships. It would cause them to be more watchful of their medical costs and use of hospital facilities. It would be an added safeguard against doctor and patient collusion.

The Blue Cross study indicates that about half of the 17 million aged are now in the less than $1,000-a-year income category and are now eligible for medical care. This would be under the Kerr-Mills, old-age assistance, veterans and other state and local programs. Under the Kerr-Mills coverage, for example, California has $80 million budgeted, of which the federal government provides half. On a national basis this will total about $1,000 million. But there is little or no coverage for the other half of the aged with incomes above $1,000 a year.

The plan suggested here would provide that coverage on the basis of ability to pay for these 8,500,000 individuals over age 65. The basis of the plan is that the individual pays the first 5 per cent of annual income for all medical costs in a year and that the plan would pay 80 per cent of the balance.

Under this deductible plan this group would pay a substantial part of the total cost. But it would protect them against catastrophic illnesses and accidents where the total costs would impoverish them. Those with normal medical costs would not be affected. They would only present bills for payment when they totaled more than 5 per cent of their annual income.

This, we believe, is what the great majority of the older people want. Some expect all their bills to be paid, regardless of where the money comes from. But the great majority want protection only from the catastrophic costs they cannot pay. In Monday's Independent and Press-Telegram column we will present statistics to show how this cost would be handled and why it would be the least costly to government and greatest protection, yet offered in a plan for the aged. To our readers who are interested we suggest they clip this column to compare with the one that follows.—L.A.C.

3 Arrested in Jordan School Riot

By BILL HUNTER

Police arrested an 18-year-old machinist and two Jordan High School students Saturday in the aftermath of a post-football game riot that injured four South Torrance High School students.

More arrests are expected, said Juvenile Sgt. Robert D. Alford, who led the daylong investigation into the Friday night brawl, which occurred a few blocks from Jordan High School stadium.

One of the arrested juveniles, a 16-year-old boy, was released after questioning. The other, 17-years-old, was held for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

* * * *

LONG BEACH school officials Saturday promised a thorough investigation of the attack upon 14 buses taking Torrance students home from the game won by Jordan, 26-18.

Principals John A. Lucas of Torrance and Milton F. Sager of Jordan agreed none of the attackers who used bottles, clubs and a disarmed hand grenade was a member of either student body.

Lucas said he and other school officials ejected unruly young adults from the Torrance section during the game.

"They weren't high school students," he said.

Lt. Robert C. Deaton of the juvenile bureau said he received information a Torrance coed had been attacked and stripped of her clothing in a restroom during the game by girls in company with members of a Long Beach car club.

* * * *

THE ADULT suspect, Milton Mark (Peewee) Thomas of 160 E. 57th St., is a member of the car club, the lieutenant said.

Thomas was identified as the youth who hurled the grenade through a bus window. The heavy grenade struck and injured Paul G. Welles, 14, of 5501 Pasa de Pablo, Torrance.

Doreen L. Cox, 15, of 22325 Susanna Ave., Torrance, was the most seriously injured in the brief fracas. She suffered a skull fracture when hit by a bottle. Broken glass also inflicted deep cuts on her face. She was transported from the bus to Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

* * * *

OTHERS injured included Kathleen Giza, 15, of 22827 Avis Ave., who was pulled through an open window, slapped and hit with gravel; Erick T. Higgins, 14, of 5243 Zakon Road, struck on the arm by a club; and teacher Wallis Greer, hit in the back.

"We won't know just how many were hurt until Monday," Lucas said. "I feel certain others were injured."

* * * *

SAGER insisted he and other Jordan supervisors saw no evidence of violence in the stands during the game. "Nothing happened until after the buses left the school grounds," he said.

Police said the buses were stoned as they slowed in heavy traffic on Myrtle Avenue near Artesia Street. No arrests were made Friday night.

Douglas Slates Dedication Fete

More than 1,000 aviation leaders, military and government officials will assemble here Oct. 21 for dedication of the Donald W. Douglas Engineering and Product Development Center, a spokesman for Douglas Aircraft Company said Saturday.

The spokesman said outstanding scientists and executives of the aerospace industry, ranking officers from the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps, officials of the commercial airlines throughout the world and government and civic leaders will attend.

* * * *

THE CENTER is a recently occupied, three-story engineering building and laboratory structure at the Douglas plant on the north side of Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The buildings include 305,000 square feet in the engineering building and 360,000 square feet in the laboratory structure, the spokesman said.

He termed the buildings "the nerve center of the Douglas Aircraft Division."

* * * *

THE BUILDINGS' modern research and development facilities complement what Douglas officials call "the unsurpassed production capacity" of the surrounding 345 acre site where aircraft design and production facilities formerly based in other cities have been consolidated.

The main Long Beach location is now housed in 48 buildings with nearly 5 million square feet under cover, Douglas officials said.

Ground was broken for the Engineering and Product Development Center a year ago. First concrete was poured last January as a part of a $7 million construction program which includes a nine-story, 83,000 square foot administration building which is near completion.

Full Work Goal Told by Brown

RICHMOND (UPI)—Gov. Brown told a campaign dinner Saturday night that he would never be satisfied with anything less than full employment in California.

In prepared remarks, the governor called for expanding the state's Economic Development Agency, instituting new programs to deal with the problem of automation and increasing the number of employe retraining courses.

"I say that full employment is a realistic goal if we pursue it with energy and dedication, and with faith in our own capacities," Brown said.

* * * *

HE HAILED figures showing that unemployment in the state is on the decline, but declared, "I am not satisfied with five per cent or two per cent."

Brown said he was not pessimistic over the implications automation holds for the future.

"This administration does not shrink in fear from automation," he said. "Automation can be the instrument of the mightiest productivity, the greatest abundance and the highest standard of living in history."

But the governor went on to stress the importance of providing safeguards and retraining for workers who lose their jobs as a result of such technological advance.

* * * *

BROWN CAME to Richmond from Chula Vista near San Diego where he addressed a meeting of the annual Border Cities Conference.

Representatives of some 20 American and Mexican communities heard him make a strong plea for "a crusade against the growing menace of narcotics."

"As citizens, as businessmen and as parents, you have a deep personal problem," Brown said. "As residents of the border area, you are involved because of the large illegal flow of narcotics between our two countries."

He warned that about 75 per cent of the heroin seized in California currently comes from Mexico, while almost 100 per cent of the marijuana in the state is of Mexican origin.

Gargan Talks at Petroleum Club Monday

Actor William Gargan, who lost his voice to cancer and regained it through a Cancer Society speech program, will be guest speaker at a luncheon Monday at the Long Beach Petroleum Club.

GARGAN

While on tour with the company of "The Best Man," two years ago, Gargan noticed that he was having throat trouble. Doctors found he had cancer of the larynx. His voice box was removed and he left the hospital believing he would never speak again.

He enrolled in the American Cancer Society's Esophogeal Speech Program, however, and did regain his speech.

The meeting Monday will honor American Cancer Society Volunteers.

FATEFUL THINGS TO COME

Showdown Over Cuba In Wind

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I.-P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — From events during the past week, one can guess that Russia, Castro, Cuban refugees, and the U.S. government are preparing for a showdown over Cuba — sooner or later.

Just when it will come is not known, but the conviction is gradually growing here that something is in the wind.

Cuban refugees in the United States have announced the stepping up of underground activities. The U.S. has announced the formation of Spanish-speaking special troops in the U.S. Army. Secretary of State Rusk has been putting pressure on our allies not to allow their ships to take strategic materials to Cuba.

CASTRO HAS announced that he will build a base in Cuba for the Russian Atlantic "fishing fleet." Khrushchev has said he will support the Castro regime by every means. All of this adds up to ferment in the Caribbean pot. Sooner or later the lid will pop.

For the moment, the best bet is that the administration will hope that the Cubans, both in and out of Cuba, will somehow take care of the situation. It is the theory that Castro is slowly losing ground within his country and that he is becoming ever more dependent upon Russia.

* * * *

HE IS, so it is said, holding himself in power only through the crushing force of his omnipresent police. Guerrilla bands operating in the jungles of Cuba against Castro are increasing in number, a fact tacitly admitted by Castro's government, which announced last week a new offensive against new guerrillas. Castro is looking more and more to Moscow for the importation of needed foods.

* * * *

THE EXTENT to which Castro enjoys the support of the Cuban people is a subjective judgment which precipitates argument whenever that subject is brought up. High administration officials are inclined to believe that any change of government would be welcomed by the Cuban people.

Other observers dispute that premise. Whatever the judgment, it is clear that a push to topple Castro, with or without American troops, is now under way.

Ideally, from the American point of view, the whole thing should be handled through the Organization of American States. For internal reasons of their own, many of the Latin American nations have been reluctant to be very aggressive about Castro.

* * * *

CONSIDERABLE Castroism exists in most Central and South American countries and a firm stand against him could in too many cases bring the cry that the incumbent government is the lackey of American imperialism.

Thus, the remark of one South American diplomat probably mirrored the thoughts of all. When asked if his government would support an American invasion of Cuba, he replied: "We'd support you privately but damn you publicly."

* * * *

IT IS NOW being suggested here in Washington that the attitude of the Latin Americans is changing, that they now see the clear and ready danger to themselves and that they are willing to go along with whatever action may be necessary.

The conspicuous Russian activity on the sugar island has frightened them all — or so it is said — and they are prepared to give their all to the common cause. You can get an argument on that particular thesis, too, but it is being peddled assiduously at the moment.

In trying to keep the Cuban situation in perspective, it is well to remember that the United States has never in its history been comfortable about Cuba.

It has tried friendly relations, war, intervention, non-intervention, aid, boycott, fatherly advice, parental ire and none of them has worked satisfactorily.

* * * *

THIS IS A historical fact being exploited by Khrushchev today. Cuba is a way of nagging at the United States, of exacerbating a small but painful ulcer, of keeping the American people divided and argumentative among themselves, and keeping our hemispheric relations off-balance.

Whether the administration plans now or later to take direct action, this reporter cannot predict, but certainly the Cuban burner is being presently heated up.

Latins May Act to Bar Cuba Moves

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk believes that this week's Washington conference of Latin American foreign ministers may well lead to creation of a tighter security cordon in the Caribbean around Communist Cuba and its Soviet supporters.

He opposes the Panamanian suggestion for a "Nato-type" Central American set-up as too formal and likely to split the hemispheric alliance. The secretary and others, however, favor a less rigid regional "apparatus" to achieve the same end.

This was reported Saturday night by high U.S. officials as Rusk concluded his first week of consultations here with Latin American, European, Asian and African representatives attending the United Nations Assembly.

The Washington meeting is "informal" and cannot pass any resolutions. But Rusk was said to feel the Central American and Caribbean nations attending might take the opportunity to agree on setting up a special Caribbean cooperative committee to guard against:

Movement of Cuban agents back and forth between Havana and the non-Communist countries in the region.

Transfer of funds used by Fidel Castro to finance campaigns of subversion and infiltration in the area.

Illicit movement of arms or Soviet-trained personnel from Cuba to other Latin American countries.

While some of the larger Latin American countries such as Brazil and Mexico do not favor any firm diplomatic measures, it is not expected they would oppose cooperative Caribbean arrangements made by the countries most directly affected.

The United States also hopes the meeting will adopt a communique endorsing an embargo on strategic trade with Cuba. Rusk knows he can secure a two-thirds majority, but, here again, Brazil, Mexico and a couple of others probably will simply abstain from voting.

The Washington meeting opens Tuesday, when the visiting foreign ministers will be guests at a White House luncheon. It is expected to conclude its discussions on Wednesday.

Neighbor Against Neighbor in 'Revolt'

FARMERS' HOLDOUT CREATES VIOLENCE

(There's feuding going on in the nation's Midwestern breadbasket as a result of the National Farmers Organization attempt to boost farm prices by withholding livestock from the market. What has been its effect? In the following story, Associated Press staffer Ron Speer tells the holding action's impact of the farmer, the consumer and livestock markets.)

By RON SPEER

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Bitter quarrels have flared out among Midwest farmers this fall, spoiling the holiday atmosphere that usually accompanies the harvesting of bountiful crops.

Neighbors has turned on neighbor. Fences have been cut. Homes have been damaged. Trucks have been fired on. Relatives aren't speaking.

Cause of the bitterness is disagreement on the National Farmers Organization's holding action on livestock.

* * * *

WHAT HAS THE NFO accomplished since members began keeping cattle, hogs and sheep off the markets a month ago in an attempt to boost and stabilize farmers' income? Opinions vary.

Most NFO officials and members say they still believe they can achieve their goals—long-term contracts with processors calling for higher prices for farm products. They threaten to hold milk off the market next week to increase the effect of the holding action.

But some NFO members, faced with mortgage payments, school costs, and day-to-day bills, are wavering.

And packing plant officials and farmers who have not joined the NFO say the drive was doomed to failure before it was launched.

* * * *

SOME MEMBERS of the Midwest farm group are unhappy with violence that has broken out. Other members say stronger measures are needed to make farmers keep their livestock at home.

The NFO has been building for this holding action since it was founded seven years ago, when farmers were getting only 12 cents a pound for their hogs. Since then units have sprung up in 16 states.

Three short-lived test actions in the past had little effect on the markets. But most market and packing plant officials concede that the NFO's drive this fall has at times reduced livestock supplies and boosted prices.

THE HOLDING action was most effective in the first and third weeks. At one time 1,000 packing plant workers were idled in Iowa because of a shortage of livestock. Most have since been rehired. Prices in recent days dropped to near those paid when the holding action started Sept. 1, and receipts have been climbing to near normal levels.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the NFO and the driving force in its bid for what he calls "a fair price at the market," says that although receipts numerically are near normal, packers and processors are buying animals that are not ready for market in order to fill demands for meat.

Packing plant officials contend there now are plenty of marketable animals available. Harry Slife, assistant to the president at Rath Packing says "we are getting all the animals we want."

FARMER STOPS TRUCK in Ottumwa, Iowa by lying down in front of wheels. He wasn't hurt. The National Farmers Organization, in an attempt to keep livestock off the markets, has been harassing trucks since a holding action began Sept. 1.

"SO ARE WE," says R. D. Halcomb, manager of Swift & Co. at Marshalltown, Iowa. "But we won't hold any grudges when NFO farmers again decide to sell livestock to us. "I think, however, their proposals are rather unrealistic. Some will join the NFO, and others won't because they want their independence."

One of the farmers who won't join operates a 200-acre farm in south central Iowa, near Truro. He asked that his name not be used "because the NFO guys would really harrass me then."

"I'm not joining because I just don't believe in the way the NFO is trying to get things done. I don't believe the holding action is doing any good anyway," the 45-year-old farmer says.

"I worked in Des Moines back in the 30s when I had to join a butchers union. I don't want to belong to anything like that again. They'll never get me to sign that NFO contract."

* * * *

THE CONTRACT calls for members to market all their products through the NFO if and when the NFO gets contracts with processors. Members selling outside the NFO would pay 10 per cent penalty on their gross sales.

On products marketed by the NFO, the processor would withhold one per cent of the sale price and turn it over to the NFO as the member's dues.

"That one per cent sounds pretty high to me, too," says Dwight Hart, 50, an NFO member south of Truro, "but if we could get contracts with processors and be sure of a steady price, it would be worth it."

* * * *

HART SAYS he joined NFO two years ago because "I feel farmers are underpaid the way things are now. But I'm definitely against this violence."

Soft-spoken Aubrey Zimmerman, 58, who farms 200 acres north of Murray, says even stiffer measures may be needed to make the holding action a success.

"We have to keep farmers from selling livestock to make it work. I don't know just what we'll have to do, but we have got to stop the flow of livestock to the markets.

* * * *

SINCE THE holding action started, however, many incidents have been reported. Bottles have been tossed through windshields and tires of livestock trucks have been shot. Most of the violence took place in northern Missouri.

NFO members have demonstrated at sale barns delaying auctions. A group of wives in Illinois sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and other songs to keep buyers from purchasing livestock at a sale barn.

U.S. Figures High on Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Any way you figure it the United States has a high unemployment rate compared to other major industrial nations.

This is the conclusion of a six-member presidential committee appointed to study employment statistics. The findings, released Saturday, set to rest reports that the U.S. employment picture might look better if judged by the yardstick used in other countries.

The committee, headed by Dr. Robert A. Gordon, professor of economics at the University of California, made the first comprehensive international study of employment statistics in the process of trying to find out what's wrong with the U.S. figures.

The most recent Labor Department report put the U.S. unemployment rate at 5.8 per cent. The committee noted that the unemployment rate in France is about 1.1 per cent. But it added that in affluent America, an unemployed worker can hold out longer in looking for the kind of job he wants.

Another report said the "true level" of U.S. unemployment last month actually was nearly 9 per cent. Among other things, this study took into account people who stop looking for jobs when it is obvious "the jobs are simply not there."

The second report was prepared by the Conference on Economic Progress, a research organization whose members include AFL-CIO President George Meany and Leon Keyserling, former President Truman's economic adviser.

The presidential committee said it concluded that doubt concerning the scientific objectivity of the agencies responsible for collecting employment statistics is unwarranted. But it said some changes can be made in deciding who is to be classified as unemployed.

The middle-aged man, for instance, who hasn't found a job since the mine in his hometown shut down five years ago and refuses to move elsewhere for work, generally is counted among the unemployed.

The number of persons questioned about their employment status ought to be increased, perhaps ten-fold, in order to get a more accurate picture, the report said.

Here is how the U.S. unemployment picture compared in 1960 with other countries, figured first on their own methods of measurement (unadjusted), then on the U.S. methods (adjusted).

Country	Unadjusted	Adjusted
United States	5.6%	5.6%
Canada	7.0	7.0
France	1.1	1.9
Germany	1.2	1.0
Great Britain	1.6	2.4
Italy	7.9	4.3
Japan	1.0	1.1
Sweden (1961)	1.2	1.5

Johovich Raps Foe on Hospital

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Joseph J. Johovich, Democratic nominee for the Long Beach area's 32nd Congressional District seat, Saturday charged the incumbent Rep. Craig Hosmer with "fiscal irresponsibility" in "proposing piecemeal construction of a Navy hospital."

Noting President Kennedy's signing of the military construction bill which includes a new 350-bed hospital for Long Beach, Johovich said the issue of the Navy hospital "has been unsettled since 1950 and throughout the incumbent's tenure . . . and now we are told that we will get a 350-bed hospital some time in the future, when 500 beds were considered bare minimum, 600 to 750 adequate."

* * * *

JOHOVICH said the bill, sponsored by a Mississippi senator, which included the hospital facility was tabbed "too little, too late" and a "hollow victory" in area newspaper editorial comment. He said most recent credit for gaining a Navy hospital for the area has gone to Mrs. Virginia Weldon Kelly, Independent, Press-Telegram Washington staff member.

In April, Johovich said, Hosmer asked local doctors to support a 500-bed hospital in a letter to the medical association here but has not released an answer to his appeal.

Instead, he said, "the incumbent's sterling effort in behalf of a larger facility has been to ask Congress if additions can be made as needed."

Johovich said every one in the district knows the need for a 500-bed facility and charged that piecemeal construction "would treble the cost to taxpayers. Such action is typical of irresponsible representation of the district."

RICHARDSON ATTACK

Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson, Republican nominee for Assembly in the West Long Beach-Lakewood 44th District, has charged his opponent, the incumbent Democrat, Joseph M. Kennick, with voting for "runaway spending" and failing to give law enforcement agencies "the support they need."

Richardson said that Kennick voted, during his first year in 1959, "for every one of the tax increases levied to pay for runaway spending . . . that is causing a runaway of industry, jobs and family purchasing ability."

He said Kennick "is supposed to be familiar with the problem of law enforcement" but has not given law enforcement agencies the support they need from state governments and the legislature.

"The California citizen is not fooled by false claims of the present administration, for he knows that during eight years as attorney general, the present governor stood by while juvenile narcotics offenses rose to a level almost 10 times what they were previously."

U.S. Ready to Sell Off 'AtomCity'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is going to sell off the entire town of Los Alamos, N.M., estimated to be worth about $38 million.

President Kennedy signed legislation Saturday authorizing the Atomic Energy Commission to dispose of the community it built nearly 20 years ago to house workers brought to this rugged mountain country to build the first atomic bomb.

The 13,600 residents are unhappy over the prospect of losing the advantages of being wards of Uncle Sam and gaining the status of property tax payers. Uncle has been taking care of everything, from fixing a faucet to mowing lawns.

It will take several years, however, to appraise and sell off the government holdings. Churches, schools, parks and the hospital are to be turned over free to the private community.

Glenn Looks for 2nd Orbit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Astronaut John Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, said Saturday he thinks he may make another longer space voyage.

GLENN

Glenn told a meeting of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots: "There's a very good possibility that I and the others who have already been in orbit will get another shot, perhaps in a later mercury flight, perhaps in gemini."

The gemini capsule—which caries two men—is scheduled to try for an in-space meeting of two space craft late in 1963 or early 1964. Glenn said the mercury capsule's limitation to about 18 orbits will probably rule it out for space meeting attempts.

Glenn is in California to help man the Pt. Arguello tracking station during the Project Mercury orbit flight scheduled for Wednesday with Walter Schirra aboard.

JFK to Meet De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—President Kennedy has invited French President Charles de Gaulle to visit Washington in January, French press reports said Saturday.

DE GAULE

They said De Gaulle has not yet replied but that he was "very much touched" by the invitation. The reports were splashed on the front pages of the two mass circulation Paris afternooners, France-Soir and Paris-Presse and also were reproduced by Le Monde.

French officials first denied the story, then admitted the possibility of a De Gaulle trip to Washington had been discussed for some time but said that no definite plans had been made.

Lawyer Named Rail Mediator

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday appointed Sylvester Garrett, Pittsburgh lawyer and arbitrator, as neutral member of a three-man panel to settle remaining issues in the dispute between Railroad Telegraphers and the Chicago and North Western Railway.

The White House announced late Friday that the telegraphers' 30-day strike against the railroad had ended. Four unresolved issues were assigned to binding arbitration. Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the railway, will represent the company and G. E. Leighty, president of the Telegraphers Union, will represent the 1,000 workers directly involved in the dispute.

New York Ship Fire Controlled

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire swept an Argentine passenger-cargo ship loaded with oil, injuring or overcoming 29 firemen before it was brought under control early Saturday.

More than 200 firemen manned 50 pieces of ground equipment and three fireboats in battling the five-alarm, four-hour, blaze which severely damaged the 11,340 ton Rio Jachal. At one point, the ship listed severely at its Hudson River pier, until the bilge pumps were started.

Fifteen passengers and 40 crewmen were evacuated without injury.

Vandenberg Launches Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Another secret satellite was launched Saturday toward polar orbit, using the same booster rocket employed in the Discoverer series.

In keeping with the air force policy of not disclosing any details on satellite launches, spokesmen would not disclose whether it was a sky spy vehicle.

Canada's Satellite in Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Canada's globe-circling Alouette satellite beeped back signals to earth Saturday from what a spokesman said was probably one of the most precise orbits yet achieved by a spacecraft.

The 300-pound Alouette was launched Friday night from this Pacific missile base atop a Thor-Agena B booster combination in a cooperative effort with the United States. It missed its orbit path by only 20 miles in what was described as "incredible accuracy."

Longest Labor Dispute Nears End

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP)—Representatives of the Kohler Co. and the United Auto Workers Union announced Saturday they had reached agreement on the first contract in more than eight years for production workers at the big plumbingware firm.

If the one-year contract is approved by members of UAW Local 833 at a meeting Sunday, Oct. 8, as expected, it will mark the windup of one of the nation's longest and most bitter labor disputes.

COLOMBIAN FREIGHTER LIMPS IN

The Colombian motor vessel Rio Magdalena moves slowly into San Francisco harbor Saturday with a pie-shape hole in its side. The freighter collided with the U.S. super-tanker Titan in a dense fog, 20 miles south of San Francisco. The tanker reported it had two small holes on the bow below the waterline. The hole in the Magdalena was 20 feet wide and 20 feet deep. There were no injuries.

The United States sent a copy of its note to the office of U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant for his information.

Soviet sources would make no comment on that note.

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's enough to make you wish you were dead."

That was the comment from Archie Drummond Saturday after he learned his 33-year-old son, Nelson, had been charged with espionage by the FBI.

Yeoman First Class Nelson C. Drummond, assigned to the U.S. Navy Base at Newport, R.I., was arrested outside a diner in Larchmont, N.Y., Friday night. Two officials of the Russian delegation to the United Nations also were picked up.

"I hope there's nothing to it," said the sailor's father at his home in West Baltimore. "But they usually do not arrest you unless they have something."

"We tried to give him all the advantages we never had," Mrs. Drummond said, sitting misty-eyed by her husband's side. "It just doesn't seem real."

THE DRUMMONDS are the parents of four other children, the youngest 11. The elder Drummond is a maintenance man with the city's bureau of recreation.

'Ole Miss' Woes Hit Barnett Aide

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A Federal Appeals Court Saturday found Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi guilty of contempt for barring a Negro from the state university. Unless he complies with the order to admit Negro James Meredith to the university by 11 a.m. Tuesday he will be fined $5,000 a day.

Johnson got off easier than Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett did Friday. The court held Barnett in contempt and said unless he complied with its order by 11 a.m. Tuesday, he would be arrested and fined $10,000 a day.

Saturday's ruling specified that if Johnson was named governor or acting governor, he would be subject to the same penalties that were laid against Barnett.

* * * *

THE RULING apparently anticipated the possibility that Barnett might go to prison and that Johnson would be left in charge of the executive affairs of the state.

Johnson did not appear in court and presiding Justice Richard T. Rives would not let two attorneys representing Mississippi enter the case as friends of the court.

In Jackson, the Mississippi legislature rammed through a state law Friday which apparently would make it possible for the state to pay any fines incurred by the two officials.

The measure provides that any state officer acting to preserve school segregation is acting as the state rather than as an individual.

The court ruling Saturday ordered Johnson to do two specific things before the Tuesday deadline:

—To cooperate with the rulings of the federal court.

—To maintain law and order at and around the University of Mississippi so that Meredith's enrollment would be facilitated.

* * * *

THE COURT heard testimony and then adjourned until Monday. The contempt ruling against Johnson was handed down from chambers.

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — James L. (Jimmy) Hicks, Negro, executive editor of the New York Amsterdam News, Saturday was denied accreditation as a newsman by University of Mississippi officials.

Pat Smith, director of public relations for the university, said Hicks was refused accreditation "for his own safety."

However, Hicks disagreed, saying he thought he was turned down because he is a Negro.

Hicks, a veteran reporter, worked on the Emmett Till case and Tennessee schools desegregation stories.

Navy Nabs Newsmen in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Three newsmen were taken into custody Saturday when they stumbled into a search for a mysterious man seen around Army helicopters brought to the Memphis Naval Air Station as part of the federal buildup in the Mississippi integration crisis.

Picked up by a troop of Navy men on horseback were Associated Press photographer Ferd Kaufman, NBC cameraman Maurice Levy and NBC soundman Wieland Risser. They were later released.

* * * *

KAUFMAN SAID the three, who have been covering the massing of federal marshals and troops at the base, were scouting the back side of the vast naval reservation when they strayed onto Navy land and the sailors came galloping up.

While they were in custody, Kaufman said, he learned that the sudden appearance of the sailors was because of a search already in progress. He said the Navy was looking for a man in civilian clothes seen around the helicopters which flew in Saturday.

The man reportedly broke and ran toward the north edge of the airfield when a muster of the marshals was called.

Kennedy Sets Action in Miss.

late into the night at the White House and the Justice Department over the situation in Mississippi.

BOTH THE President and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy canceled plans to leave the capitol during the weekend. There were negotiations with the networks over arranging suitable air time for the President's speech Sunday.

It was midnight when the President announced the federalizing of the Mississippi National Guard.

Kennedy's action in this desegregation crisis differed mechanically from the approach former President Eisenhower used in ordering troops to Little Rock, Ark., to enforce a public school desegregation order in 1957.

EISENHOWER first issued a proclamation ordering the end of all resistance to the court decree. Then, by executive order, he federalized the Arkansas National Guard and authorized the Pentagon to dispatch any additional military force necessary to Little Rock.

Troops of the regular Army's 101st Airborne Division were sent into the state.

Kennedy has not yet issued a formal order assigning special units of the regular armed service to Mississippi, although military policemen and other servicemen have been assembled close to Mississippi.

AS THE Kennedy administration continued working on a presidential proclamation which would pave the way for use of federal troops if the emergency warrants, the Pentagon Saturday night dispatched a standby Army force, composed primarily of military policemen, to Memphis to await developments.

The Kennedy administration reportedly hopes to limit any use of regular federal troops in Mississippi's integration crisis to military policemen so as to avoid using combat infantry if possible.

Current thinking among those planning the operation is to deploy the MP's to form a corridor through which federal marshals would pass in carrying out court orders designed to admit Meredith to the university.

West Coast Radioactive Trash Dumps Said Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low-level, packaged radioactive wastes may be dumped at 40 locations on the Pacific coast of the United States and Canada without endangering human or sea life, a panel of scientists said Saturday.

The panel used a new rule-of-thumb for determining how much radioactive material might be dangerous. The technique is based on the specific activity of chemical elements in the sea.

* * * *

EIGHT rectangular disposal sites, each measuring nine nautical miles on a side, would be sufficient to dispose of present waste products, most of it leftovers from the use of radioactive isotopes in West Coast hospitals and research laboratories, the report said.

Six of those sites would be located from the Mexican border northward to the Columbia River. Two sites would be north of the Columbia. Of the 40 possible sites, 20 would be south and 20 north of the Columbia.

The panel of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council made its report in an 87-page book released Saturday. The panel recommended that disposal sites be chosen away from coastal bases, sea mountains, trenches and canyons. Sites should not be used for any other waste disposal, and disposal depths should be greater than 1,200 fathoms or 1⅓ miles.

* * * *

BELOW that depth, the panel said, radioactivity cannot get into edible sea life by direct means.

At 2½ miles depth, the panel said some 200,000 curies per year can be dumped. At the 1⅓ mile safety line, the panel recommended that disposal be limited to 150 curies per year.

The panel arrived at its recommendations through the use of a relativity permissible in the ocean, ocean life, human seafood and human organs. This technique measures the amount of each element in the sea that can be radioactive without danger.

* * * *

THE THEORY permits only a restricted, safe number of radioactive atoms of an element to each 100 atoms.

Radioactive wastes would be contained in metal drums or other safe packaging materials.

In an accompanying statement, the Atomic Energy Commission said it has no present plans to designate any additional states for radioactive disposal in the ocean. The AEC which requested the panel's report, said it would study the findings thoroughly. It has a program for disposing of wastes by burial on land, or by submersion in deep ocean waters.

* * * *

THE STUDY of the Pacific Coast disposal problem supplements a similar one made a few years ago of the Atlantic Coast situation. The findings were roughly the same as to depth requirements.

However, because of the extent of the Atlantic coastal shelf of relatively shallow water, the disposal problem on that coast is more complicated.

Ike Beats GOP Drums for Younger Members

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called for "more young, sensitive people" Saturday to enter Republican politics and dispel the "propaganda" that the party only represents big business.

Eisenhower discussed current election trends across the country with a group of 32 young Republican candidates for various local and state offices during an hour-long meeting here.

He told them that there are currently "bad trends toward the centralization of power" at the federal level and young Republicans could bring their "enthusiasm, vitality and vigor" to bear at the local level to "keep the federal government in its own place."

IN AN IMPROMPTU news conference following the session with the candidates, Eisenhower reaffirmed his belief that strong executive action was needed to cope with the current Mississippi integration crisis.

"I am quite sure the executive department will find some way to make certain that the court order is executed," he said, referring to the order to admit Negro James Meredith to the University of Mississippi, which is being resisted by state authorities led by Gov. Ross Barnett. "If it isn't, then it will be a bad day for the United States."

The former President was presented with a picture of growing party strength in the South, much of it attributed to the activities of youthful GOP candidates.

* * * *

"THE YOUNG people in the South are turning to the Republican party" Leonard J. Nadasady, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, told Eisenhower. Nadasady said that on the city, county and state levels he was "finally convinced that our party will make significant gains in the South this year."

Eisenhower was critical of the Kennedy administration for "its constant refusal to pay debts as we go."

"I don't know how long we can continue this without damaging our economy and being able to control our own lives," he said.

Referring to the Democratic charges on big business, Eisenhower said: "What they really mean is the rich man, the big shot, the fat cat . . . but it's really a compliment, because they are talking about the entire economy."

Congress Anxious to Adjourn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders pressed for quick action Saturday on a narrowing list of legislative "musts" in a drive to steer the 87th Congress to adjournment late this week.

The Senate met in Saturday session to work on the annual public works appropriation—one of six money bills still in the congressional mill. It was the sixth Saturday meeting of the year.

The House was to resume work Monday with action on the Senate-approved bill which would increase postal rates and give pay increases to about 1.6 million postal employes and civil service workers.

* * * *

OTHER PENDING "musts" include the historic foreign trade bill which gives the President broad powers in tariff negotiation, and a tax reform bill which would provide about $1 billion a year in tax incentives for business.

Paradoxically, the major threats to adjournment plans involved some quick action—not by the House or Senate—but by the President. At issue was his disposition of a controversial bill to help doctors, lawyers and other self-employed individuals set up their own tax deductible pension plans.

* * * *

A COMPROMISE version was cleared for the President's action Friday. A Senate sponsor, Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., immediately served notice that he will delay adjournment if necessary to prevent a pocket veto of the bill after Congress closes up shop.

Smathers is confident that Congress would override a formal veto. He said he would insist on parliamentary procedures that would keep Congress in session for at least 10 days.

Saturday, he filed formal notice that he would move to suspend the rules on amendments when the Senate takes up the appropriations bill for the State and Commerce departments. That would let him offer the pension bill as an amendment to the presumably veto-proof money bill.

Woman Named to YMCA Board for First Time

HARRIMAN, N.Y. (AP) — A century-old tradition in the Young Men's Christian Association was broken Saturday with the election of the first woman to the national board of the male-dominated organization.

Miss Janice M. Peyton of Warwick, R.I., a service representative for the New England Telephone Co. in Providence, was chosen for a two-year term.

Miss Peyton, 26, blue-eyed and blonde, has been active in YMCA work for eight years.

Women have occupied positions of rank in the 111-year-old YMCA, but Miss Peyton is the first to ascend to its top-level body.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Best course is one which sees you observing "Wait" signs. No time to throw caution to winds. Appreciate what you already possess. Trying for "long shot" proves foolish.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Despite encouragement offered by associate, take practical view. Tendency is to accept opinions of those who really do not have all the facts. Let Taurus common sense come to fore.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Harmony in home and understanding between those who "count" mean much more than any flashy action. Combine spiritual and practical knowledge tonight. Permit inner thought to "come through."

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Actions taken today could prove premature. Heed spiritual counsel. Later, put thoughts on paper. The more time you take, the more advantage you gain. Remain loyal to one you vowed to trust.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Suddenly numerous answers tumble forth. Means you can use past experience for gaining added present knowledge. Being quiet "within" of utmost importance. Avoid restless, nervous persons.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Gain indicated if you are willing to read, listen, and to push across original ideas. Means you can display "class" by smoothly standing pat. Play cards close to chest. You hold winning hand!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Stake reputation on personal observations. Otherwise, tendency is for others to withdraw from your corner. Answer to vital question could be obtained by maintaining open mind. Read. Absorb knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Tendency is to hurry, overlook important details. Wise course would be to check carefully. Occupy yourself with vital factors which require attention, and you will gain!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Family get-together encouraged. Maintain sense of humor. Avoid temptation to force your views on others. Do more listening than talking. You could learn money-making lesson.

CAPICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Attend to details. Refust to jump to conclusions. Instead, weigh decisions with care. Cooperation in community or church project advised. Tonight you could find added stimulation from new acquaintance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good for travel, reading, picnics, exchange of thoughts, ideas with spiritual mentor. No time to be stubborn. Realize added knowledge is as important as material gain. And a clash of ideas is very exciting!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Spiritual side of nature comes to fore. Allow yourself to enjoy pleasures offered by those who share their knowledge. You can ask questions without feeling inadequate. Seek knowledge!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you get your wish for more "settled conditions" next month. Make arrangements now for constructive change. You have been confused emotionally. Now, take steps to throw off influences which depress you.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: International "thirst" for peace becomes obvious. But certain tense situations cause some leaders to boast about power, force and ability to overcome all obstacles.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19): Start new month by reviewing security, financial position and prospects. Take conservative view, face facts. There is a very bright side. Use your ability to come up with new ideas.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Take one step at a time. Otherwise, this becomes day in which you "slip up" on details. Truth is the best policy. If there is embarrassing situation, speak frankly. You won't be sorry.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Excellent for exhibiting pets, hobbies. Share enthusiasm with family member. Trying to "bottle up" emotions leads only to frustration. Tonight, good for favorite entertainment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Plenty of mental activity. Means your ideas come to fore; you are able to profit by applying them. Key is harmony. Don't waste time on silly disputes. Instead, be understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Put finishing touches on recent undertaking. Have fun with hobby or profession. Avoid making problems out of simple projects. Good for entertainment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Very self-satisfying day indicated if you're versatile. Don't insist on having everything completely your own way. Try something new. Favorable results indicated.....

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Person who helps you review recent promises is actually a constructive influence. Fair-weather friends will desert you soon enough. But realistic individual remains loyal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle up. Means you can face major issues without flinching. You come up with the right answers by being forthright. Don't back down. You are about to win a long-standing struggle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): If you attempt to force your way, you lose out. But a little diplomacy can bring ultimate happiness. Be sympathetic. Realize that you can aid by helping others to "save face." Keep a secret.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Surprising, new facets about loved ones become visible. Exciting day because it marks self-discovery. You begin to really perceive persons, situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Like Taurus, you advance toward goals by taking sure rather than sensational steps. Be satisfied with a "little at a time." Take care of details early. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Today fine for taking a chance on your own hunch, abilities. Though the odds may appear to be against you, you are on the right track. Exercise charm and tact.

* * * *

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are independent, original, not always easy to please. But you do go out of your way to please others. Many burdens lifted beginning next month.

* * * *

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for LIBRA, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Day when passion rules reason. Channel your creative urges in constructive outlets.

21 Ditched Paratroopers Finally Reach Frankfort

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Twenty-one tough young American paratroopers Saturday completed their trans-Atlantic flight that began in McGuire Air Force Base last Sunday and was to have lasted only 14 hours.

They were among the 48 survivors of the ditched Flying Tiger airliner and a doctor, Air Force Capt. Juan Figueroa-Longo, said they were in such superb physical condition they did not even get the sniffles during seven hours in the icy Atlantic.

The paratroopers were among 27 survivors landed Friday in Antwerp, Belgium, from the Swiss freighter Celerina. They flew to Frankfurt Saturday to go to their original destinations as paratroopers with the 505th Airborne.

Dane Dies

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Knud Kristensen, prime-minister in 1945-47, died Saturday. He was 81. As prime minister, he proclaimed Frederik IX king in 1947 after the death of Christian X.

CHIP TITLE CLAIMED BY SCOTSMAN

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—A six-foot Scotsman laid claim Saturday to the salted potato chips eating championship of the world.

Richard McLeod, 20, downed 30 bags of the crisp delicacy—a total of 75 ounces—in 56 minutes Saturday night.

Previous claimant of the title was Bob Speele, a miner in Northumberland, whose mark was 29 packets in 62 minutes in 1956.

Smith Bros. to Serve on Same Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Navy has approved a request of the three Smith Brothers, Gary, and twins, Kurt and Keith, to serve together on the same ship.

They will go aboard the U.S.S. Corry in mid-October after completing shore duty here.

The boys are front Flint, Mich.

Brothers are permitted to serve aboard the same ship in peacetime, the Navy says. A law enacted after five brothers went down with the same ship during World War II, prohibits the practice in wartime.

The award, given the PSA affiliate carrying out the most effective community service project in the motion picture field, was presented at the recent convention in San Francisco. More than 2000 amateur photographers attended.

The Long Beach Club's two films which were judged best in the field are a training film for the 8646 Air Force Reserve Recovery Group at Long Beach and a film for the Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation, "A World of Their Own."

John Lloyd, Long Beach club president and director of both films, accepted the award for the club. Long Beach Cinema Club members who assisted in the prize-winning projects were George Cushman, Frank Kallenberg, Bud Leowenstein, Jack Loehnis, Maxine Plowman, Jack and Kee-we-Tah Garside, Warren and Mary Nash and Nellie Lloyd.

Orange Is County's Radio Nerve Center

By KEN KNIGHT

Orange County's nerve center is at 481 S. Manchester Ave., in the city of Orange.

The network of broadcasting towers and antennae rising high over the Orange County Communications center are part of an invisible electronic web that covers the county for 24 hours every day.

The year-old building, containing a mass of complex radio receiving and broadcasting equipment, cost the county nearly a half-million dollars but officials say it is worth every cent of it.

With a flip of a single switch by one of the three radio dispatchers constantly on duty, the entire radio system of the county can be linked together to warn of a common emergency.

The 24 police departments in the county could all be alerted at the same time as could the civil defense system.

By pushing two buttons the 37 Southern California law agencies can be joined together and receive a common message.

Unique in its operation, the radio coordination system is a part of the Orange County Communication and Transportation department.

Instead of having many radio networks broadcasting independently of one another it is a coordinated system of 12 networks under one department.

"The 24 police departments in the county operate on four networks. Eight other networks handle calls from the fire departments, road departments, and flood control units," explained R. I. (Cuba) Morris, director of transportation and communications.

"The cities put out their own calls, direct their own units over the communication system provided by the county," Morris explained.

"If a dispatcher in La Habra wants to talk with the Newport Beach police to get information, he contacts Control One, the dispatcher pushes two buttons and the two departments are linked together."

In addition to coordinating the communication system, the county also monitors every incoming or outgoing call.

"The transcribed dispatch is readily available in case there is any question as to whether the call was sent or handled correctly," Morris said.

The communication system is an outgrowth of what was once 12 square feet of floor space in the county jail building.

"In 1937 the county had 13 cities on the system, with 25 mobile units; in 1957 we had two police networks and now we have four police networks," explains Max Elliott, chief technician.

"Here at Control One, we have a teletype system that covers the county, the state and is on a national network.

"In 1955 we handled 99,000 calls, now we handle 400,000 calls in 30 days requiring about 400 man-hours.

"In 1959 we sent 10,000 teletype messages. Now we send 200,000 a year.

"If we have to we can seal the building and have fresh air for 10 days. A diesel engine can provide power for our system for 30 days in case power is shut off.

"We may never have to operate under an emergency," Elliott said, "but if we do, we're ready."

Beach Combing
With Malcolm Epley

ONE DAY in 1927 Julian Campbell and three others stepped up on the first tee at Recreation Park and there ensued a conversation with prophetic relationship to something happening today.

Before driving, Campbell said to his companions: "Gentlemen, we're standing on top of an oil field."

The others asked the petroleum engineer how he figured that. He advised them to look to the north to Signal Hill, the southeast to the Seal Beach field and to note the pitch of the terrain.

"It's an oil field," he said.

Today, preparations are underway (a derrick has gone up just off Seventh Street) for the drilling of the Recreation Park oil field. And associated with Hugo Herbell in the drilling operation is a petroleum engineer named Julian Campbell.

RECREATION Park drilling, by the way, does not mean transformation of the park into a forest of derricks. When the drilling is done, the surface derricks will come down and the pumping operations will be hidden from view.

What the city gets from the park oil will be strictly ours, as contrasted with the situation on the tidelands, where the state gets half the return. It will help ease the financial burden on the city taxpayer.

I HAVE no evidence that my crusade against the littering activities of beer drinkers has prevented the tossing of a single can. But it is encouraging that many readers of this pillar have sent in notes on the subject. From a little start, a body of public opinion can develop that does, eventually, have effect.

Suggestions on the problem run from imposition of a tax on beer to pay for cleaning up the countryside to printing notations on containers urging users to dispose of them properly. I still think that the most effective job could be done by the brewing companies, appealing to users of their products to help keep the country clean. They employ the top experts at the propaganda art who could effectively turn some of their efforts in this direction.

On a recent trip to Las Vegas, I observed that the barrow pits along both sides of the highway, for miles on end, were littered with cans. There were thousands of them. This, unhappily, is par for the course.

RECENT item here told about the British license requirement for TV sets, and that brought a letter from Jessie V. McKerley who says that the tax has some real benefit for the British viewer. It pays, he notes, for noncommercial, non-sponsored programs presented by the BBC. "I would willingly pay a $2 or $3 annual license fee if it means completely uninterrupted programs," she adds.

The British have sponsored programs on another channel, but the BBC programs, without commercials, have to be financed in some way. Hence, the tax on sets.

ON hand is a batch of entries to this dept's little jingles contest inspired by the headline boner, "Who's Zoo Is It?" The contest has now closed and judging has started. Some interesting jingles were contributed and all contestants will be pleased to know that their efforts, in my opinion, are superior to the thing I offered to start it all off.

It is obvious that readers like contests, and I'm readying a "predict the headlines" contest for November like the one we had in June. Be sure to enter.

AFTER A SPARKLING career as a thoroughbred trainer, Randy Sechrest, above, retired and promptly beat a path to "the best city in the nation—Long Beach." He's shown tacking up horse shoe at his newly opened chicken take-out cafe, 1418 E. Seventh St.

Ex-Horse Trainer Finds L.B. Is Ideal

"There's no place like Long Beach. It is beautiful, the people are grand and the climate is superb.

"For years my wife and I have talked about coming here to live when I retired. Well, we're here and glad of it."

Those were the sentiments expressed Saturday by Randy Sechrest, rated among the best of thoroughbred trainers in the nation.

* * * *

HE RECENTLY retired after 28 years devoted to training race horses.

As he busied himself with preparations for the day at his newly opened chicken take-out cafe, Sechrest recalled some of the highlights of his career.

Top thrill was the day, Sept. 5, 1958, to be exact, at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., when he entered four horses in as many races, won three of them and lost the last by a neck.

* * * *

FROM A SUITCASE full of pictures and clippings he also extracted another account of a big day, this one at Jamaica, when his horse, Atom Rocket, won the second half of a whopping $2556 daily-double payoff. That was Oct. 23, 1957.

Of the hundreds of horses he trained his favorite is Atom Rocket, purchased by him as a yearling for $500, a horse which was "all heart, never ran a disappointing race."

Begin Heartwell Park Improvement Projects

Recreation Facilities Planned

After years of delay Heartwell Park is finally being improved by the city for public use.

Development of the 180-acre park along the south side of Carson Street, between Clark Avenue and the San Gabriel River, will feature increments, City Manager John R. Mansell reported Saturday.

Under the first of a series of contracts grading work is scheduled for completion by mid-October in the 76-acre section between Clark and Woodruff avenues.

* * * *

THE CURRENT contract calls for an outlay of $22,659. Future improvements will increase the total to $180,000, Mansell said.

Plans for an irrigation system will be submitted to the City Council Oct. 20. Turfing, landscaping and general beautification will be initiated in early 1963. A small lagoon and recreation facilities also will be developed in this section of the park.

Mansell said the same development plan will be continued later from Woodruff to Palo Verde Avenue, and from Coyotes Diagonal to the river.

FACES SECOND AMPUTATION

Ex-Marine Has Homemade Foot Ready Just in Case

By BOB BECKMAN

No one gave 44-year-old Gordon Paris a second glance as he slowly walked into the hospital.

A crudely-wrapped package under his arm attracted even less attention.

But it marked the most important day in Paris' life.

Checking into the hospital for surgery, chances were only 10,000-to-1 that his right foot would be saved.

His left foot was amputated last December and Paris walked into the hospital on an artificial left foot he alone designed and made.

In the package under his arm was an artificial right foot he created in his backyard workshop at 2712 W. 185th St., Redondo Beach—"just in case I lose this right foot after all," Paris told attendants.

Paris' story began four years ago on a construction job in Gardena. He was working atop an 8-foot ladder, lost his balance and fell hard, landing on his feet at a bone-splintering angle.

* * * *

THE HUSKY ex-Marine, who looks more like a gridiron hero, recalls:

"All the pain seemed to be in my right leg and I didn't worry about my left ankle."

During subsequent treatment, doctors discovered Paris' ankle bones were brittle and they began a long three-year battle to save his feet.

"Lost the first round just before Christmas last year," Paris says, looking out the hospital window, "when they took my left foot.

"But I was ready for it. I had studied a long time about artificial limbs and there wasn't one on the market I would want to wear. I began experimenting with plastics.

"Before going to the hospital I took a plaster-of-paris mold of my foot so I could build an artificial one that would stay tight to my leg without straps going to the thigh.

"I walked right away with it and I've never used crutches."

Since then, Paris and the bone specialists attending him have kept a close watch on the right foot. And Paris got ready. He took a plaster mold, "corns and all."

Using new pliable plastics, he began to build another artificial limb.

"It done in layers," Paris explains. First, a nylon stocking. Then a layer of plastic. Baked it in my home-made oven. Then another stocking and more plastic and back to the oven. Used 81 stockings."

Paris, in a Culver City Hospital, has a six-month wait before it can be determined if last week's surgery will save the right foot. Bone splinters were taken from his shin and hip and grafted to the non-mending ankle bones.

Voters Required to Do Too Much of the Lawmaking

ELSEWHERE IN THIS newspaper today is printed the first of a series of articles on the state ballot measures. In the coming weeks, we will interpret and express our opinions of these measures on the editorial page.

These opinions will draw both agreement and criticism and, as usual, the comment that we should just stick to the facts and not try to influence public opinion.

Our opinions will be offered for what the reader considers them worth. What he does in the polling place is his own business. Indeed, we encourage and implore him to dig out the facts for himself and make up his own mind.

One need only glance through the official booklet of state propositions, however, to understand one of the reasons why newspaper recommendations are a valuable contribution.

NOT ONE VOTER IN A thousand has the time or the sources of information required to research and thoroughly weigh the 25 complicated proposals which will appear on the California ballot next Nov. 6. We know, for we have devoted many hours of the time of trained researchers and reporters to this particular chore. It's just more work than the ordinary citizen can or should be expected to do. Inevitably, he will end up taking somebody else's word that this measure or that is good or bad.

It is our duty to offer information and interpretation for those who wish such aid. But we keep asking ourself what can be done to bring the election ballot back into the realm of reason. Where does the trouble lie?

IT LIES IN THE FACT that the public is required to do a great deal of legislative work that should be performed by elected legislators. Often this is the case for the simple reason that under California's constitutional system only the voters can legally make many of the decisions that have to be made. Instead of being a fundamental body of law, the California Constitution is a catch-all containing a wide variety of provisions that should be embodied in statute law. When new action is proposed on any of these matters, the public must vote on a constitutional amendment.

Thus, when voters go to the polls in November, they will be asked to legislate on veteran property tax exemptions, agricultural land assessments, workmen's compensation, assessment of historic landmark areas, sale of tidelands, and the regulation of boxing and wrestling contests.

The remedy? A wholesale revision of the California Constitution. Inertia has prevented such revision through the years. Only a strong public outcry will overcome this inertia. It is every voter's duty to bravely shoulder the work that has been thrust upon him; but it is also his duty to add his voice to the few now crying in the wilderness for a saner system.

Liston Helps JFK Get to Theater

BY OUR WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON—"Mr. President," a so-so musical, opened in Washington Tuesday night before a star spangled audience composed of the town's most glittering, most elite, most . . . words fail here. Proceeds (tickets were scaled down from $100, and impossible to get) went to the Kennedys' fund for retarded children. The First Lady was there, of course, and her entrance was described with emotion by the local news hens. They noted, however, that the President came in late—in the middle of the last act—as did Robert Kennedy, and in their breathless way they ascribed it to the press of work. What they did not say, however, was that the Liston-Patterson championship fight was piped into the White House via closed TV. The early knockout was timed perfectly for the token appearance at the musical.

FOOD FOR PEACE OFFICIALS enjoyed their finest hour during the recent earthquake in Iran. On hand in Tehran and Abidan warehouses were 17,000,000 pounds of food available for instant distribution. That was enough to feed 100,000 persons for six weeks. An additional 10,000,000 pounds of food were on the water and ready for diversion to Iran if needed. Richard W. Reuter, director of Food for Peace, claims that his agency's program has eliminated from the face of the earth the threat of starvation due to natural disaster. A total of 68,000,000 persons received Food for Peace sustenance last year.

THE ENTIRE THRUST of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's campaign for re-election in New York is toward piling up a bigger winning margin than he did in 1958. Only by doing so, it is reasoned, can Rockefeller project himself as the front-runner for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964. Recent changes in voter registration have compounded Rockefeller's task. Democrats have increased their margin from 180,000 in 1958 to 500,000 this year. In addition, Rockefeller figures that the Conservative party will siphon off about 150,000 normally Republican voters. Since he won by 550,000 votes in 1958, it can be reasoned that the Democratic increase plus the Conservative party might be combined to beat Rocky this time.

The Golden State: Two Santas for Every Voter

While Jack Talks Politics, Alarm Grows Regarding Cuba

WASHINGTON—The American people are becoming aroused over the Cuban situation. They read apprehensively about missile and submarine bases being set up by the Soviet Union 90 miles away from Florida. The feeling is growing among people throughout the country that the Kennedy administration is failing to do its duty, and that the President is spending too much time making political speeches instead of concentrating on a crisis which, if not handled wisely, could lead later on to war—just as happened in the 1930s.

LAWRENCE

What can the President do? This question is being asked often by those who do not wish to see military intervention of any kind in Cuba at this time. People also ask if there is anything else that can be done before invoking the Monroe Doctrine. Certainly the mere passage of rhetorical resolutions by Congress is not going to allay public fear that the United States is faltering in its course and is presenting a picture of weakness and irresoluteness.

There is a line of positive policy that can be undertaken which, if pursued confidently and unequivocally, can stop the Soviet aggression in Cuba, or at least clear the air as to what may hereafter be expected in the world when Soviet aggression poses its frightful threat.

The United Nations was established to preserve international peace. Many people in this country have lost faith in the U.N., but nevertheless it does exist and the United States cannot afford to ignore its own solemn pledge to abide by the provisions of the charter.

The charter, moreover, permits any nation to bring to the attention of both the Security Council and the General Assembly any threat or act of aggression menacing its safety and security.

The United States government could lay the case before the United Nations with the warning that, if action is blocked now, there will be resort later to that provision of the charter known as Article 51, which permits a group of nations to take action on their own to repel aggression.

* * * *

THIS MEANS that the United States, if unsuccessful at the U.N. meetings, could go ahead and invite as many of the members of the organization of states as desire to join this country in a military intervention in Cuba.

The object would be to get rid of all Soviet missiles, weapons, and military personnel, as well as bases, in Cuba and at the same time to retake possession of all properties of foreigners that have been confiscated without proper compensation. These are rights under international law which any member of the U.N. may assert, provided it reports to the U.N. what it is doing.

Article 51 of the U.N. charter authorizes collective action in self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a member of the organization." An "armed attack" against the Monroe Doctrine—the security system of the western hemisphere — has already occurred, as Soviet troops and war supplies have been landed in a country which is a member of the Organization of American States. The present government in Havanna is a mere puppet of the Soviet regime.

Article 52 of the U.N. charter specifically recognizes regional organizations as legal entities which can take action on their own. It says:

"Nothing in the present charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided that such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the purposes and principles of the organization."

This means that regional action can be taken in self-defense, since Article 51 of the U.N. charter says:

"Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense."

This certainly doesn't say or imply that a U.N. member must wait till an enemy strikes the first blow. Everybody knows today that an armed force is stationed in Cuba which is building up its military position. "Self-defense" for the United States means interception of the enemy by compelling him to stop his acts of aggression and to abandon any territory already occupied—as in Cuba.

* * * *

PROCEDURES through the U.N. may take time, but they could clear the air. If ultimately the only way out is to take "individual or collective" action, the United States will at least know what its duties and responsibilities are for the preservation of peace and for the defense of the security of all countries in the western hemisphere. The American people will also learn what benefit, if any, the U.N. can really be in an emergency involving the security of the United States and what nations in Europe, Africa and Asia are true friends of this country and defenders of human freedom.

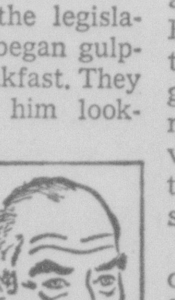
President Kennedy Unhappy About Cuts in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy was not smiling when he strode into the White House dining room Tuesday morning for his weekly breakfast with Democratic congressional leaders.

Instead of the usual banter, he greeted the legislators tersely and began gulping down his breakfast. They had never seen him looking so grim.



PEARSON

He listened soberly to their reports on farm legislation and foreign aid. The closest he came to a smile was a faint flicker when Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic Whip, predicted the Senate would pass the farm bill by nine votes. (Later in the afternoon, the Senate approved the farm bill by 11 votes.)

Kennedy became even more glum when House leaders reported that the cutbacks in foreign aid probably couldn't be overridden. Eyes flashing, he made a few terse remarks about the congressional hotheads who demand military action, then vote against the measures that would make America stronger.

With this off his chest, he cut the meeting short at 9:20 a.m., after only 35 minutes for both breakfast and discussion, and left the room.

* * * *

VICE President Lyndon Johnson has also given grim warnings to congressmen over the results of foreign aid cuts.

The United States, he has urged following his return from the Near East, is not taking advantage of the military manpower in Greece, Turkey and Iran.

The Greeks are unsurpassed as sailors, and the Turks are the world's best soldiers, he said.

It was a mistake to cut back Greek and Turkish aid, Johnson argued, when the United States could recruit a Greek sailor for the equivalent of $1.82 a month.

Instead of sending destroyers to Latin-American countries, when they are used by dictators, the Vice President suggested they should be delivered to Greece for use by the hardy little Greek navy.

As for the congressmen who voted to reduce military aid to Greece, Turkey and Iran, he warned that their action would weaken the free world.

Another high administration official, Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman, has been going after the chief hatchet-wielder in making foreign aid cuts—opinionated Louisiana Congressman Otto Passman.

BOB HOUSER

Smattering of Ideologies Shows Party Post Positions

WHAT causes men to hold staunchly to a party pennant? Some of the reasons may serve to crystallize current attitudes in the great, two-party dialogue.

HOUSER

Harry J. Keaton, president of California Young Republicans, says: "Our party can save and protect individual freedom under a system of private enterprise and limited, locally responsible government. To be a Republican means to cherish and fight for these principles."

Will we, in the election, he asks, take our fate into our own hands or be content with "being led from Washington by appointed administrative advisors whose 30-year-old theories have never met a test except by failure" . . . we will decide whether Congress will again become the co-equal branch of our national government or whether we continue on the road to government by executive rule.

Clare B. Williams, assistant chairman, Republican National Committee, warns shocking federal spending will become bigger and bigger until more Republicans are elected to Congress . . . that it was a GOP Congress which reduced federal taxes in the biggest tax cut in history during the Eisenhower administration . . . "money in people's pockets, not in Washington waste."

MRS. WILLIAMS said, "Scandal ridden Department of Agriculture spending was up 24 per cent; Department of Interior up 49 per cent; Health, Education and Welfare up 52 per cent, and the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency had managed to increase its spending by an exorbitant 347 per cent."

Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Richard Richards: "Republican campaign organizers try to delude the public into thinking that government is a strange, separate entity, somehow apart from the people. Fortunately this is not true. Government is made by all of us. And we Democrats, and most enlightened Republicans, believe it must be kept responsive to us.

"IN TERMS of our total lives, government is never 'out of it.' It can never be out of it. For better or for worse, government always has an economic and monetary policy; a budget and fiscal policy; a tax policy; a public investment and public works policy. And these policies always have a determining influence on the growth and prosperity of our private economy.

"We Democrats say, 'Let's acknowledge the role of government and let's choose the right policies which will bring us stable prices, full employment and expanding economy.'

"I say that Democrats do not believe in 'big government,' but rather in effective government' which meets its responsibilities and meets them effectively. Certainly we have not forgotten that the prior Republican administration was responsible for the biggest peace time deficit in our history, and spent two-thirds as much money as all the previous administrations put together.

NO SENSIBLE American believes that government should do everything, but we realize that there are those things which can best be done by the people acting together. Catastrophic illness is a national problem. So are crime, education, equal civil rights, automation and our nation's position in the world.

"Failure of government to meet these problems would hardly preserve or strengthen our free society; on the contrary, it would weaken its very fabric and eventually destroy our society."

Optometry Article Challenged

EDITOR:

I am writing with regard to a syndicated column that appeared in the Sept. 17 edition of the Press-Telegram. The column, which ran under the byline of Henry C. MacArthur, was devoted to a vicious attack on the attempts of professional optometry in California to eliminate the practice of optometry in discount houses.

The entire article was based on the premise that optometry is, and should be, categorized as a mercantile trade; that optometry should be accorded no recognition as a health profession and that optometrists who are interested in raising the professional level of their skills and services are worthy of nothing but contempt and abuse. I can think of nothing that could be further from the truth.

Optometry in the State of California has struggled for the past 6 years to raise the level of its profession. Through the years, legislation has been passed to implement the attainment of this goal. Without exception, the intent and result of such legislation has been to better serve the visual care and health interests of the people of California.

* * * *

SECTION 651 of the Business and Professions Code prohibits any optometrist from representing that his price or fee is at a discount. It is our contention that the mere location of an optometrist in a discount house is as much an evil as if the optometrist himself blatantly advertised such a discount. Since the "optometric concession" appears to be an integral part of the discount house operation, it is reasonable for the public to assume that the goods and services are being offered at a discount. Thus, the optometrist is forbidden by law to provide his services at a discount but the public is "duped" into believing that optometric services are offered on the same basis as the other concessions operating under this "umbrella of discounts."

We simply do not believe that optometry, as a health care profession, has any place in a "discount house" operation, anymore than physicians and surgeons, dentists, podiatrists and lawyers.

Trade Unions Do Fight Commies

EDITOR:

In a recent letter, John H. Kelly stated that the "labor bosses" do not have the same aims as the "rank and file" in regards to combating communism.

The fact of the matter is that the free trade unions, comprising the AFL-CIO, are doing much to effectively combat communism both in the U.S.A. and the rest of the world.

For example, at the 18th UAW Constitutional Convention in Atlantic City earlier this year, 12 Douglas UAW Local 148 delegates (of which I was one), voted unanimously to donate $2,800,000 to help promote the formation of free trade unions in countries where the Communists are trying to take over. The motion was approved overwhelmingly by the 2,500 democratically secret ballot elected delegates.

In his address to the convention delegates, President J. F. Kennedy had this to say to UAW President Walter P. Reuther and the delegates:

"Your action taken at this convention of spending over a period of two years over $1,400,000 per year in order to build strong free trade unions around the world is an example of the public service that this union has rendered, and I commend you."

No Time to Talk of Monroe Doctrine

EDITOR:

This is no time to talk or write about enforcing the Monroe Doctrine.

Many national and international conditions have changed in the 139 years since President Monroe made his announcement. At no time since then have the American people accepted this doctrine; it has always been simply a matter of executive tradition and precedent.

Now is the time to create a new policy more in keeping with the times.

This is an age of interdependence, not national independence; any unilateral approach is open to grave doubt as to its wisdom.

Languages in the News

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

Question from a reader:

Where does the expression "the Russian bear" come from? M. Walters, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The bear has been a favorite Russian animal for hundreds of years, and has always been associated, in popular concept, with Russia. Kipling spoke of "the bear that walks like a man," and, long ago, Shakespeare wrote, in Macbeth: . . . "What man dare — I dare . . . Approach thou like the rugged Russian bear . . . and my firm nerves . . . will never tremble."

The Russians, themselves, have a very special word for bear—medved'—literally "the honey eater." Russian fairs and circuses always have performing bears, which are called Misha or Mishka, the Russian pet names for bears.

A copy of the Berlitz "Diner's Dictionary" will be mailed to anyone submitting a question used in "Languages in the News."

Marking another step in the phenomenal growth of Belmont Savings and Loan Association, the firm's newest branch office at Palo Verde Ave., and Spring St. is now open and in full operation.

Staffed by experienced personnel who provide the same courteous service of all Belmont Savings employes, the new office will continue observance of open house until Oct. 10.

Gene Krauss is the manager of the new Palo Verde and Spring Branch and Virgil Sewell is head of the loan department.

Krauss joined Belmont Savings 2½ years ago after being in banking since 1937, except for time out for war service.

Residing only two blocks from the Plaza office, he believes that the northeast area of Long Beach has a great future and predicts property values there will increase steadily. He is a member of the Optimist Club of Belmont Shore and is zone chairman of the boys works committee.

Sewell has been assistant to Albert Iten, loan officer of the main office at 5200 E. Second St.

OPENED IN 1958

Belmont Savings and Loan Association opened for business on June 12, 1958 with two employees and William J. Crawford, the president and director.

In less than 4½ years since that opening the institution has grown to over $33,000,000 in resources and now has two other offices, one in the American Cement Building, 2406 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, and the new Plaza office.

Crawford, who is active in Long Beach community affairs and urges his employees to accept similar civic duties, formerly was chief loan officer of a San Gabriel Valley savings association.

Heading the staff at the main office is Norman Dickson and Albert Iten.

Dickson formerly was branch manager in Long Beach of a large Southern California savings association. He has had more than 15 years experience in the financial field. Dickson has been very active in civic affairs of Long Beach and also has taught classes at the American Savings & Loan Institute.

Iten, vice president and loan officer, formerly was chief appraiser for a savings association.

Houdyshell Joins Staff

Crawford announced that Keith Houdyshell recently joined Belmont Savings in the public relations department. He and Frank H. Finnen will direct that department for all three offices.

Houdyshell is well known in Long Beach, having participated for many years in Community Playhouse activities and has been an ardent worker in various civic affairs.

Frank Finnen is a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel who was Gen. Marshall's personal security officer.

Directors of Belmont Savings include: Bundy Colwell, president of one of the largest mortgage banking firms in the state; Paul Deats, well known Long Beach retail grocer; Basil Grillo, president of Bing Crosby Productions; Ted Halfhill, president of a local tuna canning firm; Curtis N. RICHARD SUKMAN, left, and Elmer Decker, local businessmen, are co-chairmen of the Congressman Craig Hosmer Recognition Dinner Committee. They are directing plans for a community-wide dinner to honor the congressman for his 10 years of service to the 32nd district area.

CRAIG HOSMER DINNER

Congressman Fete Set Oct. 17

A community-wide, non-partisan dinner to honor Congressman Craig Hosmer for his 10 years of service as representative from the Long Beach, Lakewood, Dominguez, Signal Hill 32nd district will be given Oct. 17 at the Elks' Club, 4101 East Willow St.

Announcement of the event came Saturday from Co-chairmen Richard Sukman, and Elmer Decker, local business executives, who head a committee of some 80 persons, both Republicans and Democrats, sponsoring the dinner. George Taubman is program chairman. The public is invited and hundreds from this area are expected to attend.

"Craig Hosmer is completing his tenth year of outstanding service in the United States Congress and is preparing for his sixth term," the co-chairmen said in announcing plans for the event.

"Many folks, from all walks of life, have appreciation for what Craig has done for them individually, or for our area, state and nation, over these years as our representative in Congress. We, a group of many citizens from both political parties, believe that he deserves a 'thank you, well done' and have therefore planned this affair.

"A number of business, civic, professional, social and other area leaders will participate in the non-partisan, at-cost $3.50 per person recognition dinner for Congressman Hosmer.

"His service, ability, activity, and seniority, all of great value to our area, will be high-lighted. His efforts for many major accomplishments, such as halting subsidence, obtaining the new Navy Hospital, keeping the Naval Shipyard here, making the 1967 World's Fair at Long Beach possible," the co-chairmen added.

Invitations went out Saturday and tickets at $3.50 each may also be obtained at the Hosmer Dinner Committee headquarters, Room 310 Security Bldg., 110 Pine Ave., Long Beach. Tickets to the affair will be limited to the seating capacity of the Elks' Club dining hall and will be sold on a "first come-first served basis" the co-chairmen said.

PRINTER 45 YEARS

Dave Janzen Retires

Dave Janzen, 68, compositor and proofreader for The Independent, Press-Telegram since 1942, retired Saturday after 45 years in the printing and publishing industry.

JANZEN

Retirement closed a long career which began with a job for an uncle on an English-German weekly newspaper in Minnesota which paid $30 for the first six weeks of work.

By 1918 Janzen had increased his income to $60 a month.

After service at Camp Lewis, Wash. in 1918 and 1919, Janzen got a job that paid $35 a week. "But," he says, "a request for an increase of $5 weekly brought about a severance of relations."

Janzen moved his family to California in 1926 and drawing on his knowledge of the complex keyboard used on Linotype machines for German language papers, obtained a job in Fresno.

He moved to Long Beach in 1933—during the depression—when jobs were hard to find. On March 9 he was given a job in a local printshop and was told to report the following Monday. But the next day the Long Beach earthquake put the shop out of business.

After working in another print shop, he became shop foreman of the Long Beach Tribune during its brief time of publication and in 1942 started work on The Independent.

Game Refuges Improvements Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed Saturday a bill authorizing $5 million to add such things as observation posts, parking areas, and camping facilities to wildfowl and game refuges.

The department has reported the number of visitors to wildfowl and game refuges during the last 10 years increased from 3.5 million to more than 11 million.

Grandest of Moms to Parley

Three hundred grandmothers give a few, take a few, from all over California will begin assembling at Anaheim's Charter House Hotel Tuesday for a lot of work—and a little fun, including a tour of Disneyland.

They will represent 72 Grandmother's Clubs at their 13th annual convention, which ends Thursday night with installation of officers of the state headquarters organization.

Mrs. Mabel Mingus of Watsonville, state president, will open the program Tuesday with a memorial service for former members. Workshop sessions will occupy that morning and there will be business meetings during the afternoon, according to Mrs. Lee Carter, 6056 Cerritos Ave., press chairman.

Officers to serve the coming year will be chosen Wednesday morning and in the afternoon comes the Disneyland tour. Presidents from the 72 clubs will be honored at a breakfast Thursday. The rest of that will be filled with business sessions and convention reports, prior to the evening installation banquet which concludes the meet.

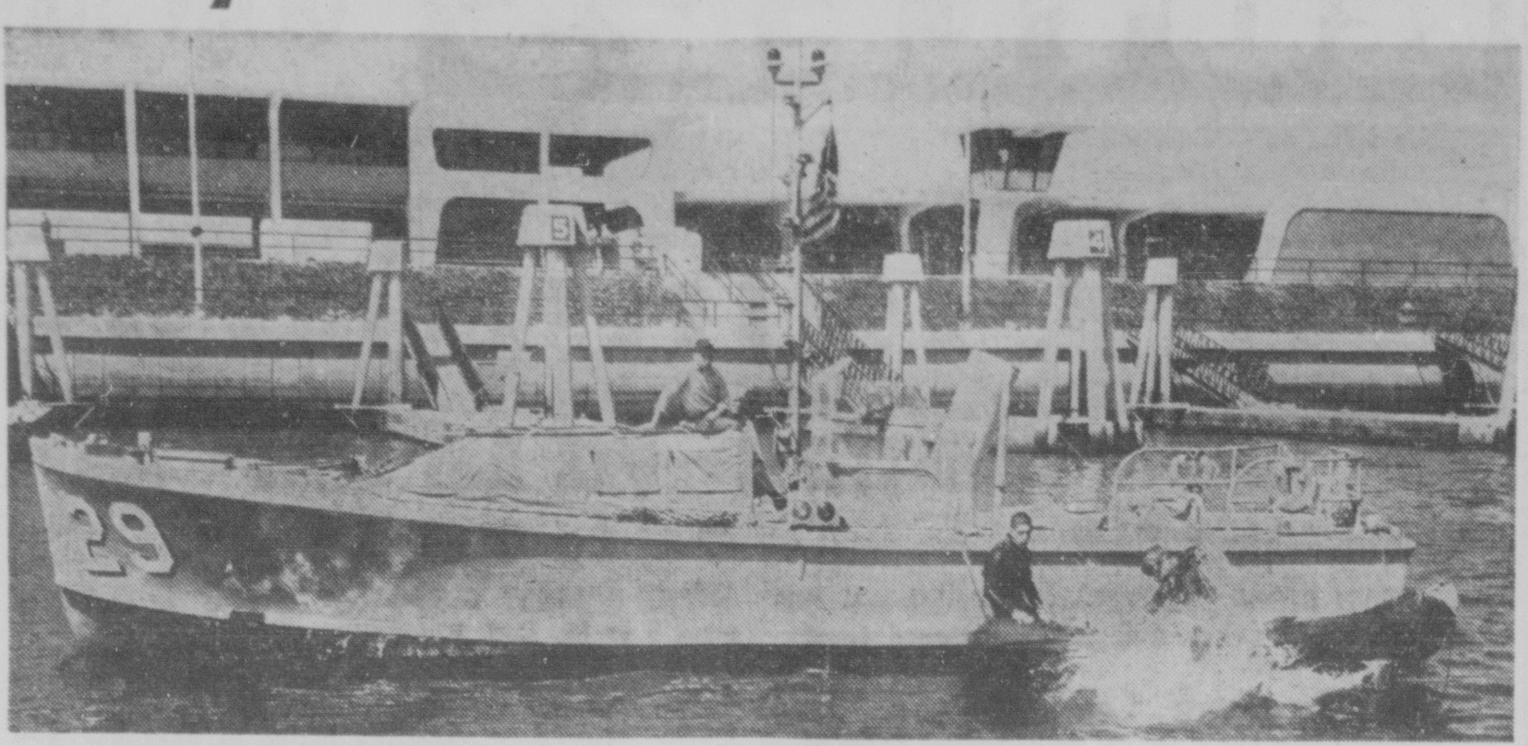
Navy Show Marks Chest Kickoff



CHEST SHOW SPECTACLE SET . . . Navy to put on Defense Demonstration noon Wednesday.

Harbor defense demonstrations by U.S. Naval units will highlight the public ceremonies marking opening of the Community Chest campaign at noon Wednesday at the Long Beach Naval Landing.

Divers from Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit One will demonstrate use of underwater demolition of mines. Working with the Harbor Defense Unit One from the Naval Base, the divers will be assisted by use of small Naval craft.

Robinson A. Reid, Community Chest campaign chairman, reminded volunteer workers wishing to obtain "dutch treat" box lunches to make reservations at Chest headquarters before Monday noon. Tables and chairs will be set up on the west side of the Landing for campaign workers.

Daniel Farnham, campaign meetings chairman, said in addition to the Naval units show, the Municipal Band will play, civic officials presented and a keynote speech delivered by the Rev. Alec G. Nichols, member of the Chest board of directors.

Door prizes for campaign workers, including boat trips and fishing excursion tickets, will be given away at the luncheon.

In charge of Western Tool's show portion of the conference will be Lawrence Pomerantz, Long Beach, of the Arrowsmith Tool and Die Corp.

* * * *

JOHN STANSBURY, supervisor of tool design of Douglas in Long Beach, is chairman of a technical session entitled "Mechanical and Non-Mechanical Metal Removal."

More than 250 displays in the show will be set up in the Pan-Pacific auditorium and over $5 million in new metal working equipment will be displayed. General theme of the displays will be connected with space-age design.

* * * *

TECHNICAL sessions of the conference will be in the Ambassador Hotel. The show and conference opens Monday and runs through Friday.

During the week Gariss plans to bring officials of the show to Long Beach to look over convention facilities here, particularly the new Long Beach Arena. Gariss said he hopes that the show can be held in Long Beach in 1964 and 1966.

Dads like nothing better than to tell their sons about their World War II exploits, and G. J. Pagliero of 20808 Avis Ave., Torrance, is no exception, even though he's still in the Air Force as a major currently in industry-training at North American Aviation. Pagliero is showing son, John, 9, nose of B-17 Flying Fortress where he rode as navigator. Scene took place during Torrance Airport Days program Saturday. Millions Are Anxiously Watching Oxford, Miss.

By HARRY SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The eyes of most Americans last week were focused on Oxford, Miss., where a titanic federal-state racial struggle was being fought.

Gov. Ross Barnett defied court-ordered federal attempts to enroll Negro student James H. Meredith in the all-white University of Mississippi. He was backed up by 500 steel-helmeted state troopers, police and angry citizens and students.

* * * *

THREE TIMES the governor barred Meredith and escorting U. S. Marshals from the campus. He refused to heed warnings from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that this was a case where the federal government might have to use force.

He also ignored a contempt of court summons from the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans which had directed that Mississippi obey the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation edict. Late Friday Barnett was found in contempt of court and held to answer by Tuesday.

President Kennedy discussed with his brother and other advisers whether federal force should be used to guarantee Meredith's enrollment. Some quarters mentioned use of federal troops, much like former President Eisenhower forced desegregation in Little Rock, Ark., schools in 1958. Eisenhower was backing Kennedy to the hilt, calling Barnett's action "absolutely inconscionable and indefensible."

* * * *

MORE THAN 700 federal marshals and 110 U. S. Army Engineers waited at nearby Memphis, Tenn., for presidential orders. But Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said no U. S. troops had been alerted.

McNamara, just back from Europe and West Germany, told a Washington press conference that U. S. and Allied planes poised on the East German border were armed with both conventional and nuclear weapons which could be used to guarantee access to West Berlin, if it came to that.

Asked if his statement indicated "an unprecedented readiness" to use atomic weapons should Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev try to oust the Allies, McNamara replied: "No, I was simply being factual. Our policy is to use whatever weapons are necessary to maintain our vital interests."

IN THE CUBAN crisis, Congress armed the President with "fight-if-we-must" and reserve call-up powers should Communist Premier Fidel Castro try to export war to his neighbors.

Castro announced that Russia is building a big "fishing" port. The United States warned that it would be "watched closely" to see if it affects national security.

Congress gave the President a farm bill which he promptly signed. It wasn't what he wanted but it was regarded as a big step toward reducing surpluses and easing the taxpayers' price-support burden.

* * * *

A TAX-REFORM bill also was emerging. It was minus the withholding tax on dividends and interest which Kennedy requested, but it includes his $1 billion tax credit for new business investment. It also includes a new compulsory reporting system for collecting taxes on dividends and interest.

Another major measure nearing enactment would increase postal rates by $602 million a year but also raise the pay of 1.5 million federal workers by $1,054,000,000 over a two-year span.

The President got only $38 million for his $568 million program to build radiation fallout shelters. Despite the setback, Civil Defense planners hoped to complete his program for placing food, water and safety equipment in shelters for 60 million people.

Senate stockpile investigators won from Congress the right to examine the income tax returns of former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey's mining companies. Humphrey, who served under Eisenhower, has been accused of profiteering on sales of nickel to the government. The authorization also covered the personal tax returns of Jess Larson who was a former Truman administration official.

The Senate Judiciary Committee refused to vote contempt citations against four steel companies which balked at demands they produce their cost sheets.

The Senate confirmed the President's appointment of former Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. At the same time W. Willard Wirtz was sworn in as Goldberg's successor in the labor department.

Kennedy chose a Negro, Philadelphia lawyer A. Leon Higginbotham, Jr., for a seven-year term on the federal Trade Commission. If confirmed by the Senate, Higginbotham will be the first member of his race to sit on the federal regulatory agency.

The chief executive appealed to a White House conference on narcotics addiction and drug abuse for greater national effort to rehabilitate addicts. He also blamed indiscriminate sale of non-narcotics drugs, such as goof balls, for an alarming increase in juvenile delinquency.

The United States agreed to supply Israel with anti-aircraft missiles to counteract Soviet bloc military aid to the United Arab Republic. The decision, it was said, was aimed at meeting "a military imbalance," not to spur an arms race.

The U. S. Civil Rights Commission, for the second year, urged the President to issue an executive order banning racial discrimination in all housing built with federal assistance of any kind. Eisenhower had declined to act on the recommendation.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economy Declared Firm After Top-Level Meets

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers, industrialistes and business industrialists and business magazine editors gathered last week to examine the economy and heard mixed but cautiously optimistic reports.

The occasions were the convention of the American Bankers Association in Atlantic City, N. J., a meeting of the National Industrial Conference board in New York City, and the government briefing of the editors in Washington.

The sessions provided the sounding boards for economists, business leaders and public officials at a time of unusually keen interest in the smallest trends of the economy.

Sam M. Fleming of Nashville, Tenn., outgoing president of the bankers association, expressed the opinion that "there is no reason in the world to anticipate a recession."

He said that in an economy as large and diverse as that of the United States there are bound to be both favorable and unfavorable signs, "but I'm not too pessimistic about our future. However, there's always the chance we could talk ourselves into a recession."

* * * *

AT THE INDUSTRIAL conference board session, Robert E. Williams, vice president for sales of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., predicted a "relatively moderate" business downturn beginning in the first quarter of 1963.

And George Troutt, vice president of Associated Dry Goods Corp., forecast a decline in the economic growth rate in the fourth quarter of this year and the first quarter of next year with a recovery starting in the 1963 second quarter.

However, on the brighter side, there were predictions of sales of seven million new cars next year, and increases in construction and sales of petroleum, chemicals, machinery and equipment and lead.

President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter W. Heller, told the editors he expected a continued modest expansion of business despite mixed trends in the economy.

Kennedy sought to assure the editors that his administration isn't anti-business but conceded he has found it difficult to keep all business men happy. His secretary of Commerce, Luther H. Hodges, expressed the opinion that "misunderstanding and recrimination" between business and government "has been receding in the recent weeks."

* * * *

THE STOCK MARKET took some sharp setbacks during the week and some Wall Street analysts said much of the blame was due to investors' worry over sluggishness of the economy.

Senate and House conference committees reached agreement on a bill which would provide a $1.3 billion annual incentive for business to invest in machinery and equipment. It would allow business to charge off on their tax bills up to seven per cent of such spending.

A provision for withholding taxes on dividends and interest — which Kennedy wanted to counterbalance government income—was removed.

The cost of living remained unchanged in August from the July level of 105.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average. For the first time in more than eight years costs of medical care failed to rise. Robert J. Myers, deputy labor statistics commissioner, forecast a resumption of the slight increase in the cost of living when the September figures are announced.

* * * *

STEEL PRODUCTION last week increased to 1,715,000 tons, up two per cent from the previous week but industry leaders scaled down their 1962 output predictions to 100 million tons or less.

An industry publication, Iron Age, reported that all but a few pockets of abnormally large inventory in the hands of consumers and steel warehouses should be erased by the end of October and that shipments and consumption should reach a fairly good balance.

Four steel companies — Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and National—won their fight against a threat of citation for contempt of Congress for refusing to produce production cost data for the Senate anti-trust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn. As a result, eight other companies which had agreed to supply the information no longer were required to do so. The four companies had argued to the Senate Judiciary Committee that disclosure of cost details would be helpful to domestic and foreign competition.

WORLD WAR II—TWENTY YEARS LATER

74,000 Yanks Fell in Italy Fighting

Editor's Note: This is another in the series of articles recalling people and places, campaign victories and catastrophes in World War II. Other articles will appear at intervals of approximately two weeks.

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

The Battle for Italy that began Sept. 3, 1943 lasted nearly two blood-bathed years—the longest and most costly battle of World War II.

It began on a warm, sunshiny fall morning when British troops landed in Calabria, on the toe of the Italian boot, practically without opposition.

For all pratical purposes, it ended on April 30, 1945, when the Americans entered Turin, far to the north, and the British and Yugoslavs captured Trieste. The road from Calabria to Trieste ran red with the blood of 200,000 men—74,000 of them America's finest soldiers.

* * * *

ALONG THAT road there are milestones and memories.

There is the memory of Salerno. The Americans landed there, south of Naples, on Sept. 9, 1943, and tested the Germans on the Continent of Europe for the first time in World War II. The Germans responded with vicious drives that were blunted only when the American invaders were driven back to within five city blocks from the sea.

* * * *

THERE IS the memory of Cassino, where the Germans anchored a great defensive line for the winter of 1943-44 and where, finally, the Americans shelled the monastery to oust the defenders.

There is the memory of zio, a beach town near Rome, where British and American troops landed behind the Cassino line on Jan. 22, 1944.

Thereis the memory of Rome, the Holy City. Anzio is just 30 miles from Rome, but it took the Americans from January to June 4 to liberate the Italian capital.

THE AMERICANS landed at Salerno Sept. 9, the Italian government surrendered the day before. But 20 German Wehrmacht divisions controlled Italy and roared to the counter-attack.

Tank spearheads carried to a half-mile of the beach, driving the Americans to the sea, by Sept. 13. Gen. Mark Clark, directing the American attack, found his advance headquarters within a mile of the German retaliation before it was stalled by fire and blood.

* * * *

NOWHERE before had Americans met so skilled, so entrenched, so armored and so determined an enemy. Heroic men turned the tide at Salerno.

Such a man was Sgt. James M. Logan, a 26-year-old Texan who landed with the first wave. His company advanced 800 yards inland and was pinned down before a rock wall, strongly held. The German fire was so intense the Americans could not move.

Disregarding the fire, Sgt. Logan rose to the attack. Three Germans poured through a gap in the wall, he shot them all. Now he ran 200 yards across a field, under withering fire, to the base of the wall.

Within arm's-length of the enemy, he crawled along the base of the wall, he reached a machine gun emplacement. He leaped over the wall, killed the two gunners, swung their gun against the now-exposed Germans and butchered them.

* * * *

THE SERGEANT was not yet done. He captured a German officer and a private, then charged 150 yards across an open field to capture a farmhouse that shielded snipers, and thus opened a big enough gap in the German line to free first his squad, then his platoon from German fire.

The Congressional Medal of Honor he received seemed almost not enough.

* * * *

THE ROAD north led to Altaville, where thousands died, and then to the hills above Naples.

Along the way cities and hills were ringed in fire. Bob Capa, a war correspondent with front line troops, paused once to note that Mt. Vesuvius' fire, seen along the Allied flank, was just "an insignificant little bonfire" compared to the storms of war.

On Oct. 1 Naples fell to the pressure of the British and American troops, and the battle raged northward.

* * * *

NOT A HILL, not a road, not a town nor a pass fell without blood.

By Oct. 21 Gen. Clark was able to ascertain the immediate German objective, a winter defense line anchored on Cassino and Acernia. The Allies were unable to crack that line by direct assault.

On Jan. 22 the Allies landed at Anzio, where the sea ran red. The Germans hurled panzer divisions at the beachhead, driving the Americans back to the shore. Here they came under the shelter of warships and airplanes, whose shells and bombs chewed up the German armor.

* * * *

WHILE THE battle raged at Anzio, it was furious at Cassino. There the Allies, angered by German use of the famous Mount Cassino monastery as an artillery observation post, bombed it Feb. 15 and 16—one of the war's most famous incidents. Still the Germans clung to Cassino, and to their lines containing Anzio. On Mar. 15 Allied planes dropped 3,500 tons of bombs on little Cassino, still did not dislodge the Germans.

On May 18 Cassino finally fell to British and Polish troops and the German line was broken. Seven days later the Americans broke out of Anzio along the road to Rome.

* * * *

THE GERMANS chose to honor Rome as an "open city" and relinquished it without a fight. In reaching there, however, the Americans had already expended 12,999 dead and 49,561 wounded.

Now north of Rome the Germans regrouped along a line that stretched from Pisa to Florence to Rimini, and this defense, called the "Gothic line" was just as tough as the preceding Cassino stand.

Not until July 18 did the Americans crack the outposts of the Gothic line; four days later they took Pisa. Florence fell Aug. 12, under an attack led by South African troops.

* * * *

IN OCTOBER the rains came. The quagmire that resulted stalled the Allied advance until April 9, 1945. Bologna fell to the Allies April 21, Verona April 26. The American Fifth Army drove into the foothills of the Alps, the British flared right to Trieste, where they met the Yugoslavs May 1; the Fifth veered to Genoa, capturing it April 27, and Turin April 30.

* * * *

THE BATTLE for Italy had exhausted 20 of the finest German divisions. What was left straggled northward to Austria, to meet a new calamity, the westward push of the Russians.

They left behind them Benito Mussolini, who had fled when Marshal Pietro Badoglio surrendered Italy in 1943, and had formed a fascist "republic" in North Italy.

Mussolini and his mistress, Clara Petacci, were fleeing north from Milan, with a group of his henchmen. It is presumed they were attempting to escape to Germany, but Italian partisans caught them at Dongo, a village on Lake Como.

All were tried and executed by firing squad. The body of Mussolini was taken to Milan by truck, and hung by its heels in the Piazzo Loretto, a square where Mussolini's agents had once executed 15 partisans.

Mussolini was buried May 1 in the pauper's section of the Maggiore Cemetery, Milan.
